FRIDAY, DEC. 4, 1925.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

The announcement that a company has been formed to develop the large deposits of crystalline limestone, discovered at the mouth of Eel's Creek, Stoney Lake, and that a manufacturing plant is to be erected at Lakefield, is welcome news.

The location of a new industry in Lakefield is in itself a splendid thing for that village, and the development of the natural resources of the county is a forward step that will be applauded by residents generally.

The limestone deposit, the discovery of which has led to the present activity, is of large extent, estimated at twelve million tons and of a very high quality, so high indeed as to warrant the establishment of a plant to manufacture various lime and chemical products.

Experts who have investigated the Eel's Creek limestone are reported to be astonished at the purity of the ore.

There is much enthusiasm over the prospects of a successful development of this industry, which opens out a new field in this district, and may expand into an undertaking that will add materially to the prosperity of the district affected.

ECONOMY—AND EXPENDITURE.

Without entering into the merits of their policy in regard to immigration, it may be said that the visit to Ottawa of representatives of the Boards of Trade of Canada throws considerable light upon the difficulty Governments have of reducing their expenditures.

In almost the same breath the deputation urged the Government to exercise the strictest economy in its transaction of public business, and suggested the expenditure of a large sum of money upon immigration.

That viewpoint has been the cause of much of the huge spending on the part of Governments that is so frequently complained of in this country.

People decry expenditure, talk economy, and then urge upon Governments, Federal, Provincial or municipal, the undertaking of enterprises that naturally involve heavy expense.

It seems impossible to put over the idea that the only way to reduce taxation is to cut down expenditure, and until we have more deputations advising our Governments to save money and fewer suggesting the spending of money, it is idle to talk of real economy or to hope for any substantial tax reductin.

Canadians are apparently all agreed that expenditures should be reduced, but inevitably they want the saving to be done not at their expense but at the other fellow's.

BOYS ON THE STREET.

Chief of Police Newhall's campaign to keep children off the streets late at night will be approved by those who know the conditions.

In recent years the boys who sell newspapers and other youngsters who are on the streets for no apparent purpose have been given considerable latitude in this respect, and their numbers have been considerably increased.

There is no reason why boys of this age should be allowed to roam around until the theatres have concluded their performance, merely in the chance of selling a few more papers to theatrical patrons.

The Curfew Act gives youngsters until 9 o'clock, and after that hour they must be accompanied by an adult.

The regulation may be a little drastic, but its enforcement would be a good thing for many boys who are losing hours that should be devoted to sleep, learning things that are harmful to them and wandering around, poorly clad, in disagreeable weather conditions when they should be at home.

The lack of parental control shown in the case of these youthful night wanderers and the indifference which many fathers and mothers show to the whereabouts of their children explain possibly the increase in juvenile delinquency noted in many centres.

If newspapers must be sold on the streets at 11 o'clock at night, let it be done by older boys who are beyond the scope of the Curfew Act.

LONGER TERMS FOR ALDERMEN.

The citizens of Belleville are to vote next week upon a proposal to reduce the size of the City Council and to lengthen the term of the Aldermen.

Briefly, the bylaw provides for the election of but nine Aldermen, instead of twelve, next year, three to be elected for three years, three for two years and three for one year.

Thereafter, if the proposal is approved by the electors, there will be an election each year for but three Aldermen, who will serve for three years.

Advocates of the change declare that the reduction in the size of the Council will facilitate business and that the administration will be more efficient because of the longer experience gained by the members of the Council.

With the first contention there will be no quarrel, but many people will have misgivings about three-year terms for Aldermen.

Granted that efficient men are elected, the longer term would doubtless prove beneficial, but the average voter is inclined to look on the darker side of things and to come to the conclusion that three years is much too long if incapable Aldermen happened to be elected.

Often a candidate who gives promise before election of being a source of strength to the municipal government turns out to be a weakling when the test of performance is applied, and not a few electors will be tempted to oppose the three-year term scheme in the fear that it involves the risk of saddling the civic government with such candidates who would hold office much too long for the general good.

Still no signs of a rush in the municipal sweepstakes. Are all the candidates going to wait for the last appeal week?

RUSSIA REINSTATES VODKA.

Raising national revenue by selling vodka to the nation is a move by the Government of Russia that has caused wide comment and speculation on the part of the European press. The manufacture and sale of vodka of 42 per cent. alcoholic content is now a Government monopoly. The reason for its return was that the government needed the money and knew of no other way to get it.

The move toward Government encouragement of national drinking is a sharp departure from the plain ground on which Leon Trotzky fashioned the structure of his revolution which overthrew the Romanoff dynasty and led to the complete obliteration of every member of it. In his book, "Problems of Life," Trotzky wrote:

"Vodka and the church were used by the Czar's regime to enslave the working classes. There are two important facts that have set a new stamp on the life of the proletariat in Russia. One is the establishment of the eight-hour working day, and the other is the prohibition of the sale of vodka. The abolition of the system by which the country encouraged people to drink is one of the iron assets of the revolution."

The scrapping of this high-sounding doctrine has caused a flow of sarcasm that finds expression in cartoon and comment in many papers. Rul (Berlin) pictures a great crowd of Russian people waiting to gain admission to a vodka house over which floats the flag of the revolution, and uses the explanatory wording, "Workers of the world unite—at the saloon." The Moscow Pravda says Trotzky's "iron asset of the revolution has been exchanged for so many gold rubles," and proceeds to describe events of the first day of vodka selling, where long lines of people stood in front of the liquor stores of Moscow, while toward evening all the cells and even the corridors of the police station were packed to capacity with drunken persons, including a number of women.

The official excuse for this departure is (1) that the Government needed revenue, and (2) that home-brewing by the peasants resulted in the loss of valuable grain by clumsy methods. The Soviet of today has been seized with the size of the revenue that existed in Czarist days when Count Witte capitalized on the debauchery of the Russian people to the extent of $500,000,000 a year. In that way, according to a despatch to the Manchester Guardian, there was built up a system whereby the peasant became a slave of the vodka seller, who was not only publican, but moneylender, pawnbroker and even employer, to square debts incurred for the purchase of vodka.

The Soviet explains that it will allow vodka to be sold only within certain limits, according to the need for revenue, which means that the sky will be the limit. The Czarist Government said the same thing, starting with 44 million gallons per year and increasing in fifteen years to 250 million gallons, by which time the country was so unspeakably debauched that the Duma implored the Government to seek for a source of revenue that would not ruin the people.

Moscow may claim to have released the people from Romanoff oppression, but it has made public admission that for the purpose of revenue it is prepared to soak the people in vodka, a habit described by Trotzky as "one of the means used to enslave the working class." The only difference in Russia is that there has been a change in the personnel of the slave-drivers.—London Advertiser.

OVER-GOVERNED.

It has frequently been suggested that Canada, for its population, has too much government. That is, there are various elective bodies, some of which might very well be cut down and others eliminated entirely. The three Provinces in the East have three distinct Legislatures, when it is argued that one could probably do the work as well. There are also three Lieutenant-Governors, and so on.

The Ferguson Government has just afforded a good argument to political students who advocate cutting down representation. There are seven constituencies in the Province without a member, and the Government proposes to go ahead and hold its session without these constituencies being represented. Of course, in the case of private bills, someone will have to do the work. The city of London, for instance, has been without representation since the death of Sir Adam Beck, and will be without it in the next session. It is not too much to say that the seven ridings represent 100,000 people or better, who will not have a member to voice their views when the Legislature meets. If such can be worked out to advantage, as a matter of economy and for whatever reasons the Government submits for keeping the ridings vacant, why cannot a general scheme of less representation be similarly worked out to advantage, not temporarily, but for all time? The question is one worth thinking about.

Perhaps in the situation at Ottawa, argument to support the contention can also be found. For a matter of months the business of the country is merely being carried out in routine fashion. The Premier is pledged to award no contracts and to conduct no new business or make no new departure until a mandate has been secured from Parliament. There are several important departments of state without heads, and yet it may be possible that the country's business, except for new policies which are required, will go on just as well as ever. In fact, it is well known that there are too many Cabinet positions, considerably more than the number with which the President of the United States surrounds himself.

That we are over-lawed is admitted in the best of circles, and that we have too much government necessarily follows. Canada today has the governmental framework for 100 million people, overloaded in the same respect as we are in regard to railways. It would be the height of economy to cut down, but in our political wisdom or folly, our leaders go on adding to the burden. It is idle to talk of national economy as long as this course is pursued; overhead is eating the country up.—St. Catharines Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Peterboro Hockey Club is advertising its home city in Windsor tonight. The Petes attract plenty of publicity during the season.

The municipalities which get their elections over next week at least have the advantage of being able to concentrate on Christmas business.

The by-election in Bagot is attracting the attention of the whole country. Mr. Meighen's visit to the riding has increased interest in the result.

Shop early—in the month, in the week, in the day.

Right Hon. Mr. Meighen has been speaking in French in Quebec, and has had to apologize for his halting speech. And Right Hon. Mr. King cannot speak French at all. Surely our English-Canadian public men should be able to express themselves fluently in both languages, as the French-Canadian politicians are able to do so effectively.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Dec. 3.—Eddie Bowman bought a load of feeders this morning, nearly 1,000 lbs. each, at $5.50 a cwt. These were Ontarios and sold cheap compared with prices earlier in the week. The only butchers sold this morning were common and the prices went from $4.25 to $5.50 a cwt. Fair quality butchers' cows sold at $4.50 a cwt. and some stale canners were closed out at $2.25 a cwt. A number of good bologna bulls brought $4 to $4.25 a cwt. The market is not cleaned up, but the left-overs are the usual undesirables.

Sales sold at unchanged prices today. Good to choice vealers brought 11 to 13 cents a pound and one common calf brought 7½ cents.

Sales of lambs were made at an average price of 14 cents a pound and one package of good quality brought 14¼ cents. No choice butchers' sheep were on sale.

Hogs did not get below $11.75 a cwt. f.o.b. on Wednesday. Pending next week's receipts the packers are still bidding $11.50 a cwt. f.o.b. but the market opinion is that the possible supply is against any drop in prices.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—Owing to the bullish nature of advices received from the United Kingdom regarding the export surplus of the Argentine wheat crop and the continued unfavorable weather prevailing, foreign buyers of wheat generally accepted all the offerings made by Montreal exporters today. On the whole the export trade here was more active than for several days past.

The domestic cash grain market also displayed a fair amount of activity, there being a good demand for most lines of grain for both export and local account, including sales of 50,000 bushels of Manitoba tough No. 3 Northern wheat, c.i.f., Bay Ports, and a number of cars of Canadian Western oats for shipment from Fort William. A THOUGHT.

THE LARGER MEANING OF TEAM PLAY.

By Glenn Frank.

Shortly after I was elected to the presidency of a state university, I met a man who felt that football had become a menace to higher education.

It seems to me, however, that educators instead of lecturing football might well learn from it, for the problem of victory for a team is a vivid symbol of the problem of victory in any enterprise to which men set their hands.

Let me play with this idea in terms of the problem I shall face as a university president and the problem the coach of the football team will face.

The cach and I have a lot in common. Our jobs are very much alike.

Both of us are dealing with teams. His team is made up of individuals, brave and brawny sons of the state; my team is made up of groups, faculties, students, alumni, trustees, legislators, and the rank and file of the voters who father and feed the university.

His game is played on a gridiron; my gridiron is a whole state.

Both games have goals. The goal of the team is good sportsmanship; the goal of the university is the good life.

And both games depend for their success on the same central principle of team play.

A football team might as well cancel its schedule unless all the individual players are animated by a common purpose and fall harmoniously into a common procedure of play.

A university might as well close its doors unless all of the groups that comprise it—faculties, alumni, trustees, legislators, and citizens—are animated by a common purpose and fall harmoniously into a common procedure.

If, either in a football team or a university, the individuals or groups involved begin each to play a lone hand, the fate of the enterprise is sealed.

In both team and university there must be heads dedicated to the co-ordination of all separate energies and efforts, and hearts inspired by a spirit of good sportsmanship.

May I again say that the same principles that underlie the success of a football team underlie the success, not only of a university, but the sucess of any enterprise to which men may set their hands.

Team play has become a slogan, and the difficulty is that when an idea becomes a slogan it is likely to be merely praised rather than practiced.

We are a nation of sloganeers. We bow in counterfeit reverence before slogans of team play, service, co-operation, and the like, and spend so much energy in bosh and banality about them that we forget that they are very realistic elements in the successful prosecution of our enterprises. We fall into the plight of the occasional religionist who is sound on doctrines but slippery on deeds.

FRESH EFFORTS TO END STRIKE IN COAL FIELDS

Leader of Operators Urges Conference on Plan They Proposed.

HOPES REVIVED.

Encroachment of Substitutes Regarded as Serious Development.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4—(Canadian Press).—Activities of those who have been working for peace in the anthracite industry, including Governor Pinchot, brought a revival of hope last night for an early settlement of the prolonged suspension.

Thursday's developments included the calling of a conference by the Governor of business men and civic leaders of the anthracite field to discuss the situation; announcement by the Rev. J. J. Curran, of Wilkes-Barre, that he had forwarded communications to hard coal operators asking them to reconsider the peace proposals of Governor Pinchot, which they rejected last Monday, and a statement by J. B. Warriner, general manager of the Lehigh Coal and Navigating Company and a member of the anthracite operators wage negotiating committee, in which he viewed with some alarm the "rapid displacement of anthracite by substitute fuels" and declared that renewed negotiations under the plan offered by the operators and rejected by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, "might easily result in an agreement fair to all interests."

WEMBLEY SHOW LOSSES AIRED

Libel Action Against "John Bull"—Financial Jugglery Alleged.

MANAGER'S HISTORY.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 4. (Canadian Press Cable). — The losses sustained by the amusements at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley were mentioned in the course of a libel action in the King's Bench Thursday, brought by Horace Scott Laycock and Frederick James Bird against Odhams Press, Ltd., in connection with articles published in "John Bull," which they alleged meant that they had duped firms into doing work for them by financial jugglery and didn't pay the concerns.

Laycock in the witness box stated that their shows were seized on the night of June 7, 1924, by Wembley Amusements, Ltd., because some payments had not been made. Consequently one hundred shows were closed on the following bank holiday. In cross-examination on his past business career, Laycock admitted that he was adjudged bankrupt about twenty years ago on his own petition, and went to Canada, where he started life anew and was successful. He returned to England in 1911, and was granted a discharge, but it was suspended for two years as he had not paid ten shillings in the pound. He denied that he knew a great deal about the formation of companies before his experience at Wembley. He had been connected with the Montreal and London Development Company which was formed in November, 1911, and went into liquidation in October, 1919. Several other companies with which he had been connected went into liquidation because they were operated in war areas and they lost their assets during the war as a result of their situation.

In March, 1923, he inserted an advertisement in The Times on behalf of his brother, inviting gentlemen with capital to complete a pioneer expedition into the Northern Ontario goldfields. Two young Dutchmen joined the expedition and subsequently brought actions against his brother but withdrew them later.

The hearing was adjourned.

ANOTHER BANK ROBBED.

Armed, Masked Men Fled in Cars.

BALDWIN, Wis., Dec. 4. (Canadian Press). — Four masked men held up the First National Bank of Baldwin late Thursday, took between $4,000 and $5,000, and fled in an automobile.

With drawn revolvers the outlaws entered the bank, forced the employees and three patrons to stand with their faces to a wall while they ransacked the counter till and vault.

During the Prince of Wales' voyage on the Repulse over 1,300,000 cigarettes were sold in the ship's canteen.

TONIC WINE ON GROCER'S SHELF COST HIM $54.50

Merchant in Haliburton County Was Assured It Was Not Intoxicant.

ANALYZED AT 14.12.

St. Martin's Wine an Imposition on Honest Retailers, Court Says.

LINDSAY, Dec. 4.—Police Magistrate Jordan, of Minden, at a session of the county police court yesterday, severely scored the agents for certain wine preparations sold as a tonic to the merchants throughout the country. He was called upon to deal with a charge laid against a merchant of Highland Grove, Haliburton county, for having wine. License Inspector Porter visited the merchant's store a few days ago and asked for a bottle of wine. The merchant's wife went to the shelf and returned with a bottle of St. Martin's wine, for which she charged $1.50. The wine had been placed in stock as a patent medicine, and the merchant informed the court that he, with other merchants, carried the wine in stock to be sold as a tonic and builder. The representative of the firm manufacturing it, he stated, had given the assurance that the wine was non-intoxicating, and that there was no infraction of the law in handling it. Furthermore a verbal guarantee was given that the merchant handling the same would be protected.

Stronger Than 4.4.

County Crown Attorney Anderson stated that he was not prepared to prove that the wine purchased was intoxicating, but a bottle of the same wine had been analyzed and showed 14.12.

From reports received by the authorities, it was shown that parties had become intoxicated from drinking the wine. The merchant informed the court that he had never sampled it, and was fully satisfied that it was but a mild tonic and builder, and would never have stocked up had he known it was a violation of the law to handle it.

Crown Attorney Anderson called for a corkscrew. The Chief of police produced one and later sampled the contents, declaring that it had a "kick." A representative of the press was asked to pass judgment as to its quality and strength. After a light sip he informed the court that he had tasted stronger wine.

Liable To Heavy Fine.

It was pointed out to the accused that a fine up to $2,000 with a month in jail could be imposed, but the charge was amended, as there was no criminal intent on the part of the merchant, whom, the magistrate said, had been imposed upon. He was fined $54.50.

Magistrate Jordan stated that it was unfortunate that merchants could be imposed upon in this manner by manufacturers of wine, which appeared to have been the case in this instance. He felt that the press as well as the authorities should warn merchants to be absolutely sure they were within the law before tonics of this nature.

TREASURER SENT TO REFORMATORY

Township Council Censured For Negligence.

KINGSTON, Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Finding J. F. Leatherland, former treasurer of the township of Kingston, guilty of the charge of fraudulently failing to account for and pay certain money received for the township, to the credit of township, Judge Lavell yesterday sentenced him to six months in the Ontario Reformatory, and, incidentally, handed out a stinging rebuke to the council for the loose manner in which they allowed matters to drift along prior to the engaging of Mr. Muir to audit the books.

F. W. Smith, former tax collector, was found not guilty, and was dismissed, Judge Lavell stating that he believed his story, and felt that there was no intent at a criminal offence, though he was not so sure that there was not room for a civil action. Smith had claimed that he paid $2,000 to Leatherland, and the latter, when called by the Crown, could not deny the statement of Smith.

Hotel Clerk An Oracle Asked To Define Vortex

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(United Press).—New York hotel clerks, particularly those in the theatrical district, are expected to be wise in the ways of the world, but one of these smiling sages has taken the blue ribbon for ability to answer questions, according to a conversation overheard at the Henry Miller Theatre.

Two young Frenchmen and two American girls, all apparently able to talk fair English, were witnessing "The Vortex." Between acts one of the Frenchmen wanted to know what "vortex" meant, but the girls proved unable to provide a clear definition. The Frenchman left the theatre for a moment.

"It means whirl," he announced upon his return.

"How did you find that out?" inquired the girls.

"Asked the hotel clerk next door," he explained.

ALBERTA WOMEN PREFER DOWER

Community Property Between Husband and Wife is Deferred.

BILL WITHDRAWN.

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Changes in the Alberta law regarding property rights as between husband and wife will be the subject of inquiry by a special committee that is to be appointed shortly by the Provincial Government. It is stated, however, by Hon. George Hoadley, Acting Premier, that the Community Property Act, which was introduced by Hon. Mrs. Parley at the last session of the Legislature and given first reading, will not be re-submitted at the coming session.

The Government has been considering the matter of late, and on reviewing the developments in connection with it since the prorogation of the Legislature, it has been found that the bill has aroused considerable interest and has been widely discussed by women's organizations throughout the Province.

The net result of this discussion is that while the principle of community property between husband and wife has in some cases been endorsed, it has been made quite evident that the women of Alberta are not yet ready as a whole, to substitute this principle for the present dower legislation.

Teck Hughes and Vipond Led Mine Market To-day

TORONTO, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Teck Hughes and Vipond were outstanding stocks on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, but advancing substantially on heavy dealings. Teck Hughes climbed to 249, seven points higher, climbed 7 points higher, and Vipond five points to 139. Vickers, Kirkland Lake, and Castle Trethewey were other active stocks on the uncertain list. Columbus Kirkland, Goldale and Argonaut, were among weak issues.

Brazilian Leads Again Smelters Also Prominent

TORONTO, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Brazilian was the outstanding stock in an otherwise quiet session of the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. Activity continued on a moderate scale, with a turnover of more than 1,200 shares. Brazilian was sold up to 79 1-8, from which it eased to 78 3-4 at the morning close, a point higher than yesterday. Smelters, also prominent, advanced to 154 1-2 and then receded to 153 at the close, likewise a one-point gain. The market was generally firm, though Steamships Preferred eased seven-eights and Royal Bank sold a point lower. Twin City and Winnipeg were fractionally higher, British Columbia Fishing advanced five-eights, the Bakeries Common and Preferred, were maked up a half point, and Steel of Canada sold up about a point and a half at 95.

December Wheat Over 180 Shot Up Suddenly To-day

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices suddenly shot upward again today after an early setback. Initial declines were to a considerable degree influenced by opinions in some quarters that crop damage in Argentina had been more than allowed for in the radical advances during the last three weeks. Besides, enlarged estimates of the Australian exportable surplus were reduced. Buying here continued on a big scale, however, and with fresh reports of heavy rain in Argentina, the market rose more than six cents from the early bottom level. Opening quotations, unchanged to 1 3-4c lower, "new style," December 1.77 and 1.78, and May 1.71 1-2 to 173, were followed by a drop to 1.75 1-2 for December and 1.70 for May, but then by a quick rally to 1.81 3-4 for December and 1.75 for May. Corn and oats were swayed by the action of wheat. After opening 3-8c to 1 1-4c off, May 84 1-4c to 84 1-2c, the corn market showed a further decline, and then reacted to above yesterday's finish, May touching 85 1-2c. Oats started unchanged to 1-8c lower, May 45 1-4c to 45 3-8c, sagged a little more and later scored a slight general advance. Provisions developed firmness in line with grain.

FREE WILL SERVICE URGED AT KIWANIS

sion." After remarking on the voluntary nature of service to be effective, he cautioned against making the share to be carried by each member forced and compulsory, instancing as illustrations of the evils wrought by force the Conscription Act and the Income tax. "We all regret that conscription was necessary and we have not yet recovered from the unpleasant associations connected with it. The payment of income tax carries with it a great benefit to the community and yet no man pays that tax with delight. The reason why it is not favorably thought of is because it is compulsory. No man likes to do a thing because he is forced to do it."

Pressure makes people reluctant, and assessments, compelled taxes and such do a great deal of harm. If there is any glory in charity it is in its freeness, Canon Shatford said, warning against assessments on the members for such ends.

Competition next.

"We have come to a time when we are realizing that competition is a distinct disadvantage. It was said in years gone by that 'Competition is the life of trade,' but that died some time ago. 'Co-operation' has been substituted for 'Competition,' and we are realizing more and more the necessity of yoking ourselves together in service, and not standing over against one another in antagonism and competition."

The war was born of compulsion, the speaker said, and brought in its train suffering and disaster.

Pride and Jealousy.

"If I outstrip my brother, it exalts me with pride; I am content with the achievement because I stand at the head of the parade. A man may be a ruler in a city and yet not have institution than of the members; exalting the club to a high plane and disregarding the individuals. "There is nothing so sacred as the human person," he said, "and no institution is to be compared for a moment with the sacredness of human beings."

Following such a plan, the Kiwanis Club of Peterborough would progress and grow stronger in service.

"Let us for compulsion institute freedom; for competition, co-operation;
for compensation, the joy of service;
;or professionalism, natural warm-hearted human beings."

Professionalism.

The speaker touched lightly on "Professionalism"—the officious official in service. "The most tiresome people in the world," he said, "are professional uplifters. They are always trying to do good; buttonholing you to ask you about this and that; wearing upon their sleeves the signs of their institutions. One must be careful in relations with other people."

"Clubolatory."

The last period mentioned was what Canon Shatford called "Clubolatory"—the thinking more of the

TURKEY MAY DECLARE WAR OR INDULGE IN CONTNUAL RAIDING IF MOSUL DECISION NOT RIGHT

Army Is Well Prepared, Although Lacking in Tanks and Big Guns.

MAY COMPROMISE.

Willing to Negotiate With Britain For Eab River as Frontier.

LONDON, December 4, Canadian Press. — The Westminster Gazette has received from Angora, the seat of the Turkish government, a mailed communication from its correspondent saying that if the League of Nations gives a decision in the Mosul dispute between Turkey and Great Britain which is not acceptable to Turkey, Turkey may go to war or by continual frontier raids and propaganda stir up as much trouble as is possible for Great Britain in that part of the world.

The correspondent declares the Turkish army is well trained and disciplined along the German model, and that it is also well equipped except that it is lacking in heavy artillery and tanks.

The Turks are said to be spending large sums in armaments and making feverish efforts to create an air force. The German Junker company has erected an airplane factory at Eski Shehr, and every possible means is being adopted to raise funds to buy air craft. There has been a considerable concentration north of the Brussels line and it is reported that four infantry divisions and one cavalry division are in that area.

"Presumably," the correspondent continues, "it would be comparatively easy for the Turks to forcibly seize the Vilayet of Mosul, as they would be faced only by Irak levies. The military preparations are being backed by an exceedingly bellicose attitude on the part of the Turkish press and it is commonly stated that Turkey will fight unless she gets an acceptable decision at Geneva. The Turks however are not wholly irreconcilable, and are anxious to enter into direct negotiations with Great Britain."

The corespondent says he gained the impression during discussions with well informed Turks that the Angora government would accept the line of the lower Eab River as a compromise frontier. He declares it is not a case of swelled head on the part of Turkey but that she regards it as vitally necessary to her political future that the Kurds of Southern Kurdistan be included in her territory

WIFE'S COUNSEL DENOUNCES KIP IN JURY SPEECH

Address Consumed More Than Day and a Half.

SAVE FAMILY NAME.

Conclusion of Rhinelander Suit For Annulment of Marriage.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Dec. 4—Lee Parsons Davis unfolded before the jury as the climax of a summation lasting over a day and a half in delivery, what he charged was the conspiracy of the Rhinelander millions to save the family name by bringing down into the dust the quadroon bride of Kip Rhinelander, and her father and mother, and ruining others in reputation. Davis put all he possessed into his fight to have the jury before Justice Morschauser refuse to accede to the suit of Leonard Kip Rhinelander and annul the marriage between the aristocrat and the daughter of George Jones, a taxi-driver, colored, and Mrs. Jones, who is a white English woman, who married George Jones on an English estate.

Truly, the case is replete with instances of human frailty. As the lawyer, his blonde face flushed with exertion and emotion, pointed his finger at counsel for Kip Rhinelander, and charged that Judge Isaac N. Mills, who heads the plaintiff's case, branded the mother of the dusky bride before her children, for his own cruel purpose, Alice leaned toward her white mother and tenderly threw an arm over her shoulder, and partly around her neck. The gesture had all the ring of sincerity about it. These two women struggled to keep their composure, although discomfited by the stern facts Davis was forced to drive home to arraign Rhinelander and the powerful unseen influence behind him.

Claims Conspiracy.

The plaintiff showed that Mrs. Jones, when 18 years old in England, had become an unmarried mother. What Davis charged was in effect, if not in actual substance, that Philip Rhinelander, father of Kip, with Judge Mills and Leon Jacob, associate counsel, cooked up the allegation that Alice Rhinelander deceived the son of the house by saying she was white when he married her in 1924, and were now forcing Kip to sit tight, and allow them to secure an annulment.

The testimony has been such that one in court would expect, perhaps, to see in Kip Rhinelander a type of the ruddy-skinned thin-wristed college youth, impulsive, reckless, genial, and out to hit the high spots without consideration. The real plaintiff is as far from that as may be. If he is twenty-one or twenty-two, as claimed, he looks twice the age. His nose and chin register two points. His hair already shows the hue of approaching grey. His chin and neck muscles are mature and his expression is set.

Showed No Mercy.

A cool, calculating and worldly wise plaintiff he appeared, with his eyes focused to avoid the eyes of the stricken black venus who sat facing the judge, close to the jury box. Whatever emotions he feels, and they must have been many as Davis ripped him without mercy, and pointed an accusing finger directly at him, he masked under the fixed expression. But as Davis damned him as a degenerate, as a seducer of the young woman, and now as an accessory to his further betrayal of his wife, flesh and blood could not stand it without sign. The cleanly shaved face of Kip Rhinelander usually has that tone that indicates coarse hairs that are hard to hide, save by the use of the keenest razor. Clamp his jaws as he would in court, he could not prevent a film of perspiration from bedewing his sallow cheeks, or an occasional blush and then reacting pallor. The truth is that rarely within recent memory has a court full of people gazed with such disdain and loathing and hatred on either accuser or accused as they honestly do on Kip Rhinelander.

Plaintiff Friendless

One man in court, a business man from New York, exclaimed somewhat loudly to a neighbor seated beside him, as Davis flagellated the young man with words, that he would dearly love to punch him hard on the nose. Kip Rhinelander has not an apparent friend in court. He is guarded all the time by a detective retained by his father, and the defence intimates to The Telegram that this is to keep him away from Alice; that if unrestrained, he would be back to her within ten minutes.

If the jury annuls the marriage on the ground that Alice Jones deceived Rhinelander as to her color it is intimated plainly that civil actions will follow, and it seems a foregone conclusion that if the young woman escapes from the charge she will sue someone for damages, and her counsel cut deep into the Rhinelander fortunes if she asks for a divorce.

Retained Counsel

Counsel Leon Jacobs, a man to hate most bitterly the alleged conspiracy. The jury looked at the evidence that supported the complaint against a sign-board in front of a four days after he had walked away from his counsel and the same pen and ink that signed the complaint Jacobs signed the subpoena. He charged that the use of threats to Mrs. Jones, when the complaint was served, a threat that if the family did not keep quiet there might be Ku Klux Klan activity if aroused by race prejudice from publicity.

He made the spectators laugh when he lampooned Mr. and Mrs. Rich, of Mount Vernon, the woman having testified against Alice. He said the Riches saw their supreme chance come to get into society through connection with the Rhinelanders, but the present case had spoiled all that, and they were vindictive. The love letters that were written by Alice, he said, were stolen from her, and put into this case with the consent of the husband. Davis rose to a high pitch of emotion as he cried that he could not conjecture that any man could be so base and cold-blooded as to first seduce a young woman and then put in those letters of love to now accomplish her damnation before the world.

"Who was that English lord," cried the lawyer, "who when asked what he would do to protect the good name of a woman, replied, 'Why, sir, I would lie like a gentleman'?"

Shot Him Home

Rhinelander swallowed hard at this thrust. He seemed almost to be melting as he sat there, every eye in court almost, glued on him, the most unhappy young man in the world. Davis told the jury Kip was not unused to going to hotels and registering, as he had done with Alice Rhinelander. He scorned him as "innocence abroad," who charged that Alice made the first overtures, where as was plain, and Rhinelander admitted it, that he set out to seduce her two weeks after the two met.

After a lengthy review of the evidence, Davis told the jury there was only one thing that could result in a verdict for the plaintiff and annul the marriage, only one thing he was afraid of, and that was that race prejudice would be dragged down by the other thing. He cried out that Rhinelander and Alice could never live together again, no matter what the outcome of this action.

SEA SERPENT IS GIGANTIC SHARK

Terror of Fishermen and Indians is Laughed at by Sailors.

SLUGGISH BRUTES

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 4 (Canadian Press)—The 'sea serpent," which has created concern to fishermen along the coast of Northern British Columbia is nothing more than a gigantic shark.

That, at any rate, is the latest theory being advanced to explain the terrifying phenomena reported during recent months by halibut fishermen off the banks near Prince Rupert. These fishermen reported that they had seen a sure-enough sea serpent, scouting around the Queen Charlotte Islands. There was also a story to the effect that the same monster had been seen by an Indian, who forthwith paddled to shore and so that he might not forget the appearance of the serpent, made a hurried portrayal of his conception by carving its image on a rock.

But around the ship chandlers' stove and other places where seafaring men are accustomed to congregate and swap stories, the report of the sea serpent was received with derision.

"Just a sun shark," these oldtimers say, ignoring the claims of those who insist that they actually saw a serpent. "These big fellows are fat and filled with oil. They run thirty feet long sometimes and when opened up yield 2,000 to 3,000 pounds of oil. Sluggish, lazy brutes they are. They like to bask in the sun, floating along on the surface of the sea and when the waves break against their huge hulks, it looks as though they're wriggling along like a snake. That explains this sea-serpent talk."

There are even greater sharks in existence than the sun shark. One species, the rhinoden typicus, a creature seldom seen, but known to inhabit tropical seas, principally in the Indian Ocean. These sharks sometimes reach a size of 70 to 80 feet—the length of a good sized whale. Fish authorities who are skeptical of the existence of sea serpents, say that perhaps the rhinoden typicus has relatives living in the North Pacific.

Philadelphia which next year celebrates the 150th anniversary of independence, was not originally colonized from England. Apparently its beginnings were in a small Swedish settlement in 1632, exactly 50 years before Penn made his treaty with the Indians under an elm tree, round the site of which was laid out the Penn Treaty Park. The Swedes had a church there as early as 1646.

VICEROY-ELECT YOUNG MAN HELD IN HIGH ESTEEM

Regarded By T. P. O'Connor as Example of Finest Type of Man.

ANCIENT LINEAGE.

Rt. Hon. E. F. L. Wood, M.P., is a Son of Lord Halifax.

The promotion of the Right Hon. Edward Frederick Lindley Wood from the comparatively minor portfolio of agriculture and fisheries to the position of viceroy and governor general of India caused more gasps of surprise in the British political world than any recent development.

But once the public had an opportunity to study the appointment it was generally agreed that it might prove to be a peculiarly happy one. It was taken as indicating a conciliatory attitude towards India and as one further indication that Premier Baldwin holds to the old British belief that the highest of all qualifications for imperial administration is not technical knowledge or experience, but character and training along the traditional lines of the British ruling classes.

The high esteem in which Mr. Wood is held by those who know him intimately is revealed in a tribute paid him by T. P. O'Connor.

"If I were asked to describe Mr. Wood," stated the veteran parliamentarian, "I should say that he was the most typical of what I regard as the finest type of man—namely, the honest Englishman.

"Of great family distinction—grandson of a man who was once secretary for India and a prominent politician; son of a peer; owner of large estate—in a way he seems to walk out of the eighteenth century, or, to be perhaps a little more accurate, out of the early Victorian day, when the squires—especially on the Liberal side—were still the chief personalities in the government of the country.

"Though now he is nominally a Conservative, he would be more accurately described as a Whig—of the same school as Palmerston, Graham, and Lord John Russel, or if we could go back further, of Charles James Fox, who united the traditions of great birth and a keen regard for popular liberties.

"If you met Mr. Wood at the arctic pole, or in the antarctic, you would know from the first look at him that he was English; his race and his tradition are written in letters too legible in his face, his figure, and his speech to be mistaken for anything else."

Although Mr. Wood has served as under-secretary for the colonies and as president of the board of education, he has not taken a conspicuous part in parliamentary activities during his fifteen years in the House. But his personal popularity may be judged from the fact that in his own division of Ripon he has been returned by acclamation at every election since his initial contests in 1910.

Mr. Wood will go to India not only recommended by his own record as a competent and thorough administrator, but also supported by the prestige of his venerable father, Lord Halifax, the leader in England of the Anglo-Catholic movement, who is now in his 86th year and to whose title Mr. Wood will ultimately succeed. The family is an old-established one.

Being at present only in his forty-fourth year, he will be the youngest viceroy since the days of the precocious Lord Curzon.

The Viceroy-elect recently made a gift to the city of Leeds of his ancient family home, Temple Newsam which has been called the Hampton Court Palace of the north.

The Right Honorable Edward Wood and Lady Dorothy Wood will leave England for India this spring to take charge of the vice-regal mansion and duties. The viceroy-elect is the son and heir of Lord Halifax, while his wife is a daughter of Lord Onslow.

CLAIM WIASEMSKY NOT REALLY PRINCE

Prince Declares Statement is Work of Political Enemies.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A surprise was caused in social circles by the following announcement in the society column of The Morning Post:

"Members of the Wiasemsky family have asked The Morning Post to state that a Russian who appeared in London during the year 1924, calling himself Serge Prince Wiasemsky, has no legal title to that title and name. They declare that his assertion to a legal claim to the throne of Russia is fantastic."

The Prince referred to is the Prince Wiasemsky, who in August, 1918, married the daughter of H. Gordon Selfridge and who with his wife lives in London at Lansdowne House. Asked by an Evening Standard representative if he would care to comment on the announcement, Prince Wiasemsky wrote the following signed statement;

"This is clearly political intrigue and the source of it is well known to me. No man on earth has more right than I to the title of Prince Wiasemsky. The statement that I claim any rights to the throne of Russia is quite absurd and I have already on several occasions stated so most emphatically in interviews with me published by the press.

"This malicious statement is repeatedly circulated by my political enemies, who attempt to prove its truth by stating I am a descendant of the Rurik dynasty, which governed Russia for over eight hundred years previous to the installment of the Romanoff dynasty about three hundred years ago.

"It is quite true that the Princes Wiasemsky, whose family seat for over five hundred years had been at Suzdal in the Government of Vladimir, are descendants of the Rurik Dynasty. The political party which I have founded and whereof I am today the head is neither Monarchist, Republican nor Socialist. It merely stands for honest government, reconstruction and an alliance with England and F e. Recently the Russian Monarchist Congress held at Munich met with a degree of failure wherefor I am blamed quite unjustly by a certain few.

"I am consulting the Council of the Russian National Progressive party, whereof I am the head, and also my English solicitors, in connection with any future action I may take with regards to this matter."

The Prince added that he was quite prepared to show his family tree, which gave him the right to the title of Prince. Princess Wiasemsky, who was present, added:

"The announcement in the Morning Post is not signed by any one and has no backing. As my husband says it is made for political ends."

Many of Walt Whitman's finest poems were composed during the civil war in field hospitals where he was working.

HAVELOCK HAS MANY TROPHIES FOR ATHLETICS

Fine Display of Silverware on View in Postmaster's Office.

FROM MANY SPORTS.

Village Teams Have Brought Home Prizes For Many Events.

(By a staff reporter)

HAVELOCK, Dec. 4—In the office of Postmaster Mathison there is as fine a collection of silverware as can be found in any small town in Central Ontario. This collection consists of silver cups that have been brought to the village by the several athletic teams during the past few years. Some of the trophies are the permanent property of Havelock, having been won the stipulated three years in succession, while the title to others must be defended, but when a cup comes to Havelock it is likely to remain; what Havelock has she has the habit of holding.

One of the finest trophies in the collection is the J. J. Scully cup which was won by the Havelock C.P.R. baseball team last summer in competition with teams from Farnum, Que., Smiths Falls and Toronto. When the conquering nine returned with the prize they were given an enthusiastic reception by the citizens who appreciated the honor that had come to the village.

Havelock also holds the cup that was presented in 1922 to the champions of the Trent Valley Hockey League by the late T. H. Thompson, M.L.A., and Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.L.A., the local team having won it three years in succession.

At the lacrosse tournament held in Lakefield in 1922 the Liberals of Peterborough donated a cup and that, too, was carried off by Havelock.

The Havelock Midgets last year won the cup donated by George M. Rose to champions in the Trent Valley Lacrosse League.

The championship cup in the hockey tournament held at Bobcaygeon in 1923 found a permanent home in Havelock.

The cup which G. A. Brethen, ex-M.P., put up as a prize for the relay race at the annual U.F.O. picnics, was won three times in succession, in 1922-3-4 by Havelock and is now here to stay.

One Thing Lacking

The above list of trophies gives some idea of the athletic prowess of Havelock and the best of all is that these prizes have been won on their merits, by home trained boys and not by ringers imported for the occasion. There is, however, a serious lack in Havelock, the village has no covered rink. Champion teams have been developed in other towns, in Stirling for example, but Stirling finally emerged from primitive conditions, formed a joint stock company and built a rink. Havelock can do what Stirling has done and the enterprise of the Hastings village has roused the sporting fraternity here to make another effort to secure a building in which winter sports may be indulged in regardless of weather conditions outside.

Attempt That Failed

One year ago an attempt was made to raise by subscription, money with which to build a rink in keeping with the financial standing and the athletic reputation of the village. One canvasser in less than an hour had $200 pledged but others were not so successful and the proposition was dropped. It is likely that in a short time the attempt will be renewed as the enterprise of Stirling has inspired Havelock with an ambition to do likewise.

It seems that the residents who do not play hockey or skate and who take little or no interest in either pastime, when asked for a donation, replied that those who used the building should pay for it. The trouble is that it is the latter class that lack the necessary capital. This explains why Havelock has not had a covered rink before this.

New Rink Owner

Ruttan Bros. of Norwood owned and operated the open air rink here last winter but at the close of the season they sold out their interests to W. S. Davidson who in turn disposed of the business to Fred Jackson who will conduct if this season.

It is believed that a covered rink would be a paying proposition but even if it never paid dividends there should be sufficient public spirit in the village to produce the required capital.

When the former attempt was made to raise money it was estimated that a rink would cost $10,000 Stirling has put up a rink for $6,700 securing the money by an issue of stock.

Organizing the League

The executive committee met Thursday evening in the Armstrong House to organize the Trent Valley Hockey League for the coming season but nothing definite was given out. The League has come to the rock on which so many athletic associations have grounded. The Havelock team is so strong that other teams regard it as more or less of a hopeless task to go against it.

Horse Racing, Too

Havelock is represented in the horse racing field by Charlie Armstrong who owns the two fast pacers, Mack R. and Rex Hal. The latter has been sent to Smith's Falls, with S. Craig in charge, for further education and training and to take part in any races that may be held on the ice in that district.

SUGGESTS NAVY.

Viscount Jellicoe suggests that Canada should contribute 7,200,000 pounds ($36,000,000) a year for the next few years towards the cost of the Imperial Navy, and should provide a squadron of four cruisers within the next four years at an annual cost of approximately 2,000,000 pounds ($10,000,00) during the four-year period of construction. He estimates the cost of the maintenance of four cruisers at approximately 850,000 pounds ($4,200,000).

LITTLE SONGS FORM OLD LADY'S REVENUE

Supports Blind Husband and Son 'Touched' By War Wounds.

She is an old lady, seventy years of age, and her husband, who is blind, is eighty-five years old. She can neither read nor write, nor can her husband, nor the two boys, her sons, who went to France to fight for Canada. They both came back, but one was shot in the head and he has been "queer" ever since. The other one went away. She doesn't know where he is.

They live in the back country, these people, on "a hundred acres of stone." She has a cow and raises a few potatoes. They live in a shack. Sometimes she gets a little money by cutting and splitting wood at a dollar a cord. But her chief source of revenue is the sale of little printed songs, "Christ in the Garden" and "The Old-Fashioned Way," offered from door to door when she comes in to Peterboro. She wears an old gown and a shabby coat and hat and shoes, not much more.

No, it isn't a fairy story. She is a real person, this mother of soldiers, and she lives in Belmont Township. She will have her Christmas dinner, whatever it may consist of, in the little shack with her blind old husband and possibly the shell-shocked son.

If you are interested in her, telephone 1931j for particulars.

CHINESE BOYCOTT SHANGHAI INQUIRY

Civil War Has Relegated Investigation From Public Mind.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4.—(United Press).—With a civil war as a counter-attraction the international judicial inquiry into the Nanking Road shooting on May 30th has been relegated into the remote recesses of the public mind.

The Chinese boycott on the inquiry has been thorough-going. Even the earlier sessions attracted no more than a scattering of Chinese spectators, principally newspapermen, and, with the Chinese Government officially ignoring the entire procedure, there has been no rush of Chinese volunteer witnesses.

MAN WITH CLUB NOW AT BUFFALO

Woman Found in Harbor Slip With Head Crushed—Similar Attacks.

'PHONE MESSAGE.

BUFFALO, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—The body of a woman, nude and with the head crushed, was taken from th Goodyear slip near Lackawanna yesterday afternoon. Coming on the heels of numerous attacks on women here and at La-salle and Niagara Falls police believe the dead woman may have been a victim of a man called "The Clubber,' who recently committed similar crime in Toledo.

The body of the woman was taken from the slip by Captain J. J. Daly of the Coast Guard, after he had received a mysterious telephone message from a man who refused to give his name. The man indicated the part of the slip where the body would be found.

An examination of the body at the morgue indicated that death had been caused by a blow on the head. The skull was badly crushed. All articles of identification, including clothing, had been removed.

The woman was about 30 years old, weighed 135 pounds, and had black bobbed hair. She was about five feet tall. The police list of missing women contains no description that tallies with the body.

LEAGUE FINDS GREECE GUILTY

Only Exception To Indemnity is For Greek Captain Shot By Bulgars.

COVENANT VIOLATED.

GENEVA, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press). The League of Nations commission, which has been investigating the recent Greco-Bulgarian clashes on the Macedonian frontier, has imposed reparation payments on Greece to the amount of $249,000. This is considerably less than Bulgaria demanded. As an exception to the general finding against Greece, the commission ordered indemnity for the Greek captain who was killed while advancing under a flag of truce and declined to impose an indemnity on Greece for the Bulgaria militia men who were killed or wounded in the frontier region.

The commission rejected Greece's demand for an indemnity on the ground that its investigation showed that Bulgaria had acted in conformity with the covenant of the League while Greece had violated it.

The commission recommended the creation of a special frontier guard with a neutral officer attached on each side of the frontier.

In a word the commission holds that Bulgaria was practically guiltless and rules that Greece violated the covenant by invading Bulgarian soil.

MOOSE DO WELL IN NEW ZEALAND

Are Rapidly Growing in Numbers in Their New Home.

ARE PROTECTED

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. .—(Canadian Press).—British Columbia moose introduced to the wilds of New Zealand twenty years ago are thriving and rapidly growing in numbers, according to advices received here by sportsmen.

The moose were trans-shipped from their original habitat in the plateaux of Central British Columbia to the Antipodes by the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who contended that the climate of the southern Dominion was admirably suited to the living requirements of the North American moose and made the experiment as a zoological adventure and as a contribution to the big game resources of New Zealand.

The moose were taken far inland and set free and for years were left undisturbed. For a while it was thought the animals had died off, as no trace of them was seen. Then natives brought out reports of strange creatures, much greater than the species of deer common to New Zealand. Experienced hunters went in to make an investigation and found that there was truth in the natives' frantic stories, and that the animals reported were nothing else than Col. Roosevelt's moose and their successors. The moose have multiplied and in a few years should form an important game animal, although the government is exercising strict supervision with a view to maintaining protection of the species until such time as the danger of extermination is past.

THE MARKETS

ket for oats was stronger and prices for Canadian Western grades were advanced 2 1-2 cents per bushel. Quebec grades were steady.

Owing to the pronounced strength that developed in the Canadian cash wheat situation a very strong feeling prevailed in the local flour market for spring wheat grades, and millers generally advanced prices 40c per barrel. The export business in these grades of flour today was somewhat larger than it has been of late on account of the fact that the bulk of the offers made by millers overnight were accepted, but the domestic trade did not show much change owing to the fact that buyers in most cases have provided for their wants for some little time to come.

There was no change in prices for winter wheat flour announced, but the undertone to the market was strong in sympathy with the present condition of the wheat situation and the fact that Ontario millers were offering very little for shipment in any position, and this coupled with light supplies available on spot the prospects are that prices will go still higher in the near future. White corn flour was also very firm at $6.80 to $7 per barrel, in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

Advance in Millfeed.

The feature of the millfeed situation was the stronger feeling that prevailed in the market, and prices were advanced $1 per ton, which was due to the continued upward tendency of prices for all lines of grain and all grades of flour coupled with a good demand for supplies and small offerings.

A firm feeling continues to prevail in the local egg situation, and prices for all grades were unchanged. The volume of business was fair and the market was moderately active. The receipts yesterday were 594 cases, as against 768 for the same day last week, and 367 for the corresponding day a year ago.

There was no improvement in the demand for potatoes and in consequence the market was quiet, but as the supply on spot was not large the undertone was firm with car-lots of Quebec varieties quoted at $2.75 per bag, and New Brunswick Cobblers at $3 per bag of 90 lbs., ex-track.

In wholesale jobbing way butter prices were unchanged, with finest creamery selling at 45c per lb. in solid packages, and at 46c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

The receipts of cheese were 3,332 boxes, as compared with 3,528 for the same day last week, and 748 for the corresponding day a year ago. There was no important change in the condition of the market, business being still rather quiet as is usually the case at this period of the year. The tone of the market was about steady, with Western October makes quoted at 21 1-2c to 22c per lb, and current receipts at 18 1-2c to 19c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (Canadian Press).—Wheat trading expanded today to the largest volume in months, and whirled the market almost straight up 7 cents a bushel. Soaring values at Liverpool; big export business and word of crop deterioration both in Argentina and Australia led to excited buying. High price records for the season were broken, and the close was strong at the days tip-top figures, 5 to 7 cents net advance, new style, December 178 to 178 1-2, and May 173 to 173 1-4. Corn finished 2 3-8 to 3c up; oats at 1 1-4 to 1 1-2 cents advance, and provisions varying from 25c decline to an equal gain.

Indications of unusual scarcity of wheat at Liverpool gave the day's first impetus to buying of future deliveries here, buying in which houses with European and Canadian connections took the lead. It was current talk meanwhile that all outstanding offers made by exporters to ship wheat to Europe from North America had been accepted and that purchases of this character overnight had reached a total of 1,600,000 bushels.

They began their stage career when the youngest was five and a half years of age, the oldest ten years. At the top is Leo, the violinist; centre, Jan, the pianist; and below is Mischel, the cellist. The trio are in Canada this week on their way to the United States.

ENGLISH PEOPLE DRINKING WINE

Consumption of Beer Has Also Gone Up—Spirits Drop.

TOBACCO UNCHANGED

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—People are drinking more beer and less spirits than formerly, wine is more popular and the consumption of tobacco remains virtually stationary.

These facts are forthcoming in the annual Customs and Excise Report. The consumption of wine in England has been rising continuously since 1921. Although it is not officially so stated, it is believed this increase is due at least in part to wine drinking becoming popular with the Forces on the Continent.

Home-grown tobacco during the year amounted in weight to 10,000 lbs. or double the weight of the year before. Playing cards, which are taxed, were manufactured to the extent of nearly half a million packets, or one hundred thousand more than in the year previous. People who carry armorial bearings number just over 38,000 and they together paid taxes for this privilege amounting to nearly £45,000. Over two and a half million dog licenses were issued. Pawnbrokers, who number just over 4,000 paid over £30,000 in licenses. Publicans, of whom there are nearly 66,000 paid three and a quarter millions in license dues.

TEAM RAN AWAY DRIVER UNHURT

Dog Fell From Wagon at Their Heels on the Emily Road.

CRASHED POLE.

EAST EMILY, December 4. — What might have been a serious accident occurred last Thursday when Mr. Walter Moncrief was returning home from Omemee with an empty wagon. His dog being in the wagon with him fell out at the horses' heels, near Henderson's corners, scaring the horses, and starting them to run. They ran against a telephone pole, throwing Mr. Moncrief out between the horses. The trace chains broke letting the horses free, and they ran as far as Mr. Robert Casey's, where they were caught. The wagon was badly broken. Mr. Moncrief received a shaking up but fortunately no bones were broken. The horses came off without a scratch.

Mrs. W. J. Clark Dead.

The death occurred last Saturday of Mrs. W. J. Clark at her residence on the boundary between Emily and Ennismore. Mrs. Clark had been in illhealth for some years past but had been gaining health this fall, and on Saturday helped to prepare the dinner, and intended motoring to Peterboro in the afternoon. Before they got started she was stricken with a sudden illness and died at 11 o'clock on Saturday night. All her family were at her bedside before death came.

Mrs. Clark was an Anglican in religion and a kind and loving wife and mother.

There are left to mourn her loss her sorrowing husband and six daughters and four sons. They are Mrs. L. Webster, in Norwood; Mrs. R. Webster of Otonabee; Mrs. C. Oke, Toronto; Mrs. F. Huffman, Peterboro; Miss Greta, a missionary in China, who is now home on furlough; and Miss Mildred at home; Wilbert of Fowler's Corners, Milton in Ennismore, and Lawrence and Howard at home.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Weir officiating.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the family in their sad bereavement.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS PLEASANT BANQUET

District Superintendent Was Entertained By Madoc Companions.

MADOC, Dec. 4 — The Masonic chapter of Royal Arch Masons celebrated an unusually good time Tuesday evening to do honor to R. Ex. Comp. Frank Chesher of Belleville, Grand Superintendent of Prince Edward District of Craft Masonry. The Chapter was comfortably filled with members and visiting companions of the district.

The Mark Master Mason Degree was exemplified and after the usual address by the representative of the Grand Chapter, all repaired to Blue's Hotel where a banquet awaited the Craft. Justice being done to the inner man the toast master, R. Ex. Comp. W. J. Hill, called for the toasts to the King, the Craft, Prince Edward District, Hastings County, the Northern Hunting and Fishing Grounds, the Host and Hostess. The toast to the Grand Chapter was proposed by Ex. Comp. W. H. Nugent and responded to by R. Ex. Comp. Chesher. Many scholarly addresses were made by members of the Royal Craft and very interesting fishing and hunting stories were told including some excellent bear stories.

One pleasing feature was the presence of Comp. Charles W. O'Hara, who was warmly welcomed, he having just passed his 93rd birthday.

The Sills Orchestra furnished delightful music during the banquet; and the pleasant evening closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

GRANT TO HOSPITAL.

County Council Votes $400 —Chairman Decided the Question on Tie.

The Finance Committee was still in session as the business of the County Council was resumed yesterday afternoon. The requisition by the Salvation Army for a grant to be applied to the upkeep of a Maternity Hospital was considered. A motion was presentd to the effect that a grant of $400.00 be made for this purpose. An amendment not to give any was made. A tie vote resulted and the amendment was carried by the vote of the committee chaiman, W. T. Curtis.

The Finance Committee then heard accounts pertaining to the Suburban Area work.

A deputation from the Trent Waterway Association, consisting of, F. D. Kerr, K.C., president, J. Wells Fraser, a member of the directorate and Frank G. Stinson, secretary, waited upon the council with a view to obtaining a grant of $200.00. The matter after discussion, was, on motion deferred to the Finance Committee.

CHILE STRAINS AT U.S.A. LEASH

Balks at Plebiscite Terms, May Force Coolidge To Drastic Action.

BOUNDARY PROBLEM.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — Although the State Department is making every effort to minimize the importance of the communication regarding the Tacna-Arica controversy, transmitted by the Chilean Government to the League of Nations, there is no doubt that officials here are worried over the situation. Not since the troubles in Mexico in 1915, which brought about the seizure of Vera Cruz by United States armed forces, has a purely American international issue so seriously threatened the peace of the continent.

When the United States Government first intervened in this dispute between Chile and Peru over the title to boundary provinces it did so solely because war between the two South American nations seemed imminent. In addition to the fact that American and foreign business interests were pressing for American intervention there was a suggestion even at that time that Peru and Chile, both members of the League of Nations, might ask that body to intercede.

Any attempt of the League to assume jurisdiction over an American international dispute, it was apparent, would necessitate an interpretation of the pledge of the League Covenant not to trespass on the Monroe Doctrine. For the United States to insist that the League, of which 17 American nations are members, is completely barred from taking cognizance of any sort of dispute that may arise between its American members, no less obviously might lead to an embarrassing dispute between us and South American powers.

Must See It Through.

It was because of this condition that President Calvin Coolidge was persuaded to assume the role of arbitrator of the Tacna-Arica dispute when this seemed to be the only way to prevent a clash at arms between Chile and Peru. Assumption by the President of such a duty, it is conceded, is virtually the same as intervention by the American Government, and it is in fact the American Government that is to-day responsible for the arbitral award, promulgated by Mr. Coolidge, and bound to see the mixup through to some kind of a finish.

Mr. Coolidge's award provided for a vote of the people of the province of Arica as to whether they preferred sovereignty of Chile or Peru. Gen. John J. Pershing was designated by the President as head of the plebiscite commission to supervise the popular election.

Gen. Pershing has been in Arica for four months. He has not yet called the election, for the reason that Chile, which is now ruling the contested province, has refused to agree to provisions he believes are essential to insure Peru a square deal in the voting. Augustine Edwards (half Chilean and half Englishman), the Chilean representative in the plebiscite commission, last week assailed Gen. Pershing in a public speech and indicated the intention of Chili to withdraw from the plebiscite unless the American arbiter backed down.

Pershing Stands Fast.

Gen. Pershing, according to information received here, hasn't budged an inch and isn't likely to do so. "Black Jack," who always did have a considerable reputation as a sticker, has simply dug himself in for an all-winter's siege and the only way the Chileans can get rid of him, it appears, is to have their police, who surround him, throw his bodily out of the disputed province.

The next step, if the Chileans persist in their present attitude, is to refer the situation back to the head arbitrator, President Coolidge, for determination. The arbitration agreement specifically provides that, in case of an otherwise insoluble disagreement in the plebiscite commission, the dispute shall be determined by the President of the United States.

The specific question referred to the President will be whether Gen. Pershing's election rules shall be sustained and the plebiscite proceeded with under his direction. It is a foregone conclusion that Mr. Coolidge will back up the General. The troublesome question is what will occur thereafter.

Americans in Chile, familiar with the frame of mind of the government and people of that country, report that, if Mr. Coolidge insists on the Pershing rules, the militant Mr. Edwards, as representative of the Santiago Government, will simply transfer his fire to the President. They declare that nothing short of force will persuade Chile to accept a plebiscite which, if carried out under the Pershing rules, she is now convinced will go against her.

What Then?

Assuming that Chile goes the limit of repudiating a ruling by President Coolidge, what then? Three questions then will come up to the American Government to determine, as follows:

1. Is it prepared to enforce the plebiscite and sustain its results by force of arms?

2. Is it prepared to assert that there must be no breach of the peace in South America?

3. Will it object to reference of the dispute to the League of Nations, if the American intervention finally fails to avert war between Peru and Chile?

The concrete fact of the Arica situation is that Chile is overwhelmingly superior to Peru in military strength. More than that, Chile is in possession of the disputed territory and it is heavily policed by her army. On the excuse that Peru is increasing her armed establishment Chile just recently has voted $100,000,000 in appropriations for building warships alone.

Chile regards herself as the strongest nation in South America and she has an army stronger than any of the others. Her people are traditionally turbulent and warlike. Chilean finances are in bad shape and nothing would help so much to clear her fiscal situation and restore her standing as an easy war which ended in a large addition to her territory.

No great amount of United States force would be required to deal with the situation. Chilean armed forces, while strong in comparison with her immediate neighbors, are negligible as compared with ours. The maximum suggested by persons who believe the United States must use force to resolve the situation if need be is that we police the disputed Arica province during the plebiscite and thereafter, if Peru wins, until Peruvian sovereignty over it is acknowledged, and that a Pacific blockade of the Chilean coast be instituted. A blockade would be "pacific," it is said because Chile has no navy adequate to contest it.

Underlying the whole situation, of course, is the broad question of United States policy as respects South and Central America. Our commercial interest in these territories is steadily growing and with it the demand that we keep a strong hand on their affairs, particularly in preventing other foreign interference and in preventing wars.

Gen. Pershing and his associates now in Arica undoubtedly are advising President Coolidge that the future prestige of the United States in the whole of Latin-America depends on our insistence that, President Coolidge having been accepted as arbitrator of the dispute between Chile and Peru, his decision be firmly enforced.

The Slight Cold Of To-day May Be Serious To-morrow

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse and becomes settled on the lungs, for once it does become deep-seated you are going to have a lot of trouble in getting rid of it.

Our advice to you is that on the first sign of a cough or cold you should procure a bottle of as by its timely use you may save yourself many years of suffering from some serious bronchial or lung troubles.

"Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past 37 years; so you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CONGESTION OF PARIS BECOMES EXTREMELY BAD

Population of City is Mounting Rapidly All the Time.

NOT ENOUGH ROOM

Great Quarries Beneath City to be Used for Markets and Garages.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(United Press).—Prevented by a sandy subsoil and the fear of future air attacks from building New Yorkian skyscrapers Paris is fighting growing congestion by burrowing.

Nowhere in the world are living quarters as difficult to obtain as in Paris. The city is fairly bulging with its mounting population. It is to relieve this that Paris is beginning to build downwards.

Already the bones of the catacombs are being swept to one side to make room for the public markets. Other sections of the huge quarries hollowed out under the street level by centuries of building are being converted into garages.

Before the war, Paris was a comfortable city to live in. There were fewer autos in those days and the streets were clear; they were many new buildings and flats were plentiful. But today there are few crossings in the world more congested than the place where the avenue de l'Opera joins the Boulevards and there is no other city in the world where there exists such a shortage of apartments.

Looking around for solutions of these problems, the city fathers of Paris have discovered that there is still room under Paris for certain services and public utilities which yet occupy space above ground. The idea is not new to Paris, for her subsoil is fairly teeming with life. A perfect subway has done much to relieve the congestion of the streets.

Under an eighth of the area of Paris is a great hollowed space. This was once a quarry but in 1787 the Government decided to follow the example of Rome and establish catacombs to which were moved skeletons and bones taken from cemeteries which it was decided to abolish.

Now certain members of the municipal council are entertaining the idea of sinking the city markets into the catacombs, sweeping the bones into one corner and by lighting up and providing ventilation provide the city with a great public market at little cost, allowing the destruction of the present central markets which occupy ground much too valuable for such purposes.

There is also a plan under way to hollow out a great space under the Boulevards, near the Opera, which will become a public garage destined to hold the cars of business men. It will then be forbidden to leave a car standing at the curb in the downtown district for more than a minute. Such a garage could accommodate 10,000 cars and would be reached by inclined roads.

A great program of subway construction is actually under way which includes the construction of four new lines and the prolonging of five others. Under the Boulevards, two tubes are being dug one above the other and the day is not far distant when every Parisian will have a subway station within five minutes of his door.

FRENCH CRISIS ALARMS SWISS

Fear Socialists May Obtain Control of French Government.

SOVIET WAITING

GENEVA, Dec. 4.—(By Cable).—Geneva, Lausanne and all Liberal Switzerland, which sheltered the fugitive Lenine, as it does today the grand children of the murdered Czar of Russia, are filled with anxiety for the future peace and happiness of Helvetia, as a result of the recent ministerial crisis in France.

Fears of the possibility of the French Government falling into the hands of the Socialists and the danger of a coup d'etat, which would be likely to cross the frontier into Switzerland, are not allayed by the composition of the new Briand Cabinet.

The Swiss see George Tchitcherin, Soviet Foreign Minister, waiting at Vichy for the new Cabinet's fall, ready to hover vulture-like over Paris when the next crisis threatens France, just as convenience prolonged his "cure" at Wiesbaden.

After the alarming experience of the Communists' action a year and a half ago, with Lausanne today placarded with "Follow Lenine" election posters, with the public debt standing at undetermined figures, industry low and living high, the situation in France is being anxiously watched.

The danger there lies, according to Geneva opinion, in the growing movement which favors giving the Socialists a chance, as the British did Labor. This, the Swiss find, would offer a free hand to some Socialists' "Committee of Public Safety," with Paul Boncour as the Robespierre.

Deputy Vincent Auriol was responsible for a newspaper statement last week which said that when the Socialists achieved their objective in the present trouble they were hoping for an accentuation of financial difficulties, so that they could enforce a capital levy, to be followed by other levies, until they shattered the foundation of the society.

Thus their objective is the same as that of the Communists, except that they have a repugnance for bloodshed.

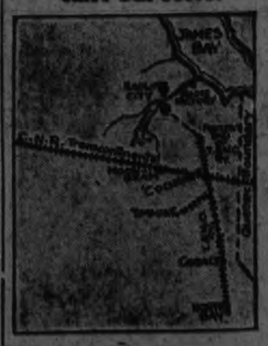
CLAY DEPOSITS.



The above rough diagram shows the approximate location of William Douglas's and C. M. McCarthy's china clay deposits at Kaolin City on the Mattagami River, Ont. The T. and N. O. Railroad ends at mile 68 north of Cochrane. The dotted line from the end of the railroad line to the cross on the map which is Kaolin City, represents the extension of the T. and N.O., which Mr. Douglas states Premier Ferguson has promised to build and complete before the end of next summer. The property is valued at $7,500,000.

SUB IS VALUED BY WEAK NAVIES

Abolition as Weapon of War is Unlikely at Present.

COMING EVENTUALLY

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(United Press).—Success is unlikely in the movement to outlaw the submarine as a weapon of future wars, until greater progress has been made in limitations of surface craft armament.

Eventually, it is probable the under sea boats will be banned in all the navies of the world; but before that can be done the nations depending on battleships and cruisers for their influence must curtail the power and invulnerability of these vessels.

The submarine is the weapon of weak countries. It has enormous potentiality as an equalizing instrument. With its aid, nations of comparatively small resources which are unable to afford a mighty surface armament may yet hold their own against far greater countries.

It is this fear of the weak on the part of the strong which is chiefly responsible for the movement to ban submarines from the world's navies. During the world war, the German navy was helpless before the mighty armada of Great Britain. Nevertheless, with the aid of submarines Germany almost won the war and under present conditions has sunk to third rank as a naval power; but the French Admiralty believes that the submarine of itself might carry France through a future naval war without disaster to the tricolor.

Great Britain, on the other hand, spending more millions yearly on her navy than any other European power and dependent on freedom of the seas for her existence, sees her status endangered by submarines, in the employ of a secondary nation. The situation which has thus arisen cannot be settled by an argument which would award to a nation, however far below first rank, the right of victory in a world war if its submarines by ruthless activities were to overwhelm the foes. The great powers of the world will not stand idly by and see a new weapon devised which gives artificial strength to countries that cannot maintain first class rank in normal conditions of peace.

The principle that all nations have an even start in submarine construction and the best nation will win is not destined to survive in international argument. The best nation cannot be judged by its skill in constructing and using submarines. On the contrary, superior skill in the employment of a death dealing machine which lies always in ambush, might imply characteristics the reverse of the best.

But, the submarine is a defensive weapon for small nations in addition to its high offensive power. If, under existing conditions, an international naval conference were to order a permanent stoppage of construction of undersea warships, small nations would have a legitimate grievance. They would feel that their defensive armor had been weakened in the interest of the larger powers. They would charge that they had been left open to naval bullying.

Indigestion

When chronic, is best relieved by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

In most cases, indigestion results from torpid liver and sluggish bowel action. Tablets for the stomach and aids to digestion fail in this chronic form of indigestion. You must get the filtering and excretory organs right before you can expect permanent relief and this is best accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion is a very common condition. On this account many suffer for years not realizing that relief is at hand in the form of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Headaches, biliousness, spells of constipation and diarrhoea are among the accompanying ailments.

What a relief it would be to be free of this condition which makes one feel so miserable and it is so easy by using this well-known regulator of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE HELD AT MARMORA

Attendance Was Large and the Music Was Good.

MARMORA, December 4. — The annual dance under the auspices of Marmora L.O.L. 319, at Marmora town hall on Wednesday evening, accorded well with its past reputation. The attendance was one of the best on record. Delightful music was furnished for both round and square dancing by Baxter's orchestra of Belleville. Mr. Charles Janes as floor manager left nothing to be desired. The arrangements were in the hands of a committee which comprised Bros. Charles Airhart, William Gray and Arthur Smith. Midnight saw the interval for refreshments of first class quality.

Young People's League.

Another splendid attendance at the Young People's League is to be recorded this week. The Christian Fellowship Department was responsible for the programme.

Following the opening exercises and Scripture reading by Miss Eileen Sopha, a male quartette drafted from the department, rendered "Beulah Land." Miss Constance Simmons gave a reading entitled "How do you do?" A paper on "Is Capital Punishment compatible with Christianity?" was given by Mr. W. J. Cottrell. The concluding number was a Scripture contest which proved extremely interesting and in which the Citizenship department was most successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doyle attended the funeral of the latter's father, Mr. Andrew Brown, at Springbrook, on Tuesday afternoon.

The A.Y.P.A. met on Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. William Archer.

The monthly meeting of the Deloro Safety First Committee was held in the Hub Dining Rooms on Wednesday evening, when the usual business was transacted.

The Law Society, which is the official governing body of the legal profession in England, has just celebrated its centenary.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

Walking for beauty is a very good idea. I prescribe it especially for those who will walk in the way which gives them real muscle work.

The trouble is that many women who think they are walking in a brisk, business-like manner, do not use their limbs with precision. Neither do they breath with the regularity which should accompany the brisk movement of the walking. The result is that they do not derive their real quota from the exercise. Then, again, many women do not have the opportunity for the long walk which induces brisk circulation and brings color to the cheeks.

This Exercise Tones the Muscles of Waist and Legs.

This is why I am going to give you an exercise which you will find excellent to tone the muscles of your waist and upper legs. It will also be good for your internal organs, and any such exercise is an excellent means to banish constipation. Added to these desirable results, it will improve your sense of balance and this helps you to handle your movements more gracefully.

The exercise is as follows:

First, stand erect.

Next, place your hands on your hips, and squat down. As you lower yourself, rest your weight on one foot and allow your right leg to extend out straight, either forward from your body or sideways from it, whichever way happens to be most convenient for you.

If necessary, you may rest one hand on the floor as a support in the beginning. This is the count of 1.

As you come back to your starting position, take a good inhalation. Now squat down again, kicking your left foot forward or sideways, exhaling as you do this. This is the count of 2.

Keep this exercise up, repeating ten times.

If you become too tired before the tenth time, begin with fewer repetitions and work up until you can repeat ten times.

Any exercise of this kind, which may be difficult for you to do at first, I consider all the more beneficial because, added to the physical benefit of the exercise, you have the mental benefit of teaching yourself to master the new and difficult movement.

THE VOGUE OF METAL CLOTH OVERBLOUSES

Glittering Materials Lend a Note of Gayety to Sombre Ensembles.

(By Annette Bradshaw.)

Never before has metal cloth been put to so many interesting uses. Instead of being an evening material exclusively, the supple new metal cloth appears in the most attractive of daytime garments.

The favored among these is the overblouse. The two piece frock for afternoon, which combines a metallic overblouse with a plain skirt, of velvet, is among the smartest of the season's modes.

Two good examples are sketched here. One shows an ensemble, and the other a simple metallic blouse worn with a skirt of heavy silk.

The overblouse at the left is of gold and green and blue, in horizontal stripes. This model has long sleevs, a shallow boat neck, and a simple sas of plain dark blue which ties directly in front. The skirt is of heavy silk in dark blue, like the sash.

At the right is snown a blacic velvet and silver cloth ensemble, worn by a young actress. The black velvet skirt has its fulness concentrated at the front. The simple silver cloth overblouse has a slender neckline, and buttons down the front with velvet covered buttons. The coat of black velvet is lined with silver cloth, and the hat is of black velevt with a silver band about the crown.

Of such inspiration are the smart new overblouses, which are always simply made, because of the elaboratness of their fabrics. Plain metal cloth in the gunmetal tinish is smart, as well as shinier silver.

TOO BRIEF IS LIFE—

To waste in worry its little hour,
To weakly brood over what might have been,
For even the gloomiest warp of life,
Is woven with woof of silvery sheen.

To recklessly waste, or spend amiss,
In sordid service at mammon's shrine
Or to pour to Pleasure—deceitful nymph—
In full libation, life's choicest wine.

Too transient even its longest span,
And destiny weighted, for ceaseless moil,
Or to suffer unholy strife to blight,
Sweet flowers of Peace, from earth's rude soil.

For backward turning, in vain regret,
To vanished days, though to memory dear;
To list the gossip's venomous tale,
The frown of the haughty, to feel, or fear.

To squander our heaven-lent talents or time,
In ways, which to frivolous folly belong;
For love of the world to engross our souls,
For following blindly the giddy throng;

Yet, never too brief for those things worth while,
Things which will weather Time's pitiless sway,
And bring us bliss in the world above,
When the joys and pleasures of earth decay,

Yes, time is given the soul to plume,
Her earthbound wind, for its skyward flight,
By seeking salvation here to win
An entrance free to the Land of Light.

Retires After Finding Homes For 1,950 Poor Boys

NEW YORK, Dec. 4—Robert L. Neill retires today after twenty-five years of service with the Children's Aid Society. During that time he placed 1, 950 boys, 14 or more years old, in homes and kept himself poor by making it a point always to send a wedding present to any of his "boys" who were married.

Mr. Neill was a cotton broker in Houston when C. Loring Brace of the society interested him in 1900 in the work for boys. On the night of the Galveston flood Neill was enlisted in the work of caring for the orphans and remained in it, giving up the brokerage business. He said yesterday he planned to write a book on his experience.

FUR TRIMS.

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(United Press).—Fur trims many frocks of formal and informal type this winter. Often the ensemble idea with the long coat trimmed in fur and a cloth frock of matching material that is fur-trimmed is used. More often the fur-trimmed frock has no connection with the coat with which it is worn.

The afternoon and evening gowns are better adapted to fur than the simpler type of street frock and since velvet is the popular fabric for formal wear we see many fur-trimmed velvets. A most novel after noon frock which was worn at the Commodore Hotel at teatime was made of burnt orange velvet with high neck, long sleeves and with straight lines save for a front circular flounce effect on the skirt. The flounce was trimmed with a wide band of leopard fur and a separate collar of this same fur acted as a neck-piece.

An ensemble of pencil blue velvet trimmed in gray squirrel is one of the loveliest combinations of fur and velvet noted this season. The coat was made slender as to line and slightly accentuated the figure by being nipped in a bit at the normal waistline. The circular flare at the hem of the coat was trimmed in square appliques of squirrel giving a checker broad effect from knee to hemline. Wide cuffs and collar were likewise trimmed in squares of gray squirrel. Under this coat appeared a frock of matching velvet straightlined and beltless.

Often two furs trim woolen frocks. Narrow bands of black seal with a still narrower band of white ermine adjoining the seal trims several bright red coats on the Avenue. Flat wide bands of gray squirrel finished with matching gray fox forms the borders of woolen coats and trims sleeves and collars.

FILM FALSE TO LIFE IN BRITAIN

Proposal in British Commons That Home-made Films Be Used.

WANT LEGISLATION.

LONDON, Dec. 4. — The House of Commons yesterday heard a version of the complaint often raised by the British papers that United States' motion picture films give an entirely false impression of British life and manners.

Sir William Henry Davison, Conservative member for Kensington, said it was desirable that British life should be presented by British made films and he wanted to know whether the government intended to introduce legislation compelling British motion picture theatres to include a certain percentage of British films in their programmes so as to stimulate British production.

Arthur Samuel, parliamentary secretary of the Overseas Trade Department, replied that the government was considering such action, but he could say no more at present. In reply to another question he admitted that there was great divergence of opinion among theatre owners regarding such compulsory legislation.

Captain H. Arthur Evans, Conservative from Cardiff, asked Mr. Samuel whether in the interest of the motion picture public he would take into consideration "that the supply of British films, in either quantity or quality, is not sufficient to meet any compulsory percentage." Mr. Samuel replied that this would be considered.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

In the chest are located the lungs and heart. The lungs are protected by a covering of tissue which gives form and security to this delicate organ.

The heart is suspended in a fluid filled sac, known as the pericardium. Just as all other parts of the body are liable to become congested and inflamed, so may the pericardium. When that happens the condition is called pericarditis.

Primary pericarditis is rare. What I mean is that it is unusual to have an inflammation here without previous trouble of some sort somewhere else in the body. Almost every time pericarditis follows some other disease. The most common ailment to produce it is rheumatic fever.

Tonsilitis, tuberculosis, scarlet fever, measles, pneumonia, diphtheria and typhoid may be followed by this heart disturbance. But, as I have siad, the worst enemy of the pericardium is rheumatic fever. That disease has the bad habit of striking at the heart.

Just what the symptoms will be depends on the form the pericarditis takes. If it produces an effusion—that is, if a lot of fluid is thrown out so that the heart is crowded—then it becomes difficult to breathe. There is a sense of pressure and suffocation.

The degree of pain varies. It may not be pronounced, but sometimes it is stabbing and severe.

There may be considerable fever. Cough, restlessness, rapid pulse and sometimes delirium, are other symptoms.

Fortunately, pericarditis is rarely fatal. The type which follows rheumatic fever is particularly favorable as to outcome.

It is unfortunate that this trouble is frequently overlooked. It is difficult to determine its presence, especially in the mild form. It is so important to give the patient perfect rest that the failure to discover it early retards recovery.

In the treatment, more important than all other things combined, is the absolute quiet which must be had. The first indication is to keep the heart down to the slowest possible action. To accomplish this, there must be physical rest and mental rest. Noises, odors, jarring—everything which can possibly excite in the heart must be suppressed.

Don t permit the patient to feed himself or make other unnecessary effort. I cannot say too much about the necessity of sparing him every possible movement.

When a child is the victim, the pain and distress may be relieved by applying an ice pack over the chest. Anything which is helpful in allaying excitement is beneficial because it aids in keeping the heart action down.

The after care is important. Sunlight, fresh air and massage will help a lot.

Your doctor will prescribe the remedies.

WHERE THE HUSKING OF CORN RECALLS GAY MEMORIES.

Corn has always been a tremendously important product of America and there are any number of festivals that have grown up about it. With the introduction of the silo and other scientific methods of handling the corn crop, many of these celebrations have ceased. But if the new methods are more productive and successful the old ones are surely more colorful and neighborly.

The husking of the corn takes place in October or November or December. A generation ago it was the excuse for social gatherings from Maine to Florida, in the rural communities.

Of these, the husking bee was most popular. After the stalks were cut and stacked in the fields to mature, they were hauled into the barn. All the young girls and men of the neighborhood assembled. They first stripped the ears from the stem and then removed the outer sheaths. Then the ears were thrown into great open bins.

This process went on for several hours. Hilarity and merriment held forth over the work and every eager eye was alert for the first red ear of corn. For the first girl to find one was queen of the revels and the first boy was king.

When the work was finished there was a grand procession. The farmer and his wife lead, followed by the king and queen, proudly carrying the red ears of corn. The procession wended its way into a granary which had been elaborately decorated.

The throne stood at one end and the ceremony of crowning took place immediately. This was followed by a corn dinner. There would be ears of corn and corn fritters and succotash and roasted corn and corn cooked in cream and hunks of corn bread and corn cakes.

A Red Ear Made Her Queen.

There were toasts galore and the sweet cider flowed in abundance.

In the old days of slavery, corn shucking was the big celebration of the year. There was much singing of spirituals and a joyous holiday feeling. There was a blowing of bugles and of quills.

The corn shucking festival has lost some of its more riotous aspects. It is now nothing more than another event in the farming year. Probably half the corn is not husked at all now. The pigs are simply turned loose in the fields and allowed to eat the corn from the stocks, saving the cost of shucking the corn and then packing it to the pig pens.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DONALD AND DEE HAVE A HAPPY SURPRISE.

When Dee saw the dirt almost under her feet begin to raise up in a little mound, she ran to call her brother Donald.

"Do come and see what's happening," she cried. "The very ground is rising up. I'll bet it's an earthquake, Donald. Do come and see." She caught hold of Donald's hand and away they ran for the garden.

"Earthquake, nothing!" laughed Donald. "That's the way with all you silly girls. You just thought you saw the ground——" By this time they had reached the spot where Dee had been standing a few seconds before. Sure enough there ran the wee little ridge of dirt Dee had told him about and it kept growing larger and larger while they watched it. "Sh——, don't talk out loud," whispered Donald. "I'll bet that's Mopsy Mole digging under the ground to get to the roots of our flowers. Let's be real quiet and see what he does."

"Oh dear, I wish——," began Dee when a tiny hand touched her apron and glancing down she spied Squeedee, the wee elfin from Joyland, smiling up at her. "Oh Squeedee! You dear!" and both children grabbed the elfin's hands and shook them.

"My, we're glad you're here," whispered Donald. "Tell us who is that digging under the ground that way? Mopsy Mole?"

Squeedee knelt down on the ground and placed his ear to the mound, then he chuckled merrily.

"Hello, There, Mopsy Mole!"

"Hello, there, Mopsy Mole!" called softly. "Come on out a secon

The dirt at the very end of t ridge began to fly in the air and u poked a funny little furry nose. His fur was so thick Donald and Dee couldn't see any eyes or ears at all.

"My goodness!" cried Dee, when Squeedee had introduced Mopsy Mole to them. "What a horrid life to lead. Down in the dark ground all the time."

"Not horrid to me," chuckled Mopsy Mole.

"You see my eyes are made to penetrate the dark. I'm not any good up above the ground at all. I couldn't live above ground very long I'm afraid."

"I'll say you wouldn't," declared Donald. "I heard our cook, Betty, say if you didn't stop eating the roots of our flowers, we wouldn't have any garden at all."

"Who says I eat the roots of their flowers?" snapped Mopsy Mole. "Isn't that funny? I've heard many folks say that very same thing and I have the first time yet to eat roots of any sort. Why, I never eat anything but grubs and worms that I find around the roots of the plants. If your cook, Betty, as you call her, only knew it, I'm one of the best friends the garden has. I even heard the other day that I ate the seed corn. Think of that!"

"I'll back Mopsy Mole up in that," said Squeedee. "It's Mr. Meadow Mouse and his relatives that destroy the roots of the plants and devour the seed corn. People see Mr. Mopsy Mole's tunnels running around under the ground and right away they accuse him of destroying things; when the truth is that he's doing all in his power to help the garden and corn field."

"I'm mighty glad to hear that, Mopsy Mole," said Dee, "and I'm going in right now to tell Betty." Then into the house the children ran. When they returned to the garden, Mopsy Mole and Squeedee had disappeared, but the little ridge of dirt ran all the way back to the garden and Donald and Dee were very careful not to step on it.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5.

The planetary forecast for this day emphasizes the possibility of turmoil and disruption, superinduced by the disposition to quarrel and to rush, impetuously into all manner of rash acts and critical situations. Litigation should be shunned and care taken in the signing of all papers and documents if success is to be wrung from difficult problems. Change and travel should be deferred until more propitious rule. Employment is favored for the day.

Those whose birthday it is may unravel complicated situations by managing their affairs with discretion and deliberation, refraining from quarrels and agitation and deferring change. Papers and agreements should be signed cautiously. Those in employment are under good prospects. A child born on this day may be rash, impulsive and hard to manage but should make a success of its employment. In early life it should be taught that its own self-will and contentious spirit may operate against its best advancement.

BEAVERBROOK IS NOT BUYING ANY MORE PAPERS

Only One Exception Made—May Buy for Defence or Reprisal.

ANSWERS RUMORS

Has No Intention at Present of Selling Papers He Has.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press Despatch.—"I shall never buy or start another newspaper, except for defensive purposes or as a reprisal," declared Lord Beaverbrook in an advertisement concerning the Sunday Express, one of his trinity of journals. The exception which his Lordship indicates is capable, of course of a very wide interpretation.

In an article discussing how the big financier has come to dominate London newspaper ownership "Truth" remarks:

"The dark horse in the newspaper world today is Lord Beaverbrook. He is the ablest man in the business. He has money, brains, youth, ambition. He has also personality. He is a man who takes long views; any observer can see that in his newspaper policy he is not concerning himself so much with the dividends for the day as with building for the future. Lord Beaverbrook is gaining in experience and ripening in judgment, but he still handicaps himself by impetuous and amateurish exhibitions which shows that he does not yet take himself seriously enough as a newspaper man. He will go far if he is capable of concentration on newspapers and manages to impress upon himself that responsibility goes with power."

Rumors which have been going around Fleet Street for some time concerning the fate of Lord Rothermere's Daily Mail, and its stable companions, The Evening News and the Weekly Dispatch are thus disposed of in a paragraph in the Mail:

"A paragraph appears in the current number of G.K's Weekly which is edited by Mr. Gilbert Chesterton, the humourist, stating that negotiations have taken place between Lord Rothermere and Sir William Berry for the purchase of those newspapers or any part of the property, nor have any such negotiations ever been suggested at any time or in any circumstances. No offer would be entertained. The whole story is entirely and utterly untrue.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

Solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

Roman Smart Set Bids High For a Wolf Whelp From Litter Of Famous Capitoline She-Wolf

ROME, Dec. 2. — (United Press—A wolf whelp from a litter of the Capitoline she-wolf in Rome is the latest fad of smart society folk here.

A she-wolf is always kept in a cage on the Capitoline Hill in Rome just under the shadow of Michael Angelo's Campidoglio in order to commemorate the fabulous founders of the Eternal City, Romulus and Remus.

This tradition has gone on for centuries now, and when one wolf dies, its place is taken immediately by another. Old fashioned Romans say that if the cage remains without a wolfish occupant, ill fortune will come to Rome.

It is the custom of the authorities to mate the she-wolf with a male wolf from the Zoo or has recently become the fashion with a wolf hound, sometimes called Alsatian dog, supposed itself to derive from a distant cross of wolf and dog.

The whelps or pups of these unions make very handsome wolf-dogs, and are much sought after by smart people here.

Vigorous competition goes on for the acquisition of one of the Capitoline wolf's litter among aristocratic dog fanciers, and it is said that the keeper of the symbolic she-wolf of the Capitol makes a comfortable addition to his stipend by selling the pups to eager bidders.

OLD CLERGYMAN IS NOW MISSIONARY

Dr. Pringle Has Left City Churches For Mission Station in Wilds.

KAMLOOPS, B.C., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Rev. Dr. John Pringle, one of Canada's best known Presbyterian pastors, who was once in charge of Old Kildonan Church, near Winnipeg, and latterly serving a parish at Sydney, Cape Breton following his return from overseas where he was a chaplain, has arrived here to spend the autumn of his years in the way he loves best—as a missionary in the wilderness.

Dr. Pringle is now established at an obscure mission post north of Kamloops, his field embracing 35 small groups of miners, ranchers, fishermen and lumberjacks. Life in the primitive wilds of Western Canada, however, will be no new experience for Dr. Pringle, for he labored for seventeen years in the Yukon and it was while there that he won for himself the sobriquet "Pringle of the Yukon."

Dr. Pringle, who is 73 years of age, has a rugged constitution and has retained much of his early vigor.

"I have never entered a new field of work with greater enthusiasm," he said. "I believe that out here I will be able to fulfill my greatest mission and in that accomplishment I will be supremely happy."

Seymour Hicks, the noted English actor, has not eaten breakfast for years. He finds that a good lunch and a good supper are sufficient to keep him fit.

BRASS LEASES NEW STORE

Will Use the Ed. Wright Store to Help Handle the Big Overload Sale Now On.

Brass found conditions so little to his liking on his recent visit to Peterboro in the cramped quarters the present store presents, that he at once leased the larger store, just vacated by Ed. Wright, at 329 George Street. This will be used as additional room for the present, and both stores will carry on the Overload sale with a much better chance to display the goods and wait on their customers.

The management felt that they were actually forced to have more room and grasped the opportunity when the new store became empty. It is now about ready to open up, and the public will find a store full of bargains in Men's Coats, Suits and Furnishings. Dozens of items are particularly suitable for Christmas gifts and all are remarkable value at the Overload Sale Prices.—Advt.

FAMOUS PAINTING IS BEING RESTORED

Madonna of Chenstohova is the Patron of Poland.

WARSAW, Dec. 4 — Poland's most-revered picture, the celebrated Madonna of Chenstohova, is under restoration in the hands of John Rutowski.

For centuries this madonna has hung in the monastery of Chenstohova. The legend concerning the picture holds that it was painted on a table by St. Luc. It passed, according to the legend, from Byzantium to South Russia and was stolen there by a Polish prince who intended to take it home. But while he was passing the Chenstohova monastery his horse refused to go further. The prince accepted this as a divine order to leave the madonna in the monastery.

When the Czechs espoused the creed of John Huss they are supposed to have plundered the monastery. They tried to carry away the famous madonna, but their horses refused to move, and in their anger the Czechs cut the face of the madonna. A wound appeared on the face, from which blood flowed, according to the legend. Traces of the cut still remain on the picture in spite of repeated efforts to remove them.

It is historically established that King Jagiello ordered the picture repainted in 1430 and the restoration was made by an unknown artist who was familiar with the original technic of the picture and did the work with much skill.

This celebrated madonna is supposed to have delivered Poland from the Swedes in 1655. When all the rest of Poland was in the hands of the invaders the Chenstohova monastery held out. After long siege the Swedes were exhausted and the Poles were so encouraged by the stubborn resistance of the monastery that the entire country was aroused and expelled the invaders.

This made the madonna the patron of Poland and prayers are directed to her in all crises.

Rutowski, who has a wide training in the restoration of pictures at the Louvre, was commissioned to treat all the art objects which Poland recovered from Russia under the Riga Treaty. He believes the madonna is the work of a great artist of the beginning of the Christian

TROPICAL VALLEY; TO BE INVESTIGATED

Police Wish to Learn More About Strange Land.

VICTORIA, B.C., Dec. 4—(Canadian Press).—The "tropical valley" reported to exist in the trackless wilderness of Northern British Columbia, will be investigated by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, it is stated here, in order to ascertain in greater detail the characteristics of this strange land.

Two reports have been received from prospectors who have visited the district hemmed in by glaciers and snow-capped mountains comparatively close to the Arctic Circle and where vegetation grew rank as it does in the jungle of equatorial regions; where game was plentiful and of unusually wide variety; where lupins and orchids grew in a riot of color and steaming hot springs shot shafts of boiling water skyward.

Following these reports people began to be interested and now the mounted police will probably start next summer on an exploring expedition.

The Provincial Government already has considerable data on the subject, brought back unobtrusively during the early stages of the war by Major E. B Hart, F.R.G.S., who was commissioned by the late Sir Richard McBride, then premier of the province, to explore and report on that hitherto unknown area lying south of the Liard River.

Major Hart, after a series of misfortunes, got as far as the Toad River valley, known to the Indians as the Tsaichanes. After passing along this river through narrow canyons, stagnant marshes and swamps, the party reached an open plain of 300,000 acres where the climate was found to be much milder than that of the surrounding territory because of the presence of hot springs. They found luxuriant pine grasses, pea vine, vetches, lupins and even orchids, although nothing to suggest what has since been described as "a tropical valley."

COMPLETE SHOW MOUNTAIN GOATS

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press).—The Field Museum of Chicago which has sponsored the quest of Kermit and Theodore Roosevelt for the rare ovis poli in the mountains of Turkestan, will shortly exhibit one of the finest and most complete group of Rocky Mountain goats on the continent as a result of the success attending its expedition into the Kootenay country of Central British Columbia.

J. Friesser, successor to Carl Akeley, world-famous big game hunter, as chief taxidermist of the Field Museum, as the leader of the hunt for the Rocky Mountain goats and with him were Holling C. Holling, assistant taxidermist, and James W. French, of Vancouver, a big game hunter.

In addition to the goats, fine specimens of elk and mule deer were secured.

The expedition outfitted at Skookumchuck, on the Kootenay Central Railway, and left early in October for the big game country around White River, Elk Creek and White Swan Lake.

Scores of goats were stalked and carefully inspected through powerful binoculars in order to get perfect specimens. The party could have shot dozens of average goats if numbers were all that was wanted. Many of these chances were passed up in order to get just the representative specimens needed to round out a well-balanced group for the museum.

Originally, the name of the card game we now call "Whist" was "whisk." The older name was bestowed on the game from the "whisk"—an old word meaning a quick motion—with which the player would sweep the cards from the table after making a trick. And "whist" is merely a variation of the old word.

Number 1 picture is of Irma Carpenter, one of Toronto's rising young actresses, who is engaged by Captain W. M. Plunkett to play in the musical comedy, "Three Little Maids," which is to tour Canada during the present season. No. 2 is Mons. Drani, a famous French actor, who brings Napoleon to life in a presentation which adds the art of make-up to a natural resemblance to the great Corsican. No. 3. Rita Davis and Cecil V. DaCosta in Max Reinhardt costume, present an amusing Oriental dance in the Chinese play at Hart House Theatre. No. 4, Jacques Lerner, a French actor, in his surprising make-up as the monkey in a remarkable new play, "The Monkey Talks." The play is to open up in New York shortly after a successful run in Paris. No. 5. This portrait of Raquel Miller was painted by J. V. de R. Muistgaard, a prominent American painter from the vantage point of a box at the play in which Miss Miller was appearing.

HOT CAMPAIGN AS CANDIDATES MEET IN BAGOT

Morin and Fauteux Have Been Speaking Together at All Places.

HAVE TIMEKEEPER.

Many Accusations Are Passed Back and Forth During Meetings.

STE. HELENE DE BAGOT, Dec. 1. (Canadian Press).—Heated accusations of appealing to the lowest and meanest of prejudices passed swiftly across the platform yesterday afternoon where the rival candidates in the Federal by-election of Bagot met once again. Day after day since they entered the field the two candidates, G. D. Morin, Liberal, and Hon. Andre Fauteux, Conservative, have travelled from parish to parish with their supporting speakers, stating their views on a time limit, the chairman presiding with watch in hand.

Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor-General, took Mr. Meighen's announcement (that before sending soldiers overseas in the next war, he would consult the people), and asked what faith there was to be placed in Mr. Meighen's words.

Mr. Cannon charged Mr. Fauteux with having followed four different political leaders and flown four different political flags in the last fifteen years, and with having deserted Mr. Patenaude as if to escape the plague. Mr. Fauteux warmly returned that he had always been true to his political principles. He declared that he had always opposed the imperialistic policy of Sir Wilfred Laurier.

"I opposed it," he added, "while you were defending it, with all your strength, and it was that policy which led the way to our participation in the war."

ITALY SECURED BETTER TERMS

Britain's Payments To U. S. A. Are About 15 Times As Heavy.

PAYS $160,000,000.

LONDON, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, replying to questioners in the House of Commons yesterday, said that if Great Britains debt to the United States had been funded on the same terms as Italy's, the amount which British Government would pay to the United States Government during the present year would be approximately $11,000,000 instead of $160,000,000.

Hospital for Sick Children

67 College St., Toronto, 2, Ont.

Christmas, 1925.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

This is the fiftieth year—the semi-Jubilee of the Hospital for Sick Children. It is the Golden Anniversary of an institution which started in 1875 with a six-bed equipment to cure children medically of their illnesses and to rid them surgically of their disabilities. Fifty years have passed and the tiny hospital has grown into one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the whole world.

The people of this province demanded this service — and they have made it possible by their Christmas Time gifts. They are rewarded by the knowledge that thousands of Ontario children will grow up into manhood or womanhood blessing the "little blue cots" wherein they were restored and strengthened to play a full part in the battle of life.

To win back health for six thousand boys and girls was the measure of the Hospital's ward-service alone this year. Besides that there were over half a hundred thousand attendances in the Out-Patient Department, where the less serious cases are treated. All this costs a great deal of money, even though the doctors give freely of their skill and the nurses of their care. There is board and lodging and laundry to be provided, besides the best that can be procured in the way of all the medical and surgical supplies required to treat the myriad ailments and accidents to which children are subject.

In order to maintain its high standard of efficiency and also to widen the scope of its service through clinics conducted all over Ontario, the Hospital is compelled to borrow heavily during the year. On the occasion of its fiftieth Christmas an appeal is made to the public for the funds which will allow the Hospital for Sick Children to enter upon its second half-century of service with its courage renewed and a credit balance in the bank.

It is indeed a noble cause which we feel sure you will cordially commend to your readers.

Faithfully yours,

IRVING H. ROBERTSON,
Chairman Appeal Committee

Note—This Hospital does not receive an appropriation from the Federation for Community Service

Hon. T. C. Norris, former Prime Minister of Manitoba, will seek re-election to the Legislature in Lansdowne, the seat which he resigned in order to contest South Winnipeg.

ENGLISH MONEY FOR DEVELOPING QUEBEC MINES

Agent General Says Big Firm is Entering Gold Fields.

HAS INVESTIGATED.

Another Company Plans To Develop Feldspar on North Shore.

QUEBEC, Dec. 4. — (Canadian Press).—Dr. L. F. Lemieux, Agent-General of Quebec at London, yesterday afternoon told the Provincial Government that big English interests were on the eve of entering the north western gold fields of Quebec, after sending investigators here who had been satisfied with the guarantees given by legislation which might affect them, and the happy conditions prevailing. A few days before his departure from England, Dr. Lemieux announced that a company, backed by the Bank of England, whose name he was withholding for the present, had been formed to exploit the feldspar on the north shore. Work was to be started as soon as a Provincial incorporation had been obtained.

MANY VISITORS AT L.O.B.A. MEETING

Good Attendance of Members—Visitors Won at Carpet Ball.

Eastern Star Lodge, 525, L. O. B. A., held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening with a good attendance of officers and members. There were also present a large number of visitors, including Sister Jean Manley, P.P.G. Chap., Sister C. Wright, P.P.G. Dir. Cer.; Sister Ethel Tate, Dep. Mistress, Star of Bethlehem; Bro. Carl, P.P.G. Dep. Sec.; Bro. Sunman, District Master, and Bro. George McCullough, P.M., L.O.L., 50. After the initiation of Sister Hartford, the Wor. After the Lodge was closed a game of carpet bowls was played, Bro. Freeman captaining a team from the Lodge, while Bro. McCullough led a team of visitors. The score was 25-10 in favor of the visitors. Lunch was served by the following committee: Sisters E. Brown, Guthrie, Lockie, Freeman, M. Sexsmith and Fife, and Brothers T. Sproats and Bertrand.

The installation of the officers of the Eastern Star Lodge will be held at the next meeting, December 16, and will be conducted by Bro. F. Bertram, Master of the Royal Black Preceptory, and guardian of Star of Bethlehem Lodge.

As a result of the building boom and the high wages paid building craftsmen, the membership of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America has increased about 44 per cent in the last four years.

DRAFT OF IRISH BOUNDARY AGREEMENT

LONDON, December 4. Canadian Press. — The text of the new Irish Boundary Agreement, amending and supplementing the articles of the Anglo-Irish Treaty, was issued last night. The preamble says;

"Whereas, the progress of events and the improved relations now subsisting between the British, Soarstat and Northern Ireland governments, and their respective peoples, makes it desirable to amend and supplement said articles, so as to avoid any causes of friction which might mar or retard the further growth of the friendly relations between said governments and peoples, and.

"Whereas, the British government and the Saorstat government being united in amity in is undertaking with the government of Northern Ireland, and being resolved mutually to aid one another in a spirit of neighborly comradeship hereby agree as follows:"

Then comes the five articles of the treaty.

Article 1 revokes the powers conferred by the proviso to Article 12 and leaves the territory of Northern Ireland as fixed by the Irish Treaty. Article 2 releases the Saorstat from the obligation under article 5 to assume the liability therein mentioned. ((Part payment of British war debts.)

Article 3—The Free State assumes all liability undertaken by the British government for malicious damage done since Jan. 1, 1919, to property in the Free State area and will repay to the British government the money that has been paid with respect to such damage.

Article 4—The Free State agrees to promote legislation increasing by 10 per cent. the compensation with respect to malicious damage to property done in the Free State area between July 11, 1921, and May 12, 1923, and providing for the payment of this compensation by issuing five per cent. compensation stock or bonds.

Article 5—Does away with the Council of Ireland—in which the British government participates—and provides for Ulster and the Free State meeting together whenever necessary for consideration of matters of common interest.

The agreement is subject to confirmation by the British parliament and the Free State, and the act of the British Parliament confirming the agreement will fix the date on which the agreement shall become effective.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIAL TO REFORMATORY

Failed to Credit Funds to the Township—Council Rebuked For Methods.

KINGSTON, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Finding J. F. Leatherland, former treasurer of the Township of Hinchinbrooke, guilty of a charge of fraudulently failing to account for and pay certain money he received for the Township to the credit of the Township, His Honor Judge Levell yesterday afternoon sentenced him to six months in the Ontario Reformatory, and incidentally handed out a stinging rebuke to the Council for the loose manner in which it allowed matters to drift along prior to the engaging of Mr. Muir to audit the books.

Norwegian Will Try To Repeat Ericson's Voyage

OSLO, Dec. 4.—(Associated Press).—To prove that it was possible for Leif Ericson to have discovered America 500 years before Columbus, Captain Folgero intends to make an attempt next year to reach that country in a vessel the exact duplicate of the boats used by the old Vikings.

His boat will be 40 feet long and 12 feet wide and will follow a route by Dover, Finisterre, Madeira and then across the Atlantic in the hope of reaching Philadelphia.

The Norwegians still dispute Columbus' claims and insist Ericson was the discoverer of America.

PUBLIC CONSISTORY TO CLOSE HOLY YEAR

Preparations Are Already Being Made to Close Holy Door.

ROME, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—The Pope's decision was announced yesterday to hold a public consistory, which is set for December 17, in the Basilica of St. Peter's, to enable the largest possible number of Holy Year pilgrims to attend the solemn function. Preparations are being made already at St. Peter's for closing the holy door, or Porta Sancta, which is pened only during the Holy Year, that is every 25th year.

ARSENAL CLASH WITH CHAMPION HUDDERSFIELD TOWN SATURDAY

Another Test For London's Bid For League Title This Year.

SUNDERLAND'S GAME.

Engaged With Manchester United—Other Clashes at the Week End.

LONDON, Dec. 4. — (Canadian Press Cable).—Having successfully surmounted what was generally considered to be the most dangerous obstacle of the season, Arsenal on Saturday are confronted with one which, is not quite so menacing, at least will go a long way towards either establishing an undoubted supremacy in the first division of the English League or marking them as little better than above the average. Close on the heels of the tremendous fight they put up against Sunderland comes the battle with Huddersfield Town, the club which when all is said and done is entitled to the largest claim on English soccerdom.

Huddersfield have been League champions for two years in succession. During the present season they have at times shown flashes of their former brilliancy, and at other times have succumbed, but their defeats have been inflicted by teams who themselves stand well in the league. Huddersfield have never been an "easy mark" for any one. Following a series of games unbroken by defeat for twenty-eight contests, they ran into a trimming on their own ground on October 24, at the hands of Newcastle. This unsteadied them for a while, and before they had resumed their stride they went down to Aston Villa, at Villa Park. Since then, however, the Yorkshiremen have found themselves and despite their draw with Liverpool a week ago, they are playing splendid football.

London's Big Bid.

Arsenal have been advertised as this season's champions, and judging by their recent performances there is every justification for the prediction. Their victory over Sunderland last Saturday was a magnificent piece of work, and registered their fifth straight win. Having strengthened their side with recruits from the four quarters of the globe, they are in a position to overwhelm all-comers and it is realized painfully that the time is past due when the London district should come into the picture in league football. For the metropolis, the career of Arsenal is the one bright spot in a sky that is overshadowed with gloom, particularly when the records of the other London teams in their various departments are taken into consideration.

Sunderland Play Manchester.

Second only in importance to this contest, and providing a bright feature for a card that is full of interest, is the game between Sunderland and Manchester United. The locale is on the tee-side. The Mancunians attained their position in the first division at the close of last season by virtue of hard and rugged play, coming up from the second string in company with Leicester City. Since their reappearance in senior company they have shown themselves to be well worthy of the honor, and already they are travelling along the road that leads to league championships. A smart and aggressive forward line, coupled with a sturdy intermediate string, makes the United a force to be reckoned with, and they have shown that they can garner points away from home with a facility equal to that displayed on their own ground. Whether Sunderland have shot their bolt or not is a question. The pace they set at the beginning of the season was dizzy, and it amazed even their most ardent supporters. But that a halt has been called to it would seem evident from the fact that in their last six games they have won only one, losing two and drawing three. The fans here will not hazard a guess as to the outcome of the tilt, nor would anyone be surprised to see Manchester United take the points.

Villa Meets Spurs.

Aston Villa travel to London to play the 'Spurs, this game marking their first visit to the metropolis this season. How they will fare is problematical. Their fine win over Huddersfield Town is pointed out as something indicative of the Villa's real form, but the skeptics recall their defeats from both Cardiff City and Sheffield United. And consequently feel none too confident. The 'Spurs struck a snag three weeks ago at Newcastle, and have not fully recovered from it. They went down to Bolton Wanderers later, and to Notts County last week, so that their chances against the Villa, even on their own ground, appear none to bright.

Other scheduled encounters are: Leeds United at Birmingham; Liverpool at Blackburn; Burnley at Bury; Notts County at Cardiff; West Ham at Everton; Leicester City at Manchester (City); Bolton Wanderers at Sheffield; Newcastle United at West Bromwich.

"Red" Stuart, former Toronto St. Pats' star, who is playing a great game with the Boston Bruins this year.

racehorses is always reckoned the January of the year the horse is born. A horse which was born at December would be old the following though he had only a month.

WORK PROGRESSING ON STIRLING RINK

Carpenters Are Completing Inside Work—Stirling News.

STIRLING, Dec. 4.—The carpenters are completing the inside work at the new skating rink and when finished this rink will compare favorably with those in larger centres. A dance was held Wednesday night in the interests of the hockey club.

The recent snowfall was sufficient for some to get their sleighs and cutters out.

The Rev. Mr. McKenzie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burnbrae, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here at both morning and evening services. In the morning his text was Psalms 14, 1, and his discourse was based on the question, "Why do we believe in God?" and he gave abundant proof that there is a God and also reasons why man should believe in Him. At the evening service, his subject was "The Bible as the Word of God," and the attention of the concregation was easily held as the discourse was full of interest throughout.

The Rev. R. Simpson took Mr. McKenzie's place at Burnbrae Church at the morning service.

The Anglican supper and bazaar held in the Opera House last Thursday, was a complete success in every respect. The various booths were nicely decorated. Mrs. J. B. Belshaw and Mrs. Geo. Bailey were in charge of the fancy work, and Miss Mover and Miss Edna Neal were in charge of the booth where homemade cookery was sold. Mrs. (Dr.) Alger and Mrs. W. Bailey had charge of the flowers and candies.

A very large crowd enjoyed an excellent supper, under the management of Mrs. Henry Cooke and Mrs. Ted Gould. The evening's receipts amounted to nearly $500.

The death of the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones occurred on Monday night. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon to Eggleton's Cemetery. The mother is confined to her bed with pneumonia and pleurisy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Donnell have moved to Belleville, where Mr. Donnell is to engage in the business of life insurance for the Sovereign Life Company.

Mr. T. E. B. Yeates of Port Hope, formerly manager of the branch of the Montreal Bank here, was a visitor in town for a couple of days last week, and attended the Anglican supper.

Misses Hilda Anderson and Edna Sorr students at the Peterboro Normal School, spent the week-end at their respective homes here.

Rev. F. Joblin of the Rawdon circuit, is in Toronto this week.

Mr. Thomas Cook is in New Liskeard on business.

Mrs. Geo. Bailey entertained a number of his friends on Monday afternoon, in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harry Kennedy of Toronto.

OTTAWA WINDS UP PRACTICES

Worked on Tan Bark Thursday—Polish Up Defense.

REGULARS READY.

OTTAWA, Dec. 4.—(By Canadian Press). — Tan bark footing was again provided for the Senators in their daily workout at Lansdowne Park yesterday. For over an hour the Eastern Canada champions worked on their formations with the full squad in attendance. Tubman and Connell were both at the practice although both men took things easy and did not take any unnecessary chances.

Mild weather is prevalent and the field is slippery and sloppy. If rain sets in it will be heavy and treacherous footing, and if real cold weather comes the going will be extremely hazardous.

Thursday's workout was the last heavy work the locals will indulge in before they take the field against Winnipeg Tigers on Saturday. A signal drill will likely be called today with a run for those who feel the results of the cold and dampness. McCann is satisfied that his team is in the best of condition and ready for anything the West has to offer in the way of rugby tactics.

Advance notices continue to rate the Tigers as serious contenders for national honors. Their size and speed are their great fortes while they have plenty of backfield ability. While a Western team has yet to defeat the Eastern representatives on the fall classic, the Peg team may be a surprise packet and the locals are taking no chances. McCann has a plan of defense mapped out that is calculated to offset the Western attack and the Senators hope that Saturday's sun will set on the red, white and black clad athletes wearing the Dominion rugby crown.

Intermediate Final

When St. Michael's College went down to defeat Wednesday at Sarnia before the O.R.F.U. champions, one team was eliminated from the race for the Canadian intermediate rugby title. Sarnia and Canadian Nations of Montreal, the latter representatives of the Quebec Union, will now fight it out. This game will take place at Toronto Varsity Stadium on Saturday afternoon and will be a sudden-death affair, the honors going to the winner. Both Sarnia and Canadian Nationals have been in the play-off before and both were defeated by Queen's last season. Neither has as yet won the Canadian title and both believe this is the year for them.

Mud for Juniors

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 4—Preparations for the Dominion Junior football final against Toronto Argonauts, here Saturday have been completed by the M.A.A.A. team, the local juniors meeting at the grounds club house last night for a chalk talk by Coach "Hoddy" Foster. It was at first planned to have a scrimmage workout, but the muddy condition of the grounds prevented outdoor work.

The M.A.A.A. gridiron has been cleared of snow, but today's rain turned the playing surface into a quagmire of mud. The field, however, should be in better condition than it was for the Rideau-M.A.A.A. game here last Saturday, when the boys ploughed through three inches of snow for four periods.

One of the outstanding features of the English racing season now nearing its close has been the astonishing success of Jockey Gordon Richards, who has ridden more winners during the year than any other jockey. Not for many a year has a young rider made a bigger impression on the great race-going public, and many trainers predict that before long he will eclipse the achievements of riders like Fred Archer, Tod Sloan and the Reiff brothers.

TORONTO ST. PATRICK'S TEAM

Here are the boys of this year's Toronto St. Patrick's hockey team. From left to right, in the back row: Clarence Gallinger, spare goalkeeper; Jack Adams, centre; Happy Day, left wing; Toots Holway, defense; Bert Corbeau, defense; Jack Roach, goalkeeper. Front row, left to right, Reg. Reid, left wing; Pete Bellefeuille, right wing; Gerald Munro, defense; Babe Dye, right wing and captain; Mike Meville, centre; and Bert McCaffery, defense.

HERB PENNOCK BEST PITCHER

According to the American League System—Worked in 292 Innings.

"COVEY" WON 20.

Stanley Coveleskie, winning 20 games and losing 5, was generally credited with being the leading pitcher in the American League this season, and Walter Johnson, with 20 victories and seven defeats, was given No. 2 ranking. But in the official averages Herb Pennock, of New York, who won 16 games and lost 17, and was therefore not a winning pitcher, was the best hurler of the season of 1925.

The American League does not rank pitchers according to games won and lost, but according to the average number of earned runs allowed per nine innings. So, according to this system, a pitcher that has a losing record, can still be the leading winner of the year. The official averages of 1925 furnish an illustration.

Earned Runs.	Won and Lost
1 Pennock	1 Coveleskie
2 Coveleskie	2 Holloway
3 Johnson	3 Johnson
4 Dauss	4 Leonard
5 Blankenship	5 Ruether
6 Lyons	6 Rommel
7 Miller	7 Blankenship
8 Grav	8 Gray
9 Baumgartner	9 Giard
10 Marberry	10 Baumgartner
11 Harriss	11 Lyons
12 Buckeye	12 Ferguson
13 Shocker	13 Buckeye
14 Rommel	14 Harriss
15 Ehmke	15 Dauss

Pennock, leading all pitchers on the earned runs average, is not included among the first 15 in won and lost computation. Miller, Marberry, Shocker and Ehmke, also among the first 15 in the runs average ranking, are not included among the first 15 in games won and lost.

But Holloway, Leonard, Giard and Ferguson, who figure among the first 12 in games won and lost, do not enter the list of the first 15 in the other column.

Dauss ranking fourth in number of earned runs allowed, is fifteenth in the list of pitchers judged on their ability to win. Rommel is sixth in one list and fourteenth in the other. Walter Johnson is third in each list.

Fred Marberry again heads the relief pitchers of the league. Marberry appeared in 55 games but pitched only 93 innings all year, an average of less than two innings in any game he is credited with participating in. He never pitched a full game.

Jesse Doyle, of Detroit, ranked second as relief pitcher. Doyle appeared in 10 games less than Marberry but pitched 118 innings, an average of more than two innings per game. Marberry got credit for winning 8 and is charged with 6 defeats. Doyle won 4 and lost 7.

Pennock's record holds one or two surprises. He pitched in more innings than any other pitcher in the league. He worked 292 innings. Coveleskie worked in 241 and Johnson pitched 229. Also, 1,050 batters faced Pennock this year, rather 1,050 men were at bat against him. Only one other pitcher had as many as 1,000 or more at bat against him and that was Rommel of Philadelphia with 1,015.

Only two men pitched more complete games than Pennock. He pitched 21 while Howard Ehmke of Boston, and Sherrod Smith of Cleveland, pitched 22 each.

The records reveal certain oddities. Although Coveleskie pitched only 15 complete games and Johnson worked 16 complete games, each of them won 20 and while Coveleskie lost 5, Johnson lost 7.

Rommel, of Philadelphia, won 21 games and lost 10 but pitched only 14 complete games.

Lyons of Chicago, pitched 19 complete games and Wingfield of Boston went through 18.

Ruffing of Boston, won 9 games and lost 18. He is away down in the list, figuring him by either system. But Lyons and Ruffing are regarded as the best two pitchers coming up.

LADIES' SOFTBALL OFFICERS

Miss Mabel Ray, of Toronto, who was elected secretary, and Miss Edith Anderson, of Ottawa, who was elected president of the newly-organized Ontario Ladies' Softball Association. Both ladies have been prominently identified with the game for many years.

The statistics furnish surprising information in regard to the Philadelphia Athletics. The pitching staff of Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy was regarded last season as the best in the major league, but the pitchers of Mr. McGillicuddy led the league in being derricked. The records show that Robert Moses Groves, the spectacular left-handed recruit who "has more stuff than any pitcher breaking into the league in the last 10 years," was removed 28 times during the season and that sets the record for the year. Baumgartner, another one of Mr. McGillicuddy's hurlers, was taken out of 25 games. Harriss, Walberg and Quinn, three members of the McGillicuddy staff, each was lifted in 23 games, while Rommel was taken out of 18 and Gray out of 13.

While the McGillicuddy corps looked like the strongest in the majors on paper, it did not prove such hot stuff in action. The McGillicuddy pitchers were some distance from being air-tight.

Groves, the McGillicuddy lefthander, scored the largest number of strikeouts recorded in the league. Walter Johnson has for years been the strikeout king of his organization, but this year he ran second to the recruit Groves. Johnson struck out 108, but Groves struck out 116. The record is really better than the totals indicate, for Groves struck out 116 in 197 innings of piching, while Johnson struck out 108 in 229 innings, pitching 32 more than Groves.

While he led the league in strikeouts, Groves also led in bases on balls. Groves generally awalks the batter or sets him down on strikes. He walked 131 and made nine wild pitches.

In passing batters Groves has a lead of 25 over the next wildest man. This happened to be Dixie Davis, of St. Louis. Davis walked 106. Then followed Walter Ruether, of Washington with 105; Sam Jones, of New York, with 104, and Gaston of St. Louis, with 101. These five, Groves, Davis Ruether, Jones and Gaston, were the only pitchers who passed 100 or more batters.

Johnson and Groves were the only two pitchers in the league to score 100 or more strikeouts.

Sherrod Smith, of Cleveland, allowed more earned runs than any of his rivals. His total was 128. Sam Jones was right behind him with 127 and Earl Whitehill, of the Tigers, came third for 124.

Other pitchers that allowed 100 or more earned runs were:

Ruffing 121; Thurston, 120; Bush, 118; Gaston, 117; Wingfield, 112; Hoyt, 108; Ehmke, 103; Rommel, 107; Karr, 105; Groves, 104; Zahniser, 101; Vangilder, 101; Faber, 100.

Here are the earned run totals of the first five pitchers, figuring the pitchers on the number of earned runs per game allowed.

Herb Pennock, 91; Stanley Coveleskie, 76; Walter Johnson, 78; George Dauss, 80; Blankenship, 78.

The leading shutout pitcher of the year was Lyons of Chicago. He won five games by shut out scores, Giard of St. Louis, and Gray, of Philadelphia, each won four. Ruffing of Boston; Coveleskie, of Washington, and Blankenship, of Chicago, each won three.

Here is a list of pitchers that failed to hurl a single shutout game last season:

Miller, Marberry, Ehmke, Mogridge, Walberg, Gregg, Stoner, Gyengros, Speece, Danforth, Gaston, Leonard, Holloway, Collins, Davis, Connally, Winegard, Ferguson, Quinn, Groves, Fuhr, Ross, Wells, Cole, Dovie, Russell.

Only two pitchers pitched one-hit games. They were Lyons, of Chicago, and Joe Bush, of St. Louis. Walter Johnson was the only pitcher who had two-hit games. He pitched two of them.

SPORT NOTES

(Ottawa Journal)

Montreal fans are all enthused over the work of "Dutch" Seibert and Nels Stewart. A pretty tidy pair at that as their first performance showed.

It appears that the much discussed "player talking" rule was not passed at the annual conclave of the N.H.L. so that Nighbor wasn't penalized for talking back to Marsh. Nobody thinks any less of the centre ice stoic for getting the long distance mark. It's a sign of aggressiveness and it also means the "hands off" signal to some of those who like to chip at Frank because he is supposed to be a mild mannered individual who won't come back. That "up and at 'em" type of hockey will soon show would-be tormentors that they are on the wrong side of the ice.

St. Pats don't know what hit them so far. That expensive line of Day and Dye has been bottled up twice in succession. It looks as though Querrie will have to go scouting again.

It looks as though George Vezina the old veteran, is near the finish of his career. "French" Lacroix the new Canadian netminder, played a remarkable game in Boston.

Carson Cooper is most deceptive shot in hockey. Cooper hurls his broadsides with a flip shot like old Harry Smith when the latter was in his prime with the Silver Seven. This as known in the hockey parlance of those days as the "shovel shot."

Billy O'Hara did well in his first engagement at Montreal. President Calder patted him on the back after the game. Ottawa nominated Billy Smith, Charlie McKinley and Leth Graham in addition to O'Hara and all will likey get a tryout.

"Hamilton Specator" — Bobby Hewitson, who has been looked upon as one of the best referees in the O.H.A. for a number of seasons, makes his debut in professional company at Ottawa this evening, when he will help Mike Rodden handle the game between the Senators and Boston. At Montreal another man who has made good as referee in amateur games will get N.H.L. experience for the first time, when he will assist Cooper Smeaton in handling the game between Canadiens and Montreal Maroons. He is Donald Smith, brother of Guy Smith, of this city. Donald, by the way, played lacrosse here back in 1908, and since that time has refereed a hockey game here. Both Hewitson and Smith haev had plenty of experience and should make valuable additions to Calder's staff of officials.

Ottawa Citizen: In connection with Ottawas' sensational victory over Queen's, there's a huge joke on somebody. It has leaked out that all the tickets for the Dominion rugby final had been printed "Queen's v. Tammany Tigers," and they were to play in Toronto. Boy, oh boy, how somebody blundered, but it was just another case of "counting chickens—" Seems rather peculiar now after it's all over that the rugby moguls didn't consider Ottawas at all.

OTTAWA WON IN LISTLESS GAME

Defeated Boston Bruins 2-0 Last Night in Slow Contest.

FAST AT FINISH.

OTTAWA, December 4. — Canadian Press. — In a slow and somewhat listless game of hockey played here last night, the Ottawa Senators defeated Boston Bruins in a scheduled N.H.L. fixture by 2 to 0. The Senators scored in each of the first two periods, and the final session went scoreless. From the spectators' viewpoint the contest was not exceptionally interesting until the last period when both teams got out at a faster pace and served up the best hockey of the evening.

INSIDE Ggolf.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

There are times when an intentional hooked iron shot to the green is a great adavntage. Some players make it a rule to send up eevry approach with a slight hook or a fade-away on the end of it. Observation of approaches shows that far more of them are short than long. This results perhaps from the player's caution not to be over the green and in trouble. So many golfers prefer to impart a roll to the ball after it hits the green, and generally this is a good practice when not necessary to make the ball stop dead. Also you hit a green occasionally with slope. The best way to get to the pin in such circumstances is to hit the near corner of the green above the pin and roll down—a hook if the pin is to the left, a fade-away if it is to the right. The slightest roll of the forearms, over or under, as the ball is hit will yield this effect near the end of the ball's flight.

MAROONS BEAT CANADIENS 3-2

Accomplished Feat They Were Unable To Do Last Year.

RUGGED BATTLE.

MONTREAL, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Montreal accomplished a task they were unable to negotiate last season. In their first meeting of the year with Canadiens here last night, the Maroons emerged victors by a score of 3 to 2. It was a rugged battle with penalties galore, a free melee between Joliat and Dune Munro, some fast and some ragged hockey. Play was evenly divided though the speedy Canadiens found the Montreal defence hard to pass. While not as speedy, the Montreal players were more effective, Nelson Stewart starring. The new centre was the pivot of Montreal's play and on lone efforts of brilliant hockey scored two of the goals for Montreal.

PLENTY OF WORK FOR IMMIGRANTS

British M.P. Says Unemployed Is Not Problem in Australia.

LONDON, Dec. 2—(By Canadian Press—Lord Apsley, Conservative, M.P. for Southampton, who recently returned from Australia where, in the name of George Bott, his wartime groom, he worked on several farms after entering the country as a migrant, writes to The Daily Mail: "Unemployment, to a small extent, compared to England exists in Australian towns and the British migrant to Australia is confronted with this the moment he lands in the form of numbers of Australia and British unemployed and unemployables who hang about the docks and the migration bureaux of the larger towns. These lose no opportunity of telling newly landed migrants that they were fools to have left their own country—that there is just as much unemployment in Australia as in England. This, of course, is not the case. There is plenty of demand for labour up country, but there is a cretain amount of unemployment in the big towns."

AT THE ROYAL.

"PATHS TO PARADISE."

Paramount Production, Now at the Royal, Offers Something Decidedly Different in Fast-Moving Comedy.

"Paths to Paradise," a new Paramount Picture which opened at the Royal Theatre last night, is fast farce comedy at its best. The film features Betty Compson and Raymond Griffith and was directed by Clarence Badger.

The story concerns itself with Griffith, a four-flusher de luxe and Betty, a clever girl crook. The two decide to team up. Griffith disguised as a detective, and Betty as a maid, attend a fashionable wedding. They steal the family jewels but re discovered and chased. Their trip to Mexico is just about the fastest, funniest jaunt that has ever been seen on the screen. Police attempt to stop them at different points along the road. Each time they manage to escape by the skin of their teeth. or by the tails of their coats, as you will.

Reaching the border line after a series of delicious adventures they find their united consciences advise them to return the gems. Whereupon, with at least two hundred police hot on their trail, they retrace their steps. Arriving just in time to deliver the loot to its rightful owner, they are surprised by a nice cheque for what they believe is their "honesty and bravery." With this they start on "Paths to Paradise."

If you want to see a picture that is different and which will provide enough laughs to last a month, don't miss "Paths to Paradise."

Tom Santschi, Fred Kelsey, Bert Woodruff and others appear in support.

AT THE CAPITOL

GLORIA SWANSON IN "STAGE STRUCK."

Anyone who has ever imagined that Gloria Swanson's charm for her audiences has been only that of an animated mannequin who has a flair for displaying startling gowns in a startling way or that her vogue has been due to her "vamping" abilities alone, should see her in "Stage Struck." This picture proves conclusively that she has a claim to being considered one of the most notable of the screen's stars, for in it she departs absolutely from previous roles and essays an entirely different characterization. And she does it extremely well. There is just a hint of imitation of Lillian Gish and perhaps a touch of the Mabel Norman ways, in that ill-fated actress' palmy days, but she shows signs of attaining a distinctly different presentation of comedy roles. As the blundering Jenny Hagen, stage struck and lovelorn, she is just about as different from the Gloria Swanson type that people have come to look for as could possibly be imagined.

The first portion of the picture is really quite extraordinary. It is a gorgeous affair with a very artificial atmosphere, in which Gloria displays some wonderful gowns, including a splendiferous creation in red velvet with a peacock feather train and a wide, glittering headdress. This section is colored with beautiful effect. An entire production done in this way would be original and decidedly fascinating, and one wonders why someone doesn't attempt it when one watches the effects achieved with colors, and the way they seem to make the picture live and glow, in this portion of "Stage Struck." It is the outstanding charm of this introduction, possibly, that makes the latter section just a little bit flat. The note of contrast between the dream and the reality of the stage-struck girl is almost too well defined. But it is extraordinarily lovely.

Jenny gets many a laugh, in her role of the harassed waitress in a quick lunch restaurant. Watching her, it seems impossible that this is the glorious Gloria. and one cannot help but admire the versatility that takes such a part and makes a success of it, when wonderfully-gowned, splendiferous roles are done so well by the same lady. Perhaps it is the hankering after new fields to conquer that led to the essaying of such a contrasting type, but she does it very well indeed.

The effects used in getting the story over are somewhat unusual. Jenny worships Orme, her companion in the restaurant, and does his washing and mending gratis. At the same time, she is imbued with a desire to be a real actress. She accompanies her lagging escort when he takes his inamorata, an actress, for a walk. Up to this episode, the picture promises well. Later, it lags a bit, and the expectation of the audience that something unusual is about to happen never materializes. With just a trifle stronger touch, it would have been an outstanding picture. As it is, it is extremely entertaining, and the final episode is as funny as the rest of it, when Jennie, trying to suicide in a typically "Jenny" manner, because her sweetie has fallen in love with another girl, is found caught on a hook above the waterline, while an anxious multitude of people look for her in vain. The proposal in the water, with its peculiar language and the attitude of meek submissiveness employed by Jenny throughout, are bits in a production abounding in interest and decidedly new in treatment and atmosphere. It is really worth while seeing "Stage Struck" if for no other purpose than to watch Gloria Swanson in a clever new role. —Jeannette.

AT THE REGENT

WILD HORSE FILM FAIRLY BURSTING WITH EXCITEMENT.

Rex Crashes Through on All Fours in "Black Cyclone."

Few more exciting films have appeared recently than "Black Cyclone," the Hal Roach Pathe production that featured Rex, the wild horse, at the Regent Theatre yesterday, where it remains until Saturday. As refreshing and invigorating as the wind which swept the Nevada plains where it was photographed, it is a clean, vivid picture of the life of a horse—and if you think it lacks in drama you must see Rex making love to Lady, a coy thorough-bred; or see Rex's splutted fights with a mountain lion, a wolf pack and the Killer, a villain if there ever was one in horse flesh.

Rex is first seen as a fuzzy little colt, deprived of his mother; then as an inquisitive half-grown horse that gets into troubles; then full grown and wild. We follow his selection of a mate, his fight with the villain for her, and his defeat. Here the human hero enters and saves Rex from death in quicksand, and Rex repays him by saving him from the attack of a lion and finally allowing the hero to ride him to the rescue of the girl. With the defeat of the human villain, Rex gets renewed courage and conquers his villain, the Killer, in a wonderful teeth and hoof fight.

"Black Cyclone" is fairly bursting with good things—too many by far to mention, but we cannot be too emphatic in stating that it has been a long time since any picture has supplied the genuine enjoyment of "Black Cyclone."

"HAVOC" IS COMING HERE.

Play That Startled English and American Audiences to be Screened at Regent.

Quick action on the part of the management of the Regent Theatre resulted in satisfactory arrangements being made to show, for a return engagement in Peterboro, Wm. Fox's mighty drama "Havoc." This is a screen version of the sensationed stage play that startled England and thrilled New York for two solid ygars.

"Havoc" by special arrangement will be shown at the Regent Theatre starting Monday. It was shown in the large Toronto theatres at advanced admission prices.

Recognizing the fact that this is one of the largest screen achievements of the year, the management secured this production only by paying the highest figure for a photoplay since their opening.

AT THE GRAND

BRINGING UP FATHER IN GAY NEW YORK.

Unusual interest is being manifested in the next attraction at the Grand Opera House. The occasion will mark the first appearance of the latest of the "Bringing Up Father" series, entitled, "Bringing Up Father in Gay New York." This is the same offering that was enthusiastically received at the Lyric Theatre, New York, a leading Broadway playhouse. All the beloved characters created by George McManus will be seen, including of course the immortal Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and the rest of the mischievous "bunch" who have helped in making these world-famous comics an indisputed joy. The new play, with its unprecedented array of novelties, surprises, screams and other inimitable ingredients found exclusively in "Father" shows will be interpreted by an exceptional cast. The piece, which is the joint work of Nat LeRoy and Seymour Furth, is in two acts and six scenes. Twenty pretty chorus ladies, all becomingly and resplendently gowned, are one of the outstanding features. The offering will play an engagement of matinee and night, Saturday, December 5th.

THE DUMBELLS' NEW SHOW

In "Lucky 7", the Dumbells, latest show, which comes to the Grand Opera House for a one night return on Wednesday, December 9th, there will be found the most ambitious and successful revue this famous organization of soldier entertainers has ever produced during the seven years of its annual tours throughout the Dominion.

Not only is this revue brighter and more colorful than any that have preceded it, but in its variety, its novelty, its balance, and its well-sustained humor, it challenges comparison with any similar entertainment now before the public here.

The public is invited to note the fine symbolic significance of the tableau sketch, "Up the Hill"; the irresistible comedy of "Red" Newman in the skit behind the lines, entitled "Red Goes on Leave"; the uproarious burlesque of "Us Girls Must Have Our Fun"; and the weirdly grotesque humor of "High St. Africa", among the sketches.

Then there are feature songs of all sorts, from "Red" Newman's "Let's Start the War Again"—a rollicking successor to "Oh, It's a Lovely War"—to Ross Hamilton's beautifully staged numbers, "I'm Wonderful" and "Darling, I Love You"; Al Plunkett's delightful "Whiter Than Snow", his radio number "Hi, Hi, Ho", with its lilting chorus; and "As Long as She Loves Me".

The buresque nonsense of Pat Rafferty; Jock Holland's diverting songs; Stan Bennett's "Johnnie" trifles; Ben Allen and Morley Plunkett in comic dialogue; Glen Allen's wonderful dancing, and Jimmy Devon's speedy stepping, with Captain Plunkett's jazz band and its framed inset feature pictures, make up the balance of a show that has no dull moment and not a single weak spot.

LONDON LOCKED IN HEAVY FOG; GETTING WORSE

Several Collisions Were Caused on Land and Waters.

ONE MAN KILLED.

Two Steamers Collided in Channel—Races Had To Be Postponed.

LONDON, Dec. 4. (United Press)—London to-day was locked in a heavy fog which delayed traffic and caused several collisions ashore and on the water.

It had settled down at night suddenly leaving theatre-goers to grope their way, while motor cars, trams and 'buses crept slowly in long caravans through the thoroughfares.

To-day the fog was black and growing denser. Street lights flickered only dimly through it, while flares were used at cross roads to aid traffic.

Even with this aid, draymen led their horses, while some 'bus lines travelled under "convoy" with three men ahead, swinging lanterns as path-finders.

One man was killed in a collision. Races were postponed. Channel shipping was disorganized and the steamer Backworth from Antwerp for Santo Domingo collided with the Losovsky and was seriously damaged though she is trying to reach Dungeness.

The Losovsky was towed into Dover. Weather forecast gave hope for relief.

—Lord Dawson, of Penn, the King's physician, was unable, on account of the fog, to visit last night at Burwash Rudyard Kipling, who is suffering from pneumonia.

PAPER APPROVES OF SETTLEMENT

Irish News, However, Advises Northern Nationalists To Guard Rights.

SEEDS OF PEACE SOWN

BELFAST, Ireland, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—The Nationalist Irish News, in an editorial, advises the Northern Nationalists to begin "organizing yourselves for the preservation of the few rights remaining to you and for the recovery of rights lost."

Nevertheless, the paper approves the settlement of the boundary issue as ending futile internecine strife. It thinks the Free State Government did well financially by the agreement.

Basis for Sure Peace.

LONDON, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Immediately after signing the boundary agreement, the Free State delegation started back for Dublin. On their way they filed a telegram for publication in Dublin in which they said:

"We have sown the seeds of peace. We are bringing back an instrument solemnly executed by friendship. It provides a basis for sure and lasting peace. We confidently recommend it to the Irish people."

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—Ann Roedde, 21-year-old nurse, victim of a murderous assault by Benito Hasquale, a crazed Mexican, in hospital Wednesday evening, died this morning. MUCH DAMAGE BY TORNADO IN SOUTH

Two Negro Women Killed and Many People Hurt at Yazoo.

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press.) — Two negro women were killed and between 20 and 30 persons injured, when a tornado dipped into the city from the north-west early to-day, blowing down about fifty homes and causing property damage estimated at more than a quarter of a million dollars. At least fifty homes were demolished and a large number of others damaged, while telephone and telegraph communication was destroyed for several hours. The situation was aggravated by a deluge of rain that flooded the streets and hindered searching the wreckage.

TORNADO KILLS TWO.

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 4.—(Canadian Press.)— Two persons were killed, more than a score injured, and from fifty to one hundred families made homeless by a tornado at Yazoo City early to-day, according to a message received by State Headquarters of the Red Cross from Mrs. R. G. Thornton, representative at Yazoo City.

JOINT MEETING OF CANDIDATES IN BAGOT BROKE UP INTO JEERING CAMPS AT STREET INTERSECTION

Squabbled Over Question of Holding the Meeting Indoors or Out.

VOTE ON MONDAY.

Political Opinion Appeared Sharply Divided—Many Interruptions.

ST. HUGHES, Que., Dec. 5. — By Canadian Press. — Fighting in Bagot draws to a close. To-day the rival candidates hold their last meeting together. On Monday the electors go to the polls. In t'e two parishes of St. Simon and St. Hughes Hon. Andre Fautuex and G. D. Morin, Conservative and Liberal candidates respectively yesterday pressed their views from the same platform. In St. Hughes the crowd was evidently sharply divided in its political allegiances. Before speaking began at all preliminaries threatened an impasse. It was the old trouble of where the meeting should be held Liberals wanted to meet outside with the candidates speaking from a verandah on a particular corner. The Conservatives thinking the spot too near the local Liberal headquarters, wanted the meeting inside.

The crowd disputed and argued. Eventually, Mr. Fauteux announced a compromise. The meeting would be held outside but on another corner across the street. Speakers crossed the road but were followed by only part of the crowd. The result was division into two obvious camps — a stretch of street running between them—each side cheering or jeering as the opportunity arose. Interruptions were numerous. For a moment or two a dispute in the crowd threatened to develop but the incident passed off.

Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicior-General, was recalling the days of conscription, when, he said, even dogs were employed as well as police.

"That's an old story," shouted someone in the crowd. "It's worn out."

To Fight the Turks.

"An old story is it?" warmly returned Mr. Cannon; was it an old story 18 months ago, he went on, when the British Prime Minister wanted Canada to send troops and contribute money for a war on the Bosphorus, and what had Premier King said, the man whom Conservative speakers in Bagot were attempting to ridicule? Premier King—Mr. Cannon continued—had stood up before the British premier, and said that not a single soldier would leave Canada and not a sou would be spent. "That is the kind of a man Conservatives want to cast aside—that is the man you are attempting to ridicule."

When Mr. Cannon mentioned Mr. Meighen's name, the Conservative camp started to cheer.

"Are your memories so short that you want to applaud the name of the chief of the Conservative party?" demanded Mr. Cannon.

There were more Conservative cheers.

"You have a right to your own opinions," added Mr. Cannon, "but let me ask you if you want at the head of affairs in this country the man who gave you the administration we had from 1911 to 1921? Do you want to begin again the years you lived after the fall of Laurier?"

Profiteers Like Vultures.

Mr. Cannon described Mr. Meighen as having injured Canada more than any man who had crossed the political stage. Mr. Meighen, he said, was responsible for the burden of the Canadian National Railways. He was responsible for the wartime elections act, and, continued Mr. Cannon, while the young men of Canada were giving their lives on the battlefields of Europe, friends of Mr Meighen were fattening themselves on war profits like vultures feeding on the bodies of the dead.

Mr. Fauteux declared that Prem-King had handed the Quebec bloc over to the Progressives of the West. Mr. Fauteux vigorously denied that he had ever changed his ideas in regard to Imperialism. He declared that before he entered the last Meighen administration he had publicly announced that he was renouncing neither his principles nor his ideas.

Mr. Morin said the fact that Premier King had taken Messrs. Cannon, Boivin and Cardin into his cabinet, indicated his attitude towards French Canadians, and spoke warmly in support of the Prime Minister.

A Jibe at Cannon.

Supporting speakers both at St. Simon and St. Hughes sketched entertaining illustrations. A Conservative pictured Mr. Cannon as holding to power with one hand while with the other he held defeated Premier King by the hair to save him from drowning. "It's not wise to speak of the dead in the house of the hanged," retorted a Liberal. "Mr. Fauteux is not only a defeated candidate himself but all those speaking for him here are defeated candidates."

Sacred Animals Keep India In Dire Poverty

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(United Press.)—Eaten out of house and home by animals—that, figuratively, is India's predicament, according to Sam Higginbatham, President of the Altahabad Industrial Institution in India.

The animals, being sacred, cannot be exterminated and therein lies the hopelessness of the situation, unless the native religious belief can be overcome. He pleaded for extension of mission activities. India pays two billion dollars annually for surplus cattle which the people keep because of their sacredness and not because of its usefulness for food or laborfi he said.

RHINELANDER LOST HIS SUIT FOR ANNULMENT OF HIS MARRIAGE WITH ALICE JONES, A MULATTO

Jury Returned Verdict For Defendant When Court Opened.

KNEW HER COLOR.

Jury Says Woman Did Not Conceal Her Color Before Marriage.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., Dec. 5. —(Canadian Press.) — Leonard Kip Rhinelander, wealthy member of a New York family, lost his annulment suit against his mulatto wife, Alice Beatrice Jones, in a verdict returned to-day by the jury which heard the case.

The sealed verdict returned by the jury was opened shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and read by Justice Morschauser.

The jury answered "yes" to the first question: "At the time of the marriage of the parties was the defendant colored and of colored blood?"

This had bene conceded by the defense as fact.

Answers to the other questions follow:

"Did the defendant before marriage, by silence, conceal from the plaintitff that she was of colored blood?"

Answer—"No."

"Did the defendant before marriage represent to the plaintiff that she was not of colored blood?"

Answer—"No."

"Did the defendant practice said concealment or make said representation with intent thereby to induce the plaintiff to marry her?"

Answer—"No."

"Was the plaintiff by said concealment or by said representation, or by both, induced to marry the defendant?"

Answer—"No."

"If the plaintiff had known that the defendant was of colored blood would he have married her?"

Answer—"Yes."

The jury did not answer this question:

"Did the plaintiff cohabit with the defendant after he obtained full knowledge that the defendant was of colored blood?"

Mrs. Rhinelander and her family were in the room and took the verdict without any partitcular show of elation.

Leonard Kip Rhinelander was not in court.

Moses and Pharaoh Could Talk 'Long Distance' Now

JERUSALEM, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press) — Long distance telephone service between Egypt and Palestine is the latest modern device for the elimination of the long weary distance over which Moses and Aaron led the children of Israel back to the Promised Land. Beginning December 1, telephone conersations are now possible between the principal cities of the Holy Land—Jerusalem, Telaviv and Hafa — and Cairo, Alexanderia and Port Said in the land of the Pharoahs.

UTILITIES WILL REPAIR CIRCUITS

Council Will Issue Debentures For New Distribution System in West Ward.

WRIT RENEWED.

Messrs. E. E. Mason, Robert Hicks and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., waited on the Finance Committee of the City Council last night to ask that a by-law be prepared to permit of the issuing of debentures for the amount of $58,000 to pay for the new street lighting system in the East Ward and for supplementary construction in part of the West Ward. In the latter ward the present distribution system is very old and is in many cases inadequate for the load now imposed on it. The Utilities Commissioners assured the Aldermen that there was enough revenue to carry the debentures and it was decided that City Solicitor Wearing should be instructed to have the by-law prepared.

Alderman Crowe spoke strongly in favor of the city doing its part in raising the Beck Memorial Endowment Fund, although he said that he thought it should be handled by the province instead of the municipalities. It was decided that the committee, which asked for an appointment to meet the Council, should be informed that the time was not at present opportune, but that early in the New Year a meeting might be arranged.

The award of the arbitrators to decide the city's share of the cost of administering justice was announced, and for the next five years the city will pay annually $8,011.50 on this account. The amount fixed in 1920, when the apportionment was last arbitrated, was $7,371.40. The increase is accounted for by the fact that the city has gained in population since that time, while the county population has decreased, so that the city is now liable for a larger portion.

It was decided that the writ obtained five years ago against Miss Cohen in connection with some coal deals should be renewed. The writ was originally for $674.44, but some coal which was seized amounted to $339.43, which amount has been deducted.

The accounts were ordered paid if the chairman found them correctly certified.

A meeting of the Board of Works was held immediately after the finance meeting. A letter was read concerning a convention of road builders and others concerned with road building, to be held in Chicago in January. The letter was received, as was a petition against paving Stewart Street.

AIR RELATIONS TO BE RESUMED

Paris Paper Says French and German Experts Are Meeting.

CONTROL TO LEAGUE.

PARIS, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press). —The Matin this morning says that as a consequence of the Locarno pact, French and German air experts are now meeting in Paris and working out an arrangement for the resumption of air reactions, broken off in January last year, so that a regular air transport line may be started between Paris and Berlin.

The newspaper adds that it is probable the whole question of control over Germany's air services will be taken up at an early date by the Council of Ambassadors, and that the League of Nations will be asked to take over the task of seeing that the rules laid down in the Versailles Treaty are observed.

BELFAST, Ireland, Dec. 5 Canadian Press)—Lord Carson, leader of the Irish Unionist party, in a message from London to Belfast, calculates that the financial deal in the Irish Boundary Agreement among the representatives of Great Britain, the Free State and Ulster, amounts to a gift to the Free State of $1,455,000.

The terms of the Irish Boundary settlement, as given out in London, provide that the Free State shall be absolved from paying its allotted portion of Great Britain's war debt.

NO GRANTS FROM COUNTY TO HELP SALVATION ARMY OR TRENT WATERWAY WORK

Reeve Strickland Carries Fight Into Closing Minutes of Session.

Courtesies Exchanged.

County Clerk Lauds Councillors and They Express Confidence in Him.

At to-day's closing session of the County Council meeting several attempts were made to put through grants for the Salvation Army, Maternity Hospital and the Trent Waterway Development Association. Mr. J. C. Strickland, Reeve of Lakefield, maintained that the Council was turning down two good causes. A motion which he presented to the effect that the Salvation Army be granted $200.00 and the Trent Waterway Association failed to carry. A similar fate fell to his proposal of a single grant of $100.00 for the latter cause.

Lauds Councils.

At this point Ed. M. Elliott, County Clerk, paid a tribute to Peterborough County for the high standard maintained. Appointed in 1904, and this being his twenty-first year in office, Mr. Elliott declared that he had been well pleased with the successive Councils which he had seen come and go.

J. A. Middleton presented a resolution of appreciation and confidence in the County Clerk, which was seconded by Mr. Curtis, who was a member of the Council in 1904 at the time of Mr. Elliott's appointment. M. E. Smithson corroborated the sentiment.

F. J. Breckenridge gave a favorable report on the crop harvested on the House of Refuge farm.

The session was concluded by a brief address from Warden Rye, who thanked the councillors for their support, and expressed gratitude for the spirit of cameraderie which had prevailed throughout the sessions. He hoped that many would be back for the coming year.

Would Be Less Beer Used If Women Could Cook Better

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(United Press).—Beer is an excellent antidote for bad cooking, according to Sir William Milligan, medical expert, in a speech here. "If all the young women were taught, instead of botany, phychology and kindred subjects, how to cook a potato and how to roast a piece of beef, there would be less drunkenness," he declared.

"Many a workman drinks beer to minimize the effects of his wife's bad cooking."

He declared alcohol had come to stay and that, used moderately, it was beneficial.

FIGHT FOR LIFE HAS SHIFTED TO MINE HOSPITAL

Twenty-two Entombed Miners and Ten Rescuers Affected By Fumes.

TWO MEN DEAD.

One Miner and One Rescuer Died in Hospital From Their Ordeal.

Twenty-two miners entombed in the flaming subterranean passages of the Fairview mine, near this little mountain town for nearly 18 hours, emerged to-day from their underground tomb—alive.

Half of them, big stalwart fellows, staggered almost unaided from the smoking tunnel, while others were carried out unconscious. And the fight shifted this morning from the tortuous, fire-swept earthen chambers to the little frame house, where a temporary hospital had been thrown up to receive the 22, together with ten volunteer rescue workers who collapsed from the fumes that rolled through the mine. There death came to claim two—Robert Stevenson, a miner, and Charles Herquist, a rescue worker. Most of the men will recover, but a few were reported in critical conditiom.

NEDERLAND, Colo., Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press).—More than one hundred men last night fought feverishly to gain entrance to the Fairview Mining Company's silver, gold and lead mine near here, where early Friday twenty miners were entombed. A fire caused the mine portal to cave in, and destroying the buildings about the tunnel mouth.

The rescue workers were engaged in a double task—that of sinking a 20-foot shaft into the top of the mine tunnel and that of clearing away more than eighty feet of debris that blocked the passageway when the fire burned the timber supports.

The cave-in of the mine portal followed a fire in the compressor room from where fresh air is driven into the mine, spread to the buildings about the mouth and attacked the timbering.

Home-made Holiday Hootch In Haliburton Is Wasted

LINDSAY, Dec. 5.—License Inspector Porter, of Lindsay, has come out of the northland and reports a good week's business in rounding up manufacturers of moonshine. He seized a still at Essonville, Haliburton County, while in working order and obtained a quantity of liquor. About twenty gallons of mash had been upset before his arrival.

He next proceeded to Highland Grove, where he took possession of some thirty-six quarts of liquor. The authorities claim that the stills in the north have been working overtime in anticipation of a brisk demand for corn juice during the Christmas season.

BUSY SEASON AT LUMBER MILL ENDS THIS WEEK

Peterboro Lumber Company Looks for Big Cut Next Year.

MEN IN WOODS

Old Lumbering Concern Operated Mill Here After Some Years at Buckhorn.

The saw mills of the Peterboro' Lumber Company Limited which are situated on Burnham's Point, East City closed down a few days ago after a busy and successful season. The Directors report that the building trade in Peterborough as well as the wholesale trade in the surrounding district was in a flourishing condition and had quite come up to their expectations. The Company at present has a large number of men in the woods, and it is anticipated that the cut of logs will be as great, if not greater than during the past season.

This Company, for a number of years, had its sawing done at a small mill at Buckhorn, but decided this year to open the large mill in East City, much to the satisfaction of the citizens of Peterborough as the carrying on of lumbering operations necessitates the employment of a considerable number of men in the drawing, sawing and handling of their product.

The Company is the oldest lumbering concern in the district, being established by the late Samuel Dickson, grandfather of President Dickson Davidson the President, in the year 1841. The Company has been in active operation ever since.

The late J. Frank Linton who was so well and favorably known to the citizens of Peterborough held the office of Secretary Treasurer of the Company for eighteen years prior to his death last year.

The present officers of the Company are: Dickson Davidson, President; Miss C. Dickson, Vice President; Fred J. Overend, Secretary.

THE WEATHER.

This is December, but notwithstanding that fact we had some brilliant flashes of lighting and heavy thunder around the noon hour today, and the weather all day has proved to be just a little worse than what we have had so frequently each week-end for some time past. 'Dirty' may not be a very elegant expression but it fitly describes to-day's weather. To the westward it is considerably colder with snow flurries. Still farther west (in Manitoba and Saskatchewan) it is decidedly cold, while in Alberta it is mild and fine. To the northward a cold wave of decidedly cold weather, is passing over Hudson Bay on its way eastward.—W. P.

FRENCH INFLATION AND HIGHER TAX BILL APPROVED BY SENATE

Opposition Collapsed and Turned to Endorsement of a Measure Essential to Government — Debate Without Feature.

NEW TAXATION OF 20 TO 100 PER CENT.

PARIS, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press) — The Senate late last night adopted the government's measure calling for financial inflation and increased taxation, 205 votes to 26. As the Senate made no modifications in the bill as adopted by the Chamber of Deputies Thursday, it now becomes law.

The fourth clause of the measure providing for inflation of the currency to the amount of 7,500,000,000 francs was passed by a vote of 196 to 59. The voting came after a featureless debate.

Soon after the Senate assembled Friday afternoon to take up the bill, Senator Berenger, general secretary of the finance committee, advocated that it be voted as adopted by the Chamber of Deputies. Two leaders of the opposition, former Premier Francois-Marsal and M. Cheron, former Minister of Agriculture, then fell in line, and in speeches made it known that they were in agreement that the measure was necessary to save France.

At first when it began discussion of the bill Thurday night, the Senate finance committee appeared disposed to suggest modifications and amendments but these were withdrawn after Premier Briand had appeared personally before the committee with the ultimatum that the measure be passed as drawn up by finance minister Loucheur or "no government was possible."

The bill calls for new taxation of from 20 to 100 per cent.

DUKE IS ROBBED CATCHING THIEF

Manchester Had Pockets Picked While Holding Robber For Police.

LOST HIS MONEY.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—The Duke of Manchester, who recently filed a suit for divorce against his wife, formerly Miss Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, had a leading part in a lively street drama last night. He was walking in Jermyn Street, West End, when he heard the crash of glass and saw a man running, gripping a handful of glittering trinkets. He gave chase and others joined. The Duke headed off the runner and grabbed him. A struggle followed, but the Duke held him tight until the police arrived.

After the man had been handed over to the police, the Duke discovered that somebody in the crowd had picked his pocket of several bank notes during the tussle.

The arrested man will be charged with smashing a jeweler's window and stealing a handful of jewels, all of which were recovered except one ring.

POLICE SEARCH FOR STRANGLER

Suspect Negro Who Accosted Young Women Last Night.

IN PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press). — Police today were searching for a burly negro who last night caused consternation in the neighborhood where three women were strangled to death in the last two months, by attacking two girls and shooting two of his would-be captors, one probably fatally. Police believe the negro might be the "Strangler" and residents of the neighborhood are convinced he is. He escaped after shooting George Gordon, 19 years old, through the head, and wounding Jack Meninkoff, a druggist, in the wrist. Gordon and Meninkoff, with several other young men, had responded to cries for aid from the girls, who had been accosted by the negro on the street.

Under The Study Lamp

RALPH CONNOR'S NEW BOOK.

A very large reading public will welcome the announcement of a new book by Ralph Connor, for ever since the days of "The Sky Pilot" he has been a favorite author with thousands, particularly in his native Canada. His new book is a most interesting one, with plenty of action and thrill, an appealing love story and a touch of seriousness throughout that will give the careful reader pause to think. In spite of its Biblical title, however, it is not in any sense an "uplift" book. Nor is it a war story, though its action covers that period.

The really surprising part about this author is how much he packs into a story, and this latest work is no exception. It presents a group of very real characters, and a fund of rapidly moving events that hold the attention from beginning to end.

The story opens in a little Nova Scotia fishing village, and much of the action takes place there. The quaint folk of that vicinity are the principal characters. Tony Mackinroy, the handsome cultured son of a marvellous father who has been fisherman, sailor and naval officer in his day, is the central figure. To this quiet village comes a party of American tourists, young ladies and gentlemen, and during their stay their yacht is wrecked and of course Tony goes to the rescue. He falls in love with Diana, one of the girls of the party and she with him, but it is not till the outbreak of war makes separation imminent that either of them speaks.

Tony does special service during the war, in charge of his own gunboat. The war section of the book is comparatively short, though its influence is felt through the whole story, but the surprising twist that is given to the whole chain of events, and the final outcome is too good to expose here. A big powerful theme has been handled in a most sincere and convincing way.

Without hesitation or reservation we recommend "Treading the Winepress." It can be classed with the very best work that Ralph Connor has ever done. A story of this kind will appeal to almost any type of reader. The book will make an excellent Christmas present for many.

GREAT MYSTERIES

Solved By Sheerluck Bones

(The Peterborough Detective.)

THE CASE WITHOUT CLUES; or HOT DOG

The stoop-shouldered little man in black sank dejectedly into a chair.

"That's right, friend shoemaker, have a chair," said Sheerluck Bones, the great Peterborough private detective, warmly.

His visitor started.

"How do you know I am a shoemaker?" he asked.

"Ha, quite easy," sniggered the great detective. "I knew it at once by the patched condition of your shoes and your knock knees. Then, too, you have your mouth full of tacks. Take them out, please, I can hear you better." And Sheerluck took a half a pep-o-mint to brace his mind against the problem he saw was about to be given into his hands for solution.

The shoemaker, for such he was, stared in astonishment.

"It's about my little dog," he faltered. "He disappeared. It's the funniest thing! He was in the room back of my shop with my little boy one minute; the next the boy came out alone. The dog wasn't there, and he didn't come out, for I should have seen him. The window was locked—there's only one window in the room—and I was sitting by the only door. Inspector Reid told me you are the only man on earth can solve a big mystery like that."

The great detective blushed with modest pleasure.

"What was the boy doing in the room; do you remember?" he asked, with tips of his long tapering fingers together.

"Well, he knew the dog was troubled with fleas, and somebody told him the only sure cure was to rub a bucket of kerosene well into the dog's skin and then apply a match and wait results. He went into the room with the kerosene and the matches."

The great detective, who in spite of his inexorable logic and long acquaintance with tragedy, was as tender-hearted as a chicken, shook his head.

"It's too bad, but I'm afraid I can't help you," he said as he nibbled the rest of the pep-o-mint. "There seems to be no clue."

A bag containing an onion and sweet herbs put into the water with the boiling fish will add much more flavor to the fish.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, DECEMBER 6 AND 7.

Sunday's astrological forecast favors all manner of domestic, social and romantic activities and encourages all literary pursuits, but it warns against false friends and urges extra attention to the health.

Those whose birthday it is may have an active and successful year socially, but may be deceived by false friends. The health should be protected. A child born on this day should be versatile and active, but may be subject to deception.

Monday's horoscope is a very unimportant one, urging attention to the general trend of affairs in routine lines. However, speculation should be avoided, but new enterprises may be taken into consideration.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly routine year, although new projects and propositions may be taken into consideration, providing they are not speculative in character. A child born on this day may have a fairly fertile mind, given to contemplation of fine schemes or ventures out of the ordinary, but the probability is that it may have a colorless career.

What Is Going On?

By Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, M.A., B.D. Knox United Church, Peterborough

IN A RECENT magazine article on "The Dilemma of The Negro" the writer speaks of "the red flame of their bitter hurt" and "the mounting bill of deviltry which the dark world holds against the white." He then adds: "Why are the pacifists silent in these vast preliminaries of battle? Have they forgotten the fields of France, strewn with dead youth? . . . What are they doing about it today and here?" And his answer is: "Nothing, nothing. The — fools do not even know what's going on!" These are the recent words of a brilliant negro scholar and journalist, W. E. Burghardt du Bois, author of "Darkwater." At a Christian conference in Glasgow several years ago I heard Rev. Frank Lenwood, of the London Missionary Society say in reference to this man and his book that on many of its pages he would be proud to call the man who writes it master. I judge therefore that his words above quoted, however strong they may seem, are not as be lightly dismissed. I thus dare to quote them, and ask, how much do we know of what's going on in our world? A great editor said when the Great War was on, "All I ask of God is that I may live four years after the close of this war, in order that I may see what a wonderful world we possess." He is gone, but we are here seven years after Armistice. What about this wonderful world we possess? This paper will present a picture gained by the writer as he has listened to prominent leaders speaking with authority upon present world problems.

ROBERT E. SPEER, pleading that we face our real world, says it is a world sick and hungry, sad and weary, war-torn, divided, filled with suspicion and distracted, and yet a wonderfully patient and enduring world, at heart kindly and friendly, wondering why we cannot find a way out of chaos. JOHN R. MOTT says he was never so alarmed about the world as he is today. "I am not an alarmist, nor am I a pessimist, but I would be a deceiver if I gave any other impression." The next twenty years are to prove the most critical in the history of our civilization. To understand why this crisis, we must note two processes in recent history.

A Shrinking World.

As General Smuts pointed out, "The cardinal fact of geography in the twentieth century is the shortening of distances and the shrinking of the globe. The result is that problems which a century or even fifty years ago were exclusively European now concern the whole world." This change is at once grasped if we read in the "Quarterly Review" of a hundred years ago the "palpably absurd and ridiculous" prospect held out of locomotives travelling twice as fast as stage coaches! As long ago as 1904, locomotives exceeded the speed of one hundred miles an hour without accident. In 1925, man has flown over three hundred miles in an hour. A leading newspaper says we shall live to see man fly around the world by daylight, and Kipling fortells the day when even at the equator we shall hold the sun level in his full stride. All this means that the world is shrinking and becoming much smaller so that all its peoples are close neighbours who must learn to live together as one community.

The World is One.

Our small world is one world. The Creator is even now forcing our peoples together that they may realize their unity. How much one we are came home forcibly in a recent outbreak of the dreaded Bubonic plague from the Orient, in California. Or in industry, child labour legislation is defeated in America, not because Americans are'nt interested in child life, but because American factories are competing with factories in China where children five years old work from five in the morning until seven in the evening, at a wage of ten cents a day. The proprietor of a silk mill in Wilkesbarre, Pa., recently refused higher wages to his employees because of competition with the silk mills of Tokyo. American and Canadian girls bob their hair and the result for one town alone in China, Chefoo, is that where two years ago 18,000 women and girls were employed in the hair-net factories, 16,000 have been thrown out of employment. The world is just one closely interdependent community and the big problem is one of living together as members of one world family.

Speaking in Glasgow not long ago MISS MAUDE ROYDEN emphasized the implication of this truth.—"We have the scientific knowledge that the unityl of man is not a mere phrase but a fundamental fact. We have the bitter experience of the war to teach us that we cannot violate that fundamental law without chaos, destruction, and death. But what we lack yet is the spirit—the faith in human nature, the belief that it is possible for nations to be Christian."

C. H. PATTON, writing on "The New World Era" says: "The world is one. The fact of it will not budge, whether the nations recognize it or not—Racial unity is a basal fact of Creation." God hath made of one all nations of men for to dewll on all the face of the earth" (Acts 17:26). "From the place of his habitation he looketh upon all the inhabitants of the earth. He fashioneth their hearts alike" (Psalm 33:13,14). To this underlying unity of creation is now added the unity of socialization. Steam and electricity have so bound us together in a system of economic and social interdependence that there is no escape. The world has reached a stage where unification will proceed on its course whatever horizonless politicians do to impede its progress.

PROFESSOR PERCY DEARMER, of King's College, London, has said: "The world is now one in fact. Untold miseries and cataclysms worse far than that from which we are emerging, lie in store for us, unless the world becomes also one in heart. The hope of the world lies, in sober truth, with those who preach peace to them that are afar off as well as to those that are nigh."

White Domination.

In addition to the shrinking of the world, another process has been going on which vitally affects the relations of peoples. I refer to the amazing expansion of the white man's influence. Basil Mathews, in "The Clash of Colour" presents a moving-picture view of the last four centuries of history. At the beginning of the 16th century, the white man was besieged in the relatively small territory known as Western and Central Europe, with the British Islands lying off-shore. Consequent upon the earlier voyages of Columbus and Vasco da Gama, the oceans became "a pathway to the ends of the earth," and the white man set out to farm the world. He steadily subjugated the red, black and brown races and proceeded to encroach upon the rights of the yellow race. In four astounding centuries he discovered, opened up and took under his control all the continents of the world, with the exception of the Far East and parts of South America. Today the whites have ten times as much territory as they had in 1500 A.D. Nearly nine-tenths of the whole habitable area of the world is now under white control, mostly under the hand of English speaking peoples. Of every seven people in the British Empire six are coloured.

White and Yellow Perils

After four centuries of white expansion, subjugation and exploitation two tremendous events happened in recent world history. Taking her cue from Germany, Britain and America, Japan, a yellow people, adopted Western ways of war and commerce and in her defeat of Russia, a white people, put an end to the white man's aggression. Ten years later came the Great War, a stupendous white civil war, and in our modern small world the white man's former influence crashed in moral ruin. Resulting from these events came cries of yellow and white perils. The whites talked of Yellow Peril and now in the East, the yellows and in Africa the blacks are talking of the White Peril, and certainly not without good reason.

A leading newspaper in the Orient, touching on the domination of the world by Anglo-Saxons, bitterly referred to "the sweet juice of the world being sucked by the white race." A scientist, writing on the great powers of the yellow race, goes on to say: "With this race (the yellow race), so richly endowed, the dominant white race must engage in the greatest conflict in all history." RABINDRANATH TAGORE, the great Hindu poet and philosopher, not long ago toured in China, Japan and lecturing on "The Arrogancies of the White Races," and sounding the call for a compact of the yellow, brown and black races against the white. And a prominent authority, who, for good reasons, must be nameles , informs us that during the recent trip of the American navy in the Pacific, the Japanese navy was held ready for instant action. While the white man fears the Yellow Peril, the yellow man fears the White Peril!

This upheaval of race suspicion and hatred is also rampant among the black peoples, as indicated in the following extracts.—

MARCUS GARVEY, speaking to an audience of 20,000 negroes, said: "The bloodiest of all wars is yet to come, when Europe will match its strength against Asia, and that will be the negroes' opportunity to draw the sword for Africa's redemption." Here is a gragment of a litany written by a man of colour after a lynching of several negroes:— "Bewildered we are and passion tossed, mad with the madness of a mobbed and mocked and murdered people . . . we raise our shackled hands and charge Thee . . . keep not Thou silent, O God! Sit no longer blind, Lord God, deaf to our prayer, and dumb to our dumb suffering. Surely Thou, too, art not white, O Lord. . . ."

"Do you remember at the end of Browning's 'Instans Tyrannus' how the tyrant speaks:—

"Do you see? just the vengeance complete.
The man sprang to his feet,
Stood erect, caught at God's skirts and prayed!
So, I was afraid."

So, when I think of those words, "Surely Thou, too, art not white, O Lord," I am afraid for Europe and my people, for I seem to see the hands of black men everywhere lifted up to God, and I know that for every sin against them judgment is sure—e-."

BURGHARDT DU BOIS (speaking after the war) thus sums up his vision of the fight of the "subject races": "Wild, and awful as this shameful war was, it is nothing to compare with that fight for freedom which black and brown and yellow men must and will make unless their oppression and humiliation and insult at the hands of the white world cease. The dark world is going to submit to its present treatment just as long as it must and not one moment longer."

The Hope.

What is the way out, wherein lies hope for this saddened and distracted world? In the language of VISCOUNT GREY at Glasgow, the situation is really "an ultimatum to Christian civilization to prevent war in the future. If they cannot prevent war their civilization will perish." The hope of the world lies in one direction only, the practical Lordship of Jesus Christ over all races. A prominent Jewish scholar and ambassador, Mr. Morgenthau, says: "Jesus has exercised more influence on human history than any other personality. We shall never get out of war except following His teachings." A leading thinker in India says to one of our missionaries, "There is nobody else who is seriously bidding for the heart of the world except Jesus Christ. There is nobody else on the field."

The late PRESIDENT WILSON, in "The Road Away From Revolution," said: "Our civilization . . . can be saved only by becoming permeated with the spirit of Christ and being made free and happy by the practices which spring out of that spirit."

The late VISCOUNT JAMES BRYCE said: "The one sure hope of a permanent foundation for world peace lies in the extension throughout the world of the principles of the Christian Gospel." Lord Cecil is more specific: "In the application of the principle of Christianity lies the only solution of the problem."

ROBERT E. SPEER: "Christ alone carries love across the gulf of race and nation and seeks to make mankind genuinely one."

Frank Lenwood: "Christ is never so clearly set forth as Lord, never so truly glorified as when the great gulfs are bridged, and two men of far-off lands and different history are friends in Him."

Babson: "Civilization is ultimately dependent on the ability of men to co-operate. The best barometer of civilization is the desire and ability of men to co-operate. The willingness to share with others, the desire to work with others is the great contribution which Christianity has given to the world."

ROBERT E. SPEER: "The tragic need of the world is for an incarnation of a universal brotherly love. The thing never will be made a reality except by incarnation, by such actual functioning of the Christian church across the world as will utter visibly and tangibly to men the spirit of a universal trust and love. . . . We have listened entirely too long to nonsense regarding chasms run across humanity that can never be bridged. . . . We have got to believe that nations can love one another even across the Pacific Ocean, and the Christian church must set herself to lead in that affection and we must not content ourselves with projecting the duty into the distant future or looking at the platform that lifts it beyond the level of our immediate and practical duty."

The great need of our world is an ever-living sense of our fundamental unity, and the only hope for such is in Jesus Christ. At the Washington convention this year JOHN R. MOTT, chairman of the International Missionary Council, said: "In my recent visits to different parts of the Moslem world, I was solemnized and humbled to find that the principal argument the Mohammedans were using against us is that of our divisions. We must do away with this stumbling-block. To this God is unquestionably calling us." At the same convention BISHOP CHARLES H. BRENT, of the Anglican church, said: "I see but two things to live for: one of them is the unity of the Church of God; the other is the good-will among the nations that will forever banish war. More than ever the mission field demands that there should be unity of the church in the homeland."

A New Earth.

"God grant us wisdom in these coming days,
And eyes unsealed, that we clear visions see
Of that new world that He would have us build,
To life's ennoblement and His high ministry.

"Not since Christ died upon His lonely cross
Has Time such prospect held of Life's new birth;
Not since the world of chaos first was born
Has man so clearly visaged hope of a new earth.

"Not of our own might can we hope to rise
Above the ruts and failures of the past
But, with His help who did the first earth build,
With hearts courageous we may fairer build this last."

—John Oxenham.

POWERS AGREE TO CO-OPERATE

Britain and France To Work Together in Near East Mandates.

TROUBLES WORSE.

LONDON, Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press).—The Westminster Gazette, which is making a daily feature of the alleged grave danger of an Anglo-Turkish war, says the situation has been accentuated by an agreement which it learns Great Britain and France concluded for co-operation in the mandate territories of the Near East, including presumably the event of an attack by Turks, the idea being that Great Britain and France would act in behalf of the League of Nations.

HERE AND THERE

Thoughts for Sunday by Rev. J. W. Gordon, M.A., B.D., St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough

Robert Louis Stevenson's "family Prayer" used by him at close of each day:

"Go with each of us to rest; if any wake, temper to them the dark hours of watching; and when the day returns to us, our Sun and Comforter, call us with morning faces and with morning hearts, eager to labor, eager to be happy, if happiness shall be our portion; and if the day be marked to sorrow, strong to endure it."

A beautiful and striking illustration of the real unity which lies behind our sectarianism was afforded by the memorial service held in St. Paul's Church last week in honor of Queen Alexandra. Called at the request of Mayor Turner, the meeting was in charge of the Ministerial Association and in as far as it was numerically possible all Protestant denominations shared in the platform leadership of the service. Some criticism has been heard of the fact that this meeting was held on Thursday instead of Friday evening. It was originally planned for Friday but it was found to be an unwise and impossible date. The crowded church—the quiet hush pervading the service and the simple, kindly, wise words of Mr. Langford, together with the sympathetic rendering of "Abide With Me" by the male voice choir and the Salvation Army band's splendid "Dead March," all spoke of love and hope and triumph and peace.

WELSH MUSIC.

As illustrative of the well-known musical aptitude of the Welsh people, let me quote the following impressions which the Right Reverend Monsignor Sexton, the Dean of Cork, has recently been communicating to his own countrymen:

The Irish Dean boldly claims the Welsh Eisteddfod, with its conclave of bards, as "the direct descendant of the old bardic sessions that were at one time held in Ireland." He laid special emphasis on the fact that Welsh is still a living language throughout the whole of Wales, and, as he truly observed, the people of Ireland might well profit by the example of their sister country in the preservation in her native tongue. Dean Sexton recalled a stirring incident at last year's gathering of the National Eisteddfod, when, after the Eisteddfod choir had rendered the "Hallelujah Chorus" in the most brilliant fashion and an audience of twenty thousand were clamouring for an encore, the conductor requested that vast throng to sing it themselves, whereupon, as the Dean recalled, the crowd of twenty thousand Welsh people instantly sprang to their feet and sang the chorus in the most wonderful harmony. It was, Dean Sexton assured his own countrymen, the most thrilling and inspiring incident which he had ever witnessed.

RADIO'S INFLUENCE.

A correspondent of the "Christian World" gives an illustration of the possibilities of the radio in reaching non church-goers and influencing them for good. The place was "the little house round the corner"—a small suburban public-house which serves local tradesmen and others as a kind of club. The occasion was the service broadcast from St. Martin's-in-the-Fields. When the chiming of the bells began the landlord, who is a wireless enthusiast, placed a loud speaker on the table in the saloon bar and "switched on" the transmission. As the service proceeded, glasses were set down, pipes went out, and the hymns, prayers and address were listened to in profound silence to the end. One of the little company, when he reached home, surprised his family by declaring that he had been to church. When they openly expressed their incredulity he entered into an explanation and said that he should start going again regularly to church. The incident shows how the broadcast services are appreciated even in what might have been regarded as unlikely quarters.

REALISTS ARE CRUDE.

A newspaper man was criticising the books of some recently popular "realists."

"'It isn't," he said, "the frankness of these men that I dislike. It's their crudeness, their amateurishness. Much of their work, in fact, is on a par with the schoolboy's essay on Cromwell that began: 'Oliver Cromwell had an iron will, an unsightly wart and a large red nose, but underneath was deep religious feeling.'"

A.Y.P.A. COUNCIL ANNUAL BANQUET

Successful Affair Held By District Organization at St. John's.

W. P. WOOD SPOKE.

The annual banquet of the Peterborough and District Council of the Anglican Young People's Association was held in St. John's Parish Hall last night, and about two hundred of the district branches sat down to a fine supper served by the St. John's branch. The meeting was opened by singing the Doxology and repeating the Lord's Prayer. Bert Hope, President of the Council, was chairman, and at the head table were officers of the Council and clergy of the various churches.

After all had been satisfied with good things, Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, Vicar of St. John's, welcomed the visitors in a short address. The toast to the King was then proposed by G. A. Ham, of St. John's.

The toast to the Church was proposed by Rev. T. J. O'Connor-Fenton, of Norwood, Rural Dean of Peterborough. This was replied to by Rev. Walter Cox, of Lakefield. The address of both reverend gentlemen were highly appreciated.

After a solo by Miss Ruby Quartermaine, who was forced to respond to an encore, the toast to the A.Y.P.A. was proposed by Robert Stone, of Millbrook, Immediate Past President of the Local Council. The visiting speaker, W. P. Wood, President of the Toronto District Council, responded to this toast in a speech which was of great interest and inspiration to the members present.

Mr. Wood's subject was citizenship, and he showed how true membership in the A.Y.P.A. was of the same character as true citizenship. He stressed the necessity for loyalty in both cases, and told how the fourfold aim of the A.Y.P.A., "worship, work, fellowship and edification" should be carried out.

A solo by Mr. Moore was next on the programme, and was much enjoyed and an encore demanded. Rev. J. Douglas Paterson, of All Saints' then proposed the toast to the Ladies. He said that there was so much to be said that he wouldn't try to tell all the goods points of the ladies, but would just call on the gentlemen present to rise and drink to the fair sex, which was done, after which the men sang, "For they are jolly good fellows," and gave three cheers and a tiger. Miss Clara Adams replied for the ladies and advised the men always to let the women have their own way.

After Dr. Blagrave had expressed the thanks of the gathering to Mr. Wood, the hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds," was sung and the benediction brought the annual banquet to a close.

NEW QUEEN'S BUILDING.

Students' Union Costing $100,000 Planned.

KINGSTON, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).— A decision has been reached to erect a students' union at Queen's University. Tentative plans provide for a building costing about $100,000. The building will be two stories in height with a basement. The plans allow for a large dining room and also include space for a small theatre that could also be pressed into service as an auditorium. The plans do not include rooms for the housing of students, but there will be special accommodation for transients. The union committee has between $35,000 and $40,000 in cash and promises of subscriptions for a much larger amount. It is hoped to start the erection of the building next year.

MAYORALTY PROSPECTS.

Although no aspirant for the chief magistrate's chair has so far announced his candidature, pre-election gossip is already associating a number of names with the mayoralty contest.

Three members of the present Council are being spoken of as likely candidates, the trio being Mayor Turner, Ald. M. McIntyre and Ald. Nagle Phelan, while the name of ex-Ald. Dr. Halloway is also mentioned as a possible starter in the mayoralty campaign.

Mayor Turner has served two terms, which has been the customary tenure of office for the position in this city, although there is no logical reason why a chief magistrate shouldn't serve longer if both the people and himself are willing that he should do so.

Mayor Turner's candidature would be thoroughly in order should he decide to seek a third term in office —about which he has not as yet had anything to say.

The others mentioned as possible candidates have had considerable municipal experience, and on that ground can be considered as having earned the right to appeal to the electorate for promotion.

HISTORIC SPOTS.

It is gratifying to hear that the Historic Monuments Commission has decided to erect in Quebec fifty new plaques to indicate where historic events have occurred in the Province.

The mistake is being made in this country of paying too little attention to Canadian history, and the marking of places where events of importance have occurred in the past well help perhaps to create more interest in the early life of Canada.

It is well that historic spots should be indicated, and it is to be hoped that the system that is being carried out in Quebec will extend over the whole Dominion.

Municipalities, too, might fittingly indicate places within their borders that have a historic value.

In Peterboro, for example, there is a number of points that should be marked by a plaque that would tell our visitors, and ourselves for that matter, that here is a link with the past.

The point at which Adam Scott first landed, the site of the first house in Peterboro, and other similar places of note in the early days of this community should be as accurately located as possible and marked so that their historical importance would be emphasized.

Let us know a little more about the history of our city and of our country.

BRINGING IN TOURISTS.

One of the members of the County Council, when the question of a grant to the Trent Waterway Development Association was under consideration, declared that the best way of increasing the tourist traffic was to treat visitors properly when they come here so that they will induce others to visit this district.

There is much truth in that argument, which has been advanced by the Examiner on more than one occasion.

The courteous, friendly treatment of tourists on the part of all with whom they come into contact is splendid advertisement that will be reflected in the return of these tourists and the coming of many of their friends.

But something more than this is necessary, which explains the Trent Waterway Association.

It is essential that there should be a wisely directed publicity scheme that will bring thousands of visitors to the district, for it is obvious that before we can create advertising by good treatment of tourists we must bring those tourists here.

The association has been successful in conducting such a campaign with good results, and the Examiner believes that it is entitled to the support of the municipalities in the district which it serves.

The tourist industry has become big business, and this district must put up a fight to get its fair share of that business.

WORRYING ABOUT THE WEATHER.

A correspondent wants to know, says the London Advertiser, if this paper has heard the report, or seen it, that this is going to be the coldest winter in the history of Canada. We have both heard it and seen it.

This is the fourth day of December and the cistern that stands at the back door has not been frozen yet. So far as we've noticed, the comb on the speckled hen hasn't been touched with frost yet, and she's roosted on a low branch of the apple tree most of the time. Four weeks from today will be the first of January. Then February is a short month, and only once in the last 20 years has the coldest day of the year come in March.

No doubt it will be cold, but it's been cold here before. In 1912 it went down to 24 below zero on January 13, and two years later on the day after Christmas it was 22 below. Worse still, in 1915, on the 30th day of January, it was 27 down. We can't guarantee that this record will not be repeated—in fact, we don't know anything about it, and we have a lingering suspicion that the majority of people are in the same fix.

But for all that there's nothing to worry about. The generations that have lived on this very well-regulated world have always had weather prophets, and the generations to come will be bothered with them, too.

If our correspondent believes that this winter's going to be colder than any other winter, then let him set his house in order. Even yet it is possible to dig in the ground and bank up the kitchen. He can stuff old rags in all the cracks around the windows and fashion a piece of cork to fit in the keyhole at night. Then in the spring, if he's kept fairly warm all winter and the begonia and the potted geranium have not perished, he'll know for certain that he has a good house which the public will be keen to buy at his own figure.

SUNDAY GAMES.

F. W. Wilson, member for Windsor in the Legislature, proposes to introduce a bill at the next session to make amateur games legal on Sundays, if the Ontario House has the power to enact this legislation.

Mr. Wilson's bill will receive scant consideration from the Legislature.

There is no sentiment in this Province in favour of the wide-open Sunday, such as is found in many of the States across the border, and the proposal to authorize amateur games will be regarded as a long step in that direction.

The sporting authorities themselves have no desire to see Sunday baseball or Sunday hockey introduced into Ontario.

The Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, in fact, bars from competition in its various series any team or any individual player who participates in Sunday games, even at places where Sunday sport is legalized.

If the Windsor member's proposal refers to organized sport it will have a short shift.

We can get along nicely in Ontario without league hockey or baseball or football on Sunday.

It should be possible, too, to do without Sunday golf—for, as a matter of fact, the factor that causes any demand there may be for a relaxation of the Sunday programme is that golf is indulged in by prominent citizens without interference, while the tossing of a baseball around on a corner lot by a few boys is likely to end in a police court case.

CANADA A CHOICE HUNTING GROUND FOR FOREIGNERS.

Canadian Printer and Publisher is drawing attention in an impressive way to the vast influx of United States periodicals into this country, and the corresponding amount of loss to Canada in hard cash. The figures are rather astounding when presented in concrete form. According to the calculations of Printer and Publisher, some eight hundred United States publications enter the Dominion free of duty; and the flood which such a figure represents can be judged from the fact that the seven United States monthlies or weeklies which have the largest circulation in Canada total twelve million copies yearly, while half a dozen daily papers with Sunday editions aggregate as much more. Altogether, these few weekly and daily publications alone take a couple of million dollars a year out of Canada in subscriptions, and no doubt ten or twenty times that amount goes to the United States in response to the advertising in them. Guess what the total damage done by eight hundred publications can amount to.

For it is damage, bad damage. Not so much through the money outgo—but through the fact that our Canadian sentiment, and our Canadian publications and our Canadian industry and business are hard hit. United States ideas, national, political, social, commercial, are poured upon us in a flood every day in the year, while at the same time our Canadian periodicals remain lame and ineffectual in the face of the crushing competition of wealthy and long-established American publications.

A strict and common sense interpretation of our customs law would apparently militate against this evil. Printer and Publisher points out that the Customs Act imposes a moderate scale of duties upon books and publications; but exempts "unbound" sheets. Our customs practice—not the fault of officials, of course, but undoubtedly directed by our Governments in the past—is to call the monthly and weekly periodicals that enter the country "unbound." Thus they escape duty. The total revenue the Dominion Treasury got last year from such duty was $209. The word "unbound," as interpreted in our customs practice, means a loss of millions of dollars to the national revenue, payable by United States publications; or if such revenue did not come—if enforcement of a moderate Protective duty were to check the inundation of American periodicals—Canadian industry would benefit because our own periodicals would flourish.

Summed up by Printer and Publisher, the following seems pertinent:

> "Reason it out, as you will, in every detail and from every side of the question, the fact remains that otherwise perfectly competent officials have been compelled, not only to deprive the people of Canada of millions of dollars, but to discriminate unfairly against Canadian printers and publishers, who pay duty on paper, ink, engravings, photographs, equipment, everything essential to their industry, in addition to municipal, Provincial, Federal and sales taxes, by allowing "foreign" publications of all descriptions, which contribute not a cent to the Dominion Treasury, to enter the country free.
> "Surely it is time to ask plainly whose business it is at Ottawa to handicap the Canadian printing and publishing industry by facilitating the free admission of any and all foreign publications, in direct contravention to the provisions of the customs tariff?"
> —Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Canadian hockey is making a big impression across the border. We are giving the United States our national winter game in exchange for baseball.

Deputations visiting Ottawa just now have to play safe by calling upon both Liberal and Conservative leaders.

Get busy on that Christmas shopping Monday.

Still the London Advertiser reports the case of a chap who was caught breaking into a store at 4 a.m. and claimed he was following the advice to shop early in the morning.

Short skirt influenza has hit London, caused by the exposure of knees to the elements. An outbreak may be looked for here.

The best kind of a Canadian winter is one that does not produce any weather reports from White River. That point only breaks into print when the bottom drops out of the thermometer.

The daylight saving plebiscite is expected to largely increase the vote at the municipal election. If such prove to be the case even those who do not favour summer time will have to admit that it was well worth while submitting the question anyway.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—Cattle receipts at the Union Stock Yards were heavier this week and all told totalled nearly 9,000 head. The supply was no injury to prices, as the demand was keen for export cattle, and these were up 15 to 25 cents a cwt. As this buying had to include the handyweight class, the best butchers' steers and heifers were also firmer, but not to as large an extent.

Rogers and Maybee the principal export buyers, took nearly 500 head for the week, and paid a top of $8.60 for choice steers. The top on handyweight steers was $7.75 a cwt. Bulls for export were equally firm, with a high of $6.25 a cwt. As many of the export heifers will have to be carried till next week, an allowance was given, and prices were consequently easier. For the best heifers, $7.40 was paid. The export trade will be equally as large next week, and commission houses are predicting firm prices.

Too few really good butchers were for sale, and good butchers brought up to $6.75 a cwt. Fair quality killing steers and heifers were $5.75 to $6, but medium and common heifers were a slow sale at easier prices. The cow trade was fairly good, and some export cows sold at $6 a cwt. Fair quality cows were $4 to $4.50, and mediums averaged $3.50 a cwt. Canners are disposed of without trouble at $2.50 a cwt. The stocker and feeder trade was irregular this week, but prices on the average were higher, and in some cases up 25 cents a cwt. Quite a number were left over, however.

Four cars of calves were bought for Buffalo for the week, and this helped the price up 50 cents a cwt. Choice calves brought $13 to 13 1-2 cents; good calves 11 to 12 1-2 cents, and mediums 9 to 10 cents a pound. For grassers the average price is 5 1-2 cents a pound.

Lambs made two 25-cent advances this week and close at 14 to 14 1-2 cents on good ewes. Wethers with selects, 14 3-4 cents a pound. Sheep are sympathetically firmer.

Packers tried unsuccessfully to put hogs down again this week, but tickets had to be marked each day at $11.75 a cwt, f.o.b. up till Thursday. The usual lower bid goes out again over the week-end, but the supply is not heavy enough to make a weak market.

EGGS AND POULTRY

OTTAWA, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press)—The Montreal egg market is weaker today and Vancouver remains steady at the recent drop, other Canadians markets are unchanged. A sharp drop in fresh is reported from both Chicago and New York.

Toronto — Unchanged. Manitoba Co-operative is offering turkeys. Specials 34 1-2, firsts 32 1-2, seconds 28 1-2 f.o.b. Freight to Toronto is about 3c.

Montreal—Egg market is weaker with carlots of April eggs graded as extras into storage offered at 39 1-2.

American Poultry Markets.

New York large boxed broilers 2c higher, roasters 1c higher, turkeys weak with toms 4c lower. Live fowl strong at 31 to 34, chickens weak 27 to 29, turkeys slow 28.

Chicago—Live hens 23 1-2, springers 24, ducks 20, geese 18, dressed poultry unchanged.

Buffalo—Market conditions were firm this week with demand good. Heavy fowl and springers selling 27 to 30, light 22 to 23, ducks 28 to 32. Geese are going well at present at 22 to 24, but heavy supplies are expected for the Christmas trade. No turkeys are wanted before the holidays. The outlook is fair with live around 40 and dressed 45 to 48.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:
Sterling demand $4.84 3-4.
Sterling cables $4.85 1-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—The tone of the market for winter wheat flour was also very firm, but little new business was done. The demand for white corn flour was slow at $6.80 to $7 per barrel in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

The tone of the market for potatoes remains firm on account of the smaller supplies coming forward owing to the bad condition of the country roads, which prevent farmers from making deliveries at shipping points. The offerings, however, were ample to meet all requirements as the demand at present is only moderate which indicates that buyers in most cases are well supplied for the time being.

There were no new developments in the butter situation to note, the undertone being firm with a moderate amount of business passing for local account and for shipment to outside points.

Business in cheese was again very quiet in all directions owing to the indifferent attitude of foreign buyers for the time being, but the tone was about steady and prices on spot were quoted nominally unchanged with Western October makes at 21 1-2 to 22c per lb., and current receipts at 18 1-2 to 19c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 4 (Canadian Press).—In a wildly swinging market, wheat prices collapsed today 7 3-4 cents a bushel as compared with the day's top level.

Before the crash, wheat for December delivery in Chicago had touched 1.82 and May was up to 1.75, new peak records for the season, the May price in particular being a target that of late has been aimed at by speculators without number.

Enormous selling largely to realize profits at this juncture, sent the market tumbling backwards.

Wheat closed nervous, 1 7-8 to 4 1-4 net lower, new style, December 1.74 1-4 to 1.74 1-2, and May 1.70 to 170 1-4, with corn 1 3-8 to 1 7-8 off; oats 1? to 7-8 down, and provisions varying from 25c decline to 10c gain.

Momentum to the downward rush of wheat values was increased by word that Omaha, Minneapolis and Duluth had sold wheat to come here, and that Kansas City was likewise almost on a shipping basis relative to Chicago. There was active buying all the way down as the market dropped lower and lower, but the force of the buying was lost in the flood of offerings.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action—it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or 'flu.

Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SCOTTISH IMMIGRANT BOY DIED OF NEGLECT IN MISERABLE HOVEL

Taken To Kingston Hospital Too Late—House Filthy and Verminous.

BELATED INQUIRY.

KINGSTON, Dec. 5. (Canadian Press).—The Daily Standard in its Friday issue said that an investigation is to be made into all the facts leading to the placing in a wretched home in the county of a 16-year-old Glasgow, Scotland, high school boy, who died some time after being located with the family who were supposed to care for him, a man about 50 years old and his mother about 80 years old.

Mr. Robert Cunningham, professional of the Cataraqui Golf and County Club here, has written to the Standard a letter in which he declares that the house was filthy beyond description, that the boy was misled by immigration officials into believing he would have a good home, that the house itself was scarcely habitable, and that when the lad was taken ill medical assistance was not summoned until too late. Thus, it was that the boy died in the hospital. This happened a few months ago, but Mr. Cunningham was not aware of the case until a few days ago, when the boy's mother, a relative of Mrs. Cunningham, wrote asking that all the circumstances be looked into.

The Standard supplements the story by a report of an independent investigation of its own which discloses that two other immigrant boys who were previously in the same home had to be removed from it, and when taken to the hospital, were found to be in a serious condition of health and covered with lice and vermin, the house itself is little more than a log cabin and the windows, many of them broken, are covered over with board or paper or rags. Inside, the house itself is filthy. Mr. Cunningham is leaving in a few days for Scotland for the sole and only reason that he wants to investigate the matters from that end, and ascertain by whom and why this high school lad was placed in such a filthy hole and under such false pretences. He urges that all such houses should be visited and inspected before any lads are sent to them. The affair has created a profound sensation here.

Candidates Hold Meetings In Many Strange Places

ST. SIMON, Que., Dec. 5. (Canadian Press). — The rival candidates in the federal bye-election in Bagot carried their fight into the Parish of St. Simon, travelling over roads swimming with water and heavy with clay. The fight is taking the speakers into some odd meeting places. In one village, for lack of a better hall, the Liberals met in a building used for the manufacture of coffins. Today a joint meeting was held in the loft of a large barn. On both sides there were charges of raising racial prejudices.

TAKE $10 EACH.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 5.—In spite of the fact that Oxford county must pay over a thousand dollars as the cost of the probe into the equalized assessment of the county, carried out by the special commission appointed as a result of the appeal of South Norwich against its assessment, yesterday another sum was added to the burden of the action of the county council in voting money for the assistance rendered by the various reeves to the commission. By the adoption of a resolution, $10 will be paid to every reeve in the county council, the whole amounting to over $200.

THREE MINERS IMPRISONED.

CALARY, Alta., Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press.)— Three Drumheller miners, convicted by a jury on a charge of unlawful assembly, were sentenced to a year's imprisonment by Mr. Justice Boyle Friday. A fourth, in whose case, the jury recommended leniency on the grounds of extreme youth, was given six months suspended sentence.

CONSTABLE COMMENDED.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press.) — Unusually strong commendation was given High Constable Hill by the county council Friday as the result of the large number of arrests that have followed the activity of the police in the district. Crime was reported to be on the increase by Constable Hill, but expressions of confidence were given by the council as the result of the work of the county police in compietley breaking up a gang of thieves who had long operated in the county.

MOTHERS WHO HAVE USED BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Always Strongly Recommend Them to Other Mothers.

Mothers Who Have Used—C.....

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else—actual experience teaches her that there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the minor ailments from which her baby or little ones suffer. Having found the value of the Tablets in her own home, she is always anxious that other mothers should share her knowledge. That is why Mrs. Creighton White, North Noel Road, N.S., writes the following:—" I have a baby seventeen months old and have given him nothing but Baby's Own Tablets ever since he was a week old. I know of no other medicine to equal them, and it is certainly a pleasure to recommend them to other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative that regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the sickly baby well and happy again. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RECOUNT VOTES IN PEACE RIVER

Application to Prohibit Judicial Count Refused By Alberta Court.

100 VOTES MISSED?

EDMONTON, Alta., Dec. 5. — (Canadian Press).—Judge Mahaffy of Red Deer will continue the recount in the Peace River Federal election.

Decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta on Friday afternoon went against the application of N. D. MacLean, K.C., asking that Judge Mahaffy be prohibited from proceeding further with the recount.

There was filed with the court an affidavit by S. Matheson on behalf of James A. Collins, the Conservative candidate, previously given to Judge Mahaffy, alleging that while the official return from Poll 4 (Brule Mines) presided over by P. A. "Baldy" Robb, gave Collins but 21 votes, no less than 123 votes had in actual fact been cast for Mr. Collins.

This was the affidavit upon which the recount was ordered, and this same affidavit decided the appellate division against giving their assent to Mr. MacLean's prohibition application to have Judge Mahaffy stopped from making the recount.

An interesting feature of the proceedings, stressed by H. R. Miner, K.C., in his concluding argument against the application, was the statement of R. D. Tighs, barrister, acting for D. M. Kennedy, Progressive candidate, that while he had supported Mr. MacLean in his original objection to the jurisdiction of Judge Mahaffy, he had later withdrawn this support, on evidence of irregularities disclosed during the progress of the recount, and that he had advised his client to adopt a neutral attitude on the application.

PIGEONS SLEPT IN LONDON FOG

Midnight Continued All Friday and Fowls Missed One Day.

OVER THE SOUTH.

LONDON, Dec. 5. (Canadian Press):—Midnight lasted all day in London Friday. The fog which settled over London yesterday morning, a regular "pea souper," was so thick that the pigeons which live on St. Paul's Cathedral kept on sleeping all day. Nobody in the suburbs was disturbed by crowing roosters, as they were as badly fooled by the darkness as they would have been by a total eclipse of the sun.

Traffic was entirely suspended on the River Thames. In the streets of the city, in which the electric lights were kept going all day, traffic simply crawled along, but in spite of this caution there were many collisions and scores of persons were injured.

The fog was so thick even inside the theatres last night that the lighting effects were obscured.

The fog blanket was general over Southern England. Many of the cross-Channel shipping schedules had to be cancelled.

SWITZERLAND VOTES OLD AGE INSURANCE

Nation-wide Referendum is Being Held To-day.

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Corespondent)

GENEVA, Dec. 5. — (United Press).—A nation-wide referendum is being held today throughout Switzerland for the adoption or rejection of a constitutional amendment providing for obligatory old age insurance.

The proposed law is one of the most advanced social measures that has yet been introduced in Europe.

It proivdes not only for old age insurance, under the auspices, of the state, but also for the insurance of survivors in case of death and for insurance against incapacity to work.

The measure is being supported by the Farmers' Union of Switzerland, the labor unions generally, various associations for old-age insurance as well as the liberals and some of the other leading political parties.

PERSHING'S PARLEY.

Discussed the Tacna-Arica Boundary Muddle.

ARICA, Chile, Dec. 5. (Canadian Press).—General Pershing, president of the Tacna-Arica plebiscite commission, and Senor Freyre Santander, chief Peruvian delegate, engaged in a lengthy conversation on Friday, which is believed to have been of a most important nature. Both General Pershing and Senor Freyre refused to divulge the subjects considered.

There is no change in the situation which developed through the withdrawal from the work of the commission of Agustin Edwards, head of the Chilean delegation, with the explanation that the arrangements for the actual plebiscite has been unduly delayed.

The highest paid singer in opera is Feodor Chaliapin, the Russian basso, whose fee is said to be $3,000 for each performance.

Local musicians will be interested in the progress being made in Toronto by Martin Chenhall, Junior, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Chenhall of this city. The Toronto Star of recent date mentions the debut of the new Hambourg string quartet, ,broadcasting over their radio. This quartet is composed of Maurice Solway, first violin; Murray Adaskin, second violin; Arthur Mulliner, viola, and Martin Chenhall, violoncellist. The report says that their concert proved to be one of the best classical features heard on the air that night. Among other much-praised numbers was the "Quartet in C major, Opus 4, No. 2," by Haydn, "in which the quarette scored a distinct triumph. This composition is modeled after the sonata form and its charm and delicacy was interpreted with rare feeling by the four instrumentalists."

WHAT IS THE LEAST POSSIBLE IS QUERY OF TO-DAY ON DRESS

Women's Costumes Have Changed Through the Years, But Woman—

NEVER CHANGES.

Peek-a-boo Clothing Was in Style About a Century Ago.

(By Jeannette)

"A wisp of tulle, a yard of silk; a lot of skin as white as milk. Is it wished on? How dare she breathe? A sudden cough—Good evening, Eve!"

"Is it as bad as that?" enquired a masculine commentator who looked over our shoulder when we wrote this. No, it really isn't—not here in Peterborough, at any rate. But when you come to compare the lady of today, with her costume whose lack of weight is one of its major good points, with the lady of yesterday, of many yesterdays back, it certainly looks as if the slogan of the modern girl with regard to dress might be: "See how much you can do without."

This matter of dress, particularly of women's dress, has always been one of import. A veracious gentleman who wrote a series of interesting illustrated books about dress, speaks of the ladies of the generation of 1827 thus:

"These women with their little bonnets tied under the chin with flowing ribands lisped Italian and were fine needlewomen; painted weak little landscapes and languished in nooks and arbors whilst they dreamed of a Gothic revival, but nevertheless, they were often great women. Their softening influence permeated even the outrageous dandyism of the men of their time and steered the three-bottle gentlemen, their husbands and our own far-off grandparents into a grand old age which we revere today and wonder at, seeing them as giants against our nerve-shattered, drug-taking generation."

Could this be said of the women of today? That their influence was enobling? Possibly, in another century, a commentator may write so of the lady who represents the height of the fashions of 1925,—perhaps.

A sprightly gentleman named Charles Blanc, whose book, "Art in Ornament and Dress," has been translated from the French, makes the assertion that "Whatever is fashionable is never ridiculous" and this seems to be the case. "When You and I were Young, Maggie," is a song that will never grow old. Five hundred years ago, it would have been sung to a lady wearing a houppelande, as the long flowing garment of the day was called, or a surcoat and cotehardie, a sort of combination affair resembling an Eton jacket, and her hair would have been done up in a caul or metal net. If she happened to be an Elizabethan Margaret, she would wear a prickly neck ruff with an expanse of bare bosom beneath enormous sleeves and full skirts and a flowing head veil. In the Georgian period the heroine of the song would have to listen from beneath a head-dress that symbolized "the growth of the wig and the decline of the hoop" described as "a mass of meal and stuffing powder and pomatum whose dressing took many hours. It was a perfumed and reeking mess whose owner might show her preference for the navy by perching a miniature ship atop of it or for the drive by using a coach or for nature by a bed of flowers." These headpieces were disturbed infrequently but the historian says that three weeks in the summer time was as long as a lady's head could remain "unopened."

History Repeats

Then just a century ago, came a sort of replica of our own times, when hoops and high hair and full skirts, and "buffons," those kerchiefs that the ladies thrust in their bosoms to give them the appearance of a pouter pigeon, went out, and willowy figures, transparent dresses, low shoes and straight lines came in.

In 1827, Maggie would have worn, possibly a Canelon spencer, and a peleine, with a Gros de Naples dress and a cashemire shawl. A beautiful pelisse of the mode is described as being contrived from the likable Gros de Naples chewing gum, they practised fainting as a fine art, and megrims took the place of a headache.

In 1871, came the wasp waists. "The lady began to lace" in 1135, says the historian, and she began to rouge in 1270, but her lacing propensities came to their highest point just about this time. Ballooning out from the little waist were voluminous skirts, and the costume included plenty of frills, fringes, quiltings and braidings, with a chignon head-dress below a pancake hat and long elaborate, jewelled earrings.

Along about 1882, the basque with a Postilion back burst on an astounded world, and redingotes and waistcoats were "le dernier cri," also Langtry bangs under a plumed bonnet.

About eight years later, in 1890, the female of the species rigged herself out in a high collar, a flat hat, leg o'mutton sleeves, a basque-shaped waist and a skirt that flared out about the ankles.

In 1900, the end of the Victorian, or "ugly" era, as it was called, came a tendency to follow the natural line of the figure, and a reaction against wasp waists, bustles and basques, and in 1910, the evolution of styles brought out a creature who sported a frock, modelled on Princess lines, with a small waist, a high collar and huge, plumed hat.

Women's Emancipation.

However, it wasn't until some years later that Maggie started to grow weary of dissimulation and concealment. Up to the present, she had assiduously sought to make herself as mysterious as possible. Every inch of her framework was concealed except her face and the little feet that "peeped in and out" were the only indications to a prying world as to whether the lady was fat or lean, at least, in the years when she wore hoopskirts and bustles. The French gentleman referred to previously says reproachfully of this:

"With regard to the female foot, a prejudice exists against which we must now protest. Fashionable women wish, like the Chinese, to possess imperceptible feet, some of them, perhaps, in order to produce the impression that they are unable to walk and were born to be carried. But Nature, who is never deceived in the generic proportions of the human race, maintains these proportions, and, in spite of all our vanity, she will not allow the human body to rest upon a base incapable of supporting it."

And then, presto! The "emancipation of women," a phrase that may have done as much damage to the world as President Wilson's famous self-determination recipe, became the slogan, and woman emerged at last from the cocoon of her century-old retirement. So we have the modern girl, with her short skirts and sleeveless dresses, her lack of petticoats and her transparent clothes, her uncorseted figure and clipped head.

Natheless, Maggie is Maggie just the same. Whether she wears a hoopskirt and a chignon, a Gibson Girl shirtwaist and a rat in her pompadour, or appears in a one-piece frock and a boyish cut, she is always the Maggie of the old song, and her lover through the centuries probably sees her in a variation of the frock which is said to be a general masculine favorite, a white muslin dress with frills at the neck and wrist and a bit of ribbon dangling somewhere about it.

"Harmony in dress is a necessity," says the expert of olden times, who goes on to say "We have seen a clever woman wearing at home a scarlet waistcoat over a petticoat of the shade called groseille des Alpes; the combination was an optical scandal." But it is not only the eye that is interested in the assortment of color; sentiment cannot be omitted in its consideration. As a woman once said, "It is still possible to dream in a sky-blue bonnet, but it is absolutely forbidden to weep in a pink one."

"A man's dress is the garb of his thoughts," says the commentator, going on to assert that costume should be in keeping with the avocation followed. Gilbert Chesterton, in his intriguing volume, "What's Wrong with the World?" says that men, when they wish to appear dignified and impressive, as priests and judges, don a woman's flowing skirts. "Uniformity is now an external declaration of the principles of religious equality and liberty, inaugurated in the world by the French Revolution," is another declaration by a Frenchman who has the fascinating theory that every item in a woman's dress should be calculated to express some deviation in her temperament, and that something of her fancies and her mood betrays itself in the selection of the material and style of her garments. He thinks that every item in the costume, such as the use of flowers and feathers and the colour of the appointments, expresses the character of the wearer. He frowns on a too great expanse of white linen in a man's costume and speaks of the dignity and reserve shown in buttoning up his waistcoat, rather than leaving it open to the world. A man, however, who pushes circumspection too far, is spoken of as "always buttoned up."

NATIONAL INTERPRETERS WAS SUBJECT OF A FINE ADDRESS

Rev. Canon Shatford, of Montreal, Spoke to Woman's Canadian Club.

LANGUAGE FIRST.

Art, Games and Religion Also Great Interpretation of Soul.

"National Interpreters" was the subject chosen by Rev. Canon Shatford, rector of the Church of St. James the Apostle, Montreal, when he spoke yesterday afternoon to the members of the Women's Canadian Club in the auditorium of the Public Library. There was a good attendance at the meeting, and the speaker, whose address was marked by clarity of thought, breadth of vision and a smoothly-flowing eloquence, was accorded earnest attention and enthusiastic appreciation of his fine discourse.

Some of the seldom-considered interpreters of national thought and character were chosen by Canon Shatford for elucidation. He prefaced his speech with a reference to the visit of Pilgrim, in the "Pilgrim's progress" to the House of the Interpreter, the strange things which he saw there and the varying interpretation put upon them.

"We are living in a time when mastered relating to our national life should be the concern of every man, woman and child. Therefore I am glad to find organizations like this which stand for serious reflection on things that pertain to our destiny," said Canon Shatford, who took for his first interpreter of national thought its language. "Emerson said, 'Speak, that I may know you.' "Words are not mere vocables. They bring to us reports from the inner citadel of the soul and that is true of national life and character also. There are two times in life when language assumes a tragic aspect, one is the occasion when the mother listens for the first words of her child and the other is the last sentences before death. Speech is one of the most important avenues of the soul's longings and desires. 'Words half conceal and half reveal', wrote Tennyson, and Bishop Boyd Carpenter remarked, 'When I hear a man speak, I am not so much concerned with what he says as with what he is trying to say.'

"We should be on our guard against the misuse and abuse of language. Our words should be straight-flung words and few and they should convey our real meaning. We should not prostitute speech so as to give a wrong impression and prevent people from knowing the real inner longings of our hearts."

The speaker alluded to the two great divisions of language in the English and French tongues of Canada, and of the efforts that should be made to understand the character of our neighbors who speak another tongue. He remarked that, in his opinion, more had been done along this line by the English-speaking people than by the French.

Each in his Own Tongue

A comparison of the idiom used by people of the same generic nationality was given in the way an Englishman would remark of a bad day; "Beastly weather, isn't it?" while an American might exclaim, "Some day, ain't it?"

"Slang sometimes has its value," said the Canon, "but it is often deplorably used. Compare the old-fashioned proposal, for instance, a matter of lace and ruffles and crinoline, when the lover knelt down and addressed his lady in dignified words that symbolized the sacred nature of his feelings, and the modern version, that goes something like this: "Well, old bean, do you think we could hit it off?" and the reply, "Well, old top, we can try, and after all, there is Reno'."

A plea for simple language, rather than long-winded, long-worded sentences, was made by the speaker, who declared that the exigencies of life always drew forth the simplest utterances. A man with a suddenly-discovered blaze in his house would not rush into the street and cry, "There is a conflagration in my drawing-room." He would be more likely to shout, "My house is on fire."

"Study the Bible, Shakespeare and John Bunyan, those masterpieces of English, and you will find that eighty-five per cent. of the language is in one-syllable words."

The part that the listener plays in the appreciation of language was also alluded to, Canon Shatford remarking that the days of great preachers might be past and gone, as was often asserted, but the days of great listeners, those "who listened to a sermon of an hour and half in length, and hungered for more," were also gone. The thought was often translated into his appreciation of the entertainment, just as a friend of a missionary, visiting him in Africa, thought the musical concert provided for him by the natives was a terrible thing, while the missionary said in it he should hear the hallelujah chorus. One listened with his heart, the other merely with his "oyster ear."

The second interpreter of national life was art. In the architecture and art and music of a people are indications of their national soul. Visitors abroad naturally gravitate to the wonderful buildings, the cathedrals, the art galleries and the theatres of a city, because they know in them they will find indications of national character and life. In Canada, declared the speaker, "we have a landscape art that is growing tremendously, and is worthy to be compared with some of the masters of old." The architecture of Canada, however, was frowned upon, in "those great ugly square buildings whose first thought in erection is of utility, rather than beauty."

"The awful jazz music" of the day was also alluded to. The Canon said, "This type of music is not necessary, nor are other cheap things of its type. You don't have to give people cheap pictures and cheap drama and cheap music to make them applaud." Comic supplements as a steady diet for growing children were also considered unworthy, and the Canon thought that Canadian Clubs should exert their influence to prevent the importation of much of this type of pictorial matter.

The third interpreter referred to was play. "The games and sports that he indulges in are a better revelation of a person than words." As a national indication of English character, the cricket game was instanced, while baseball, "quick, active, ostentatious, full of sharp plays," was symbolic of the American national spirit, just as golf was characteristic of the Scottish temperament, and wrestling of the Japanese type. Lacrosse, the only distinctively Canadian game in the many indulged in by natives of the Dominion, had fallen into disuse because of the elements of professionalism and gambling and brutality that had killed it, and the speaker deplored the taint of professionalism and the practice of importing players that marred so many of the sports of the nation.

The fourth interpreter of a people was clothes. "Clothes were meant, not to conceal, but to reveal. It is when nature is clothed in her loveliest garments, and the forest and the field are ripe with the beauties of summer, that she is revealed at her finest."

The clothes of the Easterner as contrasted with the dweller in Western hemispheres were indications of differences in temperament and character. The Westerner, mystical and liberal-minded in thought, hating conventions and restrictions, wore loose, flowing garments, but the Easterner, liking things defined and compact, wrapped himself in tight-fitting clothes.

And the deepest interpreter of all is religion. "You can never understand an individual or a people until you have seen them at their prayers." The churches of the nations were an indication of character, said the Canon. "The English people have their Church of England, the Scotch the Presbyterian Church, the French and Italian nations the Roman Catholic, and the Chinese and Japanese their own type of worship."

"I sometimes wonder if we in Canada have made any contribution to religion, or if we are just following along lines laid out for us by others. We should be able to add something to the common stock of religion. Watch a child at its prayers, and by some flash of intuition, you will get a glimpse of that child's soul not possible in any other situation."

Concluding, the Canon said, "These things that I have mentioned are the ways and media through which the inner soul is revealed and interpreted to the world outside, and every element has the power of adding a bit to the interpretation. So we must be faithful, loyal, honest and straight, knowing that our land will suffer or gain according as we are faithful interpreters."

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

FELT HATS.

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.— (United Press.)—Felt hats continue to hold the heartfelt sympathies of the fashionable world. Beautifully made velvets, satins and brocades still lie on the shelves whereas felts and velours can not be too numerous to supply the demand for them.

Although felt and velour hats are far less expensive than more ornate models one manages to spend as much on millinery this season as usual for one must be supplied in hats of every color and for every occasion. The little tan velour one wears for shopping is not appropriate for teatime, where a livelier color is the vogue.

Each frock must be matched by a hat and the fur wrap must have several accompanying hats, one for rainy days, one for bright days and one for evening. Shapes do not vary much but one relies on different colors for one's change. Among the new shades are burgundies, various greens, brilliant reds, burnt orange, greenish yellows and purple in its various shades.

Black trimmed in clusters of white ermine tails is often chosen for wear with the black seal wrap. Pipings and stitchery of gold adorn many by way of trim. Pins of brilliants and of real diamonds are also numerous. The pin is not always worn in front or at the side since many of the shapes which turn upwards at the rear use the pin at the rear. This is a new Parisian idea which is seen occasionally in New York. Feather fancies of matching shade to the hat are sometimes worn at the side of the felt of more dressy type. Burnt ostrich is the favored fancy this season.

Brims usually turn upwards in front with the rear left short showers, however, turn up at the rear and the front brim slopes down over the eyes. Crowns are lower than last winter and fit snug to the head. The brim is seldom bound but is left just as it was cut. Many milliners cut the felt to suit the face of the wearer using the portion which is cut away to form tabs or bows for trimming. Crushed crowns are numerous since the bobbed head is usually too small for the original crown.

December 5th THE JUNIOR EXAMINER For Boys & Girls

Here We Are Again.

Dear Boys and Girls:

Thank you all for your letters and messages. I am glad that you like the idea of having a newspaper of your own, and I am sure The Editor will allow us to have this corner every week. This week we are having a change made in the style which will make "The Junior Examiner" different from all the rest of the paper.

One very nice letter written in French, and others written in English, thanked me for printing the little story in French last week. So many people liked it that instead of only having one every month I will print one every other Saturday, with the English story on the alternate Saturdays. Last week the printer made two tiny mistakes, when he printed "a" instead of "e," but likely he could not read my writing. Next Saturday's French piece will be in poetry.

Because the story about Lohengrin takes up so much space today we cannot have our nature story, but we may have it next week. I'm sure you will like Lohengrin, and will look forward to next week's instalment.

Are you working the puzzles I give you? Two boys and a girl sent me the crossword puzzle worked out last week. This is not necessary. Just fill in the squares and compare the result with the solution which will appear in the Women's Page on Monday.

Don't forget now, if there is anything you would like me to write about, let me know. Two or three have already asked for certain stories. Address your letters to me in care of The Examiner office.

Your friend,

UNCLE JOHN.

RADIO

You will remember that last week I told you about radio waves that travel in every direction? To-day we wish to find out what starts the waves on their journey.

These waves are made by the vibration of electric current, and two things are needed to set them in motion and two more to receive them. There must be (1) an instrument that will change the sound waves produced by the voice or musical instrument into radio waves; (2) an aerial that will set them loose in the atmosphere; (3) a receiving aerial which will catch the waves out of the air, and (4) a receiver which will transform these radio waves back into sound waves.

It would take a whole book to tell about these different [illegible] In fact there have been many, many books written. On the radio page to-day you will see a drawing of the inside of one receiving set, and a dozen different kinds are for sale in Peterborough.

The principle is the same in all transmitters and receivers, however. There must be a source of electric current, which must be changed into a high or radio frequency current. A mouthpiece which responds to sound waves must be connected with the current, so that the sound waves may be transformed into radio waves. A wire must lead to the aerial.

The very simplest receiving set has an aerial with a wire leading to the receiving room and another wire to the ground, a detector which transforms the high frequency radio waves into currents which travel in one direction only, and a telephone receiver which makes the waves audible. Usually, now, a vacuum tube is used instead of a crystal detector; in fact it is this little tube which makes radio as we know it to-day possible. By using enough vacuum tubes one can increase the sound of a voice so that it can be heard for a great distance.

One little boy asks me how he can build a receiving set. I am writing him a letter. There are so many different kinds of sets that it is merely a matter of selection, and what amount can be expended.

Trips To Faraway Places.

WHERE ST. PATRICK WAS BORN.

In Somersetshire, about twenty-five miles from Bath, is Glastonbury, where legend states was built nearly 1900 years ago, England's first Christian Church. One can never vouch for every tale the last few hundred years have handed down to us, but I mention in passing that it is claimed that here St. Patrick was born and here he died. Here also Joseph of Arimathea came with the Holy Grail, planting his staff on the hill which later grew into the famous Glastonbury Thorn which blossoms at Christmastime every year. It is a delightful region for those who love ancient tales, ancient towers and ancient moorlands Here is the island valley of Avalon.

"Where falls not hail, nor rain, or any snow,
Nor ever wind blows loudly; but it lies
Deep-meadow'd, happy, fair with orchard lawns
And bowery hollows crown'd with summer sea."

The Boy Who Cried Wolf! Wolf!

There was once a shepherd's boy who watched a flock of sheep in the fields. As a mere joke he would often shout out: "Wolf! Wolf!" This caused the men working in the neighboring fields to run to the rescue, but after being thus deceived two or three times, they decided to take no notice of his shouts.

Soon afterwards a wolf really came, and the shepherd's boy cried out in earnest. But no one took any notice of his shouts, and so his sheep were killed by the wolf.

The Story Of Lohengrin, Knight of the Holy Grail

(The Junior Examiner two-part story. Part two will appear next Saturday)

PART I.

King Henry of Saxony stood in a meadow under a great oak tree. His soldiers were grouped around him, and before him stood the noblemen of Brabant. The sun shone, the river Scheldt flowed peacefully by, the meadow was starred with flowers. But the King's face was troubled.

"Freeman of Brabant!" he said, "I came to ask you to fight with me against the Hungarians who have invaded our land; but, alas, I find you quarrelling among yourselves, and without a chief. Why is this, Count Frederick of Telramund?"

A swarthy knight with crafty eyes came forward and bowed low.

"My Lord," he said, "this it is that troubles our land. You know that when the Duke of Brabant lay dying he entrusted to my care, Elsa, his daughter, and Godfrey, the heir to his title. One day Elsa took her little brother into the forest to play, and returned home without him. We questioned her, but she answered never a word. Here do I accuse her of leaving Godfrey to perish in the woods so that she herself might inherit the Duchy of Brabant."

"This is a grievous accusation," said the King, gravely.

"Ortrud, my wife, will tell you that what I say is true," insisted Frederick, presenting a richly-gowned lady, whose face would have been handsome if it had not been so cruel.

"It is true, Sire," said Ortrud.

"Send, then, for Elsa," commanded the King.

Slowly and sadly came Elsa, her white dress trailing over the grass, the sun shining on her golden hair. So beautiful she looked that the King did not believe in his heart that she had been guilty of this crime. But when he questioned her, her answers were vague. All she could talk about was a noble knight, carrying a sword and a golden horn, whom she had seen in a dream. He had told her not to grieve, for he would be her champion.

"'Tis all a fancy," laughed Frederick scornfully. "I will challenge this knight of hers to single combat. Where is he?"

"Summon him, heralds," the King commanded.

The four heralds blew four long blasts on their trumpets. "He who accepts the challenge to fight for Elsa of Brabant, let him appear," they called.

There was a tense silence. The water murmured among the reeds. But no knight came.

"You see," said Frederick triumphantly.

"May the trumpets sound again," implored Elsa, throwing herself on her knees. "My knight comes form afar. He may not have heard."

Again the trumpets sounded, and again silence.

Then suddenly: "Look," whispered Ortrud, pointing to the river. Gliding down it was a boat drawn by a white swan; in the boat a knight in silver armour standing, a sword in his right hand, a golden horn in his left. Nearer, nearer, came the boat, until it reached the meadow's edge. The knight stepped out and stooped to speak to the swan. "Your task is done, my trusty swan," said he. "Return again to the land whence we have come."

Slowly the white swan swam again up the river.

Then the knight faced the company, who uncovered their heads in awe of him. "I have come to fight for Elsa's cause," he said simply.

"If you will be my champion," cried Elsa in great joy, "you may marry me and become the ruler of Brabant."

"If I marry you," the knight told her solemnly, "I shall exact one promise—that you never ask me my name or the name of my country."

"I promise," answered Elsa.

Then Frederick and the knight prepared for combat, and when the King had struck three blows on his shield they advanced upon one another with drawn swords. The fight waxed fiercer and fiercer until, with a mighty blow the stranger knight felled Frederick to the ground. He might have killed him as he lay there, but, instead, he said, "I spare your life. Go, and repent your sin."

(To be concluded next week.)

Answers To Letters

T. J.—No, Tom, the letters in my note last week were not lying down. They are Italic letters. The printers use lots of different kinds of type to make the paper look attractive. How many kinds can you find in to-day's paper?

Mary B.; Jack McK.; and Bob J.—It is not necessary that you send the cross-word puzzle to me. You had it properly worked out. Try this week's, and see the answer on Monday.

Sam. P.—Thank you for the suggestion on writing about railway engines. Watch The Junior Examiner next week.

John T.; Jim S.; and Tom R.—Thanks very much for your good wishes and happy letters. I will write you a personal letter to-day.

Books That Have Interested Me

(This is the third of a series by Peterborough people)

R. R. HALL, K.C.
Ex-M.P. for West Peterborough

The Examiner has asked me to name ten secular books that have interested me. If I were to answer this question literally, I would name ten law reports wherein precedents were established that enabled me to win certain lawsuits, in which large amounts were involved, but these books have now lost interest because they have become, as it were, a part of "a tale that is told."

I find it most difficult to make a choice of ten books, because I have been interested in, and profited by reading so many. It was said 3000 years ago "of making many books there is no end", but since that time, the making of books has been multiplied by the millions and vast numbers have disappeared like the grass of the revolving years.

When I was a young man I soon found out that it did not matter so much, the quantity that was read, but rather the quality, and how well that little was digested, understood, and made part of our own culture. Hence I adopted the rule to read and study the highest standard of its kind, and particularly the books that I thought would prove of the most value to me as an individual.

Even in the highest standard will be found parts that should be read once, other parts twice, other parts seven times and a few parts seventy and seven times—committed to memory and made part and parcel of our own very being. When a passage is seen that expresses a great truth in well chosen words and is filled with wisdom commit it to memory, for "The words of the wise are as goads and as nails fastened by the masters of assemblies."

Lord Bacon has the right idea. He says reading maketh a full man, writing an exact man and conference a ready man. Therefore if a man would have widely extended knowledge, he must read much, if, he would have exactness, he must write down his thoughts with the utmost care, and if he would have his knowledge at his instant command, he must talk it over with his neighbours.

If these methods are followed, the reading of the highest standards will bring the greatest pleasure and profit to the individual

I have always been interested in Shakespeare's plays. Take Hamlet as an example. Study the characters, and you will find that that character says exactly what such a character would naturally say. Hamlet's mother, the strumpet, says to her sorrowing son, who's father had been murdered by her own second husband, whom she married in a month: "Do not forever with thy vailed lids seek for thy noble father in the dust. Thou knowst tis common; all that lives must die passing through nature to eternity." He replies: "Aye madam, it is common", and she replies: "If it be, why seems it so particular with thee?" Then Hamlet says: "Seems madam, nay it is, I know not seems." In the word "seems", you see the rotten unfeeling, pretending carcass of the strumpet, and in the words "it is" you find the grief stricken heart of the dutiful son who wants to be, and is, an ornament of grace unto his mother and a chain of gold about his father's neck.

This is only one of many examples that might be given to show, that in reading these plays, reader must understand the characters, and I am sure pleasure and profit will follow in finding that the characters' words are in full accord, with the character that utters them.

Again I would most respectfully submit there are books that should be read by those, who seek to bring about great moral and social reforms and great prosperity by acts of Parliament. Amongst the foremost these books in my judgment stand, John Stuart Mill's Essay on Liberty and his work on Political Economy, Taswell-Langmeade's Constitutional History of England, Macaulay's Essays and History of England, Fawcett on Political Economy and Lord Campbell's Lives of the Lord Chancellors and Lord Chief Justices. No man can read these works without being proud of his forefathers, who made great sacrifices for human liberty, and at the same time be utterly ashamed of the mean and miserable souls, who sought to create in our forefathers a clean heart, by acts of parliament imposing inhuman fines and punishments.

To the discouraged soul I would recommend him to read Parkman on La Salle and the Discoverers of The Great West and therein he will find depicted a great hero, manfully facing every danger, and meeting very loss imposed by the rage of man and of the elements with courage and fortitude and in the face of deferred hope, "that maketh the heart sick", still struggling on to the goal he was never to attain.

The careful reading of Milton and Burns and Tennyson will at all times I feel convinced, kindle and strengthen our faith, in our selves, in our neighbours and in our God and enable us in the words of Tennyson to base a well grounded hope in "That God which ever lives and loves

"One God, one law, one element
"And one far of divine event
"To which the whole creation moves".

It is said that King George maintains a custom, initiated by Queen Victoria, of sending Christmas puddings to most of the rulers of Europe. These are all prepared in the royal kitchens at Windsor, from a recipe dating back to the 18th century, and are despatched to their destination in airtight containers.

Lungs of Little Red Box Measure Your Use of Gas

There's One in Your Cellar, Whatever Else May Be Missing — Life is Five Years.

Lurking in some dim recess of almost every Peterborough home is a rectangular red box which a roaring Bolshevist or the average householder in this city might term an infernal machine. There by the wall it squats, ugly and sinister, clothed in all the mystery of some oriental idol and redolent with some mighty import. Two leaden tubes thrust into it, one of which comes from the bowels of the earth, the other leading to a consumptive stove or a more emaciated gas plate. Beating into the consciousness of every ratepayer is the deadly certainty that some time a day of reckoning will come, a day when toll shall be exacted for the gas used in the transforming of raw meat to steak "well-done." In some vague way people understand that the little red box which crouches in the corner like a three-in-one trio of 'No See' 'No Speak' 'No Hear' is responsible for the trouble. If that little box would only cease to function then all would be serene and they would be able to buy that gold-mounted touring car. However, they don't understand it, they can't see how the little box does it. The Examiner didn't understand it either till a few days ago when it went out in quest of the solution.

The average Alice, Jane or Mary knows that once a month a man comes bursting into the privacy of the home yelling a preliminary—"Gas-meter!" He goes straight to that red box, lifts a little trap door copies something down in a book and departs as mysteriously as he came. There is nothing mysterious however, about the printed slip which arrives by the post man a week or two later and which necessitates one's presence at the gas-office on Simcoe street that certain moneys might be paid for value received. That is what the average person knows about a gas meter.

A man at the gas house was sought out to explain the inner workings and how the wheels went round. He showed The Examiner meters in various stages of disrepair and, after a half hour of delving into the "innards" of those machines the Examiner went away [illegible] like the wedding guest in the [illegible]ent Mariner"—a sadder but a [illegible]n.

How it Works.

In the bottom of the box is located the breathing apparatus—two leather diaphragms which work alternately as they inhale and exhale a quantity of the gas. The lungs of this box are much hardier than those of a human being because they are usually given a five-year lease of life with the option of an additional year before the box is brought back to the shop for repair. In time, so the man stated, the leather becomes porous, and leaks through. The gas, which thus escapes goes through the machine and is not measured—a fact which should cause every householder to pray that his meter will soon reach a ripe old age.

When the patron is not using gas the bellows take a rest, but just as soon as a match is applied to the burner the mechanism becomes awake and starts its pumping again. The pumping on the diaphragm does two things—it opens and closes valves in a sealed and separate compartment allowing the measured gas to escape in the pipe which leads to the burner and it also operates two eccentric arms which transfer their momentum to a worm and thence to cog wheels which affect the meter dials. It is by this agency that the measurement of gas is recorded and the figures indicated on the dials are those read by the gas man on his rounds every month.

The Meter is Read.

There are four dials on the average meter, three big ones and a little one; as the little one is used only for test purposes and not in actually calculating the gas consumed it is of no consequence here. The other dials read from 1 to 0 and above them, from left to right, are the words: 100 thousand, 10 thousand, and one thousand. The reading is taken from left to right and from figures which the indicators have passed. Two digits are added to the result of the three figures obtained; for example—if the indicator on the extreme left is hovering between 7 and 8, the middle one between 5 and 4 and the last one on the right between 2 and 1, the reading would be 74,100.

If that same meter recorded 72,600 last month, the bill sent out to patrons would look something like this:—

Meter reads 74,100
Meter read 72,600

1,500

The amount of gas consumed during the month would be 1,500 cubic feet. For Peterborough there is a flat charge based on a minumum amount. If the charge for the gas consumed was less than that the bill would nevertheless be for that flat sum.

Every Meter Tested.

All meters are inspected every five years by a government official, and for this the gas company pays. If there is a complaint sent in by a customer about a meter which is alleged to be misbehaving, that box is tested and if it was faulty the company pays for the adjustment; if there was nothing wrong, the plaintiff pays for his fancy.

Every meter must be government tested and inspected and must also bear the official seal in a little ring to show the date when it was inspected. There are three ways in which a meter may not record all the gas which passes through it and it is a practical impossibility for it to record more than is used so the patron may be assured that his indicators aren't galloping around the dials regardless. If the diaphragm leather leaks or a cog wheel or the eccentric broke or a valve arm gave way gas would pass through the box without affecting the indicators. That fault, however, would not be long unrecognized, for the next reading of the meter would show that something was wrong and that the little pulse inside was not beating with its accustomed vigor. It might be a good idea to equip every meter reader with a stethoscope in order that he might locate the trouble more easily.

How Gas is Made.

The process of making gas is very interesting. Coal is used and is burned in a generator, subject to an air blast (nothing is visible as proof of any statements and one must believe blindly what is told about what goes on in the generators.) The intense heat drives the gas off at top and bottom and it is sprayed with oil in order that it may be impregnated with the necessary heat units—450 is the minimum of British Thermal Units. After the oil treatment the gas is washed, sprayed and cooled passing later into a purifier and scrubber, where all foreign substance is removed. Even in this state of purity it is not wise to take it into the system as it has a decidedly detrimental effect on the health. It is stored in two telescopic tanks which have the peculiar ability of adjusting themselves to circumstances and limiting their bounds with what they contain.

Some of the gas is distributed in low pressure lines from which feeders run out at right angles. For going a long distance the gas is sent in a main high pressure line to a district governor, from which point it is re-distributed through low pressure lines. High pressure is usually considered at 9 inches and low pressure as three inches.

The hour of "pull" or that period when most gas is used occurs at noon, when the bread-winner, comes tearing home like a roaring lion and the children released from school want something to eat "at once 'cause I'm starvin'." It is at this trying hour that the genius of the cuisine applies a match to the ever-ready gas burner, and has the dinner piping hot before the howl gets too insistent. All over the city the little chests within the red boxes start their convulsive heaving as they dole out the fuel in whatever quantity that is needed. Very patient, those little red boxes for they know that they have possibly five years of gulping that biting, choking gas before they get new lung lining, but also are the little indicators very tireless as they perform their trips around the dials, measuring out the amount consumed and preparing a total for their good friend the gas man to read.

Real Ground Easily Made That Gives Best Service

If you are located where you can reach the ground within a reasonable distance from your receiver, it is possible, at very small expense to install a "real" ground that will give maximum efficiency. Secure a length of copper pipe about one inch in diameter by four feet long and drill a number of holes in it. Fit a wooden plug into one end. For a ground wire use a length of solid insulated copper wire about 12 gauge. Clean the top of the pipe and about a foot of the ground wire, then wrap it around the top of the pipe and solder.

Dig a hole about five feet deep and one foot wide. Secure a bag of charcoal, six or seven pounds of salt and a few pounds of copper sulphate. Smash up the charcoal as small as possible then mix charcoal, salt and copper sulphate together. Fill in the earth, packing the above mixture tightly around pipe as you fill up the hole. This is very important. When you have filled up hole take a hose and let water into pipe to thoroughly moisten the ground. This will give you a ground that is 100 per cent efficient.

Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is saleable only for a purchaser who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Such cars must be sold for just what it is.

2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because warrantless cannot be had with any Studebaker, which it is impossible to submit in price.

3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For, to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days, and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Not only to the public, but also to The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Ltd., whose cars we sell, we pledge adherence to the above policy in selling used cars.

REID & SONS

The Studebaker Corporation of Canada, Ltd., takes pride and pleasure in announcing that the above Pledge is being carried out by

REID & SONS

THE Pledge speaks for itself. It is a formal declaration of the fair and square attitude of Studebaker dealers toward the public.

It is an assurance of honest dealing in a line of merchandising which in some times and places has fallen into ill repute.

It is an assertion of confidence in the reserve mileage built into the sturdy "one-profit" Studebaker automobiles.

KNOX CHURCH WAS INTENDED FOR UNDENOMINATIONAL USAGE UNDER ITS ORIGINAL AUSPICES

Anniversary Tomorrow Recalls Origin of South Peterboro Church.

COMPOSITE BODY

Interdenominational Ladies' District Visiting Association Gave Impetus.

In view of the first anniversary of Knox church within the United Church of Canada, to be observed tomorrow with special services, and on Monday evening with a supper and interesting programme following, there is a special feature in the history of this fine church which is worthy of note. A reading of the historical sketch printed some years ago reveals that from its very inception Knox was ever intended to serve in fostering a spirit of denominationalism. It was under the auspices of an interdenominational Ladies' District Visiting Association that Miss Charlotte Dickson and the late Mrs. J. A. Hall volunteered an active interest in the religious welfare of South Peterborough and founded a Sabbath School, which was to result in the building of Knox Church, of which Miss Dickson is today out most honoured member. In the early days it was thought that the Y.M.C.A., an undenominational institution, might handle the work. This was found to be impossible, but as the historical sketch indicates, "it was the intention of the founders to keep it undenominational." This unsectarian spirit was further illustrated in the use of the Dalhousie street building granted to St. Johns' church in their fostering what was to become All Saints' church, and also granted to the Baptist pioneers of Park street church. It is a matter of justifiable pride that this church fostered in such fine spirit should today remain true to splendid traditions and be found in The United Church of Canada, which with sublime venture and faith has repudiated the sectarian spirit in the far higher interests of God's Kingdom. Today, as in its inception, all God's children find warm welcome in Knox Church and at the Table of the Lord within her walls. On the occasion of her first anniversary friends, old and new, are given a special invitation to worship at Knox.

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

DYING MAN RUNS SPEEDING TRAIN

Emil Krusker, Engineer, Stricken With Apoplexy as Train Hurtles Through Night.

PASSED STATION.

PONTIAC, Mich., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—The hand of an unconscious, dying man grasped the throttle of a speeding Pere Marquette passenger train engine near Holly Thursday night, while scores of passengers were seated comfortably in the coaches.

The engineer, Emil Kruske, 44 years old, of Saginaw, suffered a stroke of apoplexy, as the train left Holly, and slumped forward in his seat, his hand still holding the throttle which for years he had grasped.

As train No. 6 hurtled through the night he lost consciousness. The fireman observing that the train did not stop at Milford, the next station, he glanced a Kruske and saw he was unconscious. The fireman stopped the train a mile from Milford. Kruske was removed to Milford Hospital, where he died early yesterday. He leaves a wife.

MACHINE GUNNERS AT HOME TO FRIENDS

Fine Programme, Refreshments and Dancing Passed Evening.

The officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of No. 3 Machine Gun Company, 4th Batt., Canadian Machine Gun Corps, entertained their friends at the Armories last night. The first part of the programme included a minstrel show by the members of the Why Worry Troupe, who with their up-to-date stories and songs provided an entertainment that kept their audience in convulsions from the beginning to the end of their performance. The remainder of the programme was supplied by Drum Major Bob Hendry, who rendered several songs, and Master Joe Leith, who, in spite of his tender years, demonstrated his ability as a songster and elocutionist in a manner that made the audience bring him back several times! Piper Milne played several very acceptable numbers on the bagpipes.

After supper had been served, those present indulged in dancing for the remainder of the evening. Messrs. Muir and Nixon had charge of the catering arrangements.

DE VALERA WILL DENOUNCE IRISH TREATY APPROVED BY COSGRAVE

Republican Leader To "Voice Nation's Protest" on Sunday—Dail to Ratify.

OPPOSED BY LABOR.

DUBLIN, December 5. — Canadian Press. — William T. Cosgrave, president of the Free State Cabinet, upon his return on Friday from the Irish boundary negotiations at London presented the terms of the agreement to the ministerial party members, encountering less dissatisfaction than was looked for. It is now generally expected that the agreement will be ratified at the hands of the Dail Eireann by a substantial majority.

Under the terms of the agreement entered into by the representatives of the British government and representatives of Northern and Southern Ireland, Article XIII of the Anglo-Irish Treaty is revoked, the Free State thus giving up any idea of receiving further territory in Ireland, in return for being released from its obligation under Article V to pay sums of money into the British exchequer.

In a statement issued yesterday the Labor Party denounces the pact as "unmitigated betrayal," objecting not only to the abolition of Article XIII, but the abolition of the "ouncil of Ireland, as destroying the only link between the two Irish parliaments—Ulster and the Free State.

Eamon de Valera, the Republican leader has made arrangements to speak Sunday at a demonstration in Dublin called to "voice the nation's protest against dismemberment of the country."

Cosgrave's Opinion.

DUBLIN, December 5. — William T. Cosgrave, president of the Free State executive council, in a statement to the press, regarding the Irish boundary settlement, yesterday declared:

"I am firmly convinced that the agreement signed on Thursday by the Free State, Ulster and Great Britain, marks a definite turning point in the checkered history of Ireland."

"The agreement completes and perfects the treaty signed December 6th, 1921. For the rigid letter and technical machinery of that treaty it substitutes a spirit of neighborly comradeship and co-operation, under the influence of which the old prejudices and animosities begotten of ancient misunderstandings will perish in the vision of a proud, prosperous and self reliant Ireland.

"It will not be long until that new and heartening spirit breaks down the barriers of class and creed in every part of Ireland, and enables minorities to play their full part in shaping the destinies of the entire country.

Mutual Forbearance.

"Ireland's need to-day is the need of the world—mutual forbearance and helpfulness, especially on the part of the strong toward the weak, in which the errors and mis-understandings of the past will no longer be allowed to clog the wheels of the future.

"Henceforth the relations of the North and the South will be those of Irishmen who in their different spheres are working in harmony for the common good of the country. Both the Irish government and the British government have made generous contributions in the confident belief that the settlement of all outstanding matters of potential controversy will guarantee peace, tranquility and understanding alike to the Irish governments and their peoples."

LAUNDRYMAN ROBBED.

Robber Gagged Chinamen With Laundry and Escaped With $290.

HAMILTON, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press) — Hooding his head and gagging him with laundry which he was in the act of washing, two gunmen yesterday afternoon robbed Pong Wah Lee, a Chinese, of $290 in cash. The hold up was not discovered until about 4 o'clock, almost an hour after the bandits had escaped.

ENGLAND MOVED IN BLINDING FOG

Traffic Was Almost Tied Up Until Blanket Lifted This Morning.

CLEAR WEATHER.

LONDON, December 5th, United Press. — The heavy fog with which London and the environs was beset yesterday, had lifted to-day and clear weather had supplanted it to the relief of a harassed populace.

LONDON, December 5. — Most of England was wrapped in a blinding fog which extended across the North Sea to the Dutch coast and covered a good part of the channel yesterday and last night. As usual in such weather, London was one of the worst suerers.

At ten o'clock yesterday morning it was blacker than a moonless night in the city. Street traffic was reduced to a crawl and many of the trains arrived as much as an hour late.

HUNTER DIES SUDDENLY.

A. W. Dahms, of Ottawa, Stricken With Heart Failure While Driving Car.

OTTAWA, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press)—The victim of a sudden attack of heart failure, the body of August William Dahms, aged 59, for many years a prosperous Saskatchewan farmer and later a member of the Ottawa police force, was found pinned under his overturned car on the Gatineau road yesterday afternoon. He was returning from a hunting trip in the Gatineau hills.

CAMPBELLFORD ODDFELLOWS KEPT FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Banquet Was Held in Room in Which Lodge Was Formed.

NO CHARTER MEMBER.

W. S. Grills Was Senior Member Present, Joining Lodge in 1886.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5. — In the same rooms in which the Lodge was instituted four decades ago, the Campbellford Oddfellows, on Thursday evening, celebrated their fortieth anniversary with a banquet to which nearly 100 of the brethren sat down. The Grand Lodge was represented by William Brooks, Grand secretary, of Toronto, and other officers high up in the Order, were D.D.G.M. Jetty Thompson, P.D. D.G.M. J. M. Clarke, both of Stirling. Other visitors were: J. Maynard of Bowmanville, R. W. Rider of Cochrane, C. R. McConnell of Peterboro, George Hawthorne of Copper Cliff, H. McDonald, G. Salome and E. P. Lager, all three of Norwood.

Turner Sine of Stirling, who was present when the Lodge was instituted in 1886, and who had been specially invited, was unable to be present.

When N. G. Frank Menzies asked that any charter member present would rise, there was no response. One of the oldest Oddfellows in point of membership at the gathering was W. S. Grills, Reeve of Seymour, who joined the Order in March, 1886.

The institution proceedings in 1885 lasted until 5 o'clock in the morning, and the festivities attending the celebration of the anniversary were concluded at 2 o'clock Friday morning. This fact was referred to yesterday by some of the members as an evidence of greater endurance on the part of those who laid the foundation for what is now one of the most virile organizations in Campbellford.

The Banquet

The banquet was served by the members of the Rebekah Lodge which was organized about two years ago, and the ladies were congratulated upon both the bill of fare provided and the service. G. Salome of Norwood said that he has been attending fraternal banquets all over Ontario during the past few years and that he never before sat down to one so well managed or at which a better spirit prevailed.

All the visitors who made addresses congratulated the members of the local lodge on the strength of their society and of the progress that had been made since its institution. The following was the toast list:

"The King"—Proposed by N. G. Frank Menzies, responded to by the audience rising and joining in singing "The National Anthem".

The I.O.O.F.—Proposed by P. D.D.G. R. Dunk and responded to by Grand Secretary William Brooks.

"Our Visitors," proposed by J. F. McGregor, and responded to by the D.D.G.M. of Stirling.

"The Rebekah Lodge," proposed by D. A. Montgomery, and responded to by P.D.D.G.M. Clarke.

By special request, short addresses were given by Dr. H. B. Longmore and P.D.D.G.M. G. A. Kingston.

The toast list was varied by a euphonium solo by P. G. George T. Salter, and a vocal solo by G. M. Lucy. The Ayrhart Orchestra rendered choice selections during the progress of the banquet.

The Campbellford Lodge has enrolled over 50 members within the past two years, and this was regarded as a remarkable record by the visiting brethren.

PETERBORO I.O.O.F. WOKE UP LINDSAY

Hold-up Stunts Looked Realistic—A Fraternal Visit.

LINDSAY, Dec. 5. — Thursday night some 50 members of Peterboro Encampment I.O.O.F. visited Lindsay Lodge, and before getting down to business, certainly woke up the old town. Several of the visitors were garbed as policemen and hold-up men, and they created no end of excitement on Kent Street before their identity as well as object of their visit became known. Holding up a member dressed as a woman at the corner of Kent and William Streets was so realistic that several citizens were in the act of jumping into the mix-up before they found out it was a bit of stage play. The visitors requisitioned a transfer bus, and the "police" proceeded to the homes of several triple-linked brethren who did not intend attending lodge. They were hustled into the bus and taken into lodge. Among those rounded up was His Worship Mayor Graham.

Belgians Urged To Work Overtime To Pay New Loan

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—A movement to have every Belgian workingman contribute actual labor to swell a fund for the service of the loan of $150,000,000 for which Belgian leaders are negotiating in New York at present has been started by Senator Despret, President of the Bank of Brussels and President of the Belgian Section of the International Chamber of Commerce.

His proposal, which he has included in a bill to be presented to Parliament, is that each workman contribute half an hour's labor a week and that his employer pay for this overtime, the money to go directly to the State.

Minister of Agriculture Van de Vyvere and Governor Hautain are now in New York discussing the participation of American bankers in an international loan of $150,000,000 to be used for the stabilization of the Belgian franc.

OMEMEE MASONS ELECT OFFICERS

Degree Work By Peterboro Lodge—Lorne Lodge Entertained Brethren.

BANQUET GUESTS.

LINDSAY, Dec. 4. — Thursday night was a big one in Masonic circles in the Village of Omemee, when some 35 members of Peterborough Lodge paid a fraternal visit to Lorne Lodge.

Rt. Wor. Bro. G. W. Hall, D.D.G.M., of Victoria County had charge of the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

W.M., Bro. Cornell; S.W., Bro. Dix; J.W., Bro. Carmichael; Chaplain, Bro. Ivory; Secretary, Bro. Thorne; Treasurer, Bro. Grandy.

Peterborough Lodge then assumed full charge of the meeting, with Bro. Campbell in the East. Following the exemplification of the Entered Apprentice Degree, a banquet followed. The toast to the King and to Canada was followed by the toast to the Grand Lodge, proposed by Wor. Bro. H. R. H. Kenner, of Peterborough, and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. Hall of Lindsay. The toast to the Visiting Brethren was responded to by Bros. Campbell and Adair, of Peterborough.

During the evening, Bros. Hamilton and Smith of Peterborough gave a number of monologues and well-rendered songs.

An organized effort is b eing made to have the present session of the British Columbia legislature enact a law providing minimum wages for male workers in industry.

PONTYPOOL NEWS

PONTYPOOL, Dec. 5—On Monday, November 30, a basket social and concert was held at New Park School. A good programme was given by the pupils and outside talent consisting of solos by Miss Maunders of Leskard, readings by Mr. John Payne, Pontypool, selections by the Gay Orchestra. Mr. Greig, the teacher, acted as chairman in a very capable manner. The baskets were scarce but brought good prices. When the concert was started a short time, a fire broke out in a barn beside the school, owned by Mr. McPherson. Considerable excitement prevailed for a while as a good many horses belonging to the crowd were stored in the barn. All the stock was saved with the exception of a horse belonging to Earl Gilbanks of Balyduff, which was on the barn floor. It was impossible to get near it as the fire had started upstairs. The people of the vicinity sympathize with Mr. McPherson in his loss as he just purchased the farm a short time ago. It was known as the tenant property and it was the third fire on the place within a short time.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

Under the Australian compulsory voting law the elector is not compelled actually to cast his vote if there is not a candidate with whose views he is in sympathy, but he must attend the polling booth and mark his ballot in some way to prove attendance. A failure to do this makes him liable to a fine of ten dollars.

SYNOPSIS

Connemara Moore and David Lacy, strangers, until tonight, are racing across Long Island in David's car. On the ferry, crossing from Connecticut, a stranger, announcing himself as "Pooch," had joined them. Pooch, now in the back seat, has just leaned over and handed the mystified girl a big roll of bills. Back in Aunt Celimena's Connecticut home is a worried company. Connie was to have announced her engagement tonight—to Bing Carrington or Salt Adams—but, instead, she has disappeared.

CHAPTER VI.—Continued.

And what a situation! Midnight or thereabouts. Somewhere between Manhasset Bay and Hempstead Harbor; Connemara Moore in deceptive fancy dress, planted in a brokendown—not to say up—car in the company of two strangers, obviously of nefarious calling, bent on criminal endeavor. For there could be no doubt about it; Mr. Pooch, of course,—with his fifty thousand dollars which Connemara could hear crackling in one of the more intimate recesses of her costume—but also Mr. Whatever-his-name-was. A nice young man too. A little slow on the uptake, perhaps, although he had picked her up fast enough, Connemara was forced to admit. Yes, a nice young man—a little less than Salt, and more than Bing, which was probably just about the right combination—but a crook, a crook, Connemara reminded herself. A fifty-thousand dollar crook!

"I wish he hadn't been a crook, I really do," Connemara remarked sadly to herself. She certainly had no intention of associating herself with any bright young stranger who appeared to be head for Atlanta or some other federal resort, unless he were dead back there in the road, which seemed not unlikely.

Where was everybody, anyway?

Connemara's wheel came to a stop—it could only have been a few seconds since the crash—and Connemara found herself staring at the two individuals from the Pierce who had now advanced much closer.

"What goes on, Ku Klux?" one of them inquired.

A flashlight blinked in her face, blinding her, and at the same moment there was the crack of a revolver over her shoulder. Connemara felt a hand on her arm, found herself jerked backward onto the road, heard the inimitable accents of Mr. Pooch in her ear, "You come with me, kid—over the speckled sands!"

"But Mr.—Mr.—your friend!" Connemara protested, and wondered why.

"To hell with him!" Mr. Pooch announced, dragging her after him into the shadows. "He'll have to look out for himself with them highjackers. Guess perhaps he's croaked, anyway!"

Yes, perhaps so. Anyway, there was nothing to be done now but follow Mr. Pooch, much as a tender follows its engine. As for the nice young man—let him go, the fifty-thousand dollar crook.

Which was exactly what David Lacy was saying to himself from his place of precarious concealment in the ditch in which he was picking odds and ends out of his hair. She was a nice girl—more than that, mysterious, charming, alluring; David Lacy allowed himself, the world, intriguing.

But she was a crook—no question about it, a friend of that poisonous Pooch, who had recognized her and given her money. Too much money. It was all too bad—too damn bad—but let her go, the fifty-thousand-dollar crook.

"Good riddance," David Lacy decided under his breath. "You—you Whited Sepulcher."

In spite of which he found himself wriggling along the ditch, in the direction taken by Mr. Pooch and that smooth-tongued young deception.

For perhaps the first time in her vivid young life, things were happening almost too fast for Connemara. She was able, usually, to pluck at least the tail feathers, as it were, from any passing event, but on this occasion the needle of Connemara's mental recording apparatus was seismic in its evolutions upon the chart of her perceptions. She was being dragged along madly through the dark by the snorting Mr. Pooch. Behind her on the road a commition of voices and revolver shots bespoke an increasing tumult, in the midst of which the gentleman in the overturned sedan could still be heard, plaintively abusive.

"What you firing at me for?" he kept inquiring. "What do you think I am, a shooting gallery?"

Aside from that, Connemara found herself just a breath or two behind the pageant of human events rocketing past her—in fact, she found herself entirely out of breath, in her enforced attempt to keep pace with the fugitive Pooch, whose grasp upon her arm had not for a moment, needless to say, relaxed. Mr. Pooch was steaming across open fields, hurling himself through hedges floundering over ditches, decanting himself on the further side of only too frequently recurring fences, and wherever Mr. Pooch went, Connemara was obliged to follow, a reluctant, gasping, willy-nilly tail to his comet, much encumbered by her nun's attire.

At last there was a sandy slope, the sudden level of a deserted beach, a glimmer of water at sight of which Mr. Pooch went into reverse. Connemara sat down at once.

"Wh-wh-wh—?" she remarked, and Mr. Pooch laughed.

"All in, ain't you, kid?" he grinned at her. "Pretty light on my feet for a heavy guy, I am. No time to lose back there; had to make our get-away."

"You n-needn't have b-bothered about me," Connemara assured him, and Mr. Pooch roared with mirth.

"Zat so?" he chuckled. "Say, kid, you're a hot one. Think I'd leave you behind with all that dough for them highjackers to get their hooks on? Now everything's going to be fine—you just stick with me and you'll wear diamonds!"

With this dazzling prospect in view, Connemara arose to her protesting feet, for the good and simple reason that Mr. Pooch had begun to move forward again—his hand, if anything, firmer upon her arm—prospecting along the beach. A few hundred yards away they came to a dinghy, a black dinghy with a white bottom, fast in the sand. Mr. Pooch shoved the boat clear with one hand and turned to Connemara.

"In you get," he commanded, "and sit in the stern—that's the square end—where I can see you, my gal!"

Connemara sat in the stern, and Mr. Pooch climbed in after her and possessed himself of the oars.

"Now we'll look for this baby's mother," he remarked and began to row, sloppily but not without results, for soon a darker shadow proclaimed a boat at anchor in the deeper water—a small power yacht, black with a white bottom showing when she rose on her line.

"Ain't no one aboard," Mr. Pooch observed, and let the dinghy bump.

But Mr. Pooch was wrong. There was someone aboard, who manifested himself from the tenebrous cockpit in the form of a genial voice heavily freighted with Scotch—both linguistically and liquidly speaking.

"Hooray!" said a voice, somewhat unexpectedly.

"Hooray yourself," Mr. Pooch replied. "What time is it?"

"'Snine bells," the voice assured him. "Nine bells, daylicht-savin' time. Come richt aboard and have 'smore coffee?"

"We'll do that little thing," Mr. Pooch chuckled, and helped Connemara up the side, much as a policeman helps a prisoner into the van.

The voice in the cockpit revealed itself as a little man in a white-visored cap, grinning delightedly from ear to ear. He was, it was evident, fried, blotto, ossified, in short drunk, as only a Scotchman can be.

NEW STRENGTH FOR WEAK STOMACHS

Indigestion Disappears When the Blood is Enriched.

The urgent need of all who suffer from indigestion is a tonic to enrich the blood. Pain and distress after eating is the way the stomach shows that it is too weak to perform the work of digesting the food taken. In this condition some people foolishly resort to purgatives, but these only further aggravate the trouble.

New strength is given weak stomachs by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because these pills enrich and purify the blood. This is the natural process of giving strength and tone to the stomach, and it accounts for the speedy relief in stomach disorders that follow the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The appetite revives, food can be taken without discomfort and the burden and pains of indigestion are dispelled. The following statement from Mr. Donald L. Latter, Lakeville, N.S., proves the value of these pills in cases of this kind. He says:—"A couple of years ago I had a bad attack of indigestion. I had little or no appetite, and what I did eat did not agree with me and caused me much pain. As a result of this trouble my general health broke down, and I finally had to give up my work. I had taken doctor's medicine but it did not give me any relief. Then a friend advised me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and I got six boxes. Before I had completed the third box I found that they were helping me and by the time I had taken the six boxes every symptom of indigestion had disappeared, my general health had improved, and I have since been in the very best of health. I look upon Dr. Williams Pink Pills as a wonderful medicine for all who are run-down."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CITIZENS OF CAMPBELLFORD TENDER RECEPTION TO THEIR MEMBER-ELE CT AND HIS LADY

Milton E. Maybee, M.P., and Mrs. Maybee Were Guests of Honor.

OTHER M.P.'S PRESENT.

Sir Henry Drayton, M.P., F. W. Bowen, M.P., and W. E. Tummon, M.P., at Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 5. —Milton E. Maybee, M.P.-elect, and Mrs. Maybee, who was one of her husband's most faithful allies and most efficient aid during the recent campaign, were tendered a reception in the auditorium of the High School Friday night by the people of Campbellford and vicinity, irrespective of party affiliations. The affair was a spontaneous and sincere expression of goodwill to the man who for the past four years represented Northumberland County at Ottawa, who at convention of his party was renominated without a shadow of opposition and who was re-elected, turning a minority vote of four years ago into a majority of over 1,200, the most emphatic expression of confidence ever accorded a representative in this riding.

Gathered together to congratulate Mr. Maybee upon his brilliant success were the following M.P.'s-elect, who like him broke all records at the polls: Sir Henry Drayton, M.P.-elect for West York, Finance Minister in the Cabinet when the Conservatives were in power at Ottawa, and who last night was acclaimed by his parliamentary associate as one of the ablest statesmen in Canada; one who will be placed in an important position when Right Hon. Arthur Meighen forms another cabinet; F. W. Bowen, M.P. of Durham; Major Belford, M.L.A.; W. E. Tummon, the new representative from South Hastings, and W. H. Ireland, M.L.A. of Trenton, chief Conservative whip in the Legislature.

Met the Visitors.

The officers of the Conservative Association, led by President Robert Lowrey, met the train which brought Sir Henry Drayton and the other distinguished visitors to Campbellford, and a long procession of autos proceeded to the St. Lawrence Hotel where the guests were entertained at dinner, after which all went to the High School, where the function was held.

An Enthusiastic Gathering.

There were members of the party and of the opposite political faith from Warkworth, Hastings and all other centres in the district, and the large auditorium was filled to capacity, some of the audience being obliged to stand in the hall throughout the entire proceedings. On the platform, with Major Belford, who presided, were: Sir Henry Drayton, Messrs. Maybee, Ireland, Tummon, Bowen, and Jack Haig, the newly-elected member of the Boys' Parliament; and Mesdames Maybee, Belford, Bowen and Mrs. W. H. Ashton the latter president of the local Women's Conservative Association. Major Belford announced that all the speakers, except Sir Henry Drayton, were to be limited to five minutes and then called on Mr. Bowen to introduce Mr. Maybee, the guest of honor.

Praise for Mr. Maybee.

Mr. Bowen was selected for this honor because he was the desk and room mate of Mr. Maybee at Ottawa, one who knows him intimately in his public life and no more graceful tribute could be paid any man than that which Mr. Bowen extended to his colleague.

Mr. Bowen said he had been intimately associated with Mr. Maybee for the past seven or eight years, both in the County Council at Cobourg and in the House of Commons at Ottawa. Mr. Maybee was always true to those who elected him and to his constituency; always ready to do a favor at any time. He was always at his post ready to give advice or to vote at any time. He has also been faithful to his leader. He richly deserved the tribute which was paid him by the large gathering in his favor.

It was understood that party politics were to be avoided by the speakers, and while acknowledging this Mr. Bowen briefly referred to the present situation which he said was not what the people would like to have it, but he believed that good would yet come out of it. Canada will return to the two-party system for the group system has failed. There are only two sides to any question and you must vote either for or against it.

Bouquet for Mrs. Maybee.

When Mr. Maybee rose to speak Betty, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Dolman, stepped on the stage and presented Mrs. Maybee with a beautiful bouquet of roses. Mrs. Maybee in returning thanks, spoke of the ideal relations that have existed between Mr. Maybee and his constituents during the past four years, relations that culminated in the gathering of the evening.

Mr. Maybe thanked the gathering for the honor shown him and Mrs. Maybee, the visitors who had come to take part in the reception, the local leaders who had arranged the affair, all those, including the voters of Liberal tendencies, who supported him in the recent election.

"I esteem it an honor, indeed," continued the speaker, "to represent such a county as Northumberland. I hope Sir Henry Drayton will notice that it is one of the greatest counties in the world. We can well say this when we consider the fruit and dairy products of Northumberland. We have industries, too, and if these are not thriving as they should this is due to misamanagement that can be remedied."

Mr. Maybee said that now the campaign is over all should forget party difference and cooperate for in no other way can we hope to advance. All creeds, people and provinces must work in unison. He regretted some of the propaganda in Quebec during the recent campaign and believed that the people there had been misled by their leaders. He declared that he had every confidence in his leader and in his policies.

"I am grateful," concluded the speaker, "for this expression of confidence on behalf of Mrs. Maybee and myself. In the campaign she was one of my strongest lieutenants.

Letters of Regret

Mayor Belford read letters and telegrams of regret from those who were unable to accept invitations to be present. He explained that Brighton would have sent a large contingent but for the fact that that village is mourning the death of one of its esteemed citizens, F. E. Marshall. Those who sent regrets were: ex-Premier Meighen who congratulated the people of the riding on their choice of a representative and who predicted that they would elect a Conservative again in the event of an early election; Thomas Green of Cobourg; E. A. Peck, M.P.-elect of Peterboro, Dr. Embury, M.P.-elect for Peterboro-Hastings; and Hon. J. R. Cooke, M.L.A.

Sir Henry Drayton.

After a few introductory remarks which included the recital of several humorous stories, Sir Henry Drayton alluded to the fact that he was not supposed to talk politics. Politics, he said, embraced the problems of the country and these required thought. Politics is the science of government and that means conducting the affairs of the country so as to bring the greatest good to the greatest number.

"You heard the call of the Canadian home," said Sir Henry, explaining the change in public sentiment as shown in the last election. "You heard the call of the exiles; the young Canadians who unable to find employment in their native land were forced to go to a foreign country for employment, and that is why you voted as you did. We must see to it that in this country of great opportunity and resources, there is a job and a home for all native born Canadians; for without employment there can be no homes."

The Present Situation.

Referring to the present situation, Sir Henry continued. "You know the count; you know how many there are on the opposite block. Mr. King said in opening the campaign at Richmond Hill that conditions at Ottawa were not satisfactory and that no Government could hope to carry on successfully without a clear mandate from the people, without a majority of its own supporters.

"It is bad when you get legislation that is based on bargain instead of principle. You do not get the right kind of legislation.

"Mr. King was right when he spoke as he did at Richmond Hill. Then how much more is he wrong today? Before the election, he had a majority of one, and now he is in a minority of 24.

"I think you can take this from me: As far as the Conservative party is concerned it will never bargain away its principles or sacrifice its platform for the sake of office. You cannot do well by bargaining."

Sir Henry said that what Canada needs is homes, and these cannot be supported without employment. The greatest failure in civilization today is the honest and respectable man wanting work and unable to find it.

"What we want," he concluded, "is so much employment that we will have the greatest number of happy and contented homes."

Other Speakers.

Short addresses were made by Mr. Tummon, who justified the reputation which preceded him to Campbellford as a gifted platform speaker; Mr. Ireland and Jack Haig. The latter ventured the prediction that the Boys' Parliament would turn out something better than either the Provincial Legislature or the House of Commons, which statement drew from Major Belford the comment that the present legislature deserved all the young speaker implied.

Musical Numbers.

The musical part of the program was furnished by Miss Hazel Atkinson, Herb Leonard, and a quartette consisting of Major J. M. Bygott, J. H. Bell, Walter Henson and G. W. Lucy. Mrs. John Storie and R. T. Cowell were the accompanists.

After the meeting, dancing was indulged in, their being the modern dances for the young and the old-fashioned quadrilles for the older people in the audience.

Simple Four Tube Selective Receiver

An Economical and Efficient Set Designed and Described By Harry J. Marx.

Have you ever noticed that when people get the idea in mind that a radio set must have five tubes that it becomes a pretty difficult job to make them change that attitude? Well, that's just what a lot of people seem to think right now. Just because the neutrodyne and other tuned radio frequency amplifiers used two stages of radio frequency in order to get the required selectivity, it has been taken as a foregone conclusion that allset require the same.

This is far from being the case. If the apparatus used and the circuit design meet specifications, then it is possible to obtain just as much selectivity and efficiency with four tubes as it is with five. Granted, some may want to use resistance coupled amplification and therefore need three stages of audio amplification, again bringing the number of tubes up to five, but the fact still remains that only one stage of tuned radio frequency amplification is necessary.

Everyone has been fed up with emphasis on low-loss, it is gradually becoming apparent to all that while losses are not being invited, yet one or two pieces of low-loss apparatus will not solve all of the problems. With the improvements in modern apparatus design it is no longer necessary to have a multiplicity of tuning stages in order to pick out long distance stations through strong local interference.

Four Tube Circuit.

In the diagram shown in figure 1, there is presented a circuit that employs only four tubes but without sacrifice of selectivity or volume. If anything, the selectivity is far superior to the average five tube tuned radio receiver. The circuit is not complicated or difficult to analize as may be the impression at the first glance. The tuning unit at first looks different but it simply consists of the usual primary and secondary, with a variable condenser to tune the secondary circuit. The difference is that the primary is variably coupled to the secondary which provides the first step in improving selectivity. Oh yes, variable coupling means that the setting of the tuning condenser across the secondary winding is affected by every change in coupling. This is normally the case, but in this instrument there is incorporated a compensating condenser that is also operated by the primary rotor shaft and this automatically increases or decreases a capacity value which compensates for the coupling change. This means that, regardless of any alteration in coupling the variable condenser adjustment for any wavelength is not affected. This is point number one.

The second point is that the tuned radio frequency transformer is not tuned by a variable condenser but is an inductively tuned device. There is a fixed primary winding, but the secondary is made like a variometer, that is part fixed winding and part rotor winding. By turning this rotor, a variometer tuning arrangement is made use of. This covers the entire wavelength range and is another step in the improvement of selectivity.

As may be anticipated, a circuit of this nature because of the elimination of losses will be of the oscillating type unless some control of this tendency is provided. A stabilizer, consisting of a 250,000 ohms variable resistance, is connected in series in the plate circuit of the radio frequency amplifier tube. By the use of a .5 microfarad by-pass condenser connected from one side of this variable resistance to the plus filament lead, all radio frequency currents are by-passed direct to the filament circuit, eliminating the effect of any losses in the circuit or broadening of tuning. This control is extremely effective in preventing oscillation and may be adjusted for variations at different wavelengths. It likewise provides a very satisfactory volume control.

Panel Layout.

The layout of the front panel for this receiver is shown in figure 2. On the left are shown the mounting holes for the variable clarifying selector. This is marked "SELECTIVITY". On the right and marked "VOLUME" is mounted the rheostat that controls the radio frequency tube. In the center are shown the mounting holes marked "1" and "2," the one on the right is for the vario-transformer and the left is for the variable condenser that tunes the secondary of the selector. In the lower center is the mounting hole for the stabilizer or variable resistance. Two jacks mount in the lower right corner.

STATIC CAUSED BY LIGHTNING

It is not long before the new owner of a receiver becomes aware there are other noises or sounds coming through the loud speaker than those sent out by the broadcasting station. Some nights the programs come in with such clearness and freedom from noises that you can almost imagine the performer or orchestra is in the next room with you. Yet the very next night the selections received from the same station are so marred by crashes and crackles that it is impossible to get any pleasure from listening in at all.

Atmospherics, or statics as it is generally called, is due in most cases to atmospheric storms or lightning that is in the air between the station you are receiving and your receiver. If you have ever listened in during a thunderstorm (a very unwise proceeding), you will have noticed that every time a flash of lightning occurred you got a crash in your headphones of speaker. In this way you have actual proof that atmospheric disturbances radiate waves which are picked up by your receiver and are amplified by it.

You have no doubt had your reception spoiled at times by code interference. The dots and dashes are produced by a discharge between two electrodes in the transmitter. A lightning discharge is really a long spark discharge occurring between an electrified cloud and the earth or another cloud, and produces a wave or effect exactly similar to that of the spark from the transmitter.

Generally, static disturbances are at their worst during the early hours of the evening, in most cases between 8 and 10 p.m. Very often it is so bad during these hours that reception from any but local stations is impossible. On trying again later in the evening you often find that the static has practically disappeared and reception can be enjoyed once more. There are several ways in which the effects of static can be minimized greatly, and these will be described in later articles

ABOUT YOUR CAR.
By W. Z.

CARE OF BATTERY

Several important rules must be followed to obtain the best of service from your storage battery, and in winter, when the temperature is low, an added precaution is necessary in adding water to keep it from freezing

After you take a hydrometer reading of each cell, add distilled water, melted artificial ice, or rain water collected in a clean receptacle, with a hydrometer syringe often enough to keep the plates covered, at least one-half inch

The electrolyte level should be approximately the same height in all cells There should be the same amount of acid in the electrolyte, and it is therefore important to note here to always restore the electrolyte from the syringe when taking the reading, otherwise, one cell becomes stronger in acid than others

When you find it necessary to add water in cold weather, always do so before running your car, because water, being lighter than electrolyte, will remain on the top and freeze Now, if the temperature is extremely low, start your engine so that the battery is charging before adding water While the engine is running, the gassing, caused by the charging current, thoroughly mixes the water with the electrolyte The movement of the car while running will practically serve the same purpose Water, added in this way, and thosoughly mixed with the electrolyte, seldom freezes solid only at a very low temperature

Batteries become run down much quicker in the winter time, if you are not in the habit of using the starting crank, which is much the wiser course to take when the engine is cold and the oil and grease in a solidified condition A bench charge must be given occasionally when a test shows it to be necessary, for in winter a good hot spark is necessary for starting your car when cold

Keep the filling plugs tight, and keep the battery as clean as possible; if the terminals become corroded, use vaseline If you spill any of the acid into the box wipe it off with a piece of cloth dipped in ammonia water, or soda Slopping from filling vents, caused by not making plugs tight, or spilling while making hydrometer tests, is the usual cause of the terminals becoming corroded

JAY-WALKERS MAY BE HIT IN NEW LAW

The Detroit Police Would Regulate Pedestrian Traffic Like Auto Traffic.

STREETS LESS SAFE.

People Not Careful, Says Commissioner Croul in Discussing Move.

DETROIT, Dec. 5. — The Detroit police department, cooperating with the Automobile club, initiated this week a move to promote the passage of a "jay-walking" ordinance when Commissioner Frank H. Croul, Chief Inspector Thomas O'Grady, director of traffic, and Captain W. S. Gilbreath, manager of the club, heartily indorsed such a measure.

This action followed the publication of mortality statistics for November, when 57 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The previous high mark for a single month is 34. The total deaths during 1925 now amount to 314, making 25 more deaths than in the whole of the previous year. In 1921 the number of deaths was 134 and, there has been a steady increase since that time.

Streets Less Safe.

"It is obvious," Commissioner Croul said in discussing the proposed ordinance, "that the streets of Detroit are getting less safe. This may be due to some extent to the increase in motor traffic and population, but it is fundamentally caused by the fact that people are not careful.

"The problem is immensely involved by the parking question. There is not sufficient room in Detroit to provide parking space for all the cars which want to park and the congestion at the pavements' edge is contributing to the prevalence of accidents. The driver's vision is limited and thoughtless people frequently step from behind parked machines."

No definite draft of the proposed ordinance has yet been drawn up, but it is understood that it will give the police power to force pedestrians to observe traffic signals in the same way as autos and to cross streets only at intersections.

Action Refused.

A similar ordinance was proposed more than a year ago, but the council, as then constituted, refused to place it on the ballot to be voted on by the city at large. Their argument was that the legislation was unconstitutional. Similar ordinances are in force, however, in Los Angeles, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Columbus, and other cities. Police in these places assert the regulations are enforcable and have resulted in a diminution of accidents.

Commissioner Croul is of the opinion that such an ordinance is feasible. He admitted that its operation in the initial stages would call for a great deal of tact on the part of the police, but said he believes pedestrians would soon realize its advantages and cooperate.

"The people of Detroit must realise," he said, "that they are living in a great congested city. They must learn to appreciate that it takes time to get about in crowds and they must govern themselves accordingly. Accidents are caused by the man who wants to cut off a few yards or a few seconds from his journey."

Carelessness Hit.

The fact that the number of deaths resulting from accidents in November nearly doubled the previous record, makes it imperative that further preventive measures should be taken, Croul said. The department had used every agency known to help cut down accidents, but they were not sufficient. What was needed was something to stop the careless and the thoughtless people from killing themselves, he said.

"I believe both the council and the people of Detroit should welcome a jay-walking' ordinance," Croul declared. "If there is any restriction of liberty involved, it is one that will eventually cause great benefit to the public."

As The Sun Goes Down---The House Of Refuge

PICTURES OF THEIR YESTERYEARS PASS BEFORE HAPPY OLD PEOPLE IN PETERBORO HOUSE OF REFUGE

They Have Weathered the Storms of Decades and Cast Anchor at Last in a Peaceful Haven Where Best of Care Helps Closing Years.

ONE MAN SINGS AND DANCES.

Appreciating Every Kindness, They Live Serenely in the Thoughts of Bygone Days When They Pioneered This District—They Want Picture Papers.

By W. Duggan.

Eight miles north of Peterborough and located about one hundred yards west of the road, stands the House of Refuge, a haven where human barks, weatherbeaten and storm-wracked, have come to rest with anchors cast overboard and the sails of ambition lowered or hanging limp. Twenty-seven souls there are, which have endured the stormy blasts of decades and now in the sere and yellow leaf of their lives' late autumn they linger, some with the fires of desire touched and others with some semblance of the courage which drove them forward still evident. Twenty-seven ancient children playing out the last stages of the hide-and-seek game of life. A few more years and there may be disclosed the great object of the search and the trials of the brave hearts be ended.

Eight old ladies with restless fingers—fingers that interlocked and fingers that twitched with eager gestures. One could almost hear the click of needles and see the swift certain movements of the capable hands as they fashioned a sock or a mitten of soft, warm yarn. Hands that showed the ravages of toil, hands that shone with the cleanliness and radiance of toil. Nineteen gentlemen full of years—bent with the weight of years, seamed and wrinkled with years, sitting on benches and telling of years which were no more—men dwelling in the past, ever reminiscent. No need here for further mortal experience, the cycle is complete, the wheel has turned its circumference, they have come upon the turning of the long lane and the future spells monotony.

They Are Happy Still.

But withal, they are happy! Revelling in experience with men and women cast by the same throw of circumstance, they pass the weary hours readily enough. Through the blue gray fumes of tobacco smoke the men see the pictures of what might have been, they see again, limned in reality, portraits of the past and exchange those precious views with friends who understand the pride of achievement and the poignance of failure.

Mr. Maize and his wife are the foster parents of those unfortunates and have come to hold their work in high regard. Mrs. Maize said: "Some of them are irritable and cross at times while others are always good humored. We, my husband and I, cater to their wants as much as possible and if we humor them they will do any thing for us. I never knew any people to be as grateful for slight kindnesses as these old people here.

"None that I ever knew responded so well to a kindly treatment. We endeavour as much as possible to make conditions comfortable and surroundings cheerful and intend if possible to brighten the walls with fresh paint and some pictures. The Board which has charge of the work is splendid. Every member of the Board is interested, and we have not the slightest fault to find with anyone."

Building is Attractive.

All about the building is scrupulously clean, while the interior is warm and comfortable. Standing alone, as it does on a ninety-acre farm with only the stables and sheds to the northward, the structure presents an imposing appearance. Access to the building is gained by way of a long straight avenue flanked with young pines. Near the main building is a garden where, throughout the summer the old folks may potter about or retire to benches when their slight labors cause weariness.

On Wednesday, when the Examiner, by the courtesy of the County Council, visited the place, three of the inmates were occupied shovelling coal into a shed. They worked with a will, stopping occasionally to lean on the shovel and contemplate the diminishing pile, possibly figuring, like all true workmen, on how much longer the job would last. After the brief rest they would dig into the coal heap with the evident intention of reducing it in short order.

Passing into the building, another gentleman was seen gazing solicitously at the boiler which he had finished stoking. Asked if he felt well he asserted that he was "kinda ailing," and the lumbago was bothering him some. There was another man near. Someone asked him what time it was and he made a furtive effort to locate a watch, then he smiled weakly and said he must have left it upstairs.

Three elderly ladies were sitting in their common room. At the first sight of visitors one of them began a recital of some ancient litigation in which she had been concerned. She said three men came to take her to court, she couldn't resist the three of them but she could have beaten any one of them. Another trio was found in a different room. When questioned as to their health they said they felt "pretty well," one added that she "never felt better."

A man, very erect, with a cap on his head, a red handkerchief around his throat and with the stem of an umbrella doing duty as a cane, was walking down the corridor. He was asked if he liked reading. He said he did, and often looked at the papers. "I would like 'pichers' though," he asserted, "I just love to look at 'pichers' and I wish that some o' them folks down in the city would send us some o' them 'picher' papers when they get through with 'em."

Six weeks helpless.

In one room on a cot was stretched the long and emaciated figure of a man. Out of dark pits gleamed his eyes; the head moved slowly. For six weeks, the matron said, he had lain that way—the winter of life was on the wing—that was a room of hushed voices and bared heads.

The men's sitting room presented a livelier scene. One rotund individual, more sprightly than the rest, staged a miniature concert and encumbered as he was by heavy rubbers and accompanied only by a not-too-certain whistle, he executed several intricate measures of clog dancing with considerable skill. Later the same entertainer provided two songs of the chantey type, tuneless perhaps, but eminent with the purposeful atmosphere of the logging camp. Listeners granted a full meed of praise for the display of adroitness and vocal powers.

These good people are resting, awaiting, possibly, with impatience, for the day of launching into dark and uncharted waters. They sit still and ponder on lost days, the aloes of sorrow dissolving in the wine of joys experienced. They know that the wings of contentment are wide and capable of supporting them in the last flight toward peace.

And the task of caring for them—making the last days brighter perhaps than some that have gone before—is a duty devolving upon the County, where they made their homes. The remembering of them at this Christmas season is the privilege of every resident in Peterborough County.

JAPAN UNEASY OVER CHINA'S MILITARISM

Is, However, Still Optimistic About Success of Tariff Conference.

By MILES W. VAUGHN.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

TOKIO, Dec. 5.—(United Press.)—Japan is described as "very uneasy" over the recent militaristic turn of events in China, but "still optimistic" as to the eventual success of the Tariff Conference in Peking.

Whatever happens, a foreign office official told the United Press, the Japanese Government will maintain its attitude of strict neutrality toward rival Chinese factions. No Chinese war lord need expect any support, either moral or material, from Japan.

Baron Shidehara, Foreign Minister, was described as viewing the prospects of the Tariff Conference with "calm optimism."

This optimism, the Foreign Office spokesman made clear, is not untinged with a realization of the danger of a serious flareup in the Chinese powder magazine. It is based largely on the growing power of the Chinese masses, the spread of liberalism, and a belief that war lords hardly will dare endanger the future of their country by deliberately rebuffing an attempt or the Powers to help the nation.

How I Earned My First Dollar

HONORABLE G. N. GORDON

When the Honorable G. N. Gordon was asked today how he earned his first dollar, he said it was so long ago he could hardly remember. It took so long to earn it in ten cent pieces that he questioned somewhat if he ever really got the dollar. He had for a chum in his native village, the son of the proprietor of the weekly newspaper, and after school they used to work their puny muscles up by turning the handpresses, turning out job work and the newspaper, and Mr. Gordon said as they were mighty small youngsters, it was a stiff job.

However, there was pay, and even if it was small in amount, it was a momentous income for small boys, brought up in careful and frugal homes, and visions of immense wealth were created by the little ten cent pieces, laid away with tender care to be used on some important occasion, such as the 24th of May or Dominion Day.

In those days, Mr. Gordon said, one cent pieces to the small boy were such appreciated rewards, that habits of thrift and economy were developed that stood even the shocks of these extravagant and wasteful days.

Store Managers Don't Like Girls Who Primp and Paint

Peterborough Men Think There Would Be More Proposals if Powdering Were Cut Out—Some Don't Even Like Modern Short Skirts.

AND ONE DOESN'T LOOK AT A GIRL'S NOSE.

(By Jeannette)

"If there were less primping and painting and powdering, there would be more proposals," is the alliterative comment of one merchant among a number interrogated as to his views on the question as to whether the habit of primping, as indulged in by most young things of the feminine species, has any effect on the selling ability of clerks in stores or the buying scope of the general public.

The majority of the gentlemen interviewed, most of them employers of feminine labour, registered a decided negative attitude to the suggestion that a powdered and rouged and lip-sticked lady had anything on her un-touched up sister, as far as sales totals were concerned. In effect, they say that if a woman wants a yard of silk or a new dress, she would just as lief buy it from a clerk "au naturel," as one might say, as from a young person who had spent the preceding five minutes applying a fresh coat of rachel powder to her brunette countenance. They don't seem to think that a twenty dollar hat would sell any the more readily if the price fell from lips just made acquainted with the latest idea in pineapple-scented lipstick, or that a Paris frock would get off the hooks any quicker if the saleslady gazed at the customer with an eye just brightened up with a belladonna lotion.

He Doesn't Look.

"But a shiny nose isn't a pretty thing," expostulated the seeker after knowledge, after being informed that any sort of addition to Nature's creations in the face line was absolutely unnecessary. "Yes, but I never look at a woman's nose, anyway," was the answer. "Remember what Oliver Cromwell did when he had his picture painted," remarked the same gentleman. "He told the artist he was to put in every last wrinkle on his face, or he wouldn't take the prtrait." (That may have been all right for Oliver Cromwell. He had made his mark on the world, anyway, and a wrinkle or two didn't mean much in his life. It's a different proposition when it comes to making one's way in the world no one's face value, as one might say.)

There have been merchants in other centres who have gone so far as to say that they are glad to have their feminine clerks primp. They say pleasing faces brightened by judicious use of lipstick and powder puff, help in making a store attractive, and that they don't begrudge the fifteen to thirty-five minutes per day estimated as spent in beautifying operations. But those gentlemen live in other places than Peterborough. The nearest any of the men here will come to agreeing with them is the comment of the gentleman who said he didn't mind a little of it "as long as they don't make themselves too awful looking." This was the same individual who requested a floor lady to have a girl remove some of the white stuff from her face on one occasion, and was rather nonplussed when the clerk said she couldn't rub it off, as it was liquid face powder.

Short Skirts Shock Him.

"We don't encourage it in our clerks, and if there was too much of it, we would certainly discourage it," was the assertion of another gentleman who is reported as being averse also to a too short skirt and a too fuzzy head. "Customers are more interested in the expression and the general neatness of the clerk waiting on them than in the powder on her nose," he said, going on to affirm that such beautifying operations should be performed at home and relegated in business hours to that innocuous desuetude which is the home of so many other unwanted activities, such as telephone conversations and lunch-taking.

Another employer of many girl clerks thought that it was absolutely unnecessary for a lady to seek anywhere for anything else than pure soap and water as beautifying accessories. "There are other things than powder for a shiny nose," he declared. "I don't believe in it at all."

There were no objections to bobbed heads. Not one was registered. Although one man spoke regretfully of the days when every lady carried around on her headpiece a wad of hair, done up more or less scientifically with the aid of numerous spiky hairpins. He repeated the old-time fable about her hair being woman's crowning glory. This is one of those polite fictions that die hard. It is something like the fairy tale about the hand that rocks the cradle ruling the world. In the days before Christabel Pankhurst and her co-workers got busy, when the feminine hand of the world was mainly employed in rocking its cradles, the lady who possessed the hand knew mighty well that she hadn't the least bit to do with ruling the world, or even influencing it. So with the "crowning glory" fable. Anyone who remembers the time spent in brushing locks that never would go up easily, the patience entailed in their washing and curling and arranging, and the headaches endured by the weight of a particularly "glorious" growth, will agree that it was more of a nuisance than a glory at any time, and will never want it back again.

There Is Still Hope For Shoes While Eyelets and Laces Remain

Boys Give Repairer Lot of Custom By Kicking Anything Movable—Older People, Too.

By J. T.

With the advent of the automobile a person wou'd be inclined to think that the repairing of boots and shoes would become a lost science. But such is not the case, although, according to William Petrie, a George street shoe repairer, the automobile has caused a falling off in the business amounting to almost fifty per cent. The people who are not fortunate enough to own cars and those who depend on "shank's mare" still provide their quota of shoes for the repair man.

"You will find," said Mr. Petrie, "that any of the shoes you see that have been discarded have usually the appearance of having served their former owner through thick and thin." If only a pair of shoes could talk, the tales they would tell would fill a volume. When they first left the store they were treated in a manner befitting their position, worn to parties and shined on the least provocation. As they grow older in the service of their master they get abused by being worn to work and gradually some day becoming relics and fit only for the incinerator.

According to Mr. Petrie, boots are still repairable so long as the laces and the eyelets hold together and to prove his contention he showed the reporter several pairs of shoes which he had received in the regular way for repairs, and, to say the least of it, they certainly did not belie his statement.

Most people wear their shoes out at the heels and toes, women being about equal with men. Boys, he said, are a regular source of worry to the average shoe repairer as they can usually manage to wear out a pair of boots in a very few weeks, due to their habit of kicking anything that appears movable. Shoe repairing is entering on its slack season just now, due to most of the people wearing rubbers or goloshes. The busy seasons are the spring and fall—in the spring, people are leaving off their rubbers and like to have their shoes fixed up for the good weather that is ahead, and in the fall they get them ready for the rainy season, as they don't usually don their rubbers until the snow arrives.

Where people used to demand a leather heel especially for their good shoes, he said, easily ninety-five per cent. of the people to-day have become converted to the rubber heel, due to the extra comfort that it brings when walking.

The old method of repairing shoes entirely by hand has almost disappeared. It used to be, said Mr. Petrie, that a shoe repairer had to sew the soles on by hand and then finish them off with a rasp and a piece of glass, but modern machinery has brought about a new era. The machinery in use to-day can perform miracles with shoes and when combined with skilful operators can make old shoes look almost like new. In spite of the fact that there are thirty-five shoe repairers in the city, not counting the neighbors who do the odd jobs, Mr. Petrie is of the opinion that a shoe repairer who knows his business can make a comfortable living at the business.

Utilities Commisson Controls City's Water and Light Supply

Succeeds Peterborough Water Commission—Users Have Grown From 1,520 To 5,309 and Water Rate is Lower Than in 1903—Story of Success.

HOW ELECTRIC POWER COMES IN.

Second Article in Series on City Administration Tells Important Functions of Three-Man Commission—Saving of 19 Mills on the Dollar.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission is the successor of the Peterborough Water Commission, which operated the waterworks for the city from 1902 to 1914.

The waterworks were established and constructed by the Peterborough Water Company in 1882 with a capita of $40,000 and the personnel of the company as filed with the Council was William Cluxton, John Burnham and Dr. R. P. Boucher of Peterborough and John Gamble of New York. Others who took a prominent part in the company were D. G. Hatton, R. A. Morrow, W. H. Hill, E. H. D. Hall and C. Stapleton.

The pumping station was at the west end of the Auburn dam and remained there for a number of years. In 1894-5 a new dam and pump house were built farther up the river at what was known as the Snyder property. The capacity of the works was 2,500,000 gallons per day and the pumps were made in the factory of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company. The dam constructed at that time was of wood and served until 1909, after the city had purchased the works, when the present concrete dam and pumping station were built by the Water Commission and two more pumps were installed, one purchased from the William Hamilton Company and the other, a centrifugal pump, from the John McDougall Caledonian Iron Works of Montreal. The dam and pumping station were built by the Bishop Construction Company of Montreal, and the capacity was raised to 10,500,000 gallons per day. A steam auxiliary pump and boilers were added in 1921, the pump being supplied by the De Laval Company and the boilers by the William Hamilton Company.

The City purchased the waterworks in 1902, after negotiations which had been carried on in 1901, when I. H. C. Denne was mayor and Henry Best was chairman of the Council Committee which dealt with the matter. The purchase was authorized by the electors at the time of the municipal elections in 1902.

The first water commissioners were T. H. G. Denne, mayor; T. F. Mathews and W. H. Hill. The latter two were elected and Mr. Matthews was the first chairman.

Legislation was secured that year which changed the constitution of the commission and since 1902 it has consisted of three members, elected for a term of three years, one retiring each year except that at the first election one member was elected for one year, one for two years and one for three years.

Long Office-holders.

The first commissioners held office until 1904, when W. H. Moore replaced Mr. Denne and for ten years these commissioners acted. In 1914, after twelve years of service, Mr. Hill retired and Robert Hicks was elected to the vacancy. Mr. Mathews, who had been chairman for the whole period retired in 1920, and C. E. Sisson became a member. Mr. Moore was appointed chairman in Mr. Matthews place but only occupied the position for four months, when he was called by death. Mr. Hicks was then appointed chairman and ex-mayor G. H. Duncan replaced Mr. Moore as a member of the commission. E. F. Mason replaced Mr. Duncan in 1921 and in 1922 ex-mayor W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., followed Mr. Sisson on his removal to Toronto. Mr. Hicks retired from the chairmanship this year and Mr. Mason was appointed to that position. The commission now consists of E. F. Mason, chairman, Robert Hicks and W. H. Bradburn.

City Assumed Control.

The city took over the electric distribution system in 1914. At one time three electric companies carried on business in Peterborough. They were, the Peterborough Light and Power Company, the Ontario Power Company and the Auburn Power Company.

The Electric Power Company of Toronto gradually obtained control of all the electricity producing and distributing companies in the Trent district, including the three Peterborough companies and the first break was made when the city procured legislation which enabled it to purchase the distributing system of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. In March, 1916, the Ontario Government purchased the holdings of the Electric Power Company and acquired the power generating plants and power privileges of the company, which included the Auburn dam, and the generating and transmission systems have since been operated by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario. The Utilities Commission purchases the power from the Ontario commission at the sub-station on Aylmer street and distributes it to the power and light users. The rates charged for street lights and other lighting and for power are fixed by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission as they are in every municipality which receives power from the Commission and all expenditures for extensions and improvements which are to be paid by the issue of debentures must be approved by that commission.

From 1520 to 5309.

In 1903, the number of water users from the city waterworks was 1520. That number has grown until at present there are 5309 users of the system. The revenue from the waterworks has increased from $27,316.69 in 1903 to $119,448.21 in 1924. When the City took over the waterworks, the rate for a six-roomed house, equipped with the usual three-piece bath room was $11.70 per year net and the rate now with the same service, but with the water filtered, is $11.12 per year net.

The number of electricity consumers from the city system in 1915 was 3620, and the number now is 6136. The revenue from the system in 1915, the first full year in which it was operated by the Utilities Commission was $98,042.12, and in 1924 it was $207,633.89.

If the rates that were changed by the company in 1914 had still been in force in 1924, and the same quantity of light and power had been used, the citizens would have paid $351,104.87 more than they did pay. This saving in one year is equal to a rate of 19 mills on the dollar, of the city assessment.

On the same basis of comparison, the saving to the people from 1917 to 1924, both years inclusive, has been $1,815,047.31. This saving has been made by the city purchasing the electric distributing system and procuring the power from the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, and the operation of the system by the Utilities Commission.

A WEEK-END WEATHER TALK

(By W. P.)

"The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it comes or whither it goest."

This is a quotation from the New Testament, and are the words of our Lord, and though uttered nineteen centuries ago—are, notwithstanding the advance of science and general knowledge, practically as true to-day as when spoken.

The variations and changes of weather are a daily occurrence. They are extremely uncertain. Long range forecasting is a gamble—pure and simple—though many try their hand at it.

Medicine Hat, in the Canadian North-west, has been called the breeding place of our weather. But more mountain sections, possibly north-eastern Siberia, should hold that distinction. The minor storms, rain in summer and snow storms of winter, generally originate in Texas, or some of the south-western states. The air becomes light, its density is not sufficient to support the clouds, and they gradually settle lower. Fine rain falls at first. The circle of rain enlarges. After remaining stationary for a day or so, it begins to move. Almost invariably it follows one path, and that is in a north-easterly direction—towards Lakes Ontario and Erie. Its centre usually crosses Buffalo, the Niagara peninsula and Toronto. In winter, it starts off as rain but, approaching more northern altitudes, it changes to snow. The snowfall south of Lakes Erie and Ontario is considerably heavier than north of these lakes. These storms may extend from Albany, N. Y., on the east, to Detroit on the west, and eventually disappear in Labrador. Some have been distinctly traced across to Great Britain, and thence to Norway and Sweden.

Our cold waves usually originate in Alaska or Northern Alberta and, contrary to the southern storms, are areas of high pressure, or heavy air. This gradually flows out and seeks a place where the air is lighter. Thence after a storm (whether of rain or snow) there generally follows colder weather.

This is probably sufficient for one little article, but if proves of interest more may follow. Many have an abiding faith in the weather man. Children, particularly, have abounding faith in his ability to foretell future weather, and he frequently gets credit for knowledge he does not possess.

One night last fall we had a very bad thunderstorm. The following evening on my way down town, a woman from sunny Italy, sitting on her verandah, called to me: "Mr. ——, you gave us a very bad storm last night. I vos scared out of me vits." I said I was not responsible, and tried to reassure her, but without avail. She said: "I've been told you make de veather. Don't let bad storm happen to-night, or I'll fix you!" As luck would happen, the night was peaceful. If there had been a storm I would have had to find a new route to go down town—one that did not pass the house of this Italian lady. My motto is: "safety first."—W.P.

She Could Hardly Do Her Housework Nerves Were So Bad

Mrs. I. M. Parks, Consecon, Ont., writes:—"I had heart and nerve trouble, and became so short of breath I could hardly do my daily housework, and was so nervous I could not think of staying alone, as every little sound I heard felt like a shock to me.

recommended, so I tried a box, and after taking the second one I am now feeling like a different woman."

This preparation has been on the market for the past 32 years and has achieved a wonderful reputation for the relief of all heart and nerve troubles.

IN fairyland there is a pot of gold at the end of every rainbow. This fancy becomes reality in the operation of the Mutual Life of Canada. Endowments are issued payable to the assured's estate if he dies, or upon reaching 50, 55, 60, 65, 70 or 75 years of age.

Thus if he survives to reach old age, the second period of helplessness, there at the end of the rainbow, is the "pot of gold"—not a fable but a reality.

THE ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

Have you studied the intricate but exact science of number, color, and name vibration?

Or are you among the back numbers who class modern science with palmistry and mere fads?

Whatever you are, you will be interested in this.

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, and who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

All You Must Do

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Give a pen-name for use in The Examiner, or, if you desire a more complete reading, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars, but if for any reason you desire to omit any of these, a partial reading will be given. Here is what is offered:

When full particulars are given:

The significance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; how you must act to gain happiness; whether the date named is an auspicious one on which to take an important step; your particular color; where to apply your efforts and where you will best succeed.

When only name is given:

The significance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; gain happiness.)

When only birth date is given:

How to gain spiritual and material success; the measure of your force and power; and by what color you are influenced.

When only full name and a particular date are given:

An analysis of the day, with a direction as to how best to apply your efforts. It is better to state briefly the purpose when seeking advice of this kind.

Please Remember

that the full name and full date of birth must be given, such as: "John Robert Doe, 12 March, 1899." In seeking advice on a particular day, state the date, month, and year.

And Take Warning

that "The Oracle" will not sugar-coat his pills. If you desire only pleasant things brought to your attention, do not send your inquiries to him. If there is a warning to be issued, "The Oracle" will give it; if there is a bad trait to be corrected, "The Oracle" will warn you of it.

No full names will be printed in The Examiner, only initials or pen-names as given being used. And any information given to "The Oracle" will be kept confidentially. Replies will appear the day after the inquiry is received. Here is the form:

Why Do Banks Offer Only 3% When Loan Companies Pay 4?

Bank Must Keep Its Funds Liquid, While Loan Company Can Invest in Mortgages— Why Some Bonds Sell Better Than Higher Interest Bonds.

WHAT CONTROLS INTEREST RATE?

The reason why chartered banks pay depositors 3 per cent. on their deposits as against 4 per cent. to 4½ per cent. allowed by the trust and loan companies on the same class of deposits has always been a mystery to most of the people who have savings accounts.

With a view to ascertaining the reason for the difference the Examiner made enquiries of one of the leading citizens to-day. The main reason is, according to this informant, that banks are absolutely forbidden to handle mortgages and must at all times keep their assets in a liquid state so that they can readily be converted into money so that monies on deposit are at all times easily available for the use of their clients and also in the event of the public becoming panic stricken and causing a run on the bank.

Trust Companies, he said, are allowed by law to invest their funds in long term mortgages and consequently are not called upon to keep their finances in as liquid a form as the banks. Banks also, due to their numerous branches, provide facilities that enable their clients to carry on business with people in any part of the country, irrespective of their own location. This service costs a considerable amount of money, so that the same rate of interest on deposits cannot be paid.

Bond Sales.

The reason why there is a bigger demand for some kinds of investment at 4 per cent. than others that appear similar, but pay a higher rate of interest, was, in his opinion, due to the fact that the class of investment that pays four per cent. is usually confined to Government and Provincial bonds and as such are usually readily convertible. They are also considered as first-class security when used for the purpose of borrowing money, and people do not have to make enquiries regarding their origin.

Some people imagine if the Dominion Government can borrow money at 4½ per cent. they should be able to do the same thing, and the reason they cannot do it is that when a borrower sets out to get money, the class of security that is offered regulates the rate of interest that he will be called upon to pay. If money is plentiful and industry quiet and not using it, the value of money will drop.

County Council Considers Purchase of Road Machine at Session.

Committee on bridges, schools and county property presented their reports at the meeting of the County Council held yesterday afternoon. Regarding the latter a motion was made approving the purchase of an adding machine for the office of the city clerk.

During the afternoon an interesting demonstration was put on by A. G. Turnbull, of Belleville, who used a working model to show the advantages of the Adams Leaning Wheel road grader. By the use of pulleys and weights in conjunction with the model placed under varied conditions he was able to prove that such a machine could be operated at a considerable saving of power.

County Councillors Are Resigned To Meeting Opposition at Election.

A number of County Councillors on being asked concerning their intentions for the coming year intimated that they again planned to seek township or municipal honors. While a few were not anticipating opposition the greater number expected that contestants would appear in the field. Warden Rye was unable to make any definite statement regarding his intentions.

Seal Of Peterboro Tells City's History

Original Drawing is Lost From Archives — Depicts in Graphic Form History of Community.

How many of us knew that this seal is the official seal of the city we live in? Well, it is. We were likely completely unaware of this fact, unless we had received a document written on the city stationery dealing with such important business as signed contracts, agreements, deeds of land, etc., and then perhaps we did not take particular note of it at the top of the sheet.

As will be noticed the City of Peterborough has a seal to be well proud of. It depicts dramatically yet simply the basic factors in the growth and importance of our city. It is all summed up in those four words of the motto at the bottom—"Nature provides; industry develops." The two figures represent these two great forces, the woodsman on the left with his pike-pole, and the mechanic with his sledge-hammer. Above is seen the rising sun, showing the rich promise for the future. The maple leaves, the beaver and the Union Jack leave no doubt as to patriotism. The locomotive and barges draw attention to the transportation facilities and the elevator points to the milling of grain, one of the chief industries of the city.

Original Is Lost.

It is interesting to know that at the present time the original drawing of the seal is lost. Diligent search among the old important documents pertaining to the history of the city contained mostly in the museum at the library failed to bring it to light. Old letters were found written in 1825 by Irish settlers who came out and settled here with Peter Robinson, but no trace of the original seal.

It is also interesting to know that Peterborough became a town in 1850, and fifty-five years later, after steady growth and progress, became a full-fledged city. At that time Peterborough stood seventh in importance among the then fourteen cities of Ontario.

Bearing out the ideas contained in the seal, an article written in a local paper at the time states in brief: "Elements that have contributed to the success of the city are: unequalled manufacturing and transportation facilities, loyal citizens, fidelity of educational and ecclesiastical institutions, enterprise of industrial concerns, solidity of mercantile and financial houses and, above all, the generosity of Nature."

Those men of 1905 had a clear vision of what the city of Peterborough might become. It is up to the present generation to make their dreams come true.

HOW I STARTED MY PROFESSION

The interesting skit of His Worship, Mayor Turner in the Examiner in which he tells of his first venture into the world of money-making leads me to think that there are many men who might contribute interesting sidelights in their lives and I should like to see a column in your valued paper set apart for this purpose, said John Crane, Organist of St. Andrew's Church, to a representative of the Examiner.

"My own initial step into the musical sphere started when, at six years of age, I attended the first church service, at which I had heard a pipe organ. Thrilled, of course, I went home and thought nothing but playing a pipe organ. Naturally there was no organ there, but there was a fine new door which my father had purchased for the front of our house but which had not as yet been put on, this I laid flat on two boxes in the yard and, with as improvised bench the would-be organist proceeded to "play." But there were no keys; this was a mere detail; there were lots of nails in the nail box and soon there were fifty or sixty nails in the door doing duty as keys. It was necessary that an organ should have stops, and a nice double row of three-inch nails were driven in for this purpose. While rather rough on a fine door, the price had to be paid in the cause of music and vigorous rehearsal went on. But, as in all other things there had to be a finish, and my father was the finish, and incidentally the organist, for, when father came home and looked over the "organ" he proceeded to explain some rudiments, not musical, except insofar as the baton played a part, assisted by such vocal help as I found necessary to give. My musical career well nigh came to an end, but my father saw the funny side to the affair and was most reasonable, when he could keep his face straight enough to seriously rebuke the would-be Beethoven.

FREE AT LAST OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

ILLNESS ENDED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. THOS. EVANS

"I have been troubled for some years with dyspepsia, liver trouble and kidney trouble, from which it was impossible to get relief until I started taking "Fruit-a-tives", which had been recommended to me by a relative. Before taking this wonderful Fruit Juice remedy it was impossible to carry out my daily work, but now, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives," I am free from those ailments, and able to do my household duties without pain or fatigue."—Mrs. Thomas Evans, R. R. No. 1, Everett, Ont.

The remarkable medicine, "Fruit-a-tives," made from intensified fruit juices and tonics, has more than 20 years of success to recommend it. It can always be depended upon to give positive relief from pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia and Headaches, which are due to improper action of the kidneys, stomach and bowels. "I Wonder If It Would Help Me"

"NEARLY every place I go I hear someone talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. My Friends advise me to try it, and yet I never have.

"I wonder why.

"Perhaps it is because I have suffered so much from nervous trouble and found so little benefit from the use of medicine.

"But they tell me that the Nerve Food is different. They say that it is not a mere relief from pain, but a restorative treatment, which will build up the depleted nerve cells and make me well and strong again.

"Goodness knows I have suffered enough from headaches, sleeplessness, hysteria and dread of the future, I want to get away from all this.

"Why cannot I enjoy life like other people do? Perhaps I have not tried to get well. Perhaps I have been discouraged, and thought there was no use trying.

"Well, I am going to begin trying right now, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will have a thorough test in my case.

"The future has been all black to me. I have thought at times that I would lose my mind. But while I have been suffering and worrying others have been restored to health, and I can now see my mistake.

"If Dr. Chase ever had a faithful patient I shall be one, and believe that his Nerve Food will do for me what it has done for so many thousands of others."

ANNUAL MEETING OF PETERBORO' MASONIC LODGE

Bro. W. A. Richardson Elevated To Post of Worshipful Master.

GOOD ADDRESS.

Rev. Bro. Shatford, of Montreal, Spoke on "Magnetism of Masonry."

Last night was the closing evening of the Masonic year for Peterborough Masonic Lodge, and the routine included that of the election of officers for the ensuing term. There will be a gathering of the Clans on the evening of December 28, when the Festival of St. John will be celebrated, not only in this city among Masonic brethren, but all over the world. At this meeting the officers elect for the Blue lodges of the city will be installed.

For Peterborough Lodge the election was almost a formality, for it had been decreed, in advance, on whose shoulders the several mantles should fall. The Lodge adheres to the system of promotion, and looks to proficiency and expertness, acquired by study and application as the only requisite, and having many brethren zealous to advance, from such the officers are taken. The officers, placed in several positions by appointment will be presently named by the incoming Master, who will select those with whom he will be in close contact during his term of office. The following were elected:

Worshipful Master, Bro. W. A. Richardson.
Senior Warden, Bro . Robert Cotton.
Junior Warden, Bro. R. J. Devey.
Chaplain, W. Bro. William Hill.
Treasurer, R. W. Bro. Alex. Gibson.
Secretary, Bro. F. H. Dobbin.

At an appropriate time the formal introduction to the lodge of a distinguished visitor, M.W. Bro. (Canon) A. P. Shatford, Grand Master of the Masonic Order in the Province of Quebec, was made; he being introduced and received with due honor as prescribed in the ritual. With a few brief words of recognition of courtesies from the visiting M. W. Master, the work of the lodge concluded.

An interesting interlude came to attention when M. W. Bro. Shatford, at the request of the Master of the Lodge, made presentation of beautiful Past Master's Jewels, to two past masters of the lodge, Wor. Bro. A. C. Herridge and Wor. Bro. R. L. Dobbin, each of whom had given one year in the Master's chair. With happy allusion and apt phrase these emoluments were bestowed, and in turn acknowleged.

The brethren then adjourned to the refreshment room, where lunch was served by Caterer Bro. Hooper, a member of the Order. Bros. John Smith and Edward Humpage gave a vocal duet, and were deservedly encored, Bro. Devey accompanying with the piano. Then the chairman, W. Bro. W. D. Campbell came to his feet and remarked that an important duty remained to be done, and announced that he and other fellow conspirators had learned that on the evening of December 31, the secretary of the lodge, Bro. F. H. Dobbin and Mrs. Dobbin would celebrate the 50th anniversary of their wedding day, the Golden Wedding Anniversary. In happy voice and words he expressed the feeling of the Lodge and extended all good wishes for continued happy life for the interested couple, following his remarks by bringing forward a very handsome gold-headed ebony cane, as a special gift to the secretary, and a beautiful and gorgeous bunch of crimson roses for the secretary's wife, the presentation being greeted with demonstrations of approval.

Bro. Dobbin took the full fifteen minutes allotted by the chairman for reply and acknowledgments and thanked the company and all concerned for the kind interest and sentiment that had inspired the beautiful gifts, and even hinted, that as nothing succeeds like success, and that embracing present opportunity, he might call around at the ensuing meetings of the other two Blue lodges, and see if anything like spontaneous combustion had set in. Brothers of other lodges, then present, were called on, by the chairman, to take due notice.

The gathering adjourned to the main assembly room and listened to a most interesting address given by the Most Worshipful, the Grand Master, whose home and clerical charge is in Montreal. The title of the address was "The Magnetism of Masonry." For an hour the crowded room was held to close attention while the speaker told of what it really is in Masonry that draws men. To do justice to the theme and to the intensely interesting relation, and to the manner of the telling would require more space than is at command in the columns of the press. The address was an inspiration and a revelation, telling of the world-wide spread of the craft, of the principles of the Order as recognized amongst all the nations of the globe. Differing somewhat in ritual and observance, as might well be anticipated, but united as one in the practice of social and moral virtues, to be exemplary in the discharge of all civil duties, by paying obedience to the laws of the State, and to dedicate oneself to such pursuits as may enable the Mason to become at once respectable in his rank of life, useful to mankind, and an efficient member of the Order.

At conclusion of the address the speaker was warmly congratulated on the remarkable exposition of the principles and objects of the Order which he had laid down, and which must have given many members a clearer insight into the motives and influence of the Craft than could have been brought to attention by any course of reading, even if the literature of the Order is very extensive.

The Lodge is to be congratulated on having provided a very fine opportunity, in an educative sense, by bringing from his Quebec home a high dignitary of the Order, one so well versed in the mysteries and science of Freemasonry, to instruct all local brethren who chose to come and listen.

NEW HOPE SEEN BY FINANCIERS

Return of Pound To Parity and Freer Foreign Financing Help.

IN BRITAIN.

Industrial profits in Great Britain in 1924-25 show quite contradictory results. For instance in the coal, iron and steel industries the ratio of profits to capital fell off from 4.8% in 1923-24 to 2.6% in 1924-25. In the engineering trades there was a drop of 1% from 6.5% to 5.5%. On the other hand the electrical industries showed a substantial increase in the manufacturing departments from 6.8% to 9.9%, while in the power and supply departments there was a decrease still the ratio was large, in the former period being 13.9% and in the latter 12.8%. Cotton manufactures held up well, showing a ratio of 12.6% in the last year as against 12.2% in 1923-24. Woolens showed a drop from 10.1% in 1923-24 to 6.1% in 1924-25. The chemical industries held their own at 11.2% for each year and soap manufacturing also held its own at 9.7% for each year. Oil and petroleum advanced splendidly, from a ratio of 9.9% in 1923-24 to a ratio of 14.0% in 1924-25. Rubber showed a correspondingly gratifying increase, from 5.5% in the previous year to 8.3% in the last year, while the tea trade had an increase from 33.2% in 1923-24 to 38.2% in 1924-25. It will thus be seen, according to advices received by Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service that the year 1924-25 was not, as many have thought, a year of unmitigated adversity in Great Britain on the contrary it was a year of mixed conditions of adversity and prosperity, and as the year closes the situation seems to be more hopeful.

The return of the pound sterling to its old parity, the lifting of the embargo on foreign financing and the lower price of cotton are all factors which give hope for the coming year to the banking and industrial world of the British Isles.

COAT HANGERS.

Always keep on or two coat hangers on your clothes tree. You will soon form the habit of hanging your clothes up as soon as removed and will be delighted with the way they keep in press with this small attention. The hangers also come in handy for the coat of the guest, instead of putting the out-of-doors garments on your very best bedspread.

BURWASH, England, Dec. 5.—(United Press).—Rudyard Kipling passed last night the best night he has had since taken with pneumonia. He was much stronger this forenoon. Clear weather after the fog of yesterday aided his condition.

Butter sold from 43 to 50 cents a pound, and chickens from 20 to 23 cents a pound. Upstairs, clover honey in five-pound pails was 65 cents, and sections 25 cents. CITIZENS MUST BE CONFIDENT OF FUTURE OF PETERBOROUGH IF PROGRESS IS TO BE MADE

A. J. Reynolds Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Has No Doubts of Destiny of City—Business is On Up-Grade After Slump.

"ANYONE WHO DOUBTS IS SIMPLY STUPID."

The past few years have not been satisfactory from a business viewpoint to Canada as a whole, consequently Peterborough has suffered in common with the rest of the country but, owing to the diversity of her natural and industrial advantages, she has fared better than most Canadian cities. The cause of the recent depression is not hard to find. An individual cannot have a debauch without a subsequent headache. A country cannot have a war such as Canada endured without its economic aftermath. What we have had is simply a post-war headache—and that headache is getting better, and, as in the individual so in Canada, our youth and energy assists in the early improvement of the malady. Anyone who doubts the future growth and prosperity of Canada, in spite of our present difficulties, is simply stupid. As the country improves, so does our city. The banks in Canada have lots of what has been called "timid money" to lend—timid because industry had not the courage to expand in view of conditions as they existed in regard to opportunity and high taxation. This latter feature has been the chief drag but present indications point to its amelioration.

Peterborough has gotten over the hump and is now already starting to pick up. Recently I made, for purposes of an annual business report, a survey of the conditions in the main industries here for the past year. The consensus of that report was favourable with only a few exceptions of a special nature. Many of the local industries were steadily employed with textile firms particularly active, and the general tone more hopeful and optimistic than it has been for some years. I have myself confidential information of three events of a favourable nature in a business way that will likely develop in Peterborough within the next few months and the return of better times is certain but that return will unquestionably be accelerated if the citizens of Peterborough show confidence and help its coming. The outside public takes us at our own valuation and we cannot expect capital to have confidence in us unless we have it in ourselves.

WAR ON STRONG ALCOHOLIC DRINK MAKING GOOD HEADWAY IN FRANCE

Is Directed Against Absinthe, Cognac and Similar Liquors.

OVER 30 PER CENT.

Ruling Out Wine Would Ruin Quarter of French Farmers.

By RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(United Press).—Prohibitionists have carried their war right into the citadel of Bacchus. For the first time since the war there is more than a mumble of protest heard against the new upward trend of alcoholism in France and its effects may be far reaching.

France, it is usually conceded, will never turn to complete prohibition to solve her troubles. She has seen America's experiment and is convinced there is a better way. Russia' return to vodka after a period of "ersatz" products only confirmed the general opinion that America, too, will some day vote a modification of its liquor laws.

The war in France is not directed against wines and beer. Prohibitionists have directed their heavy artillery against absinthe, cognac, eau-de-vie and such strong liquors as Chartreuse, and fruit brandies. To rule out wine would bring ruin to the greatest industry of France and failure to one fourth of her farmers.

It was during the war that France decided against absinthe, the distillation of which was forbidden by law. Since that time, the French equivalent of "bootleggers" have provided Paris with a small supply of absinthe at inflated prices, but the general public has taken to anis, a substitute drink of almost equal alcholic content.

Figures made public by the Minister of Finance recently show a new increase in consumption of alcohol. In 1914 France drank 31,086,000 gallons of 100 percent alcohol. During the war this consumption dropped to 26,092,000 gallons in 1915; 19,734,000 gallons in 1916; 16,940,000 gallons in 1917; 12,848,000 in 1918.

Following the war drinking increased greatly, the consumption passing 22,000,000 gallons in 1923, dropping again in 1924 to 19,976,000 gallons In the first ten months of this year the figure of twenty millions has been passed and a new record may be established.

Doctors, too, have reported a corresponding increase in alcoholism among patients under their care. They have found that, at present, 10 percent of the men treated in Paris hospitals can trace their sickness direct to the use of alcohol. Among women, the average is 6 per cent. The doctors class wine, beer, and cider as "hygienic drinks", however, and claim to find in them a food value. Their war is directed against liquors of strong alcoholic content.

It is found that alcoholism is greatest among the working classes of the cities The peasants generally confine their drinking to cider or wine, depending upon the regions in which they live and whether the orchard or the vineyard predominates the landscape.

A study of the causes has shown that poor lodging conditions are largely responsible for the increase in drinking. The laborer, unable to find amusement in the crowded, dark tenement in which he lives takes his wife to a corner cafe where bright lights and gaudy trimmings suggest pleasure is to be found.

The cure, therefore, according to ardent prohibitionists in France is to be found in the application of a law against selling liquors of alcoholic content greater than 30 percent and in the encouragement of workers to leave the crowded factory districts and take a home in the model "workers" cities which are springing up in the suburbs.

The gospel of anti-alcoholism will be carried to the worker, not by means of the billboard or paid speakers from a higher social class, but by means of propogandists in the ranks of the workers themselves. The first step is to find these men who will be taught the lesson of moderation in drink and will then be encouraged to teach that doctrine.

SUSPECT FREED.

Charges Withdrawn By Chief Thompson at Windsor.

WINDSOR, Ont., Dec. 5 (Canadian Press)—Frank Frustaglio, 50 years old, who had been under arrest for three weeks in connection with the activities of an alleged gange of safe-blowers and blackhanders, walked from police court Friday a free man, but not until Judge W. E. Gundy had told him in the plainest terms that he had related a strange story at the trial Thursday afternoon. Charges of being in possession of weapons, and vagrancy, had been hanging over Frustaglio's head since Thursday, when he was released with the understanding that he would appear Friday. These charges were withdrawn by Chief Constable Thompson.

EASIER BURNED.

The garbage kettle is hard to keep clean in winter on account of the freezing of the waste. Many of us find it is simpler to put our garbage in the furnace in freezing weather. The fire is always shut up on cold days and the refuse is quickly burned without any resultant odor. Of course, do not select the time when the top door is open to burn it.

At the opening game of the Peterboro Basketball League yesterday, the Normal girls defeated the Senior Y.W.C.A. with the score 19-11. The two teams put up a splendid game. The Normal team scored first by a fine piece of combination. The Y.W.C.A. forwards were fine shots, but they did not get a chance at the ball very often. This was the first defeat in two seasons for the "Y" team. The line-up was:

Normal—Forwards, Laura Cook and Winnie Niddery; centres, M. Breeze and Rachel Arksey; defences Margery Baker and Geneva Roblin.

Y.W.C.A. — Forwards, Dorothy Graham and Gertie Gimblett; centres, Verda Graham and Nellie Francis; defences, Irene Chambers and Laurence.

Following the game between the Normal and Y.W.C.A. the Westclox played the Trojans. The final score was 35-4 in favor of the Westclox. The Westclox have an exceptionally good team this year. The line-up was:

A LAUNDRY TIP.

Clothes will last much longer and be a better color if always laundered before they are very badly soiled, to say nothing of its being a much easier task.

Touching incidents connected with the death of the Queen Mother are pictured above. On the left is the scene inside the church at Sandringham, where members of the royal household, tenants of the royal estate and villagers paid their last respects before the body was removed to London. On the right is the card, in the king's own handwriting, attached to the wreath sent by the king and queen. It reads: For darling mother dear, from her sorrowing and devoted children, Georgie and May. The wreath consisted of a great cross of lilies of the valley, carnations and orchids.

Petes Defeated 2 to 1 In Exhibition Game With The Windsor Seniors

PETERBORO LOST TO WINDSOR 2-1 AFTER LEADING IN FIRST PERIOD

S.P.A. Champions Started Fast, But Apparently Lacked Condition—Windsor Defense Spoiled Peterboro Attacks in Last Session.

WEAK SHOOTING A FACTOR

WINDSOR, Dec. 5 (Special to The Examiner).—Greater staying power and a spirited attack throughout brought Windsor a 2 to 1 victory at the expense of Peterborough here last night, the visitors failing to stand up under the savage offensive launched by the Blue and Gold in the second and third periods. In the opening period the S.P.A. Champions appeared to have a slight edge, but after this they soon faded, and the efforts of Captain Bailey and McLeod together with the cunning of Joe Dwyer were of no avail.

Paddy Farrell, goalie with Preston last year, saved the Windsor bunch time after time, but it was really the stonewall defence of Kentner and Wentworth that turned the tide in favor of the locals. The lack of condition on the part of the visitors was plainly evidenced.

Kentner, Brown and Farrell were the individual stars for Windsor, with Bailey, Ranger and McLeod appearing best for Peterborough.

The Lne-Up.

Referee—Tom Munro, London.

Both teams showed lack of combination in the opening period. Windsor especially confining their play to individual efforts. Toward the last of the chapter Peterborough got working better together and their team play had the Blue and Gold completely befuddled at times. Kentner rushed alone, made the first shot on Dwyer at the start of the first. Fred Brown, Windsor centre, followed with a solo a minute later, get past Parker and McLeod, and eluded Dwyer, only to miss the yawning goal. Bailey trotted on to the ice three minutes after the session started, and his generalship steadied the Liftlock City attack, with the result that McLeod drilled the rubber past Goalie Farrell. The Peterborough defence man rushed with Bailey and Collins, shot and then caught the rebound with Farrel flat on the ice.

Windsor Even Up.

This reverse spurred the Windsor sextet on to greater activity, and Kentner, Brown and Guest combined with the hottest attack launched up to this time. Dwyer was always in the way, however. Wentworth got through the defence once the Peterborough veteran came out and warded off the menace. Seven minutes after the first goal Walsh scored on Dwyer from a scramble in front of the nets. Brown shot from right wing and Walsh nipped the rebound off the Peterborough goalie's pads.

Butterfield sent Windsor into the lead one minute and a half after the second period opened. The former Preston right winger flipped the puck from about 45 feet out at a most unexpected moment. Until the last few minutes of this period, Windsor outplayed the S.P.A. champions. Led by Kentner and Brown, the Blue and Gold swooped down upon the invaders with everything they had and for 15 minutes played the Petes off their feet. The game roughened up a bit. The crowd warmed up over some of Referee Munro's decisions, who was really handling the contest in capable fashion. The play was fast and spectacular, wth Peterborough strictly on the defensive.

Petes Missed Chances.

Little was shown in the final period. Peterborough tried desperately to even the count, but their lack of condition made their attacks fruitless. Fierce backchecking on the part of Windsor's forwards made the visitors appear almost helpless.

Weak shooting was a contributing factor to the defeat of Peterborough Time after time the visiting attack worked past the defence, only to miss the goal by yards or shoot straight into the watchful Farrell.

Goal Summary.

1st Period—Peterboro, McLeod, 4.30. Windsor, Walsh, 7.00.

2nd Period—Windsor, Butterfield, 1.30.

3rd Period—No score.

STIRLING'S NEW HOCKEY RINK ONE OF FINEST IN DISTRICT

Building Cost $6,200 and is Free of Debt—Company Formed.

HEROES OF PAST.

Stirling Has Turned Out Some Famous Players—Whitty Born Here.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

STIRLING, DEC. 5. — The Stirling hockey rink, one of the finest in the district and a credit to the men who conceived and carried out the enterprise, is completed and during the coming season it will house a team that, it is hoped, will repeat the triumphs of the past and bring the championship of the Trent Valley League back to the village.

For a community that has turned out so many well known athletes, Stirling has been lacking in a building in which to carry on winter pastimes. The athletes who have taken a prominent part in the outside sporting world, the members of the famous hockey team that four years in succession won the championship of their league, were trained on the ice in the open air. Last season, Stirling for a wonder had no hockey sextette in the league and the promoters of sport in the village decided to put their burg abreast of the times and to erect a rink in keeping with Stirling's athletic reputation.

Joint Stock Company.

The new rink which was built during the past summer, is 180 by 85 feet. It was erected by a joint stock company and shares were sold at $10 each, in order to foster the community spirit by getting as many as possible to take a financial interest in the enterprise. It was no difficult matter to dispose of the stock and there are about 70 shareholders in the village and vicinity. The building, which was erected by Russell Johnston, a local contractor, cost $6,200 and everything is paid for. It is a steel covered structure, complete in all its interior arrangements. John Ackers has been engaged as caretaker and this means that everything in connection with the rink, from ice to dressing rooms, will be kept in first-class shape.

Some Stirling Graduates.

Some of the famous hockey players in the past who graduated from Stirling to enter a wider field of sport put the name of the village on the map. Among these was Vincent Whitty, who played with the O.H.A. All-Star Juniors of Belleville in 1915. Three years later this young man, who was one of the best all-round athletes of the many this village has turned out, lost his life in the Great War.

Another player of note was Harry Conley, who was with Belleville in the O.H.A. finals. Wesley Kennedy became a member of the Regina team and helped to bring the championship of Western Canada to that city. Frank Linn was with Smith's Falls last winter and J. B. Hough left Stirling and played with Belleville for two years.

An All-round Athlete.

William Whitty, who is in the hotel business here, and who was a brother of Vincent, is identified with every form of sport and is known as one of the best promoters of athletics in the district. Billy, as he is generally known, was born in Peterboro' but when he was two years old his parents moved to Campbellford where they spent three years before coming to Stirling, about 36 years ago. Every season that Stirling has had a hockey team Billy has been found in the line-up, playing right defence. He helped to win the championship of the Trent Valley League for seasons in succession; he did not play last year because Stirling dropped out of the League.

This village will put a team in the Trent Valley League this year and in another 12 months hopes to be swift enough for the O.H.A.

In all forms of sport, baseball, hockey or lacrosse Billy Whitty has taken a successful part. He was with the T.A.S. team that Peterboro had in the C.L.A. in 1910, playing outside home. Among his team mates were William Crowley, Jack McCabe, Ed. Dillon, Fred McGrath and "Deacon" O'Brien This team by a narrow margin failed to get into the finals.

The Rink Officers.

The officers of the Stirling Rink Company are: R. W. Meiklejohn, president; H. Tulloch, vice-president; Earl Leurry, secretary; Walter Wright, treasurer. These officers, with Billy Whitty, constitute the board of directors.

Some years ago Sterling had a lacrosse team but itis on hockey that the athletic fame of the village is built. Every summer baseball is played by a team ready to take on any amateurs in the district and last season the village had a good soft ball league.

MAJORS OPPOSE CONWAY TOOLE

President of International Baseball League Seeks Re-election Monday.

ANNUAL MEETING.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—John Conway Toole, for the past five years president of the International Baseball League, will seek re-election at the annual meeting here Monday with the potent influence of the major leagues tossed into the lists against him. Allied with the big league opposition is Samuel Robertson, owner of the Buffalo Club, who will lead the faction against re-election of Toole inside the meeting.

Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the New York Yankees, has gone on record as being opposed to Toole and has lined up the Detroit Tigers in the battle to place the reins into his hands.

At the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues annual meeting at Hartford, Conn., last December, President Toole led the faction which compelled the majors to limit the number of players each club could send to the minors to eight instead of fifteen. Several major clubs, notably the Yankees and Tigers, have vigorously opposed Mr. Toole's stand.

Billy Evans, American League umpire and J. V. Jamieson, president of the Blue Ridge League, have been mentioned as possible successors to Mr. Toole but pre-meeting gossip points to the re-election of Mr. Toole by an overwhelming majority.

Mr. Toole yesterday declined to discuss at length the rumors of the major league opposition against him. "I would rather not discuss this situation until after the meeting Monday," Mr. Toole said. "The majors are gunning for me because I have been told that I am considered the main stumbling block in the majors' path to restoring the fifteen player optional agreement."

INSIDE GOLF.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

By CHESTER HORTON

Rolling the right forearm — or hand—over sightly, that is, rolling it forward as the clubhead goes through the ball, will give the tee shot a tendency to hook, and the spin will cause the ball to roll after it hits the ground. This ball will out-roll the sliced ball because the hook spin, so imparted, is more of an over and over spin as a wagon wheel rolls, whereas the slice spin causes the ball to whirl sideways. Against a head wind this slightly hooked ball is a great distance getter, and the roll on it will take distance even if the ball lofts fairly well from the tee because the wind pressure against the ball operates to increase the spin and energy. You can best apply such effect to the ball by determining mentally, during the address, just what you wish the hands to do as the clubhead takes the ball. Do not shift your customary stance and grip.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Among the small but imposing party of camp followers which accompanied the Petes to the Queen city Wed. was yr. humble servant.

I am one of those gazaboes which like to watch the boys from the sticks put it all over the big town lads, which tame the Petes has been doing for the past 2 seasons, and so the S.p.A. game Wed. was all right from that angle. But I just want to say 2 or 3 things right here, not to knock, but just in the way of helpful hints, for there was times Wed. when the Petes were all wet.

They won all right from the young paddlers, but it was not the performance of a seasoned senior team which went to the O.H.A. finals last year. The back-checking was looser than ashes at times, while the boys up on the line couldn't seem to get out of each other's way. Us critics don't naturally expect to see a experienced team called back one dozen times for offside interference like the Petes was Wed., while it was harder than a crossword puzzle to dope out why the lads, which went down for a pass from the guy carrying the puck, thought they ought to keep a yard or two in front of him. Somebody ought to tell them they is no forward pass in the O.h.A., except in their own defence area. And again, the Arena is a pretty sizable rink, and there ain't no occasion for hockey forwards to pull off huddle plays.

The Petes' forwards is fast and shifty, and if they get working together playing their own positions and developeing the team work they should have aplenty, they'll keep every defence they'll meet busier than a one-armed guy trying to work a radio set. But the Petes got to remember they can't travel fat on what they done last year. This is another year, and if they don't get down to business and hook up together they're going to run into some outfit that won't give a red hoot for the rep the Petes made last season and just naturally knock them for a row of service stations.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS.

Some of the local hockey players, as well as O.h.A. seniors elsewhere, has been receiving wires offering them big wads of mazuma for playing pro hockey. These Christmas greetings is not signed by Santa Claus, but by a Mister Lindsay, which has been called the mystery man of hockey. I always thought Mister Corbeau of the St. Pats should be named that, for it was always a mystery how he held his job. However, this Mister Lindsay is giving the boys a chance to tell their grand son some day, "I used to be a slicker at this hockey stuff. Why I remember way back in '25 a fellow offered me $4,000 to play pro," and the grand son'll say to his self, "I guess hockey in grand pop's days must have been pretty crude stuff." The money Mister Lindsay offers is good—if you can get it.

I sometimes think, Mister Sporting Editor, that it taint no wonder there is bullsheviks. Last week this here Red Grange, the iceman-footballer, goes into a football game, gets a black eye, and comes out with $20,000 in his mitts. Next night our own Mister Bailey collects a black eye in a hockey game at the falls. Does he get 20 grand as eye salve for his shiner? Not exactly—in fact, he was dead lucky if he got a western sangwitch and a cup cawfee after the battle.

WELCOME TO OUR MIDST.

Glad to see Mister Bert McLeod, the powerful pill pounder, and Mister Shorty Burgess back with the Petes. The big defence man has been doing his training trotting round his new drug emporium—(that's Danish for store, a college guy slips me the dope)—and nobody'll be sorry to see him out on the ice, except the birds he's playing against. As for Mister Burgess, that little herring choker from the Province of potatoes and politicians, N. B., is small, but so is the point in 4.4, but it makes a heck of a lotta difference.

My face has been all twisted every since last Sat. trying to squeeze out a tear for the fate of the Queen's team, but I haven't been able to produce a sob. Not that I got a great deal against the Trickler, but those birds on the Kingston papers has passed out so much applesauce about Mister Batstone's men being unbeatable that me and everybody else who didn't get their education at Queen's has been hoping that somebody'd come along and massage a gridiron with the collegians. And for the neat job those Ottawa athaletes turned in the thanks of the whole Wise Cracker connexion is hereby extended.

MARKS—AND MARKS.

The hockey experts is in a jam about the number of marks on the ice in the pro games. However, to the magnates the only thing that matters is the number of marks that is to be found in the most expensive seats. They ain't selling hockey, but entertainment, and if the public walks up to the box office and planks down its twelve bits per the owners don't care how many lines they is across the ice just so long as they is a long line outside the ticket window. The pro game right now is magnificent, but it taint hockey.

Our Petes clash with Kitchener Wed. night in the next round of the S.p.A. series. The Flying Dutchmen still have some of their old-time stars in line, and if Mister Karges is playing Mister Dillon, the Petes' trainer, better lay in a stock of headache powders, for the Kitchener defence man does so much weaving in and out and circular stick handling that his opponents is liable to get dizzy. But the Petes should take the decision, for they ought to outskate the Westerners, and if they take advantage of their opportunities to score should win comfortably. That is the weakest part of the Petes' work right now—in front of the nets. Honest to pete, if a burglar got inside as often as they do and got as little out of it he'd throw up the trade and adopt a honest profession like selling Texas oil stock.

Signing off now. This station will be silent till next Sat.

Sportfully yrs.,

A. WISE CRACKER.

PRO STARS ON INJURED LIST

St. Pats and the Pirates Only Teams Without Casualties.

TO-NIGHT'S GAMES.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 4—Both Montreal and Boston Bruins limbered up here today. With the two teams were a couple of players trying out. Joe Matte, well-known in the East but for the past few years with Frank Patrick's Vancouver team, was out with Boston. A young Westerner, Holmes, worked out with the Montreal team. Neither player is signed by the club with which they worked out.

Early season casualty reports in the N.H.L. are taking on all the earmarks of those which emanatee from rugby football camps. So far St. Patricks and Pittsburgh seem the only clubs immune from injuries. Ottawa has young King Clancy in hospital; New York has Red Green out with a bone fractured in his foot; Boston has three on the hospital list; Montreal has Shorty Horne just recovering from illness and Siebert and Stewart well used up. Canadians have Morenz with an injured hand and have lost the veteran goalkeeper, Georges Vezina, who has returned to his home in Chicoutimi suffering from tuberculosis.

Tonight's Games

Some definite sorting of the teams in the National Hockey League race should come with tonight's three scheduled fixtures. Ottawa' Montreal and Pittsburgh are at present bunched for the lead, with Ottawa in the most favorable position as they have a game in hand. The Senators and Pittsburgh play at the capital and a definite gap should result between the two teams. Montreal meet the Boston Bruins at the Forum and have a chance to keep in a tie for first place by defeating Art Ross' players, or else losing ground through a defeat at the hands of the Hub team. In Toronto the New York team plays its first game on this side of the border this season, the Americans being carried to oppose St. Patricks. Canadiens draw the bye.

TIGERS WORKED OUT IN OTTAWA

Western Rugby Champions In Good Condition Except Laing.

FIELD IS MUDDY.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 5. (Canadian Press).—Howick Hall at Lansdowne Park resounded on Friday afternoon to the call of foreign signals and the scuffle of strange feet as the Winnipeg Tammany Tigers raced through their signals and line formations on the big tan bark floor. This was the last workout of the Western threat for the Dominion Rugby crown before they take the field this afternoon against Ottawa Senators in the closing act of the Canadian Senior Rugby season.

Eighteen husky, clean-cut young stalwarts under the managership of L. S. "Tote" Mitchell were included in the party of twenty-four from Winnipeg who booked in at a local hotel Friday morning. With the exception of Johnny Laing, the boys are in great shape and confident that they can extend the Ottawas to their very best. Laing is ill with a co'd, but is being counted on to be ready for this afternoon's tussle.

Manager Mitchell had little to say regarding his team's chances. The boys are all determined to give their best and are making no prophecies regarding the outcome. The dismal weather conditions are not worrying them as they state that most of their games this year were played in conditions that were anything but favorable.

With seven victories in nine starts the Tigers must have the makings of a good football team.

BROCK STREET ARENA FLOOR ENVY OF CITY HOUSEWIVES

Covered For Three Months With Ice, Yet Hardwood Doesn't Warp.

Skating on Canal Doesn't Mean That Ice Can Be Made Indoors.

Many a local housewife, looking over the boards at the Brock street rink, would give as much as thirty-seven cents to know how manager Jack Thirnbeck and his cohorts can put water on the hardwood floor, allow it to freeze and stay there for three months or so, and have the floor remain perfect, while at home the slightest hint of water is enough to make the precious hardwood floor curl up until it resembles the ocean on a stormy day.

When asked how he performed this seemingly impossible feat, Mr. Thirnbeck said, "It doesn't warp because we don't let it." Pressed to be more explicit, he said that only a thin sheet is put on the boards, which are, in fact, little more than sprinkled. When this has frozen, and a very cold day is always chosen for the first coat so that it gets no chance to soak into the boards, another sprinkling is applied, and so on until a good coat of ice is secured. Then the large hose is put in action and a good thick sheet of ice is laid down. Before the winter is over the ice will be nearly a foot thick, and in a long season it may be much more than that.

The method of applying the first coat also answers the query so often heard at this time of the year, "When will we have ice in the Brock?" The frost which will put a coating of ice on the canal, so that the young people can enjoy the first skate of the season, would not freeze water inside the rink fast enough to prevent it soaking into the boards and warping them. Again, flooding the rink last week when the canal was the mecca of the skating enthusiasts of the city, would have been usless, as the soft weather experienced since would have melted the ice by now.

Even with weather cold enough to freeze ice inside the arena, it would not do to flood the rink, as when a crowd assembled for a hockey game or for an evening's skating the ice would soon melt, as the heat of the crowd would raise the temperature above the freezing point.

Caring for a natural ice arena needs a combination of qualities. The caretaker must be to a certain extent a weather prophet so that he won't apply water just as the mercury starts upward. He must be a diplomat to convince the hockey players, the spectators, the skaters, and the owners that the ice is not fit for use just when they want it most. In very cold weather he must have a surveyor's or carpenter's eye to see that there is no slope to the surface which is provided. All these requisites are possessed by the present incumbent, who is known as one of the most expert ice makers in Ontario, and who has held the position for a good many years.

Theatre

AT THE ROYAL.

"JIMMIE'S MILLIONS."

The liveliest, most laughable and most exciting Talmadge picture, which comes to the Royal Theatre on Monday to give joy to the host of Richard Talmadge fans throughout the country, is "Jimmie's Millions," featuring the popular stunt actor. A great cast, with pretty Betty Francisco in the leading role, supports the intrepid Dick. Others include Charles Clary, Brinsley Shaw, Dick Sutherland, Ina Anson, Lee Moran and Wade Boteler. James P. Hogan directed the picture. The story, which deals with the trials of a young war hero who is always late in keeping appointments and who is left a large fortune with the proviso that he be on time for three months, is a riot of rollicking fun and spectacular Talmadge stunt stuff.

VAUDEVILLE AT ROYAL MONDAY.

One of the best local amateur acts to appear at the Royal will be an added attraction Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of the coming week. Collins, Brioux, and Harris in a novelty singing, talking, musical skit, "The Sign of the Rose."

AT THE REGENT

SENTRY IN "HAVOC" BIG INTERNATIONAL STAGE PLAY, HAD THE RIGHT IDEA.

Rowland V. Lee, who directed the William Fox screen version of "Havoc" which opens at the Regent Theatre on Monday, is a genial soul when time and the occasion permit—but he can be a strict disciplinarian if need be.

During the filming of the trench fighting scenes for "Havoc" on location at Westwood, outside of Los Angeles, Director Lee, who was an officer in the American army in France, put the entire motion picture company's camp under rigid military rule. Sentries were posted at all approaches, day and night, and no one was permitted on the lot unless actively engaged in the picture.

One night Ben Jackson, business manager of the Fox Studios, had occasion to vist the Westwood location. A sentry—veteran of France, who had served with the Canadian troops, by the day—halted Mr. Jackson on the outskirts of the movie camp.

"Can't come in without a pass or unless you're working in the picture!" the soldier said.

"But I'm Ben Jackson, business manager of the studio."

"Can't help it if you're the Prince of Wales. Orders is orders."

So Mr. Jackson had word sent to Director Lee, who came to his rescue.

Later in the day Mr. Jackson fell afoul of military discipline again. At mess time he joined the long line of soldiers before the army field kitchen, ready for "chow."

A khaki-garbed figure plucked at Ben's elbow.

"Have to ask you to step out, mister!" he said.

"But I'm——" Ben began. The soldier held up a silencing hand.

"Yeah, I know. You're Governor Richardson or Jack Dempsey. But only men in uniform get served here, see?"

So once more Mr. Jackson beat a graceful retreat. Who was he to stand before the Canadian army when Hindenburg couldn't?

AT THE CAPITOL

THE DRAMA IN COMEDY.

Jobyna Ralston, leading lady for Harold Lloyd and soon to be seen opposite him in "The Freshman," is firmly of the opinion that the best place to get dramatic training is in comedies. Jobyna always supplies the romantic interest in Harold Lloyd's features and at the same time she is usually in the centre of the dramatic interest. Her scenes seldom require her to be funny but she must be serious and dramatic.

"The relation of drama in a comedy is comparable with that of the axle to a wheel," says Miss Ralston. "The gags revolve around the drama and the more tense and serious the drama in a comedy, the greater is the appreciation of its humour. In a straight drama there is lacking this contrast. There the concentration on the dramatic is so tense that the big moments have little contrast but in a rollicking howling comedy such as 'The Freshman' or any other of Mr. Lloyd's pictures, a d. .matic scene is a change of tempo and of key. Another note entirely is struck that makes it stand out amidst all the fun as a big moment—a much bigger scene than it would be in a drama.

"That is why I like comedy—it gives me such a wonderful opportunity to be dramatic—dramatic in a way that counts, for not a single dramatic note in a comedy is wasted, while so many scenes in dramas appear to be superfluous."

Jobyna Ralston's entire career, which has been short but meteoric, before the camera has been in the field of comedy. At the start she played a few minor roles and then appeared with Max Linder in "The Three Must Get Theirs." When Harold Lloyd married Mildred Davis he chose Jobyna to take her screen place. "The Freshman," a story of college life and foothally days, coming to the Capitol Theatre next Wednesday.

STAMPEDE CLIMAX IN ZANE GREY THRILLER.

Players and Cameramen Risk Lives Filming Mad Rush of 5,000 Wild Horses for "Wild Horse Mesa."

Film fans, you who rave about the sensational pictures you have seen, you who have witnessed the screen's mightiest thrills, you who have enjoyed the dynamic action of epic westerns—see "Wild Horse Mesa" at the Capitol and you'll have something to brag about!

For stupendous action, for spectacular thrills and for the most gasp-provoking climax ever flashed on the silver sheet, this Paramount melodrama, which George B. Seitz produced from Lucien Hubbard's adaptation of Zane Grey's gripping novel, has them all beat!

Imagine a tremendous herd of five thousand terror-stricken wild horses charging at top speed across a vast stretch of tableland, headed straight for a treacherous barbed wire corral! This stampede—the final, smashing highspot in the photoplay—is pictured in all its terrifying realism, and was filmed at great personal risk to cameramen and players, many of whom narrowly escaped death from the thundering hoofs of the wild steeds.

The rugged and magnificent wilderness backgrounds are not the least of the photoplay's worth-while features. All of the exteriors were photographed at Red Lake, Arizona, where was found an almost unbelievable duplicate of The Wild Horse Mesa—the actual locale of the story—with thousands of wild horses inhabiting the place.

"Wild Horse Mesa" represents the ultimate in melodrama. It is entertainment plus!

ROYAL MONDAY

AT THE GRAND

Those beloved and highly irresistible funny characters, Jiggs, Maggie, Dinty Moore and others popularized by George McManus will be seen and heard in the flesh again at the Grand Opera House to-night. The medium is the latest of the "Bringing Up Father" series, entitled, "Bringing Up Father in Gay New York." Those who have enjoyed the dramatization of the famous McManus comic creations in the past should find the newest cartoon offering considerably to their liking. It is said to be resplendent with new and novel ideas, big surprises, screams, innovations and scenic achievement. Pretty girls in glittering costumes and colorful raiment are an outstanding feature, aided and abetted by a supporting cast of experienced and really capable fun makers, singers, dancers and entertainers. The offering is in two acts and six scenes with hilarity on tap from start to finish.

THE DUMBELLS' NEW SHOW.

Bright with snappy comedy, with a wealth of color, effective costumes, hilarious moments and spectacular effects in scenery and lighting, "Lucky 7," the latest and best annual revue of "The Dumbells," will be seen here at the Grand for a return on Wednesday, Dec. 9.

"Lucky 7" is full of novelty. Not only are the sketches varied, ranging from "Up the Hill," with its symbolical tableaux, to "Red Goes on Leave," a burlesque of life in rest billets, "Us Girls Must Have Our Fun," pure burlesque with irresistibly comical verses, and "High St., Africa," the latest in grotesque comedy; but the songs, both feature and otherwise, reveal a contrast and a range not noted in any previous revue.

"Red" Newman has two songs, "Colonel Thingamabob" and "Let's Star the War Again," the latter a rollicking ditty that promises fair to be as popular as "Oh, It's a Lovely War." Al Plunkett is right back in the top of his form with "Whiter Than Snow," "Hi, Hi, Ho," a radio number, and "As Long as She Loves Me," a sentimental feature. Ross Hamilton has two beautifully staged and set features, "I'm Wonderful" and "Darling, I Love You," in which his voice is heard to the best advantage.

Jock Holland and Pat Rafferty in characteristic numbers; Stan. Bennett, the same amusing "Johnnie" as ever; Ben. Allen and Morley Plunkett in their clever and diverting dialogue and humorous exchanges; Glen Allen, slim and fascinating, in feminine impersonation and dances; and Jimmy Devon in fantastic steps, with Capt. Plunkett's jazz orchestra and special inset framed features, all combine to make "Lucky 7" a show nobody can afford to miss.

The attendance finally grew to such proportions that an adjournment had to be made to the Sunday school hall, which was well filled. Numerous favourable comments on the address were heard at its conclusion.

At to-morrow evening's service, which will be especially for young people, the sermon will be "Something which everybody wants, may have, and yet will not take." A special choir of men will occupy the choir seats. They will be assisted by the women members of the choir who are to sit in the gallery of the church.

NEW RICH TRIAL ASKED BY STATE

Jury Unable to Agree and Was Dismissed—9 For Conviction.

CIVIL SUIT ADDED.

BATTLE CREEK, Michigan, Dec. 5. — After eight hours of deliberation the jury in the trial of Arthur C. Rich, wealthy Battle Creek youth, charged with assaulting Louise King, was dismissed by Circuit Judge Walter H. North Thursday night. The dismissal followed announcement by Barton Osborn, former postmaster at Tekonsha, the foreman, that there was no hope of agreement, and that the disagreement was on the facts in the case and not on [illegible] of law.

Before the jury reported Judge [illegible] warned hundreds of spectators in the court room and in the corridors that no demonstration would be permitted. After the jury was dismissed the crowd filed silently from the court room. Not a spectator walked to Rich to shake his hand, and congratulate him. His father, George R. Rich, president of the Rich Steel Products Co., and his two brothers were with him. At the front entrance to the city hall numerous stragglers waited for nearly an hour. Rich and his parents remained in an upper room for a similar length of time, finally leaving by a rear door, with three court deputies accompanying them.

Papers in Suit Served.

As Rich and his relatives stepped into their automobile Sheriff George Colby took a seat in the same car. On the way to the Rich home he served a capias on Arthur Rich resulting from a $100,000 damage suit filed against Rich by Louise King and her mother, Mrs. Monta King, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, 40 minutes after the jury began deliberating on Rich's guilt or innocence on the criminal charge.

A bond of $10,000, signed by his father to insure Rich's appearance in the civil suit, had been pre-arranged, and the sheriff's action was routine. Rich's bond for $25,000 on the criminal charge was renewed immediately after the dismissal of the jury. Rich, it is admitted hasn't a cent. His father's wealth is estimated at nearly $1,000,000.

AT THE ROSE BALL.

The annual Rose Ball of the Rotary Annes' Society was held in the G.W.V.A. Hall last evening, with an attendance of nearly two hundred people. The arrangements, in charge of numerous energetic committees, were excellent, and the dance was a very enjoyable event. The decorations were exceptionally attractive, surpassing the previous good record of the Rotary Annes in this respect. Varying shades of pink roses which are always a feature of the Rose Ball were much in evidence. Artistic, large, lantern-shaped shades were on the electroliers, done in rose-pink paper, their four sides centered with a girl's head in silhouette, surrounded by a wreath of wild roses and topped by large black tassels. Silhouettes of old-time ladies and gentlemen bowed to each other on the black and white squares of the paper which covered the windows, and pale green fringes topped the doorways, with garlands of small pink roses and rose-pink paper curtains on the north door. A large pot of artificial roses with tall green foliage was another feature, and from the central electrolier suspended a basket of pink streamers, caught by huge, wonderfully shaped pink blossoms. Tall roses also appeared in the evergreen foliage which surrounded the musicians' stand and on the green arbor which made its entrance. Against the wall, between the window-spaces, were old-fashioned baskets holding clusters of the same bright blooms.

A cosy sitting-out room was contrived in the small interior at the rear of the hall, where wicker furniture, plenty of cushions, ferns and palms and tall stands filled with silken zinnias in odd shades, made a lovely retreat.

Splendid music was provided by Ken Blood's four-piece orchestra, and a number of novelty dances were a jolly addition to the programme. A big pink rose for the Rose Dance, passed from couple to couple, finally ended with Mrs. R. Abbott and J. Renwick, who were compelled to sing a duet, "Just a Song at Twilight," from the musicians' stand.

The Surprise Dance ended with Miss Mathilde Masson and Dr. G. H. Howson, the former having to wash out a tiny suit of B.V.D.s, and the latter to pin them to the line. The surprise package which was the prize for this dance provided materials for the work. Two Favor Dances were pretty numbers,—one with rattles for the men and confetti-filled bags for their partners; the other with paper parasols. The orchestra played "Let It Rain, Let It Pour" for this dance.

Mrs. Gerald Wood, president of the Rotary Annes, acted as general convener of arrangements. Mrs. J. H. Seels had charge of the decorations; Mrs. C. G. Graham of the dance, and Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, in the absence of Mrs C. H. Rogers, of the refreshments.

Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. H. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Kingan, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. WEDDING BELLS.

CROUTER—HOWARTH.

A pretty wedding took place on the evening of December 3rd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Crouter, 303 Bethune Street, when their youngest son, Ross Ormond, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Eva Howarth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howarth, of this city. The Rev. W. Allan of St. Paul's Church officiated. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. The bride looked lovely in a gown of navy blue georgette, worn over a slip of rose satin. The bride was assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Crouter, who wore a dress of cinnamon brown crepe trimmed with black fur; while the groom was supported by his brother, Clarence Crouter.

After the ceremony a dainty buffet luncheon was served to the guests, numbering about fifty.

The bride received a number of beautiful presents, including a three-piece salad dish given by the girls of the bundling department of the Bonner-Worth, where she was employed.

Mr. and Mrs. Crouter will reside in Peterboro.

FELL FROM BELT.

James Pakenham Believed Not Seriously Hurt in Mill Accident.

As James Pakenham was making use of a belt elevator in the oatmeal mill of the Quaker Oats, a box of tools which he was carrying caught on the floor he was passing, with the result that he was toppled from the platform of the elevator and fell to the floor below, according to stories told by some of the employees. One of the men said that he believed there was no serious injury but that Mr. Pakenham was badly shaken up. Another said that as he had suffered a stroke a short while ago there might be ill effects resulting from the fall.

Salt added to the vase containing cut flowers will help to keep them alive.

UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA ARE REGARDED AS ESSENTIAL TO ANY CONFERENCE UPON DISARMAMENT

Will Be Invited To Co-operate By League of Nations Council.

NEW COMMISSION.

Creation Proposed To Arrange Preliminaries For Conference.

GENEVA, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—Both the United States and Russia will be invited to participate in the preparatory work for the proposed conference to bring about world disarmament, if the Council of the League of Nations approves measures agreed upon Friday by the council No. 2, especially appointed by the league to treat with disarmament problems.

Although no official announcement concerning the measure was made, the press was informed last night that the members of the disarmament council agreed that no international conference to reduce armaments could hope to succeed without the collaboration of both the United States and Russia.

The necessity of having the co-operation of Russia in disarmament moves became evident at the conference for the control of traffic in arms, when the countries bordering on Russia withheld final approval of the convention until such time as Russia would adhere to the document.

Create New Commission.

An official communique explains that a new commission will be created to prepare for a conference which has been named "The Preparatory Commission for the Disarmament Conference." It will have as members those countries holding seats on the council, in addition to "States which are in a special position as regards disarmament." Moreover, any state not represented shall be entitled to send in a memorandum, and the commission would be entitled to ask any State interested in a given question to furnish information concerning its own viewpoint.

Discussing the decisions, M. Boncour, of France, as president of the council, emphasized that they must be aproved by the main council of the league.

It is understood that the announcement concerning the United States and Russia is to be withheld until invitations to be addressed to them can be composed, that for Russia being especially delicate.

Scope of Commission.

The commission, according to league circles, will eventually be made up of delegates from about 17 governments, Germany of course being included as a future member of the league council. It has also been decided that the new commission should be empowered to consult with the technical organizations of the league; first, the league's permanent commission on military and naval questions; and, second, the special group composed of representatives of the league's economic, financial and transit organizations, and the international labor bureau.

The labor bureau will supply four members to this second advisory body, two being labor delegates and two employers.

Both the advisory bodies are expected to sit together when the military and economical and finacial aspects of the disarmament problems require joint treatment and the disarmament commission needs advice.

M. Poncour declared the council decided to keep the membership of the commission down to delegates of governments because of the essentially political character of questions connected with disarmament.

OPPONENTS IN BAGOT EXCHANGED PERSONAL COMPLIMENTS, ENDING CAMPAIGN WITH CLASP OF HANDS

Amenities of Political Respect Were Observed in Quebec Riding.

BALLOTING TODAY

Liberal Elected October 29 With Majority of 774—Rural Seat.

ACTON VALE, Que., Dec. 7—(Canadian Press) — Bagot goes to the polls today. At St. Rosalie on Saturday, the two candidates, Hon. Andre Fauteux, Conservative, and C. O. Morin, Liberal, held the last of their joint meetings. They opened them with an understanding not to indulge in personalities. In the interval, they have spoken together from a dozen platforms, in every parish in the county. Their joint meetings closed at Ste. Rosalie with a friendly handshake and the exchange of personal compliments.

The first Federal by-election since the recent general elections, the result in Bagot will be awaited by all parties with the keenest interest. During the ten days or so of actual fighting, speakers, organizers and workers of both parties have thronged the county. On the one hand, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, personally visited the constituency and spoke in French at three meetings; on the other, the Liberal fight was led by Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. Lucien Cannon, solicitor general.

Bagot is almost entirely French-speaking and almost entirely rural. Except for a few words in English by Mr. Meighen at Acton Vale, the by-election campaign was conducted throughout in French. In the whole county, there is only one town, that of Acton Vale, and in Acton Vale, the total votes cast in the general elections numbered less than six hundred. For the rest, there are only village or parish polling subdivisions.

Liberal Majority 774

In the general elections of Oct. 29 last, the total of votes cast in Bagot was only 6,368. D. E. Marcile of Acton Vale, the sitting Liberal member, secured 3,571, and had a majority of 774 over his opponent, Mr. Fauteux, who is again a candidate in the present by-election. Mr. Marcile (whose recent death created the vacancy in Bagot) has, in the general elections a majority

VOTE IN BAGOT WILL BE LIGHT

Thaws and Heavy Rains Have Turned Roads Into Quagmires.

ACTONVILLE, Que., Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press).—The expectation of party organizers was that voting in the Federal bye-election in Bagot County to-day will not be heavy. Thaws and heavy rains recently have turned many roads into quagmires, making travel very difficult. A big effort, however, is being made by both sides to get the vote out. The polls close at six o'clock. The candidates are G. D. Morin, Liberal, and Hon. Andre Fauteux, Conservative. The bye-election was rendered necessary by the death of the member-elect, J. E. Marcile.

European Doctor Files Suit Chinese Paper Libelled Him

SHANGHAI, Dec. 7. (United Press).—China takes an untrue view of surgery and other Western methods, according to Dr. Peter Schmidt of Berlin, colleague of the famous Professor Steinach of Vienna.

He has filed here a libel suit against a Chinese newspaper, which, he claims, deliberately misrepresented the nature of his operations, with the result that his practice is ruined and he is obliged to leave China.

CHANG'S TROOPS IN FULL FLIGHT

Treacherous Act By Rebel Forces Resulted in Great Slaughter.

CHANG TO RESIGN.

PEKING, December 7. — United Press. — Forces of the Manchurian War Lord, General Chang Tso Lin, fighting in the vicinity of Mukden, have suffered a serious collapse, and many of them have been slaughtered as the result of a trick by the enemy.

Reports reaching here even claim that Chang Tso Lin attempted to commit suicide after hearing how the insurgent forces, after making an overture of peace, had mowed down his men when they came to close range, with their rifles outstretched, as in surrender.

Heavy losses for the Mukden forces are reported as a result of the conflict, which, starting on the left wing, spread out on the entire front. The loyal troops are reported in a flight to Mukden, which is said to be a panic. Some of the high officials are reported seeking protection under Japanese protection, while Chang Tso Lin is said to have offered to resign; evacuating Mukden troops are looting and burning at Chin Chow.

INCREASED ACTIVITY.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press).—At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal to-day, Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., the president, said there was no question but that the trend of business in Canada was slowly but surely upward. As an evidence of this, car loadings were the largest on record, while wholesale and retail business showed a fair degree of increased activity.

COOLIDGE SAYS CO-OPERATION IS BEST SOLUTION

Will Give It His Assistance in Order To Solve Farmers' Problem.

BETTER FACILITIES.

Crop Surplus Trouble Would Be Removed By More Warehouses.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press). — Convinced that co-operative marketing with Governmental encouragement offers the best possible solution of the farmers' problem, President Coolidge intends to give the movement his active and energetic assistance. He is opposed to proposals that the Government sell and buy farm products or fix prices directly or indirectly. Further, he believes the present tariff duties benefit the farmer and should not be revised.

Outlining his views on the agricultural situation and proposed remedies in an address to-day at the annual convention here of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the President said that, despite its present embarrassments, agriculture as a whole should lead the industry in future prosperity.

Referring to the co-operative movement as a vast important development of late years in the agricultural field, and emphasizing the crop surplus problem as a vexing factor in farm price situation, Mr. Coolidge expressed the opinion that with better warehouses and storage facilities and a better credit structure, much can be done to take care of ordinary surplus.

Mr. Coolidge said protection was a great benefit to agriculture as a whole.

Mr. Booth is in a semi-conscious state and only able to nod his head or murmur in answer to questions. His death is expected at any moment.

DE VALERA SAYS NEW TREATY IS GREAT OUTRAGE

Dublin Crowd Blocked Street Traffic for Hours at Sunday Meeting.

REPUBLICAN FURY

Leader Blames English for Agreement Cosgrave and Craig Approve.

DUBLIN, Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press.)— Deputies from both the North and the South of Ireland spoke at a meeting in O'Connell street, in Dublin, Sunday, held as a "protest against the dismemberment of Ireland." The attendance was so great that all traffic was stopped for a couple of hours and there was strong opposition to the new London pact.

Eamonn de Valera denounced the partition as the greatest outrage ever committed by England on the Irish people. He declared there was not a nation on earth possessing effective means but would feel justified in shedding its blood to prevent it.

Lincoln, said Mr. De Valera, faced four years of war to prevent the secession of the Southern States, which was much more justified than the secession of part of Ireland. On no account could national consent be given to the pact. Ireland's sole gain from the pact was the gain of being relieved from the responsibility of being cheated further.

The worst of the new bargain was the complexion it would bear, for it would be said that they had sold their countrymen for the meanest of all considerations—money.

Mary McSweeney contended that every prophecy made by the Republicans since the 1921 treaty had been justified. The new treaty would be repudiated and England would have to pay for the destruction caused by her own hired assassins.

THORNTON SEES IMPROVEMENT IN BRITISH TRADE

Old Country Has Touched Bottom, Observation of C.N.R. President.

NO GREAT RUSH

Britain Has Been Counted Out Many Times by Her Rivals.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—"The Old Country has touched bottom and from now on things are going to improve," Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, declared in the course of an interview here Saturday.

Sir Henry is in New York returning to Montreal after spending three weeks in England and France. Explaining that he did not feel qualified to give an expert opinion on conditions on the other side because of the brevity of his visit, he said that nevertheless he was convinced from what he had seen and heard that an improvement in the industrial situation of Great Britain might be expected in the near future.

"In the last six hundred years England has been counted out a number of times," he said. "Ever since the Spanish Armada it has been declared at intervals that England was finished. The joke of it is that, no matter what people may say, she is never really finished. Today she is the only country in Europe paying her bills and settling the debts incurred during the war. It has been a severe strain on her people but they seem to have turned the corner. There has been a definite quickening of optimism in England since the Locarno Treaty and I believe that from now onward things are going to improve. Very probably the improvement will not come with an enormous rush, but there will be a healthy, steady progress."

Sir Henry remarked that in France everybody was working, and everybody appeared to have plenty to eat and drink, and plenty of money to spend. "The French government may be involved in financial troubles," he said, "but the French people give every evidence of being highly prosperous."

BRITAIN RUINS SELF BY PAYING DEBTS TOO WELL

George Harvey, Former U. S. Ambassador, Says She Is Going Bankrupt.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

No Country in World Could Stand Drain on Resources.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press). — George Harvey, former United States Ambassador to Great Britain, in an article to the North American Review, which will be published to-day, makes statements regarding the position of Great Britain that are certain to arouse controversy.

Col. Harvey believes that Britain is bankrupting herself by attempting to meet the claims of her international creditors.

He believes that in the near future the United Kingdom will be unable to keep up the payments she has promised to make because the present drain on her resources is more than any country in the world can meet.

A Christmas Story That Reads Like a Newspaper Story Is Moffatt's Translation of the Gospel, Published To-day

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (United Press)—A modern version of the Christmas story from the Bible that reads like a newspaper story was published here today. The book is a "translation" into present day language of the story of the birth of Christ. It is the work of Prof. James Moffatt, of the University of Glasgow, who has done a translation of the entire Testament.

In the modern version the "wise men" of the East are called "Magicians," and Mary replies to the angel who tells her she is to be the mother of Jesus, "But I have no husband," whereas the King James version says "I know not a man."

No slang is used in Prof. Moffatt's translation. "Mess of pottage" becomes "red omelette." The "garden" of Eden becomes a "park" in the entire translation which he has done.

Another innovation in the modern version is the use of quotatio marks which are not found in the King James version.

Speaking of the Christmas story the publishers say "This translation is everywhere acclaimed the most illuminating translation of the Scriptures. It gives fresh meaning to obscure passages. It uses modern thought through wholly dignified language, bringing a new zest and a better understanding to people of today.

PREMIER DENIES STATEMENTS OF TORONTO PAPER

No Truth in Report of Resignation of Ministers, He Says.

NO JUNE ELECTION.

Vitriolic Hate of Star For Ferguson and Government Cause, He Says.

TORONTO, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press). — Premier Ferguson was plain mad Sunday night. His anger was caused by two reports in a Toronto weekly newspaper, one announcing the resignation of Attorney-General Nickle, Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. James Lyons, Minister of Lands, and the other announcing a June election with Government control of liquor sales as the issue.

"It is the vitriolic hate of the Star for myself and for the Government" stated the Premier. "That leads it to publish such venomous lies. It is too silly to discuss. There isn't a tittle of foundation of any kind. That covers everything."

QUICK THOUGHT SAVED $5,000

Detroit Man Had $10,000, But Threw Half Away When Held Up.

LOSS ONLY $5,000.

DETROIT, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Instead of obeying the command of three armed robbers, who crowded his car to the curb on Tiernar Avenue and demanded $10,000 he had just drawn from the bank to cash pay cheques, Edward H. Dohman, owner of a restaurant, leaped out of his machine, and, running to the porch of a nearby house, threw a bundle containing half of the money into an open window.

The robbers rushed into the house, covered Mrs. J. J. Witgen, the occupant, with their guns, and after a hasty search of the front room, escaped with the money.

As they were running to their machine one of the men fired a shot at Dohman, who fled with the other half of his $10,000 roll.

ACTS BOOKED FOR 1926 FAIR

Messrs. Denne and Turner Attended Meeting in Chicago Last Week.

SAME MIDWAY BACK.

President Roland Denne and Webber Turner returned on Friday from Chicago, where they were attending the annual meeting of Showmen's League and International Fairs' Association in the interest of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition. They report a very successful trip, having made all arrangements for the vaudeville performance in front of the Grand Stand at next year's exhibition. The feature attraction will be Lampham's Band, assisted by Miss Elizabeth Roderick, soprano. This is a banner attraction for Peterboro, as Lampham's band has been featured at all the big state fairs in the United States. Several headline vaudeville acts were also booked to appear here, and visitors to next year's exhibition may look forward to a bigger programme than ever. The Boyd and Linderman Shows will again furnish the shows and rides for the Midway, but will be on a still larger scale than last September. They have already ordered one of the new Hey-Dey Rides, which were seen for the first time on this continent at the Canadian National Exhibition last fall. Only the following Canadian Fairs were represented at this big convention: Toronto, London, Ottawa, Edmonton, Calgary, Sherbrooke, and Peterborough.

Dr. Sutton Apologizes For Declaration Made About Dr. T. W. H. Young

Retracts Statement Made at Board of Health Meeting Regarding Diphtheria Cases and Medical Officer of Health on November 17.

ARISES OUT OF SLANDER SUIT.

Heatlth Controversy Of Two Weeks Ago Apparently Closed With To-day's Action — Doubt as to Allegations Complained of Cleared Up.

An apology has been made by Dr. N. H. Sutton, District Medical Officer of Health, to Dr. T. W. H. Young, City Medical Officer of Health, for alleged slanderous statements made in the course of his health campaign during the week of November 16 to 21. Dr. Young has not made a statement as to whether the apology has been accepted, or whether the suit for $25,000 damages which he instituted will be withdrawn.

In the course of his campaign, Dr. Sutton spoke at Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs and at a Board of Health meeting, and in the absence of statements from the parties interested there was some doubt as to where the complained-of statements were made. Dr. Sutton's apology makes it clear that the alleged slander was at the Board of Health meeting on Tuesday.

The text of the letter follows

"Doctor T. W. H. Young,
Medical Officer of Health,
Peterborough.
"Dear Sir:
"I regret that differences of "opinion have arisen between
"yourself and me regarding the "question of Public Health in
"the City of Peterborough, and
"I regret that personalities have "taken place.
"ment made by me at a meeting
"of the Board of Health on No"vember 17, 1925, as to cases of "death from diphtheria in which
"I said you were as responsible "for the death of those children
"as if you had taken them out
"and struck them on their heads
"with an axe, I retract that state-
"ment and apologize for same.
"Yours truly,
N. H. SUTTON,
District Officer of Health."

The letter, in the possession of Gordon and O'Brien, solicitors for Dr. Young, is dated December 7.

Caused Sensation.

It will be recalled that Dr. Sutton's onslaught on the city's health administration on November 16, when he opened his campaign at the Rotary Club luncheon, caused a sensation. He presented a score card showing that the marks awarded to the Board of Health totalled only 12 7-10 points out of a possible 100. Dr. Young challenged the system of marking, declaring that many of the matters complained of are not under jurisdiction of the city health authorities. After daily exchanges of opinion the controversy culminated on Saturday, November 21, in the issuing of a writ for slander by Dr. Young.

LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETING TO-DAY

Mosul Dispute is Most Important Matter For Discussion.

TRY NEGOTIATIONS.

GENEVA, December 7. — Canadian Press. — The League of Nations Council assembled to-day with the Mosul dispute between Turkey and Great Britain as the most important problem awaiting solution.

While the question does not come up for discussion until Wednesday, the Mosul sub-committee met yesterday and it seems certain that another attempt will be made to bring about direct negotiations between the two parties.

RED GRANGE IS MOVIE STAR NOW

Given Guarantee of $300,000 For His First Picture —Signed Up To-day.

ENDORSES GOODS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press).—Red Grange signed a motion picture contract to-day, under which he received at once a flat guarantee of $300,000 for his first screen performance.

Grange, according to his manager, C. P. Pyle, received $36,000 as his share of yesterday's gate receipts, after he endorsed various articles of merchandise for a total return of $40,000, bringing his total earnings since leaving Illinois and turning professional to close to $500,000.

Last night and to-day Grange and Pyle were besieged at their hotel by agents of business firms seeking 'Red's' endorsement of articles ranging from dolls to sweaters. Pyle said that $12,000 was received for endorsing a sweater, $10,000 for the use of Grange's name in manufacturing a football doll, $5,000 for a shoe and $2,500 for a cap. Although Grange himself never has smoked, he received $1,000 for the use of his name in connection with a tobacco advertisement.

Colored Pictures May Now Be Sent By Wire;

By R W King

Some time ago announcement was made of the achievement of a simple and practical method of transmitting photographs over telephone lines.

The method as developed by the Bell System engineers is suitable for the transmission of black and white pictures. The original picture in the form of a positive transparency is inserted in the transmitter and is reproduced at the receiving end on another photographic film as a picture composed of fine black lines of varying width. The effect when the picture is held at ordinary viewing distauce is that of an ordinary photograph with very perfect rendering of tone.

It is obvious immediately that if good black and white photographs can be sent, any other kind of picture can be recorded as a black and white picture or as a series of such pictures can also be sent. Actual test of the system for transmitting colored pictures over great distances show that it is as satisfactory as might be anticipated.

In order to understand all that is involved in transmitting a color photograph over a telephone line, it is necessary to outline the processes of making a color picture by the three-color process. The three-color process depends for its possibility on the fact that all colors may be copied with a high degree of fidelity by the mixture of three colors which are called primary colors. These colors are red, yellow and blue Mixing red, yellow and blue light, as for instance by means of three projection lanterns, each one furnished with a proper colored glass over its lens, enable us to make white light when the three colors are in a given proportion of intensity, and all other colors, including brown, orange, violet, blue-green, and so on, when the proportion of the three primaries are altered.

The process of making a three-color photograph then consists in all cases of making three negatives of the original object each through a color filter, as it is called, which in combination with the color sensitiveness of the photographic plate makes a record of the amount of one of the primary colors which will be needed to mix with the other primary colors to reproduce the color of the original object.

It is now obvious that in order to send a three-color photograph over the wires, all that is necessary is to send three black and white record transparencies made from the original three-color negatives.

CHILD VAGRANTS ROAM UKRAINE

Situation is Becoming Serious With Approach of Winter.

VAST PROBLEM.

KHARKOV, Russia, Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press). — A hundred thousand homeless children are roaming the streets of the Ukraine.

Twenty thousand of them are without shelter or food of any kind, except what they manage to pick up. The special Government commission organized for their relief recommends a tax of one per cent. on every bottle of vodka. This, the commission says, will yield a million dollars for the waifs, who, with the onset of winter, are facing starvation and death from exposure.

The child vagrant problem is not limited to the Ukraine, but extends throughout all the populous areas of Russia. The problem is so vast that it is almost beyond the resources of the Government, which has made widespread appeals for private funds, with which to cope with the situation.

SYLVIA PANKHURST MADE VOYAGE HIDDEN IN A BUNKER OF STEAMER

Nearly Starved to Death and Suffered Agonies From Cold.

ON WAY TO MOSCOW.

Later Was Nearly Drowned When Fishing Boat Was Caught in Storm.

How Sylvia Pankhurst crossed from England to Norway as a stowaway in the coal bunkers of a tramp steamer and how she later nearly lost her life in a terrific storm while on her way to Soviet Russia—only to be given a most chilling reception on her arrival at Moscow—has just been revealed for the first time by Jacob Nosovitsky in a review of his own activities as an anti-communist spy.

The story is of special interest to Canadains since the principal actors' mother, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, is almost a Canadian by adoption, having spent much of the post-war period as a resident of Victoria and Toronto. Sylvia herself, who has lectured in the dominion, is by nature and heredity a militant rebel. In the eary days of the suffraget movement she was frequently arrested for her propaganda and work on behalf of the cause. When she came into conflict with the "cat and mouse" act she staged hunger-strikes on no less than thirteen occasions. The Russian revolution found her an ardent supporter, and in 1920 she was again sent to prison under the terms of the defense of the realm act, more commonly known as D.O.R.A.

At present her communistic aymphathies are given expression from the editorial chair of the Workers' Dreadnought.

When Miss Pankhurst found that she could not obtain permission to pay a visit to soviet headquarters in Moscow, she decided to defy the authorities by travelling as a stowaway on a small freight vessel bound for Norway. With the collusion of a communist sailor, she was smuggled aboard and concealed herself in the coal bunkers. She was, however, forced to start the voyage without any reserve supply of food or clothing.

Her communist ally was being closely watched, and it was only with the greatest difficult that he managed to provide her with an occasional morsel of food. In addition, as the boat approached the chilly coast of Norway, Miss Pankhurst suffered agonies from the cold. On arrival at port, she was sick and weak, and nearly starved and had to be helped off the vessel under cover of darkness.

Nothing daunted by these harrowing experiences, however, she was still resolved to fight her way to Moscow. She knew the journey would be beset by dangers, but finally, after reaching a small port on the White Sea coast, she persuaded the owner of a fishing boat to endeavor to run her across to Murmansk, the nearest point in Russian territory.

Half-way between Norway and Russia there came howling down from the north a gale which soon almost attained to the dimensions of a tornado. As the towering waves surged down one after another upon the fishing boat, it staggered and reeled before their impact. Then the water came smashing over the gunwales, while the passengers were sent reeling hither and thither. To add to the gravity of the situation the frail craft started to take water badly. A big hand pump was rigged up and all on board took turns in battling to prevent the boat from floundering.

For fourteen terrifying hours the storm roared and raged. During every minute of that time those aboard expected that they would see their vessel break up before the buffeting of the waves. But on the second day the wind abated and the weary and battered travellers reached Murmansk after having spent two days in making a trip which normally required only eighteen hours.

Once ashore in Russia, Miss Pankhurst had but little further trouble in making her way to Moscow.

FINE CONCERT IS GIVEN BY BAND OF REGIMENT

First of Winter Series Held Sunday Night at Campbellford.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

Regent Theatre Well Filled With Appreciative Audience.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7. — Augmented in numbers and with an entirely new programme that showed careful practice and training, the Northumberland Regiment Band gave their first concert in the Regent Theatre Sunday night to a large audience. After the holiday season one of these popular concerts will be given on alternate Sunday nights, the proceeds to be devoted to the upkeep of the band, purchasing new music and the like, as the organiation, all the members of which are volunteers, has no other source of income and receives no assistance from the town except the grant made by the Council to pay the salary of the bandmaster.

Bandmaster Pearson aims to keep the band up to full strength, and to infuse some new blood into it, besides, by having new recruits. He has 14 pupils in his class at present, all doing well, and some of these young players made their first public appearance last night, and by their performance reflected credit upon themselves and their teacher. The veteran members are as efficient and devoted to their art as ever.

Major J. M. Bygott, who presided, asked the public to extend to the band their support and sympathy, as it was an organization of which the town had every reason to be proud. He said the thanks of the band was due Capt. Hyland, proprietor of the Regent, for his generosity in allowing the free use of his theatre for these Sunday night concerts, a policy which he has followed since the entertainments were first held two years ago.

The band was assisted by Campbellford's accomplished vocalist, Mr. William Collison, who is always a favorite with the local public and who rendered with his usual artistic skill two numbers, "The Star of Bethlehem" and "The Holy City." The singer was encored both times, and responded with "The English Rose" and "The Queen of Angels," selections of high musical merit. Mr. Collinson's son Arthur, one of the juvenile members of the band, accompanied his father on the piano.

The band introduced two novelties that were much appreciated. One of these was "The United Empire," a march, giving the national songs of the different overseas Dominions belongings to Great Britain, and the other selection, never before heard here, was "Round the World," which brought in the National Anthems or favorite songs of the principal countries in the world, in true neighborly spirit, beginning with "Yandee Doodle," and appropriately winding up with "Home, Sweet Home," the song that has been translated in so many languages that it has become cosmopolitan in its scope.

The other numbers on the programme were "La Dramdeine," "Battery O," "The Glencoe," "Abide With Me," and God Save the King.

MILLBROOK MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Thomas Bowers Dropped Dead on Street on Saturday.

HEART FAILURE.

MILLBROOK, December 7. — Thomas Bowers dropped dead while on his way from work about six o'clock on Saturday evening.

He had been employed with other men in laying a water main up Collin's lane, and had left work apparently in his usual good health, but was evidently overtaken with heart failure while walking out Tupper street to his home near the C.N.R. track, just north of Dawson's crossing. Mrs. Weston Fallis found him collapsed on the sidewalk between I. M. Nattrass' and J. W. Gardiner's residences. Help was summoned but nothing could be done as he had evidently died when the collapse occured.

Deceased was between 55 and 60 years of age, and had lived in Millbrook for over 20 years. His wife and daughter have been away for some time and had not returned when Mr. Bower's sudden death took place. They were expected to reach here on Sunday when funeral arrangements were made.

Sidelights on People

To those of us who have been worried by the fact that the sun is some day dut to run out of heat, light and power—and who is there who has not been a trifle upset by this possibility?—there is great comfort in the words of Charles Nordmann, well-known French scientific writer.

Scientists' predictions that in a few million years or more the great blazing ball in the heavens will be as dark as an Ethiopian in a coalbin at dusk cause a universal feeling of uneasiness, and were it possible, many would no doubt take out insurance against such a catastrophe.

Mr. Nordmann, however, is very reassuring. He admits to begin with that our sun will no doubt play out after some millions of years have passed, and regretfully decides that there is very little we can do about it. His later revelations indicate that we won't need to evolve any system for lengthening its life.

After wading through a mass of highly involved and thoroughly technical matter, Mr. Nordmann's assertions seem to boil down to the theory that the energy which is constantly radiating in all directions will eventually bring about the rebuilding of another celestial body to replace the one that has worn away, and that, in the matter of suns, the world may pass eternally through the same phases and, like the phoenix, rise again and again from its ashes.

Like the crocuses in springtime, the first snowflakes in the fall and new hats at Easter, the question of paying the wives of the country regular salaries bobs into prominence periodically.

This time, the prominent talker who has resurreeted it is W. A. Johnson, president of the Laundry owners' national association.

On Mr. Johnson's "Weekly payroll of the 1,000,000 wives and home managers would be 170,000,000 at $15 a week each. Wives would be paid $17,000,000,000 a year for their services if they were put on salary."

Setting the weekly stipend at $15, Mr. Johnson offers his total figures as a staggering sum. But, under the present system, the chances are that the sum the wives of the continent collect each week from the husbands whom and whose homes they manage, is easily twice as stupendous.

Now that Mr. Johnson has finished these calculations, he might figure what the gentlemen employed in every branch of every trade, profession and occupation would receive each week were each man to be paid exactly what he thought himself to be worth.

If you want to present a set of figures that are truly staggering, Mr. Johnson, here's your chance.

Of late Napoleon has been slipping. He does not to-day stand out as heroically, and majestically in the average mind as he formerly did. Even among lunatics it is no longer as fashionable to imagine yourself Napoleon as it once was.

Consequently friends of the well-known Corsican are doing their level best to boost his reputation in other ways. Paris guides are among the sincere admirers who are laboring in his behalf.

A few days ago, when a tourist was being shown over the late warrior's home in Malmaison, his curiosity was aroused by two white knobs which showed plainly in a painting of the first emperor as decorations on the imperial chair of state.

"Napoleon," said the cicerone, with an ultra-ultra display of pomposity, "was not merely a great soldier and a great statesman. He was also a great inventor. Those round white balls commemorate the fact that Napoleon invented billiards."

One hundred and sixty thousand campfire girls are about to indulge in a crusade. Its aim is to eliminate the word "flapper" as sodious and unfair and substitute instead the term "modern." Colleen Moore is to lead them in this great drive.

It is still too early to register a definite opinion on the matter, but it is certainly possible to give a verdict which is partially in their favor. Colleen more has shown that she for one should certainly not be listed as a flapper but as a movie star with a keen eye on her own publicity interests.

ARTICLE No. 16

An interesting experiment is being tried out by a local group of auction players. They meet once a week and each player keeps track of another player's losses by bad bidding or bad play. Before the loss is entered, the losing player has a right to justify his bid or play and the other three players decide whether or not he lost and the number of points. At the end of the game, all four players settle up their lost points with one another on the same basis as their trick score so that it is very much to their advantage not only to play well themselves but also to be on the lookout for bad bids or plays by the others. The writer has never heard of a better way to learn auction. About one hand in three causes a discussion so that practically every point of the game comes up for analysis during the evening's play. There are two drawbacks, neither of them serious: First, that the discussions take too much time; and second, that too much criticism may cause hard feeling among the players. These objections can be met by limiting the discussion of any one hand to two or three minutes and by an agreement that the arrangement terminates whenever any of the players lose their tempers. The writer would most strongly recommend a trial of this system to those players who play with one another fairly often. It will not only improve your play but also add to the zest of the game. Try it out and if any bids or plays come up that cause a serious difference of opinion, refer them to the writer and they will be published in these articles.

Here are two hands that were submitted for analysis by the local group who are trying out the system:

Hand No. 1

Hearts — A, Q, 8, 3
Clubs — A
Diamonds — A, 4
Spades — A, 9, 8, 7, 5, 4

Y
Z

No score: Z dealt and bid one no-trump. What should A now bid with the foregoing hand? A should pass and open his spade suit. It is almost a certainty that he can defeat the no-trump bid. In this way he can score penalties and also his 100 aces. Any other bid with this hand is unjustifiable.

Hand No. 2

Hearts — A, 4
Clubs — A, Q, 9, 8
Diamonds — J, 8, 3
Spades — Q, 8, 6, 4

Z
Y

Hearts — 9, 8
Clubs — 10, 7, 2
Spades — A, J, 9, 5, 3, 2

No score: Rubber game. Z dealt and bid no-trump, A two hearts, Y two spades, B three hearts, Z three spades, A four hearts and Y four spades. B opened the jack of hearts and Z won the trick with the ace of hearts. Z now led the queen of spades and A played the seven. How should Y now play the hand? When A played the seven of spades Y knew that there were only two spades missing, the king and the ten. If B should hold both of them, he is bound to win one trick. On the other hand if B held the king alone, Y would gain a trick by playing his ace. The play is really a guess but Y should play the ace of spades hoping to drop the singleton king. If he doesn't, then he should play for the clubs and try to set a thirteenth club in Z's hand before he loses the ace of diamonds. If Y plans his play in this manner, he should only lose one spade, one heart and one club trick and, therefore, score game and rubber. As a matter of fact, B did hold the king of spades alone. If Y failed to play the ace of spades, B would have won the trick and led a heart which A would have won. The latter would now lead a diamond. Y must now lose a diamond and club trick so would fail to make his contract by one trick. This is a very instructive hand and should be carefully studied.

Answer to Problem No. 9

Hearts — 7, 2
Clubs — 10, 5, 2
Diamonds — K, 8, 7
Spades — J, 8, 7, 5, 3

A B
Z

Hearts — A, K, Q, 9
Clubs — K, Q, 8, 7
Diamonds — A, 10, 9
Spades — K, 10

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump, A and Y passed and B bid two spades. Z bid two no-trump, A and Y passed and B bid three diamonds. Z now bid three hearts, A passed, Y bid three no-trump and all passed. A opened the six of clubs. How should Z figure out the cards held by his opponents, both from the bidding and the opening lead of the six of clubs? How should he plan the play of the hand so as to score three odd, game and rubber? Z should figure B with at least five spades and five diamonds. If that is so A probably has only two diamonds and one spade. This conclusion is strengthened by the fact that he opened his club suit in preference to either of his partner's suits. On the first club lead B fails to follow suit, discarding a diamond. Z should now be able to figure out B's probable holding: Spades — A, Q, 9 and two small; diamonds — Q, J and three small and three hearts. If this analysis is correct, he can go game by winning the first club trick in his own hand with the seven of clubs and leading the king of clubs. A must win this trick, and it makes no difference what suit he leads back, Z must make game. Suppose he leads diamonds, Z should win the trick with the ace in his hand and lead the king of spades. B must win this trick and should then lead hearts. Z should then win the trick and lead two more rounds of hearts, taking all of the hearts out of B's hand. On the third round of hearts he should discard a spade from Y's hand. He should then lead the ten of spades which B must win with the queen. B must now lead either diamonds or spades, so that in either event YZ will only lose one more trick. Played in this way, YZ should only lose one club, two spades and one diamond trick, thus scoring game and rubber.

THE LEGISLATURE MUST ACT.

One aspect of the question as to whether all vehicles travelling at night on the roads should carry lights that was not touched upon by the County Council in refusing to pass a bylaw in regard to the illumination of vehicles last week, was the legal side of the problem.

People who drive on the roads after dark without lights are not only inviting accidents and serious injury or death, but they may also be putting themselves in a position where they cannot successfully claim damages in the case of a collision.

In a recent action arising out of a crash between a motor car and a horse-drawn vehicle it was held that because the owner of the latter did not protect himself by providing lights for his vehicle he was negligent and therefore not entitled to damages.

The Provincial Legislature must deal with this question; it is of too much importance to be left to municipal authorities, most of whom are apparently not anxious to assume the responsibility for legislation of this type.

CATALOGUE VS. CITY.

There are so many reasons why Peterboro people should do their shopping in the stores of their own city that it scarcely seems necessary to mention them all.

Here, however, are eight that have been set out by the Chamber of Commerce as worthy of the consideration of every citizen:

1.—Peterboro stores will duplicate the prices of any responsible mail order house on goods of equal quality, in the same quantities and on the same basis of delivery and payment.

2.—Peterboro stores will be glad to extend the advantage of credit to responsible persons.

3.—Peterboro stores are close at hand. You can visit them and examine your purchases before investing your money. Another advantage catalogue buying does not offer.

4.—Peterboro stores will promptly remedy or make right any error or any defective article purchased.

5.—Through direct and indirect taxation they help support your schools, your churches and other institutions. No mail order house pays taxes of any kind here. Peterboro stores are entitled to your support.

6.—Peterboro stores offer a cash market for any product of your farm. It is this more than anything else, that gives your land its present value.

7.—Peterboro stores maintain a delivery service by motor truck in a broad area. You have no transportation charges to pay and you get your purchases much more promptly than you do from catalogue houses. And furthermore, you pay transportation charges buying from a mail order house.

8.—Every dollar kept in circulation in this community helps to increase property values. Every dollar spent outside of this community that could as well be spent here helps to build up some other community at your expense.

BETTER PROTECTION.

At their regular meeting last week the members of the Great War Veterans' Association endorsed the Examiner's suggestion that the guards engaged for duty at the civic swimming beaches should be young and athletic men, expert swimmers who could teach the art of swimming and at the same time ensure greater protection for bathers than is available under the present system.

This topic is not so unseasonable as it may seem, inasmuch as it should be considered by the Council early next year, and it is one of the issues on which aspirants for the Council might be asked to give their views.

At present the city fathers are apparently satisfied that they have done all that is expected of them when they have provided $20 a week per beach for "protection."

There are only two beaches and the season is not much over three months long, so that the expenditure involved in securing expert swimmers as guards would not be heavy—and the benefits arising out of such a policy would amply justify the added outlay.

Swimming as a recreation for young and old and for both sexes has come to stay, and it is a municipal responsibility to see that safe and adequate facilities are provided.

The providing of better protection is one of the first essentials, and should receive more attention from the Council than has hitherto been extended.

WOULD BE A LOSS.

Irrespective of their political affiliations, there are many people n Ontario, the Examiner is certain, who would be very much concerned if there should arise in the political developments in the Provincial field a set of circumstances that would cause the resignation of Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture.

Hon. Mr. Martin has already won for himself the reputation of being one of the best Ministers that has ever had charge of the Agricultural Department.

He has the confidence of the farmers of Ontario because of the fact that he has by his own successful career as a poultry man and general farmer demonstrated that agriculture in this Province can be made to pay handsomely.

When he speaks to rural audiences he speaks not as a theorist, but as a man who has proven the truth of what he says by actual experience, and Mr. Martin has the happy knack of being able to impart his message without undue boasting about his own success.

His handling of the apple situation this year and his constant endeavour to improve marketing conditions for farmers generally have helped to increase the Minister's prestige throughout Ontario, and if circumstances arise to bring about Mr. Martin's resignation both the Government and the Province will be the loser.

Men of his calibre cannot easily be spared from the public service.

IN THE HANDS OF THE VOTERS.

A vote is no good unless it is polled. Bad government can be ended and indifferent government can be mended by voting, not by complaining. A man may be doing his full duty as a breadwinner, as a neighbor, as a law abider, as a churchgoer, but he is not functioning as a citizen if he does not make use of his suffrage on election day. When two-thirds of the voters refuse to take part in the public business of choosing members for the City Council they really abdicate. They step down from the place they held in the rule of the municipal State and put the whole franchise in the hands of one-half of their number. The fewer the people who vote on election day, the less is the city insured against incapacity, neglect and improbity on the part of the elected, and the easier is it for insidious operations to be carried on against the city by scheming interests. When a large percentage of the total possible vote is cast, the hint is taken by the elected, and they take pains to give a good account of themselves. A meagre vote on election day usually means bad government for the whole year. If the history of Toronto's municipal administration were searched into it would be found, we are sure, that whenever there was a good turn-out of the electors on polling day the city fared not badly in the matter of government throughout the next twelvemonth. Nothing worse could happen to the government of a city than the majority's forming a habit of staying home on election day. In a series of years the voting minority would tend to fall under the control of sinister interests always at work. Having the loves and hates of those interests constantly impressed upon them, the remnant of the habitual voters would tend to fall into line and neglect the city. The call to make the vote a large one in the coming municipal election has provoked cursing in some quarters.

As a prevention of dereliction of duty in the matter of voting, some people advise that voting be made compulsory. People can be compelled to mark their ballots some way or other, but not to exercise their best judgment at the polls. Every person upon whom the right to vote is conferred is a free agent, and his voting must be a voluntary act if it is to be really a performance of a civic duty. Would it not be arbitrary to compel a citizen to vote when there is no candidate running for whom he has any preference or in whom he has any confidence? With compulsory voting should go wide latitude to the voter to nominate. If there is left to him the liberty to add names to those on the ballot paper, then it might not be unjust to force him to vote. The people of Toronto do not need the spur of compulsion to drive them to the polls. When they have given a little thought to the meaning of the suffrage and of the moral obligation to exercise it, they will, we believe, show themselves worthy of it.—The Mail and Empire.

UNEVEN EMPLOYMENT.

Secretary of Labor Davis, in his annual report on industrial conditions in the United States, refers to surplus facilities existing in certain lines of industry, making for overproduction and uneven employment, says the Hamilton Spectator. It is a permanent condition and one which receives a great deal of attention from economists and students of modern industrial methods; but beyond this academic interest, it seems impossible to find a satisfactory remedy. Why it should be impossible to do so it is difficult to understand. The condition is just as detrimental to the capitalists as it is to the workers, and it is undoubtedly a cause of serious loss to consumers. A system which is injurious to all parties alike, one would think, would be speedily rectified, and Mr. Davis does a public service in drawing attention to the matter. To take the industry most prominent in the public mind just now—the coal mining industry—Secretary Davis shows that in Illinois there are 338 shipping mines which are operated at an average of 139 days a year. If only 84 of these mines had worked 300 days a year, he states, they would have produced 5,000,000 tons more in 1924 than all the mines added together did working on part time. "Go down the line," says Mr. Davis, "and in nearly every industry you will find the same appalling state of affairs."

Mr. Davis' figures are challenged by some critics. The Wall Street News declares he is indulging in "sweeping statements which may be subject to challenge." If the Secretary's survey were taken strictly at its face value, says this authority, it would seem to be the better part of industrial wisdom for the steel, motor vehicle, rubber, machinery and various other businesses to declare a recess in plant construction. "Initiative toward increasing output and thereby lowering costs would be cast into the discard . The urge to sell more goods, a process which tends to lower prices to the consumers, would be dampened. Industry would be inclined to stand still." Though there is unquestionably much to support this point of view, it cannot be gainsaid that the results of over-production, followed as it is by periods of depression, are inimical to the best interests of society. The problem is a difficult one, but it should not prove insoluble. The coal mining industry furnishes a good—or, rather, bad—example of how not to do it. No doubt, coal is an exceptional commodity, and it might require, as the Wall Street News affirms, a "degree of vision and sagacity not yet attained by man to regulate the majority of the sources of production so that market requirements could be met at all times without an occasional overplus of factory and man power." Nevertheless, the effort is well worth making. The law of supply and demand is the fetish of all industrial operations. The ideal state would be when supply and demand are evenly balanced; too much of a tilt in either direction is always distressful and sometimes ruinous. Workers are so intent on improving their status and employers so busy piling up profits, that the eyes of both seem blinded to a possible improvement of the industrial system which would not only greatly benefit themselves, but would render an immense service to the public.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal Winnipeg

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.84 7-8.

Sterling cables $4.85 1-4.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 6 (Canadian Press).—The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was inactive, but the feeling was firm in sympathy with other outside markets and prices generally were firmly maintained with sales of odd cars of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats at 53 1-2c, No. 3 white at 52c, and No. 4 white at 50c per bushel, extrack, and Ontario malting barley at 86 1-2c per bushel, ex-track, American No. 3 yellow corn sold at 95c, and No. 4 yellow at 93c per bushel basis track here.

The feature of the week in the fresh egg situation was the arrival of two cars of British Columbia fresh eggs of which the reported cost delivered was, extras 68 1-2c per dozen, and pullet extras 55 1-2c per dozen. The arrival of these eggs has had no appreciable effect on the condition of the market owing to the fact that supplies from the Province of Quebec and Ontario have continued exceedingly light with the result that the former met with a ready sale and the market closed strong at a net advance for the week of 5c per dozen.

One only new feature in the butter trade of late has been the purchase of several round lots of Australian butter which will arrive here between January 1 to February 15th, in order to meet the domestic requirements, as stocks of top quality Canadian creamery butter are small, and the current make for the balance of the winter will be light.

The tone of the market has been firm during the past week and prices show no important change.

Total receipts of cheese in Montreal for the week ending December 5, 1925, were 14,971 boxes which show a decrease of 6,191 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 8,018 boxes with the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1 to date have been 97,557 boxes in excess of a year ago.

The movement of cheese for export account last week was of a very limited character owing to the fact that foreign buyers according to cable advices received were not disposed to operate to any exent and only sales of odd small lots were made and the market in consequence was quiet with Western October makes nominally quoted at 21 1-2c to 22c per lb., and current receipts at 18c to 19c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (Canadian Press).—Rapid new gains in price gave the wheat market here a flurried wind-up today. Late reports suggested further unfavorable crop conditions in Argentina, and with indications of active demand for cash wheat at Winnipeg and elsewhere many traders turned aggressively to the buying side in the final half hour. Chicago closing prices for the week were strong, 2 3-8 to 3 3-4c net higher, new style. Dec. 1.77 1-2 to 1.78, and May 1.72 3-8 to 173 3-4. Corn finished 3-8 to 1 1-4c up; oats at 1-2 to 3-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to 20c lower.

A THOUGHT.

THE CULT OF VIOLENCE.

(By Glenn Frank)

One of the puzzles of civilization is that modern men will still embrace the cult of violence and actually believe that mankind may be saved by force.

The cult of violence has a crowded membership recruited from all kinds and conditions of meh.

The men who believe that good is gained by war.

The men who dream of social salvation by revolution.

The men who make and break strikes by force.

Th men who guard righteousness with tar and feathers.

The men who play nurse maid to their neighbors' minds through censorships.

The men who become judge and executioner by self-appointment and travesty justice in lynching bees.

I have little faith that preachments on the immorality of violence will ever give us a less mob-minded society; the hope, if hope there be, lies through a slow realization by modern men that force is futile.

The perilous anarchy of the mob and the polite anarchy of the respectable club corner will disappear only when the masses and the classes alike realize that violence is a weapon that sooner or later turns in the hand of the man who wields it and stabs him to the heart.

I suggest four propositions that seem to me indisputable.

First, violence cannot protect institutions.

The violence of inquisition has never saved the church from heresy; the violence of czars has never saved empires from revolution; the censorships of statesmen have never saved nations from radicalism.

Second, violence cannot kill ideas.

An idea let loose in the world cannot be recalled. It has an immortality all its own. The man who thinks an idea may be imprisoned, but the idea he has thought will slip through the bars and fly on unseen wings through closed doors. Hemlock could kill Socrates, but it left his idea alive; the cross killed Jesus, but his idea went winging round the world.

Third, violence cannot terrify men into agreement.

The call of comfort is loud and men tend to grow soft under the smile of civilization, but the seeds of martyrdom are hidden in the most conventionalized. Men who are really aflame with a conviction will still face imprisonment and death for an idea.

Fourth, violence cannot destroy the morale of the determined.

Violence cements rather than sunders the opposition. Violence is not disruptive; it is cohesive. Violence from the outside forces men into a common centre of devotion.

Now and then, when we are not wise enough to devise a better method of managing human affairs, we may be driven to resort to force. This is no theoretical plea for non-resistance. It is simply a suggestion that we realize that violence never achieves more than fleeting and tentative triumphs.

Wise and Otherwise.

Manners must adorn knowledge and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond, it may do very well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value; but it will never be worn, nor shine, if it is not polished. —Chesterfield.

It is better to be envied than pitied. —Herodotus.

Gifts and alms are the expressions, not the essence of philanthropy. —Addison.

He makes a great mistake who supposes that authority is firmer or better established when it is founded by force than that which is welded by affection. —Terence.

Who is so deaf as he that will not hear? —Herbert.

It is the cause and not the death that makes the martyr. —Napoleon.

There never was in the world two opinions alike, no more than two hairs, or two grains; the most universal quality is diversity. —Montaigne.

Prejudice renders a man's virtue his habit, and not a series of unconnected acts. Through just prejudice, his duty becomes a part of his nature. —Bruke.

SOUTH MONAGHAN FARMERS DEBATE

Decide Travelling Not More Educational Than Reading.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 5. — The South Monaghan U.F.Y.P.O. Club held a debate and social evening on Wednesday evening.

The president, Roy Rutherford, occupied the chair and a splendid crowd of young folks were present.

The affirmative was taken by Dawson Rutherford and Emma Tate, and the negative was upheld by Edwin Hutchison and Evelyn Donaldson. The subject of the debate was, "Resolved, that travelling is of more educational value than reading." The debate was keenly contested by both sides and many excellent points were refuted and brought to light.

The judges, who were Miss Loretta Barnard, Messrs. Geo. Morrison and Wesley Bradshaw, gave their decision in favour of the negative, who won by five points.

During the evening a solo rendered by Miss Vera Bradshaw and a reading rendered by Miss Dorothy Hall, were immensely enjoyed, and the young folks did full justice to abundance of apples provided by the young ladies.

Willard Waterman acted as critic for the occasion and filled the position very creditably.

Miss Emma Tate and Sylvina Rutherford were appointed as delegates to attend the U.F.Y.P.O. convention to be held in Toronto next week.

Personals.

The members of the United Church Sunday school are preparing for their Christmas entertainment.

The many friends of Mr. Walker Barnard will regret to learn of his recent illness.

AUTO RECOVERED ROBBERS ESCAPE

Relieved Taxi Driver of Money and Car at Brantford.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—Giving chase to an automobile suspected of carrying liquor and later found to have been stolen in Brantford on Saturday night local police recovered the machine on the provincial highway near Beachville within an hour of the time the warning of the Brantford police had been received. Observing the machine going through Woodstock, Inspector Milligan, local O.T.A. officer, followed in a taxi, but on overhauling his quarry on the highway was met with shots from the thieves' revolvers.

The gang consisted of a woman, who appared to be the ringleader, and two young men. After stopping their car the thieves abandoned it and escaped over the nearby fields and are understood to have returned to the city about midnight when they engaged A. W. Shaver, a local taxi driver, to convey them to Brantford. About four miles from Brantford on the provincial highway, Shaver felt a revolver thrust at his back and after being forced to hand over $25 and a gold watch he was ordered to get out of his machine. Brantford police subsequently found the taxi abandoned in that city while the car in which the thieves came from Brantford was returned to its rightful owner by the local police last night. According to Brantford police, the gang is known in that city and arrests in the case are expected.

CANADIANS HIGH IN CHICAGO SHOW

Divided Honors With United States' Exhibitors.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—A compilation of the distribution of honors at the annual International Livestock Exposition, closing Saturday, indicated that neither Canada nor the United States, the chief exhibiting nations had anything to be ashamed of.

The United States took the highest honor when the Iowa State College's Mah Jongg was acclaimed the grand champion steer, but the Canadians scored when the Prince of Wales' Shorthorn bull, King of the Fairies, won first honors as breeding animal.

In horse awards honors were about even. The United States took all honors in the swine exhibitions, but the Canadians countered by taking the honors in the sheep division.

Colonel Robert McEwen, of London, Ont., took one more prize than any other exhibitor. For the fourth time he won the Carload championship.

In the grain show an upset was recorded when a Canadian was dethroned after a five year reign by a new "Wheat King" from Fishtail, Mont., who, however, the Canadians claimed, exhibited wheat grown from Canadian seed. He was L. P. Yates.

PLEBISCITE IN BORDER CITIES TODAY ON PROPOSED BRIDGE OVER DETROIT RIVER

Attitude of People Sought on Project to Link the Ontario Border With Detroit—Municipal Elections.

WINDSOR, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press).—To-day electors of Amherstburg, Windsor, Ford and Tecumseh go to the polls. The biggest issue before them will be an informal question demanding an affirmative or negative answer in respect to their attitude on the bridge. If a majority votes "Yes," Joseph A. Bower will continue with his efforts to perfect a plan for constructing an international span between the Border Cities and Detroit. If the reply is unfavorable, he will accept it as an indication that the people are satisfied with present transportation facilities.

In Windsor the polls opened at 9 in the morning and close at 7 in the evening. People who do not reside in the city but who have stores, offices or other qualifications of the kind and whose names are on the list will be entitled to vote as there are no money by-laws up for consideration. Every elector whose name appears on the list will be entitled to express his opinion for or against the bridge. Only three ballots will be handed to each voter, one for alderman, one for school trustees and one for the bridge plebiscite. The Mayor, Water Commissioner and Hydro-Electric Commission received acclamations this year. Absence of a contest for the chief magistrate's post is expected to result in a light vote.

Ford's Ballots.

In Ford the polls opened at 8 in the morning and close at 7 in the evening. Electors are to vote on the bridge question, the general hospital by-law, for reeve, first deputy reece, second deputy reeve, councillors and school trustees. Only ratepayers may vote on the hospital proposition. Six candidates out of twelve must be chosen for the Council, and three out of six for the board of education. The Mayor of Ford, Cleveland Mousseau, was returned by acclamation.

In Tecumseh the polling hours are the same as in Windsor, from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. Maurice Renaud was elected Mayor by acclamation to succeed Dr. Paul Poisson. There are five councillors to be elected from a slate of eight and the bridge plebiscite must be dealt with.

In Amherstburg the Mayor and Reeve were elected by acclamation. There is a contest for the Council as six members must be picked from a slate of 11. Electors of the town must also pass on the bridge proposition and on a by-law providing for purchase of the local electric light plant and substitution of Hydro power.

Some Elections Later.

In Sandwich and Walkerville nominations will be held to-day and the municipal elections will take place a week later. Both places will vote on the bridge plebiscite, and Sandwich will be asked to pass on the general hospital by-law. Other municpalities throughout the county of Essex vote on New Year's Day or on the first Monday in January as their councils decree.

In Windsor there are 12 aldermen to be elected from a slate of 27, and six school trustees from a field of 11. Only one vote will be granted on the plebiscite. If it were a money by-law ratepayers would be able to cast a ballot in every ward where they hold property.

SKATING AND CURLING FOR FIRST TIME IN YEARS ON PONDS IN THE MOTHER LAND

Supply of Skates in London Vanished With Saturday's Demand—Budget of Old Country News.

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—All of England went skating yesterday for Britain's "starting Sunday" offered the finest opportunity for ice sports since the winters before the war. Freezing weather turned the English and Scottish lakes and ponds into rinks on which the skating and curling societies are holding the tournaments which they have had to postpone for the last six years.

Urgent messages have been sent to Switzerland and Scandinavia for skates and shoes to replace the stocks in the West End stores, which were sold out in a few hours Saturday.

A Dickens Christmas

LONDON, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—The annual Chritmas Fairy land, has appeared and the shops are thronged with women buyers, undismayed by the wintry weather, which augers an old-fashioned Dickens Christmas tide. From morning until night the West End shops are crowded, and the buying expeditions are swelling the overseas posts with gifts of all kinds.

The gifts include tons of Christmas puddings, which lack none of the ingredients that have made the English plum pudding famous.

Madame Tussaud's Revives

LONDON, Dec. 7 — "Madame Tussaud's" may yet furnish many a thrill to those who thrill at wax works. Fire last summer seriously damaged the famous show place, but its re-organization and re-opening are planned. Many of the figures did not succumb to the heat and the "Chamber of Horrors" escaped all damage.

Tax Amateur Sports

LONDON, Dec. 7—Seeking new sources of income tax, for the first time in the history of amateur sports, the organizations have been dunned by the authorities for taxes not only for 1925, but for the five preceding years. The St. Albans City and Cambridgetown organizations were the first to be taxed; the former was asked for £125. The tax officials do not allow for the capital expended on ground improvements.

Gales Delay Ships

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Dec. 7—Terrific easterly gales on the Atlantic are delaying in-coming vessels. The liner America, in a wireless message, reports fierce storms and furious seas. She is delayed 18 hours, and is expected to reach Plymouth this evening.

The Cunarder Antonia from Montreal, due here today, cannot arrive until Tuesday morning. The Holland-American liner, Rotterdam, making the longest eastbound trip, due Sunday morning, will not arrive until today.

GERMAN CABINET RESIGNATIONS IN

Luther to Form a New Coalition Ministry in Germany.

BERLIN, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—President von Hindenburg accepted the resignation of the German cabinet which was handed him Saturday. The President requested Chancellor Luther to continue at his post. This means that the Chancellor will form a new ministry on a coalition basis, whose views will coincide with the policies and agreements entered into at Locarno and ratified at London, December 1.

The resignation of the cabinet was in accordance with the announcement the Chancellor made prior to the signing of the Locarno pact.

TURKS WILL NOT YIELD CONTROL OF MOSUL TO BRITAIN, REFUSING TO BOW TO DECISION OF LEAGUE

Ottoman Delegate Declares Council of League May Only Mediate.

GENEVA WORRIED

Turks Affirm No War-like Intentions — Hope for Peaceful Solution.

GENEVA, December 7. Canadian Press. — Turkey will accept no decision concerning Mosul by the Council of the League of Nations which involves any abandonment of Turkish sovereignty there. This pronouncement was made by the Turkish spokesman last night, giving the Angora viewpoint on the dispute which divides Great Britain and Turkey and which continues to cause the utmost anxiety in Geneva.

In behalf of the Ottoman delegation, one of its leading members insisted that, despite the ruling of the world court of justice, Turkey was convinced that the council's only role in the controversy is that of mediator and that it has no power to impose its decision on the parties to the dispute. Hence, he said, the council should confine its endeavors to mediating between Great Britain and Turkey and finding a solution acceptable to both.

At all events, he continued, Turkey would not consider herself bound by a decision to which in advance she had not given adhesion.

Belongs to Turkey.

"The League of Nations is trying to build up international jurisprudence based on justice and equity," said the Turkish representative.

"Even the League Commission, which went to Mosul, reported that Mosul legally belonged to Turkey. It would therefore be a strange kind of justice if the council against our will, rendered a judgement whereby the sovereignity of Mosul would be handed over to Irak, which is under the mandate of Great Britain. The Turkish people would never stand for this, and we would never dare go home and tell them we agreed to such a thing."

The spokesman denied that Turkey had warlike intentions. He admitted that if the council's decision was against Turkey, Great Britain would possess the advantage of being in military occupation of Mosul. But he added: "We are there too," and continued: "That, however, does not mean that peace cannot continue for some time to come."

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the British Foreign Secretary and L. C. M. Amery, with numerous advisers, have arrived for the council, which opened its sessions to-day, though the Mosul question is not slated to come up before Wednesday.

British Silent.

The spokesman of the British delegation said that there was no statement to make as the British were waiting for a move from the council, which now must make its decision.

The council agenda contains 35 items, and the representatives of a dozen governments who have reached Geneva will appear as the questions affecting their countries come up for discussion. The Mosul sub-committee of the council met on Sunday and another attempt to bring Great Britain and Turkey together for direct negotiations seems a certainty.

RICE LAKE FROZEN; WOODCHUCKS OUT

Weather Anomalies Along the South Monaghan Shore.

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 27. —Although Rice Lake froze over on Friday, November 27, and the ice still remains upon the lake, still it does not seem as though winter is yet on hand. During the recent warm days there have been reports of wood chucks once again coming out around the edge of their dens, and the other morning while W. Barnard was cutting wood in his bush, he killed a huge grass snake which was quite lively.

A beautiful bronze Coleman table lamp was presented to them during the evening, while Mr. Ernest Beer voiced the feelings of the gathering towards their removal, although not so far away, but what some one of them might be seen daily. OPPONENTS IN BAGOT in 25 out of the 45 polls, Mr. Fauteux leading in 20. The chief source of the Liberal lead were Acton Vale, where Mr. Marcile resided, the village and parish of St. Pie, Ste. Christine, St. Dominique, St. Andre, Upton Village and St. Ephrem. Chief strength of the by electing a Conservative represen- St. Theodore, St. Nazaire, St. Hugues village and St. Simon.

A lively issue in the campaign was the declaration of Mr. Meighen that were Canada threatened with another war, he would not send Canadian soldiers overseas without prior consultation of the people. Conservatives pressed the declaration as removing any cause for disquietude in Quebec, and urging that Canada should now go ahead with settlement of internal problems. Liberals attacked the declaration on the ground that it was only intended for the Bagot by-election.

Mr. Cannon recalled the "tears and groans" of conscription days in his criticisms of Mr. Meighen. When some boys interrupted at St. Rosalie, another Liberal speaker expressed the hope that they would not be of military age if another war broke out with Mr. Meighen in charge of the country's administration.

The Tariff Issue

Mr. Fauteux advocated the home market for Canadian products. Under present conditions he argued, competition from the United States was ruinous. He asked if Bagot did not wish to participate in the coming Conservative administration by electing a Conservative representative. He put the question: what value had the solid bloc been to Quebec? Premier King, Mr. Fauteux said, has sacrificed merely Quebec to capture the votes of Western Progressives.

Mr. Morin said he had repeatedly put the question why Mr. Fauteux had left his old chieftain, Mr. Bourassa, but had not succeeded in getting a reply. Mr. Fauteux' only answer, Mr. Morin added, was that he was still an anti-imperialist. Why, in his committee rooms in the general elections, had Mr. Fauteux hidden the portrait of Mr. Meighen beneath that of Mr. Patenaude? and why, when Mr. Bourassa attacked Mr. Meighen's declaration in regard to war participation did Mr. Fauteux now defend it?

Speaking on the Conservative side, F. G. Coffin of Montreal said that Mr. Fauteux had always been opposed to Imperialism. Mr. Coffin argued that Mr. Meighen's declaration on war participation was a continuation of the policy of Cartier and MacDonald who had refused to send Canadian forces to foreign wars. That was the policy of the Conservative party. Sir Wilfrid Laurier had abandoned it with his naval scheme.

Liberal Since 1898

Mr. Cannon defined the Liberal party's policy on war participation as (1) no participation unless the interests of Canada were directly concerned; and (2) no participation unless parliament had given its consent. The greater number of Liberals were, furthermore, opposed to compulsory military service.

Bagot has been Liberal-since 1898 when Mr. Marcile captured it from the Conservatives with a majority of 47. Since then, Mr. Marcile's majority varied from 95 in 1911 to 3,226 in 1917. Previous to 1898, from confederation on, the constituency was consistently Conservative.

Rheumatism

Torturing Pains and Swollen Joints Vanish When Rheuma is Used or Money Refunded.

If you want relief in two days, swift, gratifying relief, take one teaspoonful of Rheuma every night and morning.

If you want to dissolve the uric acid poison in your body and drive it out through the natural channels so that you will be free from rheumatism, get a bottle of Rheuma from your druggist at once.

Rheumatism is a powerful disease strongly entrenched in joints and muscles. In order to conquer it a powerful enemy must be sent against it, Rheuma is the enemy of rheumatism—an enemy that must conquer it in every instance or money will be refunded.

Rheuma contains no narcotics—is harmless and thoroughly reliable because it is the one remedy that has relieved the agonizing pains of rheumatic sufferers who thought nothing would give relief. It should do as much for you. McDermid and Jury will supply you on the no-cure-no-pay plan.

Bronchitis More Than a Cold

Often develops rapidly into pneumonia—relief is found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Any cold is serious enough when its dreadful possibilities are considered, but when there is soreness or tightness in the chest and a dry hard cough you can look for bronchitis, which is often confused with an ordinary cold.

It is usually known by aching limbs and body pains, chilly feelings, weariness and weakness, pain in the chest and a tight, tearing cough. Fever, dry skin, thirst, coated tongue and constipation are other symptoms.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine seems almost like a specific for bronchitis because it is so successful in loosening up the cough, aiding expectoration and preventing the inflammation from reaching the lungs.

Hospital for Sick Children

67 College St., Toronto, 2, Ont.

Christmas, 1925.

Dear Mr. Editor:—

This is the fiftieth year—the semi-centennial of the Hospital for Sick Children. It is the Golden Anniversary of an institution which started out in 1875 with a six-bed equipment to cure children medically of their illnesses and to rid them surgically of their disabilities. Fifty years have passed and the tiny hospital has grown into one of the greatest institutions of its kind in the whole world.

The people of this province demanded this service — and they have made it possible by their Christmas Time gifts. They are rewarded by the knowledge that thousands of Ontario children will grow up into manhood or womanhood blessing the "little blue cots" wherein they were restored and strengthened to play a full part in the battle of life.

To win back health for six thousand boys and girls was the measure of the Hospital's ward-service alone this year. Besides that there were over half a hundred thousand attendances in the Out-Patient Department, where the less serious cases are treated. All this costs a great deal of money, even though the doctors give freely of their skill and the nurses of their care. There is board and lodging and laundry to be provided, besides the best that can be procured in the way of all the medical and surgical supplies required to treat the myriad ailments and accidents to which children are subject.

In order to maintain its high standard of efficiency and also to widen the scope of its service through clinics conducted all over Ontario, the Hospital is compelled to borrow heavily during the year. On the occasion of its fiftieth Christmas an appeal is made to the public for the funds which will allow the Hospital for Sick Children to enter upon its second half-century of service with its courage renewed by a credit balance in the bank.

It is indeed a noble cause which I feel sure you will cordially commend to your readers.

Faithfully yours,

IRVING E. ROBERTSON,

Chairman Appeal Committee

DOCTORS ORDER SEA OUTING FOR KING ANNUALLY

Mediterranean Voyage Last Spring Sustained His Majesty's Health.

NEEDS NEW YACHT

London's Damp Winters Affect King George's Weak Lungs.

LONDON, Dec. 7. — (Canadian Press.)—King George will have to leave his Island domain for a two months' sea trip every year, his medical advisers have decided.

The Mediterranean trip which the King took last spring, will be necessary for the good of the regal health, the physicians believe. His Majesty has weak lungs, which with the approach of three score years are affected by the damp London winters.

The problem of building another royal yacht to replace the obsolete Victoria and which is far from a satisfactory sea cruiser, is again being considered. The King was about to build a new sailing cruiser when the war opened and since then the Victoria and Albert has been tolerated in the interests of royal economy.

Queen Mary, as is well known, is not a good sailor and the few trips which have been made in the Victoria and Albert have been hard trials to her.

The history of the royal yachts has been an unfortunate one. Queen Victoria's first yacht, the "Osborne," was a good sea boat but had cabins which the Queen said "would have disgraced a merchant man," and she ordered the "Victoria and Albert." King Edward soon realized its drawbacks, and built the "Alexandra" which, however, was never popular with the royal family and, like the "Osborne," was sold.

It is rumored that the new yacht will be the most palatial cruiser ever built in Great Britain.

THE CHURCH OF THE IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

Rev. Monsignor McColl and his parishioners celebrated yesterday, the eleventh anniversary of the dedication of the church of the Immaculate Conception. The early masses in the morning were featured by the large number of communicants, and vespers by the presence of His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, who recalled some of the religious aspects of his recent trip to Europe, referring especially to the shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Lourdes. The Catholic doctrine that the mother of Jesus had been born without original sin had always been taught by the Church, His Lordship said, but it was not defined as dogma until it was challenged by unbelievers. The history of Lourdes, the miracles that authenticated the statements of the little girl Bernadette, of her visions of the Virgin Mary on eighteen different occasions, the religous atmosphere of the place, and the legions of pilgrims from all parts of the world, were told by Bishop O'Brien. His Lordship dwelt upon the historic landmarks of the early days of the Church in Rome, where the first Christians endured successive persecutions and martyrdom, was the price of faith in Jesus.

Monsignor McColl was assisted last night by Rev. J. J. O'Brien as deacon and Rev. J. V. McAuley as subdeacon. Father Costello and Father Maher were also present.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

(Contributed).

A special feature of last evening's service at St. Paul's was an attendance of between 60 and 70 in the choir. Of this number a choir of over 40 men occupied the choir seats, while the women members of the choir sat in the front seat of the gallery. In one or two of the numbers by the choir certain lines were sung only by the women, the responses being made by the men. This proved very effective. Considering that the men's choir had received only a few short periods of instruction, the singing, under Mr. Chenhall's direction, was remarkable, and it is anticipated that it will be called upon for further assistance during the winter.

Rev. Wm. Allan gave one of his gripping evangelical addresses on the subject, "What everyone wants, may have, but will not take." His text was the Lord's words, "And ye will not come to Me that ye will have life," St. John v., 40. Mr. Allan showed that Christ had just performed a miracle of healing at the Pool of Bethesda. He was hated for this by the religious leaders of the Jews who were seeking to kill Him. These leaders were sticklers for law and order. They objected to the miracle of healing because it had been done on the Sabbath Day. One of the things which make Christian workers tired in well-doing is this reverence to the past and the handicap it places on the present which is as much in evidence to-day as it was in the days of Christ. It was this carping, fault-finding that was the chief obstacle Christ met in His work. He encountered it on all sides. There is no reason why we should be afraid of sensationalism that is based on good works. The greatest sensation that ever took place centred around Christ and His message.

When Christ was challenged to give His authority for His actions He did so, and astounded them by claiming equality with God, including His own Deity. There are religious leaders to-day who are willing to admit that Christ is Divine, but only in the same sense as they say we all partake of the Divine nature. This falls far short of Christ's claims for Himself, and of what the Scriptures say about Him. The great difference between Christ and all others is that He was the only begotten Son of God.

The speaker reviewed the authorities Christ called to prove His Deity, including John the Baptist. His own miraculous works, and the Voice of God which spoke on his behalf at the time of His Baptism, and on the Mount of Transfiguration. In spite of such proofs the people refused to accept Him for what He was, or the gift of life which He offered them.

What every one wants is life. The efforts that people are making on all sides to gain a richer and fuller life were reviewed, and it was shown how these fall short of what God offers. God has given everyone the power to say "Yes" or "No" to his offer of life. Yet large numbers continue to grasp for the earthly bread of life while refusing the eternal bread of life. Out of a bread-line of some 200 which waited for upwards of an hour in Toronto for a free meal, and later listened to a Gospel message offering them eternal life, not one accepted the latter supernatural gift. No one will ever be able to blame God for not providing for their needs. This gift of life is offered everyone, and may be accepted to-day as easily as in the day of Christ. The implications of the message were pressed home effectively on the large congregation.

Church Canvass.

This week the men of the congregation, acting in conjunction with the session and board of managers, will conduct a canvass of the members of the congregation, partly in order to complete the church roll, as well as to provide for the anticipated requirements of the church for next year, including the budget for the general schemes of the church.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

The parable of the two houses, one built on the rock, and one built on sand, was the subject of an eloquent sermon preached by Rev. A. J. Langford of Trinity United Church last night.

Mr. Langford compared the lives of people to these houses and said that there was no middle way—one must live and follow the narrow way to success, or follow the broad highway of the life which gratifies but does not satisfy, and whose foundations are not firm.

The speaker compared the lives of two great men in trouble, Napoleon on St. Helena, gloomy and despondent over the downfall of his selfish ambitions, and Paul in a Roman prison, writing, "I have fought a good fight, I have run my course, I have kept the faith." One had followed the narrow way and built a firm foundation on the rock, which is Christ Jesus, while the other had built on the sand of personal ambition.

The trouble of the world at the present time, said the speaker, is that there is not enough moral conviction, and there is more sympathy for the sinner who is found out than for his victim. He recalled recent trials of public men of Ontario as an illustration. Thinkers of the present don't go below the surface of things, nor do they study the Bible, which is the textbook of life.

Splendid anthems and solos were endered by the choir.

KNOX UNITED CHURCH

Yesterday was observed as Anniversary day in Knox Church, and the occasion was featured by special music and the presence in Peterborough of Rev. John Dow, M.A., late of Inverness, Scotland, who has just arrived in Canada from the old country to occupy one of the most important chairs in Knox College, Toronto, that of teaching the New Testament.

At the morning service, Professor Dow stated that it was a scandal to the ultra-righteous of his time that Jesus should give so much of his time and energy to the sinner and the outcast. He said that that was his glory now. His hearers would not be sitting in a Christian church but for that. The trouble that Jesus found with people was that they did not seven think of God as being generous of mind as humans. In these parables Jesus is rallying them on this note. "Do you reckon," said the speaker, "that God cares less for human souls than their possessions in cattle and sheep?" The speaker outlined the four main points in the parables. First the numbers in the parables, one of one hundred, one of ten and one of two. Sheep and coins could be replaced, but a son could not. Secondly, what happens when the loss is known? The sheep owner and the owner of coin could make up for their loss but you can't lift a son out of an immoral life—he must come himself. Thirdly, what does lost mean in each case? The lost sheep can be recovered, so with the coin, but the lost soul is spilling virtue all the way. Fourthly—what happens when the lost is found? When the lost sheep is found there is a chorus of rejoicing, but when the lost son comes home there is an objector, a shadow across the table, the elder brother. The Pharisees grudged that sinners should come back to God—so with people to-day—while man wants liberty, opportunity and equality he grudges it to his black or yellow brother. These are the opposing forces of human nature. The love of the Father opposed by the enmity of the brother, but love must win in the end and must on sitting down with sinners.

Evening Service.

Professor Dow took as his evening subject, the man with the measuring rod, Zechariah 2, verse 1, and said that Zechariah lived in a time when everyone was talking reconstruction. Here in his vision he pictures a man measuring out Jesus, that is, measuring the immeasurable, that is drawing lines and fixing boundaries for something that in God's providence knows no bounds. The spiritual is always immeasurable, yet men are constantly trying to judge by their rude imperfect standards, the theory of the spiritual. For example education is plagued with examination tests. "The impulses that deter conduct are intangible beyond our reason, yet we insist on judging men by conventional categories. God has another standard. The love of God is straight on the measures of man's mind. Religion above all things is the most spiritual of our possessions. We have lived to measure by creeds and systems. The true test is what Lessing points out in his "Nathan the wise." The test of religion is the kind of man you are—creeds cannot measure the spirit. It is to the glory of the United Church of Canada that it has dug beneath creeds to the common faith that exists beneath all creeds and has founded its life on a truly spiritual basis. It has remembered the Christian life is hid with Christ in God and is something richer and grander than can be captured in a meticulous man-made system of theology. Such a church, founded on the spirit and led by the spirit, comes nearer the ideal Christian organization than anything hitherto attempted."

ST. JAMES' UNITED CHURCH

Miss M. Yarwood, a representative of the Women's Missionary Society, presented an interesting address last night at St. James' Church, concerning the mission work which is being done in the Ruthenian districts of Western Canada. A special programme of music was given by the choir.

Miss Yarwood read passages from the Bible which dealt with prayer. As an introduction to her address she expressed appreciation of the music saying that she was not privileged to hear a city choir much more than once a year. The Ruthenians, which formed the field of her missionary endeavour, were from a district which, in Europe, was known as the Ukraine. In 900 A.D., there was a kingdom by that name and the people were free and of a Slavic race. Later, the kingdom came under Russian control and the name and language were forbidden.

Twenty-five years ago the Ukranians or Ruthenians started to come to Canada and the first colony was formed north-east of Edmonton. Now there are 75,000 people in that colony, said Miss Yarwood. The first mission was on the Northern end of the North Saskatchewan River. A railway links that place with civilization now, but at one time people were forced to drive 45 miles to the nearest station.

Later, another mission was established 16 miles east of Edmonton. A four-roomed house did duty as the missionaries' headquarters. There was no public school, so the young people were forced to look to the missionaries for instruction about the English language. At first all education was restricted to the boys, as the Ruthenians did not see the value of teaching girls. Now, however, girls are students at boarding schools.

Sometimes English-speaking people are more in need of ministerial attention than the native Ukranian, as they have an exalted opinion of their own goodness and superiority. Some of them, by their conduct, undo much of the work accomplished by the missionaries.

Miss Yarwood closed by asking for the prayers of all Christian people who were interested in the extension of God's Kingdom. Especially she desired the prayers of the Women's Missionary Society.

Rev. J. D. Richardson, M.A., expressed his gratitude for the splendid message which had been received, and attributed it to the W.M.S. of his Church.

At St. Peter's Cathedral.

"And in those day cometh John the Baptist, preaching in the desert of Judea and saying 'Do penance, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand'," verses taken from the third chapter of St. Matthew, was the text of the sermon given by Rev. P Costello at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday.

In the penetential discipline practised by the Precursor of Christ in the desert, the reverend speaker pointed an example for Advent observance to his parishioners. "Advent is the season of preparation for the great festival of Christmas. In one word, the sermon of John to the world was "penance," and Mother Church preaches penance from the beginning of Advent to its end. "Do penance, for the kingdom of Heaven is at hand."

John in the desert practised penance of the most rigorous type. We are told that unless we do penance, we shall all likewise perish. Every one of us must perform works of a penetential order and without them, we cannot hope to save our souls. The world will tell you differently. It will place before you all its prizes and tell you to come along and take advantage of its pleasures. It will say, "What is the use of doing penance? Enjoy yourself, for your sojourn here will be short. The world, the flesh, and the devil—your triple enemy. Christ Himself gave us the example of penance, when He fasted for forty days in the desert, and offered Himself a living sacrifice on the Cross.

"God's Church is always right and when it says that you must do penance, then you must follow that guidance. In Advent, it exhorts us to come to daily Mass, if possible, to receive communion frequently, to go forth and put its precepts into practice in our daily lives, to practise charity and patience in our daily lives, to practice charity and patience in our homes and outside of them. What are the parents thinking of in a city like this whose children are out on the streets at all hours, and the policemen are compelled to go out and gather them up at late hours. If the soul of a child like that is damned, then its parents are responsible. We should practice charity constantly, both in our homes and outside of them, to those within the fold and those without, whose souls are just as precious to God as are our own. Give a good example in your lives of Catholic doctrines. Be a Catholic on every occasion, and when an opportunity presents itself of doing something that is not Catholic say, "I will not do that." If you are invited here or invited there, to places where a Catholic should not go, refuse these invitations. Do not let anger overpower you in times of stress. Offer your prayers and your thoughts and your sufferings in this holy season to God, remembering the lesson in the life of John the Baptist: "Do penance, for the Kingdom of God is at hand."

Campbellford Churches

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 7.—Rev. E. D. Ford, pastor of the Baptist Church, preached another of his popular sermons last night, replying to a quest sent in by a citizen of the town, who asked; "What was Pilate's responsibility when in the capacity of Roman governor, he delivered Jesus to be crucified, and what is the responsibility of the modern Pilate?" The mind of the inquirer had evidently become tainted with the propaganda of the modern critics who teach Pilate was in the same position as many a modern judge who gives effect to a law in which he has no faith but who, in the discharge of his sworn duty, fines, or sends to prison, a man who has violated it, even though the judge believes that that man has committed no real crime.

Mr. Ford took no such view. He maintained that Pilate delivered Jesus to the Jewish mob because he was afraid of the emperor whom he represented, and with whom he was already in ill repute. The charge made against Jesus by the Jews when they brought Him before Pilate was high treason, that He had set Himself up as a King above Caesar. If Pilate had refused to sentence Jesus to death, the Jews would have reported the case to Rome, and Pilate would have been thrown out of office. The Roman governor chose Caesar instead of Christ, he made an earthy instead of a heaveoly choice, just as so many modern Pilates are doing to-day.

Pilate at first refused to sentence Jesus, declaring that he found no fault in Him. Then he weakened before the clamor of the mob and attempted to secure the release of the prisoner by temporizing. He brought out Barabas, a hardened criminal, and asked the Jews which of the two he should release. Pilate seemed to think that the contrast between the two men would lead the mob to decide in favor of the Nazarene or that they would quarrel among themselves over the matter, but the mob, couched by the high priest, with one voice shouted, "Release unto us Barabbas."

The Roman governor made another attempt to release Jesus when he allowed Him to be mocked, to be scourged and to be crowned with thorns by the soldiers. He thought the Jews would regard this punishment as sufficient, but again his plan failed.

When the Jews shouted that if Pilate did not send Jesus to His death he was no friend of Caesar that settled the matter. Pilate was afraid that a charge of treason would be brought against himself. He did not escape responsibility by washing his hands.

The responsibility that was Pilate's rests to-day upon those who preach and those who hear the Gospel, and there are modern Pilotes who are "crucifying the Lord Jesus afresh and putting Him to open shame."

PREMIER HASN'T GREAT SALARY

Downing Street House is a Heavy Burden on His Income.

HEAVILY TAXED.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 7—(Canadian Press Despatch). — In the course of an article in "English Life" J. Ramsay MacDonald, former Labor Prime Minister, discussing the emolument of a Prime Minister, writes:

"It is safe to say that no Prime Minister in modern times, when the extravagance of the Georgian days has been greatly diminished, find or can find his salary munificent, or his savings in any way adequate to bear the burdens he takes with him when the door of 10 Downing Street closes upon him....10, Downing Street makes a heavy inroad upon and is not an addition to the salary. Chequers, that gracious gift of peace and refreshment, though it may properly be added to the enjoyment of the office, must be regarded, in spite of Lord Lee's endowment and a body of the most generous and considerate of trustees, as a minus quality in its cash moluments. The Prime Minister's salary is £5,000 and not a half penny more, and of that the State deducts about £1,500 in taxes.

"It may be that the spirit of public service is thriftless and extravagant in personal possessions, or that it leaves no time—though Mr. Gladstone apparently found it—to watch balances at the bank and keep expenditure within the limits of income, or it may be that the wear and tear of public life need a heavy expenditure to make them good in mental and physical comfort, but the common history of all men of modest possessions in public life is a never-ending struggle with debt. If the public would only understand I am not at all sure that the fact is to be greatly deplored."

MINISTRY COULD HELP MIGRATION

General Booth Says It Would Be Cheaper Than Paying Doles.

ARMY SENDS SOME.

LONDON, Eng. Dec. 7—(Canadian Press Despatch)—Addressing 90 lads who were going out to Australia under the Salvation Army, General Booth said the saddest feature of Britain's unemployment was that a quarter of a million boys left the elementary schools each year, and only half of them could find regular work. If one of the unsuccessful lad joined the ranks of the paupers he would cost £50 a year. If the boy's dealing led him to prison, he would cost the country £80 for his upkeep. He could be sent to Australia for £46, of which the Government had to find only £16. This small expenditure was cheaper than the dole and he appealed to the Ministry to assist more generously the Army's migration scheme.

SMOKING CAUSES CANCER INCREASE

Habit Among Women is the Cause, Says Manchester Doctor.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 7—(Canadian Press Depatch)—That the increase of cancer among women is possibly due to the increase of cigarette-smoking among the sex is a theory advanced by Doctor Wild, Professor of Therapeutics at Manchester University.

It is difficult, says Doctor Wild, to say if there is any hope for a cure for cancer. There were cases where people with cancer had been cured without treatment. That showed that some change had taken place in the body, the nature of which they did not know. Mice were susceptible to cancer, and a small proportion of them got well by themselves, and nothing that could be done to them could make cancer grow in them.

ANTIPODES WORK FOR BIG MEAT TRADE

United Kingdom's Population Increases and Herds Decrease.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 7—(Canadian Press). — Australia and New Zealand are working up a continental trade in meat and the United States in a few years would be buying food in the world's markets. When the United States want Canadian cattle, as they would then, they would take off the tariff, and as business men the Canadians would send their cattle just over the border to that nearer market than to England. That would leave this country with the Argentine as the principal source of supply.

These statements were made by W. H Walters, president of the National Federation of Meat Traders, at a Birmingham meeting. He pointed out that since 1911 the population of this country has increased by three millions, while the number of cattle has decreased by 80,000 and sheep by four millions. The Federation intended to help the Food Council to the best of their power, but there was no prospect of cheaper meat here unless the farmers produced more. The few isolated cases of profiteering cast a stigma on the whole trade.

Tailored Lines—Youthful Silhouette

It is interesting to note that frocks of the simplest lines have lost none of their popularity, and still are the successes of the season. Unquestionably this success is in a great measure due to the fact that the plain dress lends itself to such a variety of material designs, and frequently requires not more than 2⅛ yards of the wide widths. A very pleasing frock of simple design is pictured here, fashioned of striped kasha, showing the front extending onto the back at the hips, and stitched to form a deep tuck. There are two inset pockets finished with crowtacks, and the long tight sleeves have deep cuffs. The collar is of the convertible type and may be worn buttoned high, or open at the throat. The collar, cuffs and front facing are of plain color matching the background of the material. Plain or bordered materials would be equally effective when made from pattern No. 1063, which is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years (34, 36 and 38 inches bust only). Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3⅞ yards 36-inch, or 3⅛ yards 40-inch, or 2⅛ yards 54-inch material, with ⅛ yard additional contrasting for collar, cuffs and front facing. Price 20 cents.

HOW DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

Maurice L. Jacks, M.A., head master of Mill Hill School in England recently gave an address on "Moral Training in Schools." He emphasized four things:

(1) Learn to distinguish between the good and the bad, the true and the false, the beautiful and the ugly.

(2) To enjoy life, not by having a good time, but in sharing a good time both with contemporaries and with the great masters of old, and by giving a good time to others.

(3) To learn to do things he does not like doing, e.g., Latin: He will need this habit to keep him steady in days to come. It will put iron in his blood.

(4) To serve the community, playing as one on a team—never "hanging on to the ball" but always "passing it" when the needs of the community demand the five minute rule.

A little group of business men in London, England, have joined together and formed what they call "The Five Minute Rule." The rule stands for "consecration, witness, fellowship." The idea is that in the midst of the day in the busy luncheon hour, when out shopping, between one business appointment and another, five minutes should be allotted to prayer in some place of worship. The rigours of a Canadian winter make it impossible to keep our churches sufficiently warm for such chance visitors as the observance of this rule might bring, but even one minute between telephone calls and other demands on our time—even one minute when a man might lift his heart to God in silent communion would help to iron out life's roughness, and keep the deep places of our souls kind and steady and pure.

The Secrets Of Charm

—By Lucrezia Bori—

Never worry about your wrinkles, if you would be beautiful. I use this word "worry" advisedly, for it is worry which induces wrinkles, and you will never lessen the wrinkles you may have collected by beginning to worry about them.

But before I launch into any treatment advice, let me say a word to you about wrinkles. They are, in the first pace, a looseness of the skin you must know. In the second place the wrinkles we acquire are necessarily tell-tale indications of our characters. They do not all come from advanced age, for we know that many people acquire character wrinkles early in life.

Small up and down lines between your eyes are indications of small frets and worries, and longer horizontal lines in the forehead are said to come from a conscientious struggle to do right. The person who has a pleasant disposition is bound to have pleasant wrinkles, while the irritable, unpleasant person will find that her wrinkles are equally sure indications of her general disposition.

If you have wrinkles which you long to lose, the first step is to improve your disposition. Then comes absolute cleanliness, good, wholesome food and out-of-door exercise. Perhaps I should have mentioned the improving of your disposition last, for this comes more easily after the other requirements I mentioned are complied with.

If your skin is dry and wrinkled, it requires a tissue builder. Here is an excellent one:

White wax	1 ounce
Spermaceti	1 ounce
Lanolin	2 ounces
Sweet almond oil	4 ounces
Cocoanut oil	2 ounces
Benzoin (tincture)	3 drops
Orange flower water	2 ounces

Melt the first five ingredients together, then take off the fire. Beat this until nearly cold, then add the benzoin little by little, and lastly the orange flower water.

Apply this lightly to your face, at bedtime, after cleansing it thoroughly first.

PARIS STYLE HINTS.

Paris.—By her gloves will she be known, was never more true than today. Never has hand covering been more elaborate and at the same moment, more simple. It is the wearer herself who decides this season just how much decoration the gloves should add to her costume.

There are gloves with most elaborate cuffs embroidered in colored silk to match the tone of the gown, in scrolls and conventional designs or ornate flower ones. One charming white pair has a Japanese maid and her entire garden on it. A rather thick roll of the kid in the same shade as the embroidery gives a pretty touch. Of the more elaborate sort are gloves with lizard skin bands about the wrists finished off by a tiny silver buckle. Gold and silver skin are also used in the same manner and gives a striking touch to any costume.

Another vivid novelty is the batik glove coming in a suede patterned all over in designs on the order of the old-fashioned paisley. Sometimes there are double ruffles left plain or made lace-like with perforated designs. The old-fashioned gauntlet is almost never seen except in the motor and the cut this time is entirely different being a kind of triangular piece slanted off to a point.

Gloves made entirely of warm fur seem to foretell a long, cold winter. Leopard skin will perhaps be the most popular for warm winter gloves. Nutria makes many as well as the humble but valuable little bunny and there are many interesting cubist gloves which look much like grandmother's patchwork quilt with a mixture of fur in all shapes one can think of.

TOMATOES A L'ANGLAISE.

Paris.—For a new way to make tomatoes try "Tomatoes a l'Anglaise."

Choose nicely-formed round ones and cut into small rondelles. Cover with slices of onions cooked in a little water.

Garnish a baking-dish with small slices of buttered bread. Sprinkle with chopped herbs and grated cheese. Place the rounds of tomatoes and onions over this and dot with small pieces of butter.

Bake in the oven and serve immediately.

CHILD POET AMAZES TWO WORLDS WITH VERSE OF EXQUISITE BEAUTY

Nathalia Crane Has Been Making Poems Since She Was Just Over Four Years Old—Work is Sophisticated and Clever.

SOME DOUBT HER AUTHORSHIP.

When just over four years old, Nathalia Crane commenced to compose poetry.

Today she is in her twelfth year. And already her name appears upon two volumes of extraordinary verse, which have been widely read in both the old world and the new.

The first collection, published last year, is called The Janitor's Boy, having derived its title from a rollicking, skipping-rope lyric of schoolchild infatuation which opens with the declaration:

Oh I'm in love with the janitor's boy,
And the janitor's boy loves me;
He's going to hunt for a desert isle
In our geography.

A desert isle with spicy trees
Somewhere near Sheepshead Bay;
A right nice place, just fit for two,
Where we can live alway.

After reading this volume, New York promptly christened Nathalia as the Baby Browning of Brooklyn.

But it gasped with astonishment when it perused her second and more mature volume, Lava Lane, which contains verses like these:

A starry ember of the skies, a friction-tortured zone,
Fell from a heavenly fireplace to orbit of its own.
The seasons soothed each cicatrix as 'round the sun it
whirled,
Contented as a cinder foreordained to be a world.
The protoplasm double timed,
the aeons ran like rain,
Up went a sultry curtain on the stage of Lava Lane.

Sceptics Had Doubts.

Accustomed though it is to child prodigies, Gotham was ready to admit that there must be some touch of genius about any girl of twelve who could boil down the nebular hypothesis into half a dozen lines of music.

Indeed, it was not long before the voice of the sceptic was heard. Thus the dean of American poets, Edwin Markham, remarked, "Unquestionably the whole thing is a genial hoax fabricated by four young men and two young women—all of them distinguished poets, with dexterous pens, and all determined to break the monotony of the hour with this delectable deception."

With this literary plot, gossip connected the names of Louis Untermeyer, Edna St. Vincent Millay, William Rose Bent and others. But their denials carried conviction—despite the fact that they praised the poems as wholeheartedly as if they had been their own.

Then it was that the suspicions turned on Nathalia's father, Samuel Crane, suggesting that he was the "Daisy Ashford" who was responsible for this new and poetic version of The Little Visiter. Crane, it was learned, had in his day been soldier, sailor, rhymester and reporter. From one of the poems the critics extracted a couplet which they branded as an audacious confession of joint authorship. These lines ran:

A prompter squatted on a crag—his rapture ranked his skill.
The cue lines spurted as cascades in eagerness to spill.

Was Only Her Mother.

But Crane at once entered an indignant denial. He then went further. He promised to start libel actions against any who suggested that the two books of verse did not originate with his daughter.

Nathalia added her own declaration—which recalled an incident that occurred some three years ago. At that time, the poetry editor of The New York Sun, after accepting and printing several unusual poems, sought an interview with their writer. A few days later a young woman in her mid-twenties, accompanied by a child of nine, appeared in the newspaper office. The poetry editor at once addressed himself to the woman, praising the quality of the contributed verse. Hearing this, the child broke in, saying "But I'm the poet—I'm Nathalia Crane. That's just my mother!"

Now Nathalia has attained to the ripe old age of twelve. But to all appearances she is still a schoolchild. Conan Doyle is her favorite author, although she reads Kipling constantly. The only poet with whom she bothers is Longfellow and over his works she does not enthuse. It is the wild and imaginative tales her books, sometimes with her pet

Nathalia Crane has won high praise as Brooklyn's twelve-year-old poetess, but she is still sufficiently unspoiled by adulation to think that there is no bookrest like a good solid floor when one has a thrilling story to read.

In reading her poems, she declaims in a high treble sing song voice, stressing the meter with gestures of the hand.

When an interviewer recently expressed doubt over her ability to write the verse credited to her, she retired and in fifteen minutes returned with this poem-fragment as a sample production:

Lo and behold, God made this starry wold,
Then maggot and the mold; Lo and behold
He taught the grass contentment-blade by blade,
The sanctity of sameness in a shade.

Father Was Poetaster.

But to advert to the father. "It is absurd," he declares, "to say that I may have written some of her poems. True, thirty years ago, when I was a young jack fool, I had a volume of my verse published. It was terrible junk—I haven't even a copy now. Her work is poetry. Mine was just silly kid stuff."

It was pointed out to him that the poems appearing under Nathalia's name cantain a strain of mysticism, cynicism and eroticism which would be expected to emanate from a world - weary and worldly - wise wanderer rather than from a schoolchild of twelve.

This he explained by saying that he had long daily chats with Nathalia in which he told her much of his own Ulysses-like experience as a mariner, a soldier in France and a writer on a metropolitan daily.

Nor did he see anything inexplicable in the fact that this child used with facility and felicity such arabic or unusual words as barracoon, blastoderm, sindom, parasang, sarcenet, teasel, nullah, cantatrice or sistrum. She knows exactly where every odd toy in it is concealed. From it she has compiled a glossary of her own.

"When she finds a word she likes or doesn't understand," he said, "she looks it up in every available dictionary and studies every possible meaning and use for it. Some of the words she does not fully comprehend but she learns how to use them.

She may not undestand, for example, what is meant by the words 'nebular hypothesis,' but she knows the story of the scientific creation of the world—I have told it to her many times."

Snowdrop and Dinosaur.

And this arise stanzas like this:

The cliffsize caverns were the stalls,
the primitives were there,
The snowdrop and the dinosaur, the
crocus and the bear,
The pythons long as parasangs, the robust butterflies—
So strong that 'twixt their wings they bore great vats of sweet supplies.

Equally dazzling is such a line as: "A flower flamed, a parrot screamed, night spread her peacock tail."

In a more sophisticated mood is an Old Maid's Reverie:

I'm tired of mirthless mirrors and their hostile heresies,
Of musing in a mansion hung with mildewed memories;
Of the silence of the stairways, of the statuary wan,
Of the alabaster angel riding on the fountain swan.
Therefore methinks I'll venture to a
disarrayed domain,
And soonless dance the saraband in some assuaging lane.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

Appeal Before His Honor Judge Huycke of Liquor Case.

The appeal in the case of Dalton Dolan, who was convicted by Magistrate O. A. Langley on a charge of having 118 bottles of liquor in his possession illegally, was heard before His Honor Judge Huycke on Saturday. His Honor reserved judgment.

R. R. Hall, K.C., appeared for the appellant and J. F. Strickland for the license inspector.

R. R. Hall, K.C., submitted that there was nothing in the evidence to show that the accused had the liquor for sale He stated that the real mistake in the judgment was made by the Magistrate in neglecting to give the accused the benefit of the doubt. The Magistrate's own judgment suggests that he had an unfortunate suspicion that because the liquor was found at the bottom of the cellar steps in the house of the accused that it was kept for the purpose of selling. R. R. Hall, K.C., submitted that no inference should be drawn from this, and that the accused was entitled to all reasonable doubt.

J. F. Strickland, appearing for the license inspector, submitted that if the liquor had been purchased in May or June, as the accused stated, that it would have been placed on shelves and not left in bags as it was when found. Mr. Strickland stated that the accused knew more about the O.T.A. than most solicitors. Mr. Strickland submitted that it was a strange thing that the accused could not remember when he was last employed. This man, said Mr. Strickland, had this story in his mind for years, and he would have stuck to that story if the building had fallen down.

When he switched on the cabin light he developed freckles, blue eyes, an aggressive chin under humorous, mobile lips, and hair as red as Connemara's.

"'Sricht," he beamed at her. "Dressed in white—'sproper rig for yachtin'. Have 'smore coffee?"

"I—I—" Connemara was at what is known technically as a loss. More coffee! She had not had any coffee for hours—or was it weeks?

"Oh, aye—have 'smore coffee," White Cap urged her, "'nsist on it."

"How about gas?" Mr. Pooch inquired, almost casually. "Got any gas?"

"Gas?" the little man laughed. "A' the gas in the wo:ld—gas, water, onions, marmalade—got everything. 'Sgocruising? Takyeanywhereyesay."

"We might go for a spin," Mr. Pooch seemed to deliberate. "Go ahead, Sandy; start her up."

"Dinna call me Sandy," White Cap objected. "'Sdang'rous. Call me Angus McTish—a' friends here, see?"

"All right, McTish, old scout, hop to it!" Mr. Pooch waved him forward. Coffee seemed to be forgotten.

Mr. Pooch stood in the cabin, smiling to himself, and Connemara sat down in a corner of the cockpit. Power yachts—in fact, all forms of marine endeavor—were a mystery to Connemara, and this boat in particular seemed more mysterious than most, surely. At least Connemara did not suppose it customary for strangers to come aboard private yachts in the middle of the night and be greeted by intoxicated little red-headed men with offers of non-existent coffee, onions, and marmalade. But Connemara was tired, desperately tired, and so she sat, staring vacantly at some sort of document under the cabin lamp setting forth that one David Lacy was owner of the power boat Bloody Nuisance of New York. Soon there was a sound of machinery at its deadly work—a clanking up forward seemed to be an anchor coming up. At any rate, in a few seconds, the boat was moving, swiftly, silently, invisably, mysteriously through the night.

For perhaps the first time in her life, Connemara began to feel a little bit frightened. Desperate measures flashed through her mind. Should she jump overboard and take her chances swimming back to land? Connemara looked at the black waters and shivered negatively. Should she climb surreptitiously into the little black boat trailing astern and cast herself adrift, with a pair of, to her, meaningless implements called oars as sole companions? Once again Connemara looked at the black water in tremulous negation. In her present dismay, not to say quandary, Connemara's soul craved company, however nefarious in character.

She left her place in the cockpit, therefore, and climbed onto the bridge, where Mr. Pooch was chewing a cigar at Angus McTish's elbow. Up ahead a light—Execution Rock, so Mr. Pooch announced—pierced the darkness. Astern but very faintly, came the throb of a distant motor boat, concerning which Mr. Pooch made no announcement, since he had not yet noticed it; just as he had not become aware of the fact—unknown to Connemara, though possibly not to Mr. McTish, who happened to be standing with his foot on a button in the deck—that the Bloody Nuisance's electric anchor light was still lit—lit, and flashing intermittently in a manner far too methodical to be accidental.

"Long — short — short — long. . ." versed in such matters, might well have guessed it to be a message, had she been able to see it.

And then a sudden and most alarming racket made itself manifest in the bowels of the ship.

"Whas samatter?" Mr. Pooch inquired.

"'Snothing, 'snothing," McTish assured him. "Fix 'tno time."

He slung himself down into the engine room, and for a few moments they could hear him below, clanketing under their feet. Then he reappeared, with a spanner in one hand and a broad grin on his freckled countenance.

"'Snumber four cylinder," he informed them. "'Sdead as a door nail. 'Sdeader. Oh, aye—far deader."

"Well, don't stand there gassing about it," Mr. Pooch rebuked him. "Can't you fix it?"

"Sure." McTish beamed. "Fix anything."

He lifted the engine hatch in the deck and fetched the exposed cylinder tops a terrific crack with the spanner.

"Hey!" Mr. Pooch exclaimed. "What the hell you doing?"

"Soakem!" McTish insisted, "Something wrang wi' th' engine? Always hit it a crack wi' a spanner first—'sonly way to fixem!"

McTish was obviously still extremely intoxicated—and yet the certainty swept over Connemara at that moment that Mr. McTish was actually as sober as a new-born clam and that he had been so from the first. Connemara could not have told why, but she was suddenly sure of this, just as she was positive that something desperate was about to happen.

It did, at once. Mr. McTish raised his hand for another crack at the cylinder top, and Mr. Pooch lunged forward.

"Cut that out, you bum!" he roared. "Tryin' to bust the spark plugs——"

While the words were still in the air the bridge became a tumult of arms, legs, faces, splinters, and profanity The Bloody Nuisance, left to herself, behaved like one and rolled broadside on to the nearest sea. Connemara holding on to a rod of some kind, saw that the two men were gripped in each other's arms. Mr. Pooch was on top of McTish, wrestling for the spanner and beating him with his other fist, while Mr. McTish seemed to be biting Mr. Pooch when and wherever occasion offered. But it was inevitable that Mr. Pooch should triumph, since he had all the advantages of weight and position on his side. And it was not long—although it seemed an eternity to Connemara—before Mr. Pooch had slung Mr. McTish into the forecastle and slammed and padlocked the hatch on top of him.

"The bum!" Mr. Pooch panted. "Tryin' to wreck the engine. . . . My Gawd!"

Mr. Pooch had just caught that staccato exhaust of a power boat somewhere astern, a sound that drew steadily nearer as he listened, and which evidently signified dire contingencies to his mind, for he jumped all the way down the companionway into the cabin.

"Revenners!" Mr. Pooch flung at her over his shoulder. "Make it snappy, kid!"

"Snappy?"

"Sure—time to fly this floating coop!"

Mr. Pooch was already in the cockpit, hauling in the painter. He turned for an instant to look at Connemara, standing in the light from the cabin into which she followed him—and all at once his expression changed to one of sinister intensity.

LAKEFIELD A.Y.P.A. HELD EUCHRE PARTY

Many Attended First of Series—W.M.S. Held Sale.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 7.— The first of a series of card parties was held under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. in St. John's school room on Thursday night. The series of twelve euchre parties has been arranged to raise money towards putting a basement under the Sunday school and making it of more practical use as a parish hall. Prizes are given each night and the record of the scores is kept and a good prize will be given at the end of the season for the highest score. Twelve tables of cards were arranged and a very jolly evening was spent, refreshments being served at the close. Mrs. W. G. Morrison and Mr. Ralph Bickell wan the first prizes and Mrs. E. M. Grier and Mr. Gordon Strickland the consolation prizes. Among those present were: Rev. and Mrs. W. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. B. Q. Dench, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Grier, Mrs. O. A. Langley, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Northey, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stenner, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Woodhouse, Mrs. D. C. Chads, Mrs. L. H. Grahame, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. A. Wannamaker, Misses Hampton Hewitt, M. Johnston, Graham, Verna and Winifred Payne, Yvonne Stewart and Ida Webster and Messrs. A. Barker, R. Bickell, W. Chappell, L. J. Charlton, Geo. Fairbairn, M. Hampton, Eric Holmes, R. J. Jory, F. Moon, R. Murduff, C. Payne, E. Rowershaw, G. Sherin, T. Simpson, G. Strickland, A. V. Summers, G. Wannamaker, K. Wannamaker, A. Webster and F. C. Webster.

The ladies of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian church held a sale of home cooking and candy in the' Little Shoppe' on Wednesday afternoon, which was very successful indeed. The ladies also served tea and received splendid patronage. Home-made bread and buns, cakes, of various kinds. tarts, pies and a large and varied assortment of home-made candy quickly disappeared from the shelves and was carried away by eager purchasers.

Misses Preston, Tanner and Miller were in charge of the cooking sale and Mesdames Richard White and Robert Garbutt and Miss Mary Quinn presided over the tea room. The financial returns were very gratifying.

Lakefield has been made famous b its connection with literary people and hold rather a unique place among villages of Eastern Ontario. That its literary connection is not entirely in the past is proved by the fact that a small volume of poems has just been published in Lakefield by a local poetess, Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron, many of whose poems have appeared in the Mail and Empire. Published in the village, this little volume goes out into the world as a genuine "Made in Lakefield" production.

Mr. Jacob Reid received word this week of the death of his brother Mr. Fred Reid, in Toronto.

Twenty unmarried old ladies in Bayonne, France, have formed a union to combat the high cost of living.

Women workers in the printing trade compose about 20 per cent. of the total number employed in the industry.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DICKEY MEETS A HAPPY FAMILY.

Dickey stood quite still, watching the queer little family of feathered folk until the Mother Bird looked up and saw him.

"Now if we were back in the wilds of Australia, I'd take to my heels and run," she said, good naturedly, "but since I came here to the Zoo to live, I've gotten all over that fear of little boys and girls. I'm Mama Emu and these are my youngsters. Haven't you ever seen an Emu before?"

"No, I haven't," replied Dickey, his eyes widening in wonder, "but I'm glad to know you and your family, Mrs. Emu. Did I understand you to say your home was in Australia before you came to this Zoo?"

"Yes, indeed," laughed Mama Emu, "and I wouldn't go back to my old wild life for anything, if I could. It's so lovely here and I have nothing to fear. Why, would you believe it, I always hated men, boys and dogs, until I met the Keeper of the Zoo here. Since then I have changed my mind and now I love everybody."

"Because they are good to you," said Dickey stooping down to stroke one of the wee little brown and white striped babies. "Don't they look funny with their long necks?"

"They don't look as funny now as they will later, when they get a wee bit older," chuckled Mrs. Emu. "Then, they'll lose all the feathers off their neck, like mine."

"Have You Ever Seen an Emu?"

"You haven't any wings, have you?" Dickey asked when he had looked over her feathered body in search of wings. "You don't fly?"

"I'll say I fly," chuckled Mrs. Emu. "But not with wings, with these long, strong legs of mine. I'm sure mighty proud of my long, strong legs."

"I'd hate to have you get angry at me, and kick me," laughed Dickey. "I'll bet you could knock the wind out of a fellow."

"I certainly can knock the wind out of him," laughed Mrs. Emu, raising her leg and kicking with all her might. "My, but its been a long time since I kicked that way. Would you believe it, I can almost crush a man's bone or a dog with one kick of that leg? Well, I can and it's very seldom a dog will tackle one of my family the second time."

"Then I shouldn't think you'd be afraid of a dog or a hunter either," laughed Dickey. "With such weapons as those legs."

"I'm not afraid, until a dog advances from the side," replied Mrs. Emu. "When he can get up to the side of me, he jumps and grabs my neck where I have no feathers. Of course I've never been caught that way, or I wouldn't have been here. But I have seen a dog jump and kill one of my cousins, just by jumping at her neck. Then, too, we have a peculiar odor to our flesh that dogs don't like very well. Come on, youngsters," and Mrs. Emu strutted off across the meadows, her five little striped brown and white youngsters trotting after her. Dickey watched them until the big Zoo bell rang, then he ran home to tell his Mama what he had seen.

MARMORA HEARS OF WEST INDIES FROM LECTURER

Miss A. L. Laird of Toronto Gave Address in University Extension.

CHARMS OF TROPICS

Where Columbus Called in 1493—Colonies of Britain.

MARMORA, Dec. 7.—A most interesting lecture, beautifully illustrated and entitled, "A Trip to the West Indies," was given by Miss A. L. Laird, M.S., Associate Professor of Household Science, Toronto, at the Town Hall on Friday evening. The lecture was the fifth of the University Extension Course. The chair was taken by the Rev. P. Caiger-Watson.

Miss Laird described a trip made in a Royal Mail steamer of 4,500 tonnage, and its extent lay between Halifax, Nova Scotia and Demerara. Bermuda, being the first stopping place, came in for brief mention. Here was the first coral formations to be seen. Waters were of brightest blue and flying fish besported themselves. St. Kitts is the first of the West Indies to be reached. On account of shallow waters, passengers, have to take to boats to disembark. Nevis, a small island to its south-east, is famous because on March 11, 1787, Lord Nelson was married within its church. St. Kitts is 23 miles in length and of volcano formation. It was discovered in 1493 by Christopher Columbus. Mount Misery is its highest point, rising to an altitude of 3,711 feet. Sugar cane and cotton are its principal products. Basseterre is its chief town. Native villages with thatched roof houses erected on stilts two or three feet above the ground, look very curious when seen for the first time.

Fashion in Patches.

The lecturer noticed two things in particular, the two hours she was ashore at St. Kitts. The workers walked very erect. The men showed a fondness for wearing rags. Twenty patches were counted on the back of a native's shirt. This individual strutted along as though particularly proud of his rags. Basseterre was destroyed by fire in 1867, and when rebuilt, many better class buildings of stone covered with plaster, made their appearance. A feature of Basseterre, as of all West Indian towns, is its fine botanical gardens. The stately Royal or cabbage palms look very beautiful to the visitor. Antigua was the next island mentioned. St. Johns is the capital, and, here again because of shallow water, vessels have to anchor three miles out.

Visited by Nelson.

English Harbor is interesting from the fact that here Lord Nelson refitted his ships in 1805. One of the most beautiful buildings is the Anglican Cathedral of St. Johns. Because of the use of its roofs as a water cistern, the Government contributes to the upkeep of the edifice.

The women carriers are somewhat amazing in the burdens they carry on their heads. The force of the waves on the sea cliffs has left interesting formations, known as the "Pillars of Hercules." Monserrat famous for its limes, was not stopped at sufficiently long enough for a walk ashore, but a view taken from the ship revealed a panorama of field and cultivated land most pleasing to the eye.

Tropical Christmas.

Dominica was next reached and the passengers went ashore after dark, it being Christmas Eve. Here the streets were electrically lit, whereas in St. Kitts streets, oil lamps were used. Everyone seemed to be letting off firecrackers in celebration of the season. Christmas morn was ushered in at St. Lucien. It was the only island where the ship went up to dock. Princeport, its chief town, is a coaling station and three hours were taken up by women loading the ship for the pay of one penny a basket.

Coming to Barbadoes, more was to be seen of this than the other islands. It is doubtless the healthiest. Bridgetown to Bathsheba was covered on land. Donkey carts are used for baggage and express. In Bridgetown is another Trafalgar Square, with a monument to Nelson. Street cars in this town were drawn by mules, the war postponing the introduction of the electric system. Barbadoes exports most of its sugar in form of syrup. The grinding of the canes is operated by windmills. St. Vincent was made the scene of a very brief stay though its large open sewer was noted.

Grenada, where the cocos trees are grown, was interestingly dealt with. Trinidad, with one third of its population East Indian, was the next island to be reached. Port of Spain beipg described in detail.

Canals in Streets.

Demerara in British Guiana is noted for the canals in its streets. One of the prettiest things to be seen there is the fan palm, or travellers' palm. Practically all the people in British Guiana are East Indians. The women are passionately fond of jewellery, wearing bracelets, anklets and ear-rings in great numbers. Instead of wearing a wedding ring, a piece of jewellery of coin shape is fastened to the side of the nose.

At the conclusion of the lecture, upon the proposition of Dr. H. Crawford, seconded by Mr. J. Collins, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

What do you do when you get a cold?

Do you take care of it as you should, or do you go around spreading it all over the place?

Colds are infectious. They should be included among the "catching diseases.' The victim of a cold should consider the rights of his family and associates. Unless he exercises care there is sure to be trouble for many with whom he comes in contact.

Of course you have noticed how a little epidemic of colds will run through a household. It is the common response of a friend, when you have inquired about his family: "Oh, we are well, except that everybody has had a cold."

One careless person will infect his entire family. Some day we shall have progressed so far that it will be considered a shameful thing to be sick and little short of criminal to infect others.

"Catching cold" implies several things. It requires a little more than contact with unfriendly germs. There must be a run-down or otherwise weakened condition of the system. The lowest resistance of the body prepares the way. Then the careless sneezing or coughing of an associate sprays into the air, to be breathed in by you, the active germ which will set up in you the same kind of a cold he has.

The moist secretions of the nose and throat are capable of carrying the infection of a cold, the influenza, bronchitis and pneumonia. These secretions, coughed or sneezed into the palm of the hand, may be conveyed directly, or by a door knob or toilet articles to the hand of another person. He wipes his nose or mouth, carrying to his own tissues the germs of disease.

If you have a cold you owe it to your friends to carry a supply of clean handkerchiefs, or squares of gauze or paper. When you cough or sneeze you will cover your face and catch the spray, not in your hand, but in your handkerchief. When you talk you will speak gently and avoid sprinkling the face of the one you are addressing with the contaminated moisture of your breath.

Little children must be guarded against infection of this sort. A cold which is of little consequence to a hardy grown-up may be serious and even fatal to a weak child.

Every cold should be regarded as a menace to society. When so regarded there will be many reminders of the social obligations resting on the victim of this common disease.

J. L. T. Q.—I have a brown spot on the side of my face and have been told it is a liver spot. What would you advise?

A.—If a liver spot, proper intestinal elimination should benefit you. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address "all inquiries" to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By Barbara Bayne

EDWARD LAWRENCE DOHENY—Oil King and Empire Builder.

As the architect of his own fortune, Edward L. Doheny has been a master-builder. Few men, even in this land of opportunity, have achieved a more remarkable success. He was born in Fond du Lac, Wis., in 1856, in very moderate circumstances. Though obliged to work to swell the family income he managed to attend school part of each Winter and graduated earlier than many boys who attend the full school year.

While the gold rush lasted the youngster cleaned up $30,000. Then he joined C. A. Canfield and they made a lucky strike in silver. One property alone yielded more than half a million dollars. He followed a wandering, out-of-doors life for many years with varying degrees of success.

Then, one day in Los Angeles, at the time it had about 100,000 inhabitants, Doheny and Canfield, both almost broke again, pooled their capital of $400 and bought a plot of ground right in the midst of the city, sunk a shaft and struck oil. He persuaded everybody to use the thick, unsalable fluid as a substitute for coal. And wealth rolled in. Within five years 2,300 wells were drilled in that vicinity.

But at 48 years of age Doheny was right down to hardpan again. All money had said to him so far was "good-bye." Suddenly his luck changed and within the next two years he had sold a property for $136,000 and begun operations in the Bakersville district, which brought him an income of half a million a year.

Then the partners went into Mexico, organized the Mexican Petroleum Co., and began the gigantic task of performing the jungles into a modern behive of industry. They expended more than $20,000,000 in development work, several millions more in refineries and storage plants in the United States; and a fleet of steel tank steamships represents another investment of $20,000,000. The Pan American Petroleum and Transport Co. owns 99 per cent of the stock of the Mexican Petroleum Co. Ltd., and 100 per cent of seven subsidiary companies. Edward L. Doheny is chairman of the whole workes Necessity keeps brains on the whetstone. That's why the lads who had few educational advantages were so quick at learning and have become the nation's leaders.

The blood of the pioneer ran in Doheny's veins. It thirsted to break into the wildernesses and made him join a Government surveying party en route to Oklahoma. Though only seventeen he journeyed on to Mexico to buy mules for the United States Government.

There he found his first opportunity to make real money and scraped together enough cash to buy 92 head of horses sold by the Mexican Government, which he later disposed of at a profit of $2,000.

The Black Hills excitement was on about that time and young Doheny joined a party of gold seekers. He was unsuccessful there, however, and trailed along with another party going to Arizona, where he found gold in paying quantities. He was doing very well but again the wanderlust gripped him and after months of thrilling adventure and hairbreadth escapes, he finally brought up in a mushroom mining camp in New Mexico.

MARMORA FOXES ARE DECIMATED

Hunters Turn Guns on Reynard After Slaying Deer.

MARMORA, Dec. 7.—Marmora Township has been a veritable danger zone for foxes for the last two weeks. With the close of the deer hunting season, many a local huntsman decided to turn his attention to Reynard. So keen has been the chase that several huntsmen can boast of more than one victim to their credit. Mr. James Gordanier has had outstanding success, having between Monday morning and Wednesday evening secured four good foxes and two racoons. The fourth fox to be shot on this particular hunting trip was as large as the best hitherto falling to his gun. Its hide measured fifty-six inches from tip of nose to end of tail.

Mr. Bert Davidson is also having the greatest success of his life at fox hunting with three good specimens up to date, secured within but a few days.

Shooting Match

A shooting match for geese and ducks was conducted across the river on Thursday afternoon by Mr. Charles Gordanier. At this event, Mr. Robert Nayler proved to be the most successful shot.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 8.

A fairly lively and fortunate day is prognosticated on the judgment of very interesting and important lunar and mutual aspects. But the favorable trend of events might be negatived by ill-considered changes or journeys. These are under a baneful influence and such opportunities and inclinations should be resisted. Those in employment are particularly enjoined to discretion. A similar unrest and tendency toward disruption may be felt in personal affairs and should be restrained.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly fortunate year if they resist impulses and opportinities toward abrupt change and sudden removals or journeys. In business or personal interests this may be ominous. Likewise, those in employment should resist restless and unsettled tendencies. A child born on this day should be energetic and have good abilities, but may be restless and given to frequent change and upheaval, which might work to its undoing unless held in subjection.

CAVAN LADIES' AID MOTHER'S MEETING

Mrs. David Hunter Was the Hostess for the Meeting.

CAVAN, Dec. 7.— On Thursday afternoon the Ladies' Aid of Cavan United Church, met at the home of Mrs. David Hunter. There were over twenty ladies present.

An interesting meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. R. S. Staples. It was a Mothers' Meeting, and several papers and clippings along that line were read. Mr. and Mrs. Totten sang the verses of "Let Us Gather Up the Sunbeans," and all joined in the chorus.

A story "Spun Gold," was read by Mrs. Staples, illstrating the far-reaching influence of a "real" mothers' home life.

At the conclusion, a question drawer was conducted, in which many questions of interest to mothers were asked and discussed.

Lunch was served by a committee of six ladies.

One of the "nice" features of the meeting was the fact that the hostess, Mrs. David Hunter, was the oldest mother in the community.

During the discussion brought on by the question drawer, she contributed more than a little to the interest and profit of this meeting, by her bright remarks and stores of wisdom and mother-lore, gleaned in the best way it can be obtained, that is by a long life lived in the fear of God, and the mothering of a large family, whom she raised according to those high ideals of the importance of living not to oneself alone, bt that, becase of passing over the way, some one is helped and the road made brighter.

Mrs. Richard Matchett invited the Aid to meet at her home in January.

Among those present were Mrs. R. S. Staples, Mrs. J. Swain, Mrs. D. J. Hunter, Mrs. Totten, Mrs. Bradburn, Mrs. I. Keegan, Mrs. Harry Tinney, Mrs. Roy Syer, Mrs. J. W. Perrin, Mrs. Jas. Douglas, Mrs. R. Matchett, Mrs. F. M. Staples, Mrs. Wm. Pritchard, Miss Elinor Pritchard, Mrs. David White, Mrs. Rowen, Mrs. Will White, Mrs. M. McGinnis, Mrs. Boyles, Mrs. Wm. Tinney, Mrs. M. Matchett, and the Rev. J. Totten.

Cavan Sunday School and the Matchett Sunday School will provide the entertainment for the Sunday School Convention on Tuesday evening. After the afternoon session tea will be served in the basement for all who remain for the evening session.

Strong salt water will freshen faded rugs and carpets.

Ottawa Wins Canadian Rugby Title - Senators 1, Pirates 0 - Maroons 4, Boston 0

SENATORS TOYED WITH TAMMANY TIGERS OF WINNIPEG IN DOMINION SENIOR RUGBY FINAL AT OTTAWA

Eastern Champions Quickly Discovered the Weakness of the Westerners and Sent in Their Second String Men.

TIGERS LACKED SYSTEM AND PUNCH

Not Once Did Their Backs Return a Punt—Had Individual Ability and Fought Gamely.

OTTAWA, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Rolling up the largest score that has been registered in Eastern Canadian Senior rugby this season, Ottawa Senators on Saturday defeated the Winnipeg Tigers by 24 to 1 and won the National title, played before a crowd of 5,000 persons, on a field that was much better than was hoped for, the game was an impressive demonstration of the right of the Capital City team to hold the highest Canadian gridiron laurels for the 1925 season.

From soon after the commencement there was little doubt as to the outcome. The champions were too strong along the line for the Winnipeg boys, and asserted their superiority with a touchdown against the strong wind in the first quarter.

To rugby students it was a disappointment. The Westerners undoubtedly had the individual ability and showed prowess that was well worthy of commendation, but as a team they could not cope with the machine-like smoothness of the winning aggregation. McCann's team played a careful, steady game piling up a safe margin by half time. In the second half with the verdict sure, the Ottawa coach sent out his second string men and the regulars were rested wherever possible, and at that the work of the Ottawa backfield was loose. They performed with a confident, careless air in the first half that might have been disastrous had it not been for the stonewall manner in which the wing line held their opposition. Fumbles on the half line were frequent, but invariably the backs had time to recover, and in some cases get the kicks returned, before the Tiger tackles closed in on them.

The Ottawa line turned in a polished display. They repeatedly hammered their way through the lighter Tiger line for yards, and except in the third period, held the Western champions powerless on their excursions through the front rank. Young and Starr again shone on the outer flanks and made life miserable for the Tammany half backs on kicked balls. All afternoon the Tigers did not return a single punt and their running gains were practically nil on caught punts.

Grant and Warren Good.

Winnipeg failed to make a great impression on the fans in general, but consideration must be given to the conditions under which they played. The long train journey, lack of practice, and strangeness to Eastern conditions and the local style of game were all handicaps that they had to face. In spots they played like a real team and in these instances there were some of their men who stood out as being able to hold their own in any company. Particularly noticeable was Jimmy Grant, running half of the Tigers. Grant did an immense amount of work, especially in the third and fourth quarters, and with Warren made the greater portion of the individual Tigers gains. Buckingham, the much-heralded Western ace, was never prominent, but here it might be mentioned that he suffered a bad shaking up in the plunge during the early part of the game, which necessitated his withdrawal from the contest for a time.

As the game progressed and the Senators' lead increased, they tried daring plays that went through without a hitch.

Spectacular Play.

In securing their third touchdown the ball was handled by four men in a short 20-yard dash around the end before Connell crossed the goal line with the oval under his arm. Again in the final period, Connell went tearing through on a plunge and running into strong opposition, threw a daring pass to Emerson, who sailed along for an additional six yards. Lynch was the master mind on the field and handled his team in a much more business-like manner than the Winnipeg pilot. The Westerners had a variety of plays, and in the third session uncovered a running shift from a hubble that had the Ottawa line worried until they got on to it. The ball carriers followed the shift across and then cut around the end, and Tigers made yards three or four times before the Senator wings finally were able to break through and smother the runners.

Ottawas secured a first-period lead. Tigers had the advantage of a strong wind to start with and they kicked on every opportunity. Spectacular backfield running kept Ottawas on the upper side and sustained line plunging gave them the opportunity to knock at the Tigers' door in the first few minutes. Electing to buck their way over, they were held and lost the ball and the first threat was nullified; however, halfway through the period they again worked in to the Winnipeg five-yard line on a series of heavy plunges and a splendid end run by Connell. Here Lynch elected to kick and booted high and short. He raced through after the ball, and jumping in the air, touched it to make it onside. Connell pounced. On the bounding ball and it was 5 to 0. Lynch missed the convert against the wind.

Five minutes after the start of the second period, Lynch kicked to the deadline to make it 6 to 0. Tubman had been taken off and Lynch did the booting. An aerial attack in front of the strong breeze forced Tigers into their own end and on an exchange of kicks, it was Ottawa's ball on the Tiger 20. On the first down, Mulroney started around the end with Connell teaming up with him; Mulroney faked a pass and skipped through the Tiger wings across the line for a touch down. In bringing the ball out, Lynch touched it and made it dead, and the convert was not attempted. Ottawa, 11; Tigers, 0.

Tigers' Only Point.

Starting the second half, Tigers showed great strength and their plunging offensive forced Ottawa back until Grant finally booted to an onfield, and Tubman, recovering the ball, was thrown for a rouge by Coursell for the only Tammany score. Ottawa, 13; Tigers, 1.

Five minutes after the last period started, Ottawas secured on the Tiger 20, on a forward pass when a fumble occurred in a plunge. Lynch passed to Mulroney, who passed in turn to Ault. Going cross-field, the latter fed Connell another pass, and Connell raced over the line. Lynch missed the convert from the touchline. Ottawa, 18; Tigers, 1.

Another fumble accounted for Ottawa's next score. Shaw dropped the ball on an end run and when it was dribbled over the line, Young sent the opposition in a spring for the leather and fell on it for a touch-which Connell failed to convert. Ottawa, 23; Tigers, 1.

Lynch scored the final point when he kicked short to Shaw behind the line, and the Tiger quarter batted it over the deadline out of danger. Ottawa, 24; Tigers, 1.

With only four minutes left, Senators slowed down, but Tigers stayed in there fighting and made their yards plunging. Ault featured with a brilliant, fighting 15-yard dash as the game ended.

Connell the Star.

Standing out as the best man on the field was Charlie Connell with Charlie Lynch crowding him closely for the honors. Edgar Mulroney, taking Joe Miller's place on the half line, turned in a splendid game, his running being one of the features of the game. Tubman was also a star while on, but he was spared as much as possible, owing to a cent attack of grippe. The remainder of the team all played up to standard, with Starr and Young again demonstrating their right to be rated with the best outside wings in the game today.

Jimmy Grant, Greig Warren and Johnny Laing stood out for the losers, with Puttee showing a clever brand of tackling. Shaw had a big assignment, outguessing the crafty Lynch, but made a fairly good job of his task. The line was outplayed, but McLean and Roth both showed ability to gain via the plunging route. The whole team stayed right there till the final whistle, and senators defeated a band of boys who played the game to the finish and gave an exhibition of gameness that ranks with the best.

BELGIAN BICYCLE TEAM WIN GRIND

Grabbed Victory by a Desperate Sprint at Finish.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—Alphonse Goosens and Gerard De Baets, the Belgian team, Saturday night won the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden through a desperate sprint in the last 20-minutes which lapped Reggie McNamara and Franco Georgetti.

McNamara and Georgetta took second place with the F. Spencer-Walthour team third and Horder and Horan fourth. The team of Spencer and Walthour has 996 sprint points to 531 for Horder and Horan.

The jam in which Goosens and De Baets captured the laurels for the first time lasted for almost the entire final hour of mile sprints for points. Goosens, his face battered by half a dozen falls during the week, saw his little team mate helped from the track after a spill an hour and a half before the race ended.

But De Baets despite a badly injured left leg, returned to his wheel in time to aid Goosens in the brilliant drive which gave them victory.

The race broke all record for stolen laps, spills and attendances.

The order of finish follows:

DeBaets-Goosens; McNamara-Georgetti; Walthour-F. Spencer; Horder and Horan; Petri-Coburn Kockler-Stockholm.

ST. PATS WON BY FINAL RUSH

Defeated Favorite New York Team on Saturday, 5 Goals to 3.

DESERVED TO WIN.

TORONTO, Dec. 7. (Canadian Press).—St. Patrick's came through on Saturday night with a victory over New York at the Arena by 5 to 3, winning in the last period from the "wearers of the stars and stripes."

The losers on Saturday night were considered to have won the game before it had started, and are favored by many to win the National League title this season. The victory of the "Irish" was as much deserved, however, as it was unexpected. During the first period and part of the second, the New Yorkers had more than their share of the play, but the Toronto team finished with a whirlwind of speed and stamina which pulled them through.

YOUNG BOY SHOT.

Francis England, 12, Accidentally Killed By Rifle in Friend's Hands.

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—Francis England, 12, son of Rev. C. P. England, pastor of the Baptist Church at Sutton, Que., was accidentally shot with a rifle in the hands of Allin Dyer, 13, son of the secretary of the Town of Sutton, on Saturday and died from the wound.

PIRATES LOSE 1-0 TO OTTAWA IN THRILLING HOCKEY AT CAPITAL

Senators Win Third Straight at Home and Lead the N.H.L.

TWO FAST TEAMS

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—By defeating the Pittburgh Pirates here Saturday night by 1 to 0, Ottawa Senators scored their third consecutive victory and went into undisputed leadership of the National Hockey League. In their third game on home ice this season the Senators were extended to the limit to defeat the Smoky City sextet, who uncovered one of the smartest exhibitions of team play that local fans have seen for some time. The game was just as close as the score indicates and there was little advantage either way in the matter of general play.

Slightly more than half the final period had elapsed before Captain George Boucher notched the tally that settled the issue. After two scoreless frames both teams were throwing their all into the final twenty minutes with the result that the spectators were in a continual uproar as the rival goalers, in turn, held the opposition at bay when scores seemed certain.

Following a dangerous rush by Drury, Boucher broke from behind the Ottawa net and sped up the center, trickling his way through the Pirate forwards. Coming into the defence he steadied himself and blazed a terrific ankle-high shot between Conacher and Roger Smith. Worters saw the disc too late and although he lunged the full width of the net, his outstretched foot failed to reach the rubber and the net sagged while the crowd went into veritable pandemonium. The cheering lasted for some seconds after play had been resumed.

Best Game in Years.

As an exhibition of hockey the game was one of the best seen here in years. Pittsburgh, one of the newest entries to professional company, showed that they have a team worthy of serious consideration. They displayed combination and teamwork that was a treat to see and with Worters playing phenomenally in their net the result was indeed in doubt until the final bell had rung.

Senators went into the contest without the services of Frank Clancy, who was injured in the Boston game and is out for a few days with strained back muscles. Clancy's absence took away a big parcel of speed from the defence end of the team and Hooley Smith was dropped back to pair off with Captain Boucher. Smith played a good, sound, steady defensive game but his absence from the forward line was felt.

Ottawa used only two subs, Finnegan and Gorman but both ranked with the best on the ice and made good with a vengeance. Both teams tired under the blinding pace and towards the last they were travelling pretty much on nerve. Here it was that the defence men shone and Conacher for Pittsburgh and Boucher and Smith for the locals, kept the opposing goalers busy until the last minute. Lou Marsh refereed the game in a very capable manner and was only called upon to hand out seven penalties. The players for the most part attended strictly to the business of playing hockey and although the going was strenous enough it was clean all the way.

Conacher Great.

Many interesting duels were staged. Nighbor got a rough passage all along the line but he took it gallantly and went back for more. Conacher swept through on many a sturdy rush when his strength carried him along rough shod over the local opponents and Hooley Smith more than once stopped up the big fellow to the huge delight of the crowd.

The selection of stars in the kind of a game that was played, is a difficult task. Conacher was great both ways, while Milks, Darragh and McCurry were a spectacular and effective trio of forwards. Roy Worters earned a place among the really great goalers by his stellar work.

On the winning team, George Boucher and Hooley Smith turned in splendid exhibitions with Nighbor steady as a rock. Finnegan and Kilrea the two subs who were worked most, both starred. Gorman was a mighty useful assistant to the regulars while Connell's shut-out game speaks for itself.

The line up:

Ottawa—Goal, Connell; defence, Boucher and Reg. Smith; center, Nighbor; right wing, Kilrea; left wing, Denneny; subs, Finnegan, Gorman and Alex. Smith.

Referee—Lou Marsh, Toronto.

MADOC HOCKEY CLUB READY FOR SEASON

Will Enter Trent Valley League—Rink Has Been Enlarged.

MADOC, Dec. 7.—A meeting of the Hockey Club was held on Tuesday evening in the Bank of Commerce rooms, for the purpose of entering a league with Marmora, Tweed and Stirling. Representatives of the teams in these towns will meet here on Tuesday, Dec. 8th to form the league.

Madoc rink is in charge of Mr. J. Hailstone this year. Under the new management the size of the ice surface has been considerably increased and greatly improved accommodation has been provided for the spectators under cover, the rink itself being an open one.

The Madoc team has already had a couple of try-outs, on Moira lake, which was frozen over last week. This is said to be the first time in many years that the lake has been frozen over in November. A number of citizens took advantage of the excellent skating. Mr. J. Watson, editor of the North Hastings Review, is distinguished in having travelled all around Upper lake, quite a journey on skates.

The Madoc Hockey Club is holding open the night of Dec. 31st, when it will hold a New Year's dance to raise funds for financing the winter's sport. The services of a seven-piece orchestra have been secured and the club hopes for the patronage of Madoc and the surrounding country.

Shooting Matches.

Much interest in shooting matches is being taken by the men these days. A very successful one was held at Mr. John T. Wood's farm in the Allan Settlement yesterday. Many track shots were present from Malone, Bonar Law, Eldorado and Madoc. About eighteen names were entered in the book, the competition being a 3 1-2 inch bull's eye at 100 yds. One of the best shots there was Mr. Joseph Chambers, of Eldorado, a man seventy years of age, who did some remarkable work. The men from Madoc upheld the honor of the town pretty well, four men bringing home five birds among them. Percy Gunn brought home two geese and Vernon Reid a turkey. A match at Morley Nickle's home had to be called off on account of the heavy downpour of rain.

HONOR CLAIMED FOR THEM

Dr. N B. Laughton, who with Dr. A A. James, of the University of Western Ontario, is said to have been the first to discover that a special extract of liver reduces high blood pressure A controversy has arisen as to who originated the new treatment.

Dr. A. A. James, of the University of Western Ontario, London, who, that institution claims, was the first to experiment with liver extract as a means of reducing blood pressure.

GRANGE VICTORIES.

Starred in Two "Pro" Football Games.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—The Chicago Bears professional football team defeated the New York Giants, 19 to 7, at the Polo Grounds Sunday before a crowd of 75,000. Red Grange made the feature play of the day when in the last quarter he intercepted a forward pass and ran 26-yards to a touchdown.

Two Touchdowns

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—Red Grange's second invasion of Philadelphia on Saturday was again a success. He scored two touchdowns for the Chicago Bears in their football game with the Frankford Yellow Jackets of this city, enabling the Western team to win, 14 to 7.

MAROONS BLANK BOSTON BRUINS IN SPOTTY GAME

Art Ross' Team Minus Three Regulars on Injured List.

CROWD OF 5,000

Both Teams Showed the Effects of Strenuous Opening Games.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press).—Montreal Maroons continue their merry way in the National Hockey League race. They blanked the Boston Bruins 4 to 0 before a crowd of 5,000 at the Forum Saturday night.

Boston played at a clip that was anything but what was expected from a team which was minus three regulars and was forced to use other players who were hardly fit for the gruelling, but they could not stand up to the task and faded in the second half of the contest.

Nelson Stewart, Montreal centre, was again the pivot of the Maroon team, but it was Sammy Rothschild, substitute left winger, who broke the scoreless deadlock which existed between the two teams until halfway through the second session. Stewart paved the way for the opening goal by a dash down centre ice and a pass to Rothchild at the Boston defence. Rothschild drilled hard and straight for the corner of the net. Noble added Montreal's second goal on a lone effort and a beautiful shot from the boards one minute after Rothschild had obliged the Maroon supporters and in the final period Stewart fattened his goal average by counting twice, once on a pass from Broadbent and later on a pass from Siebert.

But Boston were not as badly outclassed as the 4-0 score would suggest. The Bruins went out minus Captain Sprague Cleghorn, Red Stuart and Jerry Geran—all out with injuries.

The losers surprised the fans with a display of combination and team work for which they have not been given credit in past games. Always rated a nagging lot of players with an unorthodox style, their forwards showed a speedy combination in the first half of the game which was totally different from their guerilla style of attack in past battles here. Skay, Herberts, Brackenborough and Carson Cooper passed the puck smartly throughout the game, the latter being particularly effective and on several occasions drawing a salvo from the whole crowd for his dogged fight.

Charlie Cahill, a recruit from Prince Edward Island to centre and the lad showed a great promise being a smart, easy skater and a tricky stickhandler. He also possesses an ideal build for a hockey player and should be an aid to the Boston team once the rough edges are worn off.

Siebert showed the effects of his recent gruellings and could only flash in spots, but Nelson Stewart at centre for Montreal, once settled down, was again the bright sport on the ice. His deceptive play proved uncanny.

The line up:

Boston—Goal, Dr Stew: ; Defence, Hitchman and Mitchell; centre, Brackenboro; left wing, Skay; right wing, Seibert; subs, Patte, Redding, Cahill, Cooper.

Montreal—Goal, Benedict; defence, Munro and Noble; centre, N. Stewart; left wing, Seibert; right wing, Broadbent; subs, Kitchen, Cain, Horne, Dinsmore, Rothschild, Lowrey.

Referee—Dr. O'Leary, Ottawa; Umpire, Gerald Wiggett, Sherbrooke.

MONTREAL C.N.R. DEFEAT SARNIA IN RUGBY FINAL

Quebec's Intermediate Champions Overcome Early Lead of O.R.F.U. Finalists.

WON IN OVERTIME

Two Field Goals in Extra Periods Ended Sarnia's Great Record.

TORONTO, Dec. 7—After being decidedly outplayed at plunging and on the ends for the first half, the Montreal Canadian Nationals showed a remarkable reversal of form, finally defeating Sarnia Imperials 15 to 9 after twenty minutes overtime, at Varsity Stadium Saturday.

It was a smart battle and brought the intermediate rugby title to Montreal after Sarnia holding it for three seasons. With a minute to go before full time, Sarnia tossed away their one point advantage by trying to plunge on their 35 yard line and Nationals secured possession from where Burnham's long distance kick tied the score.

Burnham starred throughout in every department and his two drop-kicks in overtime won the contest.

Murphy, Harrison, Godwin, Burnfield, and Nelson were all supports on the new intermediate champions. Three long distance runs through the centre scrim on a criss-cross play proved the game's turning point. Burnham running 50 yards for the Montreal touchdown.

"Yank" Karn was Sarnia's best player, while McPhedran, Manor, Garvie and Perry were conspicuous at times.

The line-up:

Sarnia	position	Can. Nat.
Howard	f. wing	Watkins
Perry	r. halves	Murphy
Fitzgibbon	l. halves	Burnham
McPhedran	c. half	Nelson
Kain	quarter	Harrison
Parks	snap	D. Smith
Bosenberry	inside	Godwin
Blackie	inside	Hollingsworth
Wilson	middle	Miller
Boyd	middle	Nesworthy
Manor	outside	Crozier
Garview	outside	Oakey
Kemsley	subs	Taylor
Shafer	subs	Burnfield
McGuire	sub	Dillon
Cuener	sub	Stockton
S. Smith	subs	Lambton
G. Smith	subs	Nall
	sub	Barker
	sub	Giles
	sub	Dawes

Sarnia rolled up seven points in the first quarter on a kick to the dead line, a touch after two thirty yard runs, and the converted goal. The C.N.R. team kicked for two points in the second, failing on drop kicks. In the third Sarnia added two more single points and Montreal opened the fourth with a spectacular comeback and playing rings around the O.R.F.U. champions. Burnham ran fifty yards through centre for a touch, and tied the score with two tremendous boots for rouges.

First Period Overtime

Burnham carried the ball into Sarnia's ground with another catch, running at full speed.

Karn muffed on the goal line, but McPhedran recovered. Kicking exchanges kept the ball at Montreal's end. Godwin plunged for 10 yards. Nelson ripped through the centre for a 35-yard run, almost a touchdown. Harrison's drop kick was blocked and Murphy recovered. The ball was given to Sarnia.

The tunnel town champions returned the ball to Montreal when McPhedran's kick was blocked. Burnham's field goal from 15 yards out broke the deadlock.

Montreal, 12; Sarnia, 9.

Second Period Overtime

Montreal gained in a kicking duel. Crozier nabbed an onside kick at centre for Sarnia. They tried it again and a Montreal wing got it.

Montreal made yards twice by plunging, putting play at Sarnia's 20-yards line. Burnham placed home another field goal. Montreal Nationals 15; Sarnia Imperials 9.

Just before the final overtime whistle Harrison ran through Sarnia's middle for a 40-yard dash.

Final score—Montreal C.N.R. 15; Sarnia, 9.

PORTLAND BEAT CALGARY

PORTLAND, Oregon, December 7. — The Calgary Tigers, appearing here on Saturday night in their opening match of the season, went down to defeat at the hands of the Portland Rosebuds after a gruelling 60 minutes of play. The locals managed to break a two-all tie with but one minute and a half to go, in the third period, taking the game by a three to two score.

BRITISH ADMIRAL IS OUTFITTING

Sir Guy Gaunt Will Sail First To Seek Buried Treasure.

AT COCOS ISLAND.

Will Then Voyage Among Islands of Pacific and Indian Oceans.

Vice-Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt, now outfitting in Victoria for one of the most daring and venturesome voyages around the world, drained adventure to its last dregs during the European war. During the earlier part of the war his experiences were of the exciting nature known only to naval officers. In the closing years of the war Sir Guy vied with some of the most daring and reckless characters of Phillip Oppenheim's famous secret service yarns. Sir Guy was successful in uncovering one of the most dangerous systems of espionage in New York one that threatened the United States with disaster shortly after that country's advent into the world conflict.

The world war, his secret service experiences, his participation in the Russo-Japanese war and uncovering of international conspiracies, has been unable to satiate his thirst for adventure, and so it is that Sir Guy is found in Victoria outfitting a veritable cockle-shell of a boat in the recently purchased four-masted schooner Erie, of 340 tons gross, for one of the most daring trips around the world, a voyage only to be compared with those undertaken by Lief Ericson, Columbus, Galliano and other explorers.

"Ship me east of Suez," Kipling said in describing what he thought the most cosmopolitan and adventurous part of the world, and it is to this place that Sir Guy will steer his little schooner to its first playground, and one, judging from the varied and exciting yarns that has emanated from the mystic east, that should provide all the adventure that could only be crammed between the covers of a Joseph Conrad yarn.

The vessel is a ship of only 174 feet in length with a beam of thirty feet and draft of ten feet, so that the mere voyage alone should prove thrilling enough.

Spanish doubloons, pieces of eight, English sovereigns, precious jewels, silver and gold sheets stripped from the temples of the Incas, begemmed crucifixes and other holy symbols of intrinsic value, are reputed to be buried on Cocos island and it is to this isolated few acres of land situated hundreds of miles off the South American coast and but a few miles from the equator that Sir Guy will visit after draining the cup of adventure in the Far East.

Millions in Treasure Hidden

The treasure, which has been valued at millions of dollars, has been hunted for by two expeditions already without any success, but the searchers claim its existence, for it was to this island that a Spanish buccaneer was chased with her holds containing the plunder of her pillages of South American ports and even Spanish settlements, which operated the gold mines discovered by the Incas. The treasure was buried on Cocos island before the pursuers of the buccaneer arrived. One of the battles of that time was staged in the waters surrounding Cocos Island, and followers of the Spanish buccaneer who were not killed in battle were made to walk the plank so that the secret of the treasure's hiding place was lost with them.

From this island Sir Guy will steer a course for the Australasian archipelago, and his itinerary among the numerous islands dotting the southern expanse of the broad Pacific will be followed only as the "lone sea wolf" would have done, in an inadvertent manner, calling at the various islands at random, visiting the pearl grounds, the gold encrusted reefs of yet unexplored islands. Papua, where wandering cannibals still exist, will be visited and the resources of the rich little island explored.

Unlike Robert Louis Stevenson, Joseph Conrad and other wanderers of the South Seas, Sir Guy will take a little bit of civilization with him on board his yacht. The vessel is being equipped with most luxurious fittings, all space formerly used for the carrying of cargo is being converted into palatial saloons, staterooms, smoking room, library and work shop for his favorite hobbies and collections. Sir Guy is even planning on installing a semi-Diesel engine so as not to be troubled with that dire visitation upon the ancient mariner of being becalmed and unable to make progress.

Sir Guy is a man of daring and valor, as his brilliant career will indicate. His first taste of adventure was experienced during the operations in the Philippine islands in 1897 as lieutenant of H.M.S. Swift. He commanded the British consulate at Apia, Samoa, 1899, during the rebel attack on the town. He raised the Gaunt's brigade during the operations and was given particular mention in the despatches, being later promoted to commander. It was during the Russo-Japanese war that he was commander of H.M.S. Vengeance, attached to the China station. He was promoted to the position of captain in the navy for distinguishing himself during this campaign. He commanded the following naval vessels at various times up to the year 1913—H.M.S. Andromeda, Niobe, Challenger, Majestic and Thunderer.

His Record in the Navy

From 1914 to 1918 he was naval attache to H.B.M. embassy in Washington. It was during his service in America that he was made liaison officer for the United States of America with rank of first class commodore. He also served in the European war at various times during the period of 1914 to 1918, being mentioned in the despatches and made Companion of the Bath. He was also employed on convoy service with broad pendant in the Leviathan during 1918. In 1918 he was created Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George for distinguished service, while in 1916 he was made Companion of St. Michael and St. George. He was also aide de camp to the King in 1918. He is a Master Mariner and Younger Brother of Trinity House and also a British M.P.

(Canadian Press).—President William Easson has called a conference of the Ontario Hockey Association referees to be held in the Prince George Hotel, Toronto, Friday, December 11th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, in the hope that a uniform interpretation of the playing rules may be secured in O.H.A. games this season.

"FARM FOLKS."

Play Given By Young People of Peterborough U.F.O. on Friday.

At the Temple in the Fourth Line of Smith township, the Young People's section of the Peterborough branch of the U. F. O. carried through a very successful performance of "Farm Folks," a four-act play, before a highly appreciative audience.

The plot hingers on the love story of Flora Goodwin, a farmer's daughter, who is engaged to Philip Burleigh, a wealthy young New Yorker. Philip's mother, disapproving of the "mesalliance," tries to persuade him to marry a member of his own set, and by falsehoods makes Flora believe that Philip did not love her. Dave Weston, a neighboring farmer, and himself an aspirant for Flora's hand, assists in the deception by intercepting a letter from Philip to Flora. Flora is completely deluded and agrees to marry Dave, but on the eve of the marriage Dave is impelled by a tardy awakening of conscience to confess the truth. Philip learns of the conspiracy, of which he had been the victim. He returns to his sweetheart and the play closes with the inevitable happy ending and union of the sundered lovers. The plot is simple and effective, full of laughter and pathos, and the interest is maintained right to the end.

Harry Huston acted the part of the hero, Philip Burleigh. Hazel Ackison was the ambitious and scheming Mrs. Burleigh, and Rosanne Tully was Philip's sister, Grace Burleigh, while Earl Huston represented Thompson, the butler, in the aristocratic household. Gordon McGregor acted as Amos Goodwin ,the farmer, and father of the heroine, Flora, who was represented by Eulah Hancock. The part of Mrs. Goodwin, Flora's mother, was taken by May Huston. Gordon Hancock appeared as the plotting and penitent Dave Weston, Allan Milburn as Bijah Finn, jack of all trades, Mary Tully as Mrs. Peasley, the gossiping neighbour, who never had a minute to spare, and Evelyn Gillis acted as Delia Slocum, the Goodwin's irrepressible hired girl.

Between the acts were sandwiched some pleasing extra items. A male quartette comprised of G. Hancock, G. McGregor, H. Huston and A. Milburn, rendered 'Farmer Grey,' A. Milburn sang 'Hi Ho, Come to the Fair,' and on being encored responded by 'The Lilac Tree.' Mary Lewis sang 'If Winter Comes.' A fine reading, 'Miss Maloney on the Chinese Question,' by Miss Jessie Tully, evoked shouts of laughter and was enthusiastically applauded.

OLD TIME KICK GIVEN TO VODKA BY THE SOVIET

Pre-War Liquor Brings Debauches and Chronic Drunkenness.

STOP BOOTLEGGING.

Illicit Stills Waste Millions in Grain, Fuel and Labor.

Moscow. — Overnight Keeley cure houses, where special medical attendants will help imbibers of the new 40 per cent. vodka to recover from their excesses are the latest means adopted by Moscow authorities to combat the drunkenness which has followed in the wake of the restoration of pre-war liquor.

A three-day debauch during which time the streets of Moscow were crowded after night-fall with roistering mobs of inebriates marked the introduction of the new and more potent liquor. Since then drunkenness has become less acute, but more chronic.

Peoples Commissar of Health Semashko has been forced by the extraordinary increase in intoxication to make a public statement in defense of the Government's action in raising the percentage of alcohol.

Aims to End Waste.

He declares it is solely a matter of defense against the so-called "Samogan," or boot-leg vodka, which, according to his statistics, is produced in less than 1,000,000 illicit stills on 8 per cent. of all the peasant farms in Russia. The waste, he estimates, at least $125,000,000 worth of grain, fuel and labor time yearly. And its effects are often blindness or sudden death.

But Semashko vigorously denies that the Soviet government is following the footsteps of the Czar's government and "getting the people drunk for the sake of the profit in the vodka monopoly."

He points out that the Czar's government manufactured 2,700,000,000 gallons of liquor a year, which produced net income of about $500,000,000, whereas the Soviet government, even with its increased program, will produce only about one-quarter as much.

"We realize that vodka is a poison," said Semashko, "but 'Samogan' is a worse one and only by giving the people vodka can we combat it. It is necessary to fight against vodka and against 'Samogan.'"

In spite of the fact that many Communists drink, and that about one-half of all the party disciplinary complaints are brought against party members for drunkenness, the Communists are in principle opposed to drinking. They would do away altogether with alcohol, they assert, if it were possible. But they point to America as proof that "prohibition doesn't prohibit," and declare that the only way to fight bootleg in is by selling good liquor.

Sale Is Restricted.

Nevertheless, the municipality of Moscow has already adopted restrictive measures on the sale of liquor, and proposes others. The time during which the sale of liquor is permitted has been restricted from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Previously the sale extended until midnight.

Besides the establishment of overnight Keeley cures, Moscow has also proposted a severe system of fines and jail sentences for drunkenness, which formerly was not considered to be an offense at all. Under the projected code, a man found drunk in the street the first time would pay a fine of 50 roubles, or serve one month at hard labour. The second offense would cost him three months' hard labor. It is also suggested to prohibit the sale of liquor on Sundays and to reduce the number of liquor stores in workers' districts.

YORKS TAKING HOUSE IN TOWN

Duke and Duchess Find White Lodge Too Far Out.

RENT CURZON HOUSE.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 5—(Canadian Press Despatch).—The Duke and Duchess of York have taken Curzon House, Mayfair, as a town residence. They will be near neighbors of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles. Since their marriage the Duke and Duchess have resided at White Lodge, Richmond, where the King and Queen entered upon their married life and where the Prince of Wales was born. As their social and public engagements have increased the Duke and Duchess have found White Lodge inconveniently far from town.

Like all members of the Royal Family of the past couple of generations the Duke is punctilious in attending engagements on time. His anxiety in this respect, coupled with his knowledge of traffic delays encountered between Richmond and London, have caused him more than once to arrive at some function so early that those whose pleasurable duty it has been to receive him have on occasions not been ready for him.

The Duke and Duchess will retain their tenancy of White Lodge. Curzon House belongs to Earl Howe, whose family name is Curzon, but he has used it very little for the past 20 years.

Theatre

AT THE REGENT

"HAVOC," ALTHOUGH FILMED IN U.S.A., HAS A DISTINCTLY CANADIAN APPEAL.

Sixteen honor regiments of England, Canada and Scotland were represented in the 300 war veterans who took part in the battle sequences of "Havoc," the William Fox Screen version of the celebrated stage play, directed by Rowland V. Lee which opens a three days' run at the Regent Theatre today.

Replete in accurate details, these battle scenes are declared by a corps of war experts, who supervised them to be the most authentic of the kind that have ever been put on the screen.

Colonel Everett Ford, 91st Division Artillery, U. S. A., acted as technical director on the picture and Major Harold Harcourt of Princess Pat's own Canadian regiment, supervised the building of trenches and the equipment of the British troops. Two ex-German army officers saw that the Teuton troops were properly outfitted.

Irrespective of this, "Havoc" is not a "war" picture, the past war being used merely as a background for a wonderful story of intrigue, romance and thrills.

AT THE ROYAL

"JIMMIE'S MILLIONS," WITH RICHARD TALMADGE AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

Faced with the task of being prompt at appointments or losing the millions of his rich uncle who has determined to educate him in his one weakness of being continually late, Richard Talmadge gets into more scrapes in "Jimmie's Millions," coming to the Royal Theatre to-day, than a scrappy cat at a dog show. Getting thrown into jail, jail breaks, being accused of murder, chases and a hundred other difficulties beset his path in the endeavor to be on time, and the riotous situation evolved make this picture one of the most amusing and thrilling that has been released in many months. Betty Francisco, petite and pretty, plays opposite the famous stunt star, with a fine supporting cast.

AT THE GRAND

BRINGING UP FATHER

The cartoon musical comedy production "Bringing Up Father," made its annual visit to the Grand on Saturday, and although the two veteran members of the cast, Emma Weston as "Maggie," and Ed. Morris as "Dinty Moore," and a new Jiggs in the person of Johnnie Jess worked hard to make the presentation a success, the rest of the production was not up to the usual standard for this offering. Johnnie Jess's conception of the part of Jiggs was excellent in make-up and in accent, while Emma Weston was Maggie to the life. Her specialty in the second act was one of the hits of the programme. Ed. Morris played "Dinty" as he has done for many seasons, and helped greatly in the comedy end of the production. The presentation was weakest in its musical numbers, the lacking good soloists and the effect of some well staged numbers was lost as a result. "Bringing Up Father," however, drew many a laugh, which after all is its chief excuse for being on the boards.

GRAND MASTER OF MASONS IS ROTARY GUEST

John A. Rowland Discusses Masonry at To-day's Luncheon.

A SPLENDID ADDRESS.

Duncan R. Cowan Adds To the Enjoyment of the Programme.

The regular weekly luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club today was featured by an eloquent address by John A. Rowland, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada A.F. & A.M. in Ontario, who compared the purposes and objects of Masonry and Rotary and discussed the two organizations in a most interesting manner.

The luncheon was also marked by the presence of the well-known entertainer Duncan R. Cowan of Toronto, whose songs, monologues and anecdotes were heartily enjoyed by the Rotarians. Mr. Cowan proved a thorough artist, whose work was clean cut and effective and his visit to the Rotary Club was thoroughly appreciated by the members.

President John Seels was in the chair, and there was a large attendance of members and visitors, the latter including Chas. Cook, president of the Peterboro Kiwanis Club.

Speaking of Masonry during his introductory remarks, Mr. Rowland referred to the fact that a very large number of Rotarians had received their inspiration for service in the Masonic Order. The latter differed from Rotary, the speaker pointed out in that Rotary was a club, Masonry a fraternity. The former restricted its membership, the latter was open to all, regardless of race, color or creed. Masonry was not a religion; it might lead men to the door of the church, but they themselves selected the church. It was not a political organization; it might lead men to the door of the polling booth, but they themselves marked their own ballots. It was not essentially a charitable institution, although the Grand Lodge in Ontario made grants of $110,000 in one year for benevolent purposes, and this sum was more than duplicated possibly by grants from private lodges.

Mr. Rowland, discussing the history of clubs, pointed out that at first they were created for selfish purposes for the benefit of their members' political advancement; secondly, there came clubs for the promotion of social intercourse. The speaker gave some amusing details of Old English clubs—and lastly, there was the modern idea of clubs such as the Rotary for social service purposes. Warning his hearers of the danger of unreasoning and indiscriminate charity, the speaker declared that Rotary as he grasped its objects endeavored rather to remove the cause of poverty than to relieve the poverty and distress themselves. It was a good thing to relieve poverty, but it was a much better to seek out and eliminate the conditions that caused poverty, and it was along these lines that he felt that Rotary and other service organizations were moving.

Mr. Rowland and Mr. Cowan were given hearty votes of thanks for their splendid contribution to the programme.

JAPANESE PRINCESS GAVE BIRTH TO GIRL

Entire Nation Had Confidently Expected an Heir to the Throne.

TOKIO, Dec. 7. — (United Press.)— Japan celebrated to-day the birth of a baby to Crown Princess Nagamo and Crown Prince Hirihito. It was somewhat dampened by the fact that the child was a girl instead of the hoped for boy.

The mother, father and entire nation had confidently awaited a boy who should one day ascend the world's oldest dynasty, dating back thousands of year to the "Goddess of the Sun."

The wires on the bottom of the cushions short circuited to the battery of an automobile on Charlotte Street this morning, and set fire to the car. The Fire Brigade extinguished the glaze before much damage had occurred.

OPENS TO-MORROW.

There are two cases slated for the County Court which will open tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Court House.

The plaintiff alleges that on the 12th day of July, 1925, the defendant while driving a car, recklessly collided with and ran into the motor car of the plantiff. The plaintiff alleges that by reason of the defendant he has been put to expense in incurring doctors' bills and medical attention for himself, and has lost the use of his car and has been injured to such an extent that his earning capacity has been, and will be, greatly depreciated. The defendant claims that he was travelling at a moderate rate of speed on his right side of the road, and alleges that the plaintiff did not have his car under proper control, and has entered a counter claim of $500 for damages.

The second case is that of Aaron R. Nichols, plaintiff, and Margaret Jane, Newnham, formerly of the township of Smith, and now in Oklahoma City. The plaintiff further claims against the defendant to recover the sum of $100 for money loaned to the defendant with interest. The total amount of the claim with interest is $344.42. The plaintiff also claims $50 for costs. The defendant claims that the plaintiff sold her stock in the Algoma Copper Mines and at the time of entering the agreement represented that the mine was paying dividends whereas the facts were the mine was not in active operation and was not paying dividends.

R. R. Hall, K.C. is solicitor for the plaintiff and Peck, Kerr and McElderry for defendant.

Broad Upward Movement On New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press.)—Constructive operations were carried forward in all departments of the stock market today, bringing about another broad upward movement of prices. President Coolidge's recommendations for the economic improvement of the agricultural industry were favorably viewed by Wall street and provided an incentive for the accumulation of stocks. At the same time easy credit conditions facilitated the resumption of pool activities which were conducted in a variety of popular industrials and specialties. Expectations of constructive rail legislation prompted heavy buying of carrier issues coincident with the opening of congress.

Atchison was in brisk demand and was accompanied to new high ground for the year by Pennsylvania, New Haven, Western Pacific, Kansas City Southern and the Walters roads.

May and July Wheat Jump To Highest Price Of Season

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—Wheat jumped to-day to above any prices which May delivery and July had heretofore attained this season.

The advance was due to general buying on account of strength displayed by quotations at Liverpool and Buenois Aires. Heavy profit taking sales, however on the bulge in value, gave the market here a setback that in some cases went well below Saturday's finish. Opening 1 1-4 to 3 1-8c. higher, new style, Dec. 179 1-2 to 180, and May 175 1-4 to 176 1-2, was followed by a reaction to 176 for December and 174 1-2 for May, but then by a rally of about 1 to 2 cents. Corn and oats went up with wheat. After opening at 1-4 to 1c. gain, May 84 1-2 to 84 3-4, the corn market sagged a little and then scored a fresh advance. Oats started 3-4 to 1 higher, May 45 7-8 to 46, and later held near to the initial figures.

Provisions were firmer, reflecting upturns in grain and in hog values, as well.

Brazilian and Smelters Active. But Sold Down

TORONTO, Dec. 7 — (Canadian Press.)—Brazilian and Consolidated Smelters were active leaders of the general list on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. The active market was the strongest for some time. Brazilian sold up to 80 5-8, a half point higher, but then receded to 79 7-8 at the noon close, a net loss of a quarter point. Smelters was steadily marked down to 149 1-2, from which it recovered only a quarter, closing the morning 3 1-4 points down. On the other hand, General Electric preferred strengthened a point and C.P.R. a point and a half, at 147, while a number of sales were fractionaly higher. The mines were uniformly strong, Nipissing advancing 21, Dome 20, McIntyre 17 and Vipond four. Commerce, leading the banks, advanced a point.

Heavy Dealings In Mines With General Advances

TORONTO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press)—A turnover of close to a hundred shares of Crown Reserve and heavy dealings in Goldale, Vipond and Consolidated West Dome Lake made transactions on Standard Mining Exchange this morning 367,803. Crown Reserve was sold up to 25, easing to 23 at the morning close for a five point gain. Goldale and West Dome advanced slightly, but Vipond remained steady. The whole list showed firmness. Tough Oakes was a soft spot, easing a point at 53.

EDUCATION BOARD'S PETITION TO COUNCIL FOR COLLEGIATE GRANT OF $386,000 IS AGAIN REJECTED

Emphatic Refusal at Final Regular Meeting of the City Council.

ROUTINE BUSINESS

Deputation Going to Toronto to Meet Hydro Commission Wednesday.

Routine business marked the final session of the 1925 City Council last night, occupying most of the time. The only matters calling forth any amount of discussion was the request of the Board of Education that the Council should reconsider its decision not to furnish the Board with $386,000 for the construction of an addition to the Collegiate Institute. The answer of the Council on this question was the same as before, only Aldermen Fife and Meyers voting against Alderman Turner's motion that no action be taken. In moving his resolution, Alderman Turner said that he believed that the people should be consulted, and Alderman Hancock expressed the same opinion in seconding the motion.

Alderman Fife spoke in favor of granting the request of the Board, and offered to resign and run for re-election on that platform. Alderman Greene said that the resignation of Alderman Fife or any other Alderman would not be necessary, as he believed that the Board of Education would bring out candidates who would make a statement of where they stood, so that the people could vote for or against them. Alderman Fife asked how the people were to be enlightened, and Alderman Turner said that the Board of Education should give them the information. He said that he believed that all the Aldermen would vote for the school themselves, but would not vote to spend such a large amount of the people's money. Alderman Hancock said that it was a matter of finance, as the city had a large number of debentures to issue in 1926, and could not afford the school just at present. Alderman Phelan also said

Lecturer Sent Obscene Matter Jury Finds.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 8 Canadian Press).—Rev. Albert Sidney Gregg, author, lecturer and superintendent of the American Civic Reform Union, was found guilty in Federal Court late Monday of sending obscene matter through the mails.

The verdict was returned by a jury about four hours after Gregg's trial on a charge of mailing a "Jane Doe affidavit" to members of the congregation of Rev. William C. Hicks, Cleveland pastor, in an effort to oust Hicks from his pulpit for alleged improper advances to a parishioner who had sought his advice.

Mr. Gregg was found guilty on all three charges in the indictment. Each count carries a sentence of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Trotsky Supports New Law Help For Unwed Mothers

MOSCOW, Dec. 8 (United Press) — Leon Trotsky today supported before a conference on protection of motherhood and childhood the proposed new Russian law giving unmarried mothers the same legal rights as married mothers.

Under this measure, the unmarried mother could claim support for self and for any child born out of wedlock.

Trotsky blamed lax relations between the sexes upon alcoholism, adding "the protection of motherhood and childhood depends upon the fight against alcoholism."

Greece Objects To Paying Reparations To Bulgaria Demand $750,000 Instead

GENEVA, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press) — Greece invoked the Corfu affair yesterday to prove that she was justified in invading Bulgaria. Displaying unexpected resistance to the special commission's recommendations against Greece in connection with ther ecent Balkan conflict, the Greek former Foreign Minister N. Rentis, not only objected to the payment of reparations fixed by the commission, but demanded that the Council of the League of Nations ask Bulgaria to pay to Greece $750,000.

M. Rentis accused the commission of failing to hear the Greek side of the controversy while conducting its inquiry and declared that if the council approved the commission' finding, Greece would probably appeal to the World Court of Justice to determine whether reparations could be imposed without being based on an impartial inquiry.

BAGOT REMAINS IN LIBERAL FOLD; CONSERVATIVE DEFEATED BY 473 IN ELECTION FOR DOMINION SEAT

SCENE OF DISPUTE

A considerable concentration of Turkish troops is reported north of Amadia in connection with the mosul dispute which continues to cause great uneasiness.

Liberal Candidate's Home Village Contributed His Greatest Strength.

WEATHER HANDICAP

Results at Individual Polls Followed Figures in the October Vote.

ACTON VALE, Que., Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—Bagot remains Liberal, but with the majority considerably reduced. Return by long distance telephone last night gave a majority to G. D. Morin, Liberal, of 473. In the General Elections, the Liberal majority was 774. As was expected, the village and parish of St. Pie proved the chief source of Liberal strength. It is in St. Pie that Mr. Morin practices as a notary and here the Liberal majority of 503 secured in the general elections was increased to 581. In St. Pie alone, Mr. Morin more than secured his net lead over his Conservative opponent, Hon. Andre Fauteux.

Early returns from the town of Actonvale indicated that the Liberal majority might be wiped out altogether. In this, the only town in the whole constituency, a majority of 278 secured in the general elections was reduced to 82. But returns from the villages and parish polls did not follow suit to the same extent. In Upton, the Liberal majority dropped by four; in St. Christine from 110 to 88; in St. Andre from 58 to 20; in St. Dominique from 161 to 105; in St. Liberre from 107 to 87.

Retain Party Sentiment.

In not a single polling sub-division, so far as figures available indicate, was there a reversal in party sentiment. Villages and parishes which went Liberal or Conservative before have gone Liberal or Conservative again.

Ste. Rosalie, the recognized Conservative parish of the county, did not give the majority for Mr. Fauteux which his supporters had expected. In the general elections, his majority there was 178; yesterday it was 169. In St. Simon, he increased his general election majority by ten; in Ste. Helen, his majority was reduced by ten; in St. Nazaire, his majority is down by five.

He made his greatest increase in majority in St. Theodore, where he advanced from 62 to 86. In St. Hughes, the Conservative majority is down by one.

Weather a Factor.

Conservative workers attribute the result in St. Rosalie, St. Simon and St. Hugues as being largely due to the bad condition of the roads. In these three parishes travelling in the last few days has been difficult.

It may be several days before the full return, indicating the vote cast for each candidate, will be available. The county is almost entirely rural, many of the points being difficult of access especially in view of the present condition of the roads in outlying parishes. Deputy returning officers, with the exception of a few polling stations in the neighborhood of Actonvale, have merely telephoned in net majorities. They have left details of the vote to come in later. These may not be here till Wednesday in a number of cases.

LIBERALS HAVE 101 IN COMMONS

Conservatives Will Start With 117—Recounts May Affect Standing.

OTTAWA COMMENT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—The election of S. D. Morin, Liberal, to represent the constituency of Bagot in the House of Commons means that the government will probably meet parliament with 101 Liberal supporters as against the Conservatives' 117. The remaining seats will be occupied by 24 members of the Progressive party, 2 Labor members and 1 Independent. The complexion of the House may be altered as a result of recounts, but the above is the standing of the parties at present.

The constituency of Bagot has been in the Liberal column since 1900 when J. E. Marcile, the former member, won it from the Conservatives by a majority of 156. Mr. Marcile represented the constituency continuously until his death just after the last general election. Prior to 1900 it had been almost as consistently Conservative. Mr. Marcile's majorities varied considerably during the twenty-five years in which he represented Bagot. In the general election of 1911 he was elected by but 95 votes. In 1917 he had a majority of 3,226. The Liberal majority at the last election was 774.

There was little in the nature of comment on the result to be obtained here last night. Supporters of the government were pleased, while those of the Conservatives felt some disappointment. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, visited the constituency speaking in support of Hon. A. Fauteux, the defeated candidate. Premier King did not go to Bagot.

MONTREAL POLICE SNATCH MAN OFF SHIP—BY RADIO

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press). — Radio messages from Crown authorities here to the Liverpool, Eng., police, led to the arrest of C. H. Haynes, formerly Montreal agent of the C. and J. Hamilton Leather Company, of Toronto, as he stepped off the S.S. Regina at Liverpool, and yesterday proceedings opened in an effort to have the man extradited to this country for trial on a $9,827 conversion charge.

First steps connected with the arrest came a few days ago when C. N. Upper, general manager of the Toronto firm, came to Montreal and swore out the complaint by which Haynes is alleged to have converted to his own use the sum in question claimed by his former employers. Information was given to the Crown here that the man had left for England quite openly and under his own name. Wireless messages passed between Philip Caisse, Clerk of the Peace, and Liverpool authorities, and Monday the news was flashed back that Haynes was taken on arrival of the Regina and is being held in London.

In the event of Haynes' extradition being ordered, a Montreal officer will cross the Atlantic to accompany the prisoner.

CHARGE BRITAIN WITH HIRING SPY

Paris Papers Say Men Were Detached From Regular Army To Spy Out Air Bases.

THREE ARRESTED.

PARIS, Dec. 8.— (Canadian Press.)— Some of the newspapers openly assert to-day that Great Britain is the power for which Marthe Moreuil, 25 year old Parisienne and former nurse artist's model and parachute jumper was trying to obtain information about the French air services. The young woman is under arrest charged with espionage, and there also are in custody three men, James Leather, Fisher Williams and Ernest Oliver Phillips, who are alleged to have employed Mlle. Moreuil. The newspapers assert that Leather and Phillips are Englishmen, the former a lieutenant and the latter a non-commissioned officer of the regular British army, who have been detached into the intelligence service.

When Mlle. Moreuil was questioned by the police, who said she had been extremely active in spying during the past few months, she is said to have told them of trips to Oeurh, Pierriefeu and St. Rafael aviation bases and to St. Nazaire, Bordeaux and Ayre.

Glibly she is said to have recounted her experiences, to have made a full confession and to have given the names of three men who, she asserted, had paid for her services. On the strength of this Leather, Williams and Phillips, who conducted a radio store, were arrested. All of them denied the charge.

Russian Leader Says League Is Instrument For War.

GENEVA, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—The League of Nations Council decided today to invite the United States, Russia, Germany, Poland, Finland, Holland, Jugo-Slavia, Roumania and Bulgaria to participate with the Council in preparation for the League's 1926 International Disarmament Conference.

The Council decided against inviting Argentine and Chile to participate since South America is deemed adequately represented by Brazil and Uruguay in the proposed Preparations Commission.

League authorities have frankly stated that they see little chance of success for the arms conference if America and Russia stand aloof.

There have been recent sub rosa efforts to induce Russia to drop her opposition to the League, at least to the extent of sharing in the armament deliberations.

Who Controls Navy?

LONDON, Dec. 8 (United Press) —The controversy now proceeding at Geneva—scrapping for the time being the "Locarno Spirit"—is an old one.

Stripped of diplomatic verbage, the question gets down to the query: Who shall control the British Navy in even of sanctions—Great Britain itself or the League?"

And in turn the League to some Britishers at least in this connection means the "Latin Bloc" in it, and Britain holds that the navy should be what it has always been, a revered institution in British hands and not doing the bidding of an outside or-

THE WEATHER.

Time makes great changes, and new conditions are constantly arising. Most of us will remember how eagerly, before the advent of the motor car, George street merchants looked forward to a good fall of snow early in December, so that people living at a distance could more readily come to town in their sleighs and cutters to do their Christmas shopping. To-day the merchants (or many of them) would prefer the absence of snow, so that the omnipresent motor car might be interfered with as little as possible. But personally, I think the discordant honk of the motor horn is a very poor substitute for the merry jingle of the sleigh bells. At present there is good sleighing in the section eastward from Havelock, and also in the northern section of this and adjoining counties.—W. P.

DRUNK ADMITS 58 TIMES UP

Martin Murphy Gets Two Weeks' Lodging in Peterborough Jail.

COLORFUL CAREER.

Two men came before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning and were given sentence, the first receiving two weeks in jail for being drunk, and the second an indeterminate period of from three months to six months in the Reformatory of Ontario.

Martin Murphy, when called, leaped to his feet and responded with a quick, "Here, your Worship." He admitted that he had been drunk, but he said he had never stolen a thing in his life. He admitted that he had been up a few times before in Ottawa. Asked by the Magistrate if he didn't mean Hull, he said "Yes, that was the place." He finally disclosed the fact that he had faced Police Magistrates 58 times during the course of a very colorful career.

An information sheet in the hands of Chief Newhall records 33 times so it is possible that Mr. Murphy is not far astray in his calculations. When asked if he wanted to be sent to jail, he said that he didn't, especially for Christmas. He said that if His Worship would let him go he would beat his way to friends and relatives in Oshawa. The Magistrate considered a short while and then gave his opinion that he might be caught a rain while beating his way so he might as well serve two yecks here.

The charges on the information were all for minor offences and the sentences were of a similar nature. A wide range of territory has been covered by Mr. Murphy.

This Buck Must Have Wanted To Commit Suicide He Came Back After Being Missed By First Shots

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Dec. 8 (United Press)—Looking out of her kitchen window, Mrs. James Blake espied a buck deer in her back yard. She telephoned her husband, who was at work in a garage half a mile away. He went to the town clerk's office and procured a hunting license; then he went to a neighbor's home, borrowed a shot gun and two shells, and hurried to his own home. Twice Blake fired at the big buck but the strange visitor dashed away. Blake returned to the neighbor's home and got two more shells. By the time he got back the buck had reappeared and Blake bagged him.

Action by Dr. Young Was in County Court For the Sum of $500

Solicitor For Dr. Sutton Points Out Mistakes in Information Given The Examiner in Slander Action—Plaintiff Consents to Dismissal of Case.

The following letter has been received by The Examiner from J. F. Strickland, solicitor for Dr. N. H. Sutton:

December 7th, 1925.

Dear Sir:

In your issue of to-day's date you published a retraction from Doctor Sutton to Doctor T. W. H. Young of this City. The retraction itself has been materially altered and two serious additions have been made in the document, namely, "Medical officer of Health" and "District Officer of Health" and I require an explanation as to how these additions came to be made. Your report goes further and states that "Doctor Young has made no statement as to whether the apology has been accepted or whether the suit for $25,000.00 damages which has been instituted will be withdrawn." As a matter of fact a Writ of Summons in The County Court of the County of Peterborough was issued by the firm of Gordon & O'Brien on the 24th day of November, 1925, "for $500.00 damages for slander of the Plaintiff in his office and in respect of him in his profession." On Friday, the 4th day of December, 1925, an Appearance to this Action was entered by me on behalf of Doctor Sutton and to-day an apology as herein set out was submitted to Mr. Gordon, solicitor for the Plaintiff and was by him accepted on behalf of his client. The apology reads as follows:

"Peterborough, December 7, 1925.
Doctor T. W. H. Young,
Peterborough, Ontario.
Dear Sir:

I regret that differences of opinion have arisen between yourself and me regarding the question of Public Health in the City of Peterborough and I regret that personalities have taken place.

With reference to the statement made by me at a meeting of The Board of Health on November 17th, 1925, as to cases of death from Diphtheria in which I said that you were as responsible for the death of those children as if you had taken them out and struck them on their heads with an axe, I retract that statement and apologize for same.

Yours truly,
(Sgd) N. H. Sutton"

A Consent to the dismissal of the Action in the following form was executed by Mr. Gordon, Solicitor for the Plaintiff.

"IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH BETWEEN:
T. W. H. YOUNG PLAINTIFF: and
N. H. SUTTON DEFENDANT:

TAKE NOTICE that I hereby consent to this Action being dismissed without costs.

DATED at Peterborough this 7th day of December, A.D. 1925.

(Sgd) G. N. Gordon
Solr for Plff"

From the facts in connection with this matter, you will see that your statement in to-day's Examiner is entirely erroneous and on behalf of Doctor Sutton I require that this letter be given the same publicity as the report of this matter as contained in your issue of to-day.

Yours truly,
J. F. Strickland

R. M. Glover, Esq.,
Managing Director,
Peterborough Examiner,
City.

Note: An Examiner reporter was informed by competent parties that the action would be for $25,000. The additions "Medical Officer of Health" and "District Officer of Health" were written on the copy of Dr. Sutton's apology which was handed to The Examiner.

GOOD PROFIT OF U.F.O. COMPANY

Over $60,000 Net Made By Co-operative—Dividend is Passed.

MANAGER OPPOSED.

TORONTO, December 8. Canadian Press. — Net trading profit in all departments of $60,708, for the eleven months ending Sept. 30, is reported in the balance sheet of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, Limited, whose member shareholders opened their 11th annual meeting here to day.

G. A. Bothwell, Owen Sound, Ont., is president of the organization, Jas. Kess of Woodbridge, vice-president and J. J. Morrison, Secretary-Treasurer.

The directors recommended the payment of a dividend of 3 per cent on the paid up capital of the company.

In connection with the annual meeting of the United Farm Women of Ontario and the United Farm Young People of Ontario are holding separate sessions.

H. B. Clemes, the general manager, disagreed with his Board of Directors in their recommendation that a dividend of three per cent. be paid. He thought the dividend should be held up one year. He pointed out that this year the company had paid off a mortgage of $45,000 on its creamery, had bought a building for $47,000, and figured on spending $50,000 on improvements. Mr. Clemes said the surplus of assets over liabilities was $154,378.

G. A. Bothwell, Owen Sound, president of the company, as a result of a recent trip to Europe, suggested that the company open up a channel for getting Canadian cattle to Britain.

POWERS DIFFER ON CONFERENCE

France Claims Security Should Be Considered With Disarmament.

BRITAIN OPPOSED.

GENEVA, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press).—Apparently France and Great Britain are widely separated on at least one important point in connection with the disarmament question, although M. Paul Boncour and Lord Cecil, respectively French and British chief delegates to the Disarmament Council of the League of Nations, deny there has been a split.

This one point is whether the Commission which is to prepare the agenda for the proposed disarmament conference should study the question of mutual assistance of an effective nature against a warring nation. M. Paul-Boncour is insistant that security and disarmament are closely related. Belgium takes a similar view. Lord Cecil is in agreement with them but he doubts the wisdom of the inquiry suggested by the French, being of the belief that it would overburden the work of the Commission.

M. Paul Boncour argues that if the nations are to reduce their armament they will hesitate to do so unless certain that the weakening of their strength and their resultant inequality with other powers will be counter-balanced by guarantees of security in times of crisis.

British Discover Turkey Big Demand For Christmas

LONDON, December 8. — Vermont turkeys are just becoming known in England and everybody in Mayfair now wants to have one for Christmas.

A large flock of these birds, intended for the Thanksgiving dinners which were postponed because of the death of Queen Mother Alexandra, were sold in London, and were found to be such delicacies that hundreds of the birds have been ordered for Christmas.

The largest of the Thanskgiving birds has been placed on a farm in Kent to fatten up for the American Ambassador's Christmas dinner table. Others are to grace the tables to the Spanish Ambassador, the Marquis del Val, and Lord Carnarvon.

KNOX ANNIVERSARY.

Special Services and Supper Were Highly Successful.

The anniversary programme at Knox Church which concluded with the supper and lecture last evening was throughout a very splendid success. In spite of the inclement weather on Sunday congregations crowded the church to hear Professor John Dow of Knox College, recently from Inverness, Scotland. His messages based upon Luke 15 and Zech. 2, were wonderfully inspiring and helpful. These were the first anniversary services taken by Prof. Dow in Canada and the second time of his preaching since his arrival, and proved that in her new professor the United Church of Canada has not only added well to her fine scholarship but also to her treasury of great preaching. An indication of the close tie binding the United Church of Canada to the old churches in Scotland is the fact that Prof. Dow was translated by his Presbytery in the United Church of Scotland to Knox College, within the United Church, in exactly the manner in whcih he would have been translated to a college within the Scottish Church.

Supper was served last eevning in the basement of the church to a large number of people. Pictures were shown in the lecture hall after supper while those who had come early were waiting for the main programme of the evening. From the evening gathering the Ladies' Aid gathered splendid financial results. These energetic church workers expect to have another red-letter day in Knox history when they will burn the manse mortgage within a few months.

IRISH MINORITY OPPOSES TREATY FIXING BOUNDARY, BUT ADEQUATE MAJORITY IS ASSURED COSGRAVE

First Reading of New Bill Passed With Vote of 55 to 26.

ATTACK BY LABOR

Country Avoids Trouble Over Boundary Changes, O'Higgins Says.

DUBLIN, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)— The agreement recently entered into at London by the British government and representatives of the Free State and Ulster, having to do with the Irish boundary, came up in the Dail Eireann Monday, and the bill to amend the Anglo-Irish treaty to conform with the new agreement passed its first reading.

Under the London agreement the Ulster boundary remains as it is at present and the Irish Free State is absolved from a proportionate share in the British national debt, which the Anglo-Irish Treaty provided for.

The Dail Eireann was crowded for the important debate, many Northern Nationalists having come here for the discussion, which so intimately concerns them. The United States and various other consuls were seated in the galleries, as was also Mrs. Driscoll, sister of the late Michael Collins.

Government Majority.

President Cosgrave's hope to have the bill pass its second reading yesterday was frustrated by the obstructive tactics of the laborite, Tom Johnson, and the fact that a large number of deputies wished to speak. An opportunity to guage the relative strength of the parties on the agreement was afforded, however, when Mr. Johnson moved adjournment. This was opposed by President Cosgrave, and division being challenged, Johnson's motion was defeated 55 to 26. The minority included the solid Labor Party, some of the Farmer Party and other deputies favoring re-union with the Republicans and Captain William Redmond.

Heated passages between President Cosgrave and Johnson enlivened the session and there were several unexpected speeches, but finally Mr. Cosgrave was allowed to move the second reading. Reciting the terms of the agreement he declared there was now a new atmosphere of friendship and brotherhood. He made no apology for having insisted on a boundary commission, because there was no alternative policy. But the commission had failed, and its award would have revived old hatreds and disorders. Two members of the commission were legally competent to make a binding award.

Only Peaceful Issue.

In such a case the government must obey or use force and shake the foundations of the nation. The only peaceful issue was by mutual understanding.

The amount of the British national debt at the time of the treaty was £7,000,000,000 and Ireland had undertaken to share it. This was to be subjected to arbitration and hung as a menace to Ireland's credit. Now this was wiped out.

At this point members of the Dail sought to induce the President to particularize on the figures of the British claims and counter claims, but he declined to give any information.

Declaring that the British were prepared to make a generous contribution toward cementing good relations, President Cosgrave said that if the agreement was rejected, its opponents could still have the boundary award and the liability under Article V.

The President's speech was loudly applauded by his own party.

It was 10:30 in the evening when adjournment came, two and a half hours having been consumed by a single speech by Prof. McGennis, who was described by President Cosgrave as "having somersaulted out of the government party."

Calls Bargain Hasty.

Prof. McGennis opposed the bill, asserting that the government had made a hasty bargain and had sold the situation for a named sum.

The Vice-President of the Dail, Kevin O'Higgins, explained that he had signed the agreement in the belief that it would most surely lead to Irish unity. The new areas under the boundary commission award would have been a curse to both governments.

The debate revealed no unexpected danger for the government and it is believed the second reading will be carried to-day and the agreement eventually ratified by an adequate majority.

that it was a matter for the people.

Committee Reports.

The reports of the various committees did not meet smooth sailing. Alderman Denne sought for more information before voting for the clause of the Finance Committee's report asking that a by-law be prepared covering the issue of debentures amounting to $58,000 for the Utilities Commission, as he feared that the cost of lighting the streets would be raised. Reference to the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, which gave a definite price for the service provided the information he wished.

Information about the cost of lighting the Hunter Street Bridge after new standards recommended by the Utilities Commission had been installed was also asked for, but on calculation it was found that the cost would be about the same, so that the clause of the Fire, Water and Light report was passed. Clause five, dealing with a water main to provide a hydrant on MacFarland Street, near C. H. Rogers' gate, was struck out, as Mr. Rogers is making arrangements with the Utilities Commission to pay part of the cost.

Members of the Council are going to Toronto on Wednesday to meet the Hydro-Electric Power Commissioners, and the matter of a grant towards a toboggan slide for Jackson Park will be brought up again. It was felt that the slide should be constructed if it were found at all possible, but the clause recommending that it be abandoned for this winter was not struck out of the report of the Parks Committee.

The special committee appointed some time ago to consider the band question brought in a report favoring the formation of a citizens' band. Alderman Greene presented the report and spoke strongly in favor of the project. He estimated the cost of outfitting the band at about $4,500 for the first year, and said that one of the needs of the present band was new instruments. Alderman Crowe supported the report, while Alderman Turner spoke against it on the question of cost. A conference will be held with members of the various musical organizations of the city to discuss the matter.

By-Laws Thrown Out.

Alderman Fife brought in a by-law to let the contract for paving Rubidge, Reid and Stewart Streets to the Warrenite Company at prices named. Aldermen Turner and Crowe said that the matter should be left to the 1926 Council, whose hands should not be tied. Alderman Fife said that the price in 1926 would probably be higher as the cost of the materials had gone up, and money had been spent on the streets already in preparation for paving. On a division in the second reading a tie vote was recorded on Alderman Turner's motion that the committee of the whole should rise and not consider the by-law further, and Alderman Greene, who was in the chair, cast his vote against the by-law.

Alderman Fife introduced another by-law immediately, only to have it also lost on the second reading. This was to appoint caretakers or operators for the sewage disposal plant. Mayor Turner suggested Alderman Crowe and a returned soldier named Joseph Mee, who had worked in such plants in England, and who had applied for the position. Alderman Crowe asked for time to think of the matter, and moved that the appointment should be left over until later.

A by-law was passed to allow for the exchange of the right-of-way granted from the road to the sewage disposal plant for a shorter strip to another road allowance to the south of the plant.

It was reported by the City Solicitor that the city had no power to grant an exclusive franchise to the Hydro Commission for its 'bus lines.

The collector's report shows that the amount on the tax roll for 1925 was $768,538.25, and that $707,747.30 had been collected, leaving a total unpaid of $60,890.86.

Ex-Alderman Harry Gainey, who is now the city representative on the Suburban Roads Commission, made a report on the work done by the Commission during the past year. There has been spent on maintenance $5,067.03, on new construction $8,893.35, on culverts $8,069.65, and on machinery $3,396.35, a total of a little over $25,000,000. He said that the utmost harmony had existed between the members of the Commission, and also with the County Council. Alderman Fife asked about work on the Norwood Road, which, he said, could not be called a good road.

S. Whatley, secretary of the G.W.V.A., spoke to the Council on the question of boring holes in the sidewalks at the edge of the curbs on the main streets, so that the merchants could put up flags on occasions when decorations might be desirable. The work will be done by the Association, which will sell the flags to the merchants. Permission was granted, the work to be under the supervision of the City Engineer.

Mr. Ferguson appeared before the Council to ask if any member had a grudge against him, as he said that for three years he had been the low man in tendering for snow ploughing on one beat, and had not been awarded the contract, although he had good horses to do the work. He was assured that there was no ill-feeling against him.

To Notify Voters.

A by-law was passed naming the polling places and officers for the various sub-divisions. All voting places are to be in the schools or in the City Hall. Aldermen Crowe and McIntyre introduced a motion that a card be sent every house telling the electors where they voted, as it was felt that some confusion would exist because of the changes. Alderman Crowe said that the expense would be worth while as people would feel that their vote was valued, and that other cities had followed the plan with much success. Alderman Fife opposed the plan, but it was carried.

Asked by Mayor Turner whether the cards would tell the people for whom to vote, Alderman Crowe stated that as he was not seeking election, he would not have anything put on to advise the people along that line.

The cigarette license of T. J. Perrott, who keeps the stall in the lane off Hunter Street, behind the Bank of Toronto, was renewed without charge, as usual, and the customary grants to the orphanages for Christmas cheer were passed.

The application of Nelson Routley for permission to install a gasoline tank and pump at the corner of Brock and Park Streets was granted subject to the fee of $25.00, and an agreement to remove it when required by the Council. A number of eating house and billiard licenses were passed for renewal.

The salary of Fireman Herbert Meehan will be paid to his widow up to the end of the year, on motion of Alderman Jones.

A plan for dividing a piece of land at the corner of Douro Street and Armour Road was submitted by S. Curtis, one of the owners. Alderman Fife contended that it should first have been submitted to the Board of Works, but the Aldermen felt that the sub-division was satisfactory and that reference to the Board was unnecessary.

The Department of Education will be asked to put a light in the grounds of the Normal School on complaints from the residents of the district. Other lights will be placed on Aylmer and Dublin Streets if the appropriations will permit. The railways will be asked to have their crossing signs inspected and repaired where necessary.

Closing Supper.

After the meeting the Aldermen and Civic officials were the guests of Mayor Turner at supper in the Dominion Cafe. A vote of thanks was moved by Aldermen Phelan and Turner, and all present spoke of the pleasant way in which the Council had functioned during the past year. G. J. Winterbottom of the G.W.V.A., who had appeared with Mr. Whatley to bring up the flag question, also attended the supper and spoke of the attitude of the G.W.V.A. to various civic problems.

CAMPBELLFORD MERCHANT ASKS FOR EXTENSION OF EXPRESS LIMIT

Peter McMillan's Store is Not at Present Served By Express Company.

WATER ON LOTS.

Citizen Ask Relief—Hole in Road Causes Discussion of Liabiliy.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8—Peter McMillan who conducts a business out the Havelock Road but within the limits of the corporation appeared before the Town Council at the regular meeting of that body last night to ask if somthing could be done to have the express company extend its free delivery zone so as to take in the entire town. At present the company does not deliver goods beyond the foot of the hill at the Anglican church; the limit, according to Mr. McMillan, being set by the Railway and Municipal Board.

On motion of Councillor Kingston and Deputy-Reeve Palliser, Councillors Stone and Wiggins were appointed a committee to look into this matter and to report at the statutory meeting of the council which will be held next Tuesday evening.

W. W. Rutherford complained that water was lying on his property and that of a neighbor and asked that the Council put in a tile drain to carry off the suplus.

Councillor Moore contended that the Council could not be held responsible for the draining of low land that was private property, but the request of Mr. Rutherford was referred to the committee on roads and bridges with power to act.

Who Is Liable ?

At the western approach of the big bridge there is a deep hole in which many an auto has been given a severe and unexpected jolt. Whether the town, the county or the government is responsible for this condition and should make the required repairs is the problem. The highway is part of the county road and of a city street and the bridge at that end is under the jurisdiction of the Federal Goevrnment as the structure spans the Trent Canal.

This matter was informally discussed last night but no action was taken.

All the members were present last night with the exception of Mayor Meyers, Reeve Davidson presiding in his absence.

Memorial Service.

At the memorial service held in St John's church Sunday afternoon for the late Queen Alexandra, Rev. Jas. Belford chose for his text the first verse of the ninety-first Psalm. "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most high shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty."

The minister, whose discourse was interesting, pointed out many excellent qualities of the late Queen, and no matter what or how many her royal duties were, time was always found for charity and much good has come from it. On coming to England the late Queen Mother gave up all her Danish ways for the British Empire, and her first thought was always of the Empire. She was beloved not for beauty or manner but for something deep within her. The Lord Jesus Christ for example, and they never miss going to church, no matter where they are. They do not go to church for show but feel themselves as humble servants of God. There is much sorrow felt at the loss of the late Queen Mother but one thing her life was an example for women to copy, and she obtained this example through her Lord and Saviour. Everyone should always try to do what they can and follow in the late Queen's footsteps by reverencing God.

HUNTER FOUND DEAD IN WOODS LEG SHATTERED

John Gillespie, of Toronto, Had Bled to Death Several Days Ago.

TRIPPED OVER LOG.

Had Apparently Lost His Way in Dark—Shotgun Caused Death.

TORONTO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press). — John Gillespie, a well-known builder and contractor of Toronto, met a tragic death several days ago while on his farm near Wasaga Beach, Georgian Bay, but it was not until yesterday that his fate became known. His body was found lying by a log. Both of the barrels of a shotgun he had been carrying had been discharged and the gun lay behind the log. Mr. Gillespie had been shot in the left leg just below the knee. The bone was shattered and the arteries cut and it is believed that he bled to death within a few minutes. A fisherman living in a shack not far away says he heard a shot about nine o'clock Thursday night, and it is thought that Mr. Gillespie had lost his way in the bush and had stumbled over a log in the darkness.

Mr. Gillespie was 42 years of age and is survived by his widow and three children.

He was born in Orangeville, and before coming to Toronto about 12 years ago was in the hardware business there with his brother, William J. Gillespie, present Mayor of Orangeville.

"What the hell kind of game is this?" he demanded finally.

"What do you mean?" asked Connemara. "It's no game to me, I assure you."

"Don't get gay with me," Mr. Pooch snapped. "Didn't get a good look at you before in that rig—you ain't Sweetie."

"No, I certainly am not," Connemara admitted. "I — Ithink there's been some mix-up——"

"Mix-up! And you putting it over on me!" Mr. Pooch exclaimed furiously. Then suddenly he was towering above her. "Come across with that dough!" he commanded.

His right hand was raised—with his left he reached for Connemara's throat.

"McTish! McTish!" She just had time to shriek as Mr. Pooch's fingers closed around her windpipe.

CHAPTER VII.
By Dorothy Parker.

Mr. David Lacy, of New York Paris, London, Venice, Petrograd, Monte Carlo, Palm Beach, and sometimes w and y, was not in the full enjoyment of that pool-like placidity of mind which usually characterized him. Indeed, he was aware of a distinct and curiously unpleasant sensation of mental unrest. There were ladies, in various sections of the world, who would have been ingenuously delighted by the news of this condition. In vain had they tried, individually, to bring him to it. In the first place—and in most of the other places—there were his thoughts on Sister Connemara.

"Sister!" he said bitterly to himself as he stumbled along the ditch in what he gathered to be her wake. "Swell Sister she is."

The comment pleased him, so low was his mental state. He repeated it, though inaudibly, several times. He even went into the matter on a larger scale, and thought, grimly, that she was never going to have any chance at the old but ever popular role of being a sister to him. But he ran right on, along the ditch.

It now seemed to Mr. Lacy that, from the first moment of their meeting, he had grasped that Connemara was no real nun. He felt that he deserved a good, heaping measure of credit for his discernment.

"Thought she foiled me, did she?" he asked himself. He felt it would be not at all unpleasing to explain to the lady, in somewhat full detail, how strikingly little had been his belief in her vocation.

Now, of course, to have a young and low-voiced lady, disturbingly fragrant of mimosa, turn out not to be a nun at all is one thing. It opens up a wide field, gives birth to a series of pleasant plans for the future, and induces a healthy glow of anticipation. But, shortly after this discovery, to become a firm believer in the theory that the same young lady is one of the principal figures in a band of desperadoes, is distinctly something else again. Perhaps she was the Master Mind gang; possibly she had worked up to her present fifty-thousand-dollar job by way of a long apprenticeship in holding up cigar stores; maybe her photograph had been displayed in the papers as one of the mighty sisterhood of bobbed-hair bandits. It was a good thing, Mr. Lacy explained to himself, that he had found her out in time. There's no use trying to do anything for those people; they simply drop right back into their old ways again. The best thing to do is leave them alone; sooner or later they are bound to get theirs.

Yet he ran on along the ditch.

And then there was his car, tossed aside like a withered violet in the dust of the road behind him. It would require an experienced worker in mosaic ever to put it together again. The thought further depressed Mr. Lacy. It was not that he did not know where his next Isotta was coming from. It was not the money so much as the principle of the thing. Aside from a justifiable pride in the manner in which the car had come to be his, David had a deep fondness for it. He grieved for the sudden breaking-off of a beautiful relationship.

Still David ran on, into the darkness that had swallowed Connemara and Pooch so greedily. He loved the outdoors and couldn't get on without his exercise, yet the thing was beginning to pall. The sky had clouded thickly; the trees, whispering darkly together like old wives in a sick room, tossed their boughs and showed the under sides of their leaves. Winds sprang up, it seemed to David, from all directions, and not far off, thunder growled savagely. In his ears sounded the complaining of troubled waters. That must be the Sound, somewhere ahead. Well—perhaps the steeple-chase would end there.

From behind him, hoarse shoutings punctuated his journey. Backward glances showed him a flashlight, careening like a drunken firefly, as its bearer stumbled along the ditch. The mysterious strangers from the Pierce were evidently going right on through with the thing. Their words were indistinguishable, but their tones indicated that they were calling upon David to stop. Yet, though well brought up, he paid not the slightest attention to the remarks that they addressed to him.

There was a report, from behind, and something whistled shrilly entirely too close to his ear for any real comfort.

"The party," murmured David, "is getting rough."

And so was the ditch. David, quickening his speed, came suddenly into close personal contact with the stump of a tree that had apparently died in agony. Simultaneously injuring his shin and his self-respect, he went headlong among its twisted roots, rolled from them, over and over in the slippery dead leaves of the ditch. With but a few brief words of hasty criticism of the dead tree, David picked himself up, found a footing, and started again on his travels. Again there was a report, decidedly closer this time. Again the screeching whistle troubled his ear.

"Hey, stop, will ya?" bellowed the voice back of him. It added a few words having to do with its owner's wishes for David's future.

"Well," David told himself, "we might as well get this over with." And he stopped and turned to face his pursuers, wearing an expression of courteous surprise.

They came up to him, the first one, who carried the flashlight, swearing glibly but without inspiration. The light revealed him as a heavy, dark man, with more than his legitimate quota of unshaven jaw. He wore badly assembled garments, and affected a lavishly plaided cap. Of the second figure, David could distinguish nothing more personal than that it was considerably shorter than the first.

David watched the light glint along the shining surface of the first man's revolver. The evening's events had taken on the quality of a prolonged dream. He had the curious lack of amazement with which one meets all the outrageous new occurrences of a nightmare.

"Doubtless," he mused, "this stout lad will turn out to be O'Malley of the Royal Mounted."

M'GILL L.O.B.A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Havelock Lodge Held Annual Meeting on Friday Night.

HAVELOCK, Dec. 8.—On Friday evening at a largely attended meeting the officers of the McGill Loyal Orange Benevolent Association, No. 471, were duly installed. Mrs. A. McColl, Past Mistress, was the installing officer and much credit is due her for the efficient way she carried out these duties.

After the ceremony Mrs. Frank Post was presented with a purse of money and the following address: "Dear Sister Post,—

"We, the members of McGill Lodge, have gathered here on behalf of our regular meeting to thank you for your wonderful co-operation. In connection with this lodge you are a great help in many ways and your work has not passed by unseen. Therefore, we ask you to accept this small token to show our appreciation of your good-will. Kindest wishes extended to you and that you may be spared many years with us.

"Signed on behalf of the McGill Lodge—Mrs. McGill, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. McColl."

Mrs. Post was taken completely by surprise, and while deeply affected, thanked all present for their kind remembrance.

A dainty lunch was then served and a very enjoyable time spent.

Church Dinner.

The dinner given by the congregation of St. John's Church, Havelock, in the Town Hall on Thursday evening was a splendid success and was largely patronized by the sister churches in the community. Bountiful food supplies on the tables were both appetizing and tempting and justice was done by more than four hundred people.

After the dinner a good program was rendered, the main part of which was a gay little comedy, entitled "How Would You Like to be Ferrill?" staged in sparkling style by a group of talented young people of the congregation and produced under the direction of Mrs. Jean Moore, to whose untiring efforts the success of the play is due. The following is the cast of characters:

Mr. Derwent—Mr. Wilbert Bush.
Ferrill—Mr. Ernest Sanderson.
The Rich Heiress—Miss Jean Anderson.
Kitty—Miss Eva Sanderson.
Mrs. Ferrill—Mrs. Jean Moore.

Each role was taken in splendid fashion, and the young people outdid themselves in their delineation of the different types in the comedy. Miss Eva Sanderson as "Kitty" was simply wonderful, receiving much praise for the feeling of naturalness which she conveyed.

Two choruses were rendered in connection with the play.

Yellow roses, attractively arranged, made the stage setting particularly effective and added much to the charm of the presentation.

Pianoforte selections by Mrs. Quinn, a vocal solo by Miss Velma Davidson and a reading by Mrs. J. Moore were well received by an appreciative audience.

The total amount realized to date from the sale of work and dinner is two hundred dollars. There are some other returns to come in which it is expected will add a considerable sum to the above amount.

SAFETY FIRST.

The fatal accident at Aylmer where a woman who moved an electric heater while taking a bath was electrocuted will put a tragic emphasis upon the warnings that have frequently been issued in connection with such appliances.

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that when electric heaters are used in bath-rooms to touch the appliance when one is in the water or standing on a wet floor is a most dangerous experiment, extremely likely to have fatal results.

The same thing may be said about electric light fixtures.

All electric devices should be let securely alone by bathers, and if heaters of this type must be used in bath-rooms, "hands off" should be the policy of the householder.

In these days of modern appliances it becomes necessary to observe the principle of "safety first" in the home almost as thoroughly as on the street or in the work-shop, and this particularly applies to electrical devices which are perfectly safe if ordinary caution is used but which cannot be treated recklessly with impunity.

BELLEVILLE'S THIRTY-ONE.

Will Belleville please tell us how they did it?

Yesterday was municipal election day in the Bay of Quinte city, and how many candidates do you think appealed to the electorate for election to one of the twelve places in the City Council?

No fewer than thirty-one.

This record number was thoroughly representative.

It included a number of merchants, several manufacturers, insurance brokers, salesmen, executives, a doctor, railway employees, machinists, etc., and if the people of Belleville did not succeed in selecting a good dozen out of a field remarkable both for quality and quantity then all that can be said is that their powers of discrimination must be wonderfully underdeveloped.

Belleville is to be congratulated upon the very evident interest her citizens are taking in civic affairs.

When thirty-one mem, representative of practically every business and professional activity in the community, offer their services to their fellow-citizens and are willing to endure the large volume of criticism and the very small evidence of appreciation that are associated with municipal service, there is abroad in the city a very healthy civic spirit that must inevitably be reflected in a more prosperous and progressive community.

Peterboro would be decidedly the better if a similar showing could be counted upon at the coming municipal election—but, in the light of past events, perhaps that is too much to anticipate.

NO STANDING STILL.

If any proof were needed of the progressiveness of the directorate of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition it is supplied by the fact that Peterboro's big fair was one of the few Canadian exhibitions represented at the annual meeting of the Showmen's League and International Fairs' Association at Chicago last week.

The attendance of President Roland Denne and Webber Turner at this big convention will have important results next autumn, as the two representatives from Peterboro were enabled to book a number of outstanding attractions for next year's Exhibition, and to bring back new ideas that will be used to advantage in making the local fair more successful than ever.

Only six other Canadian fairs were represented at Chicago, including the Canadian National Exhibition, London, Ottawa, Edmonton, Calgary and Sherbrooke, so by their action in sending delegates to the international convention the local directors have put the Peterboro Exhibition on the map as one of the fastest growing and most progressive in the country.

The splendid success of this year's record-breaking Exhibition promises to be duplicated in 1926, and the management is to be congratulated upon the foresight and vision that enable it to announce that already the feature attractions for next year's fair are already arranged for on a bigger scale than ever.

Standing still is a policy that carries no meaning whatever for the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition.

RELIEF FOR VETERANS.

There is reason to hope that the Federal authorities will reconsider their decision to withdraw financial assistance to returned men with less than a 20 per cent. pensionable disability.

This action has caused consternation among many ex-soldiers, and has evoked strong criticism not only from veterans' organizations and municipal authorities but from many newspapers.

Even some of those journals who are insistent in their demand that national economy should be practised in Canada do not want to see a saving affected at the expense of those who can least afford to make the sacrifice.

The relief hitherto extended by the D.S.C.R. to returned soldiers during the winter months when the effects of unemployment are most keenly felt has been a lifesaver to many a man who fought for Canada overseas and who has been fighting a tough battle ever since he came home.

If the withdrawal of this relief is adhered to by the Government, the burden will fall heavily upon the shoulders of the relief departments of the larger centres where the full brunt of the new policy will be felt.

So many representations are being made to the authorities for a reconsideration of the whole question that it is not unlikely that there may be a change of front in regard to relief for veterans who find themselves in need because of their inability to secure employment.

EVERYBODY CONCERNED.

Till lately the anthracite strike has somehow given the impression of being a private quarrel, says the New York Times. It was a struggle between the operators and the miners. When they got into a deadlock last August and closed down the mines there was no great popular excitement. People said that the two parties were bound to come together before long and settle the controversy. But after repeated failures, especially after the failure of Governor Pinchot's recent intervention, the public began to wake up. The first stirrings came from Chambers of Commerce and business men in the anthracite region itself. They have a vital interest in the resumption of mining. They are in for great and increasing losses unless the industry soon starts up. And it is highly probable that the miners themselves are anxious to get back to work and wages. Perhaps it is silent pressure from them that has helped to give the business men of the hard coal district boldness to go out and demand that the strike be settled. They are to have a conference with Governor Pinchot early next week.

It is impossible any longer to think of the anthracite strike as a thing of limited liability. While it involves immediately 150,000 mine workers and the coal owners, it directly and growingly affects a vast extent of territory and the comfort and health of millions of Americans. To say that a strike big with such consequences can be shut up in a corner, and that the country ought to stand aloof and indifferent until the two sides fight it out, is preposterous. Everybody is really concerned, and everybody who has a particle of influence ought to let his sentiments be known. Other business organizations should follow the example of the Chambers of Commerce of Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Hazleton. The time is more than ripe for a renewal of the negotiations between the operators and the miners. They are not so far apart as they were three months ago. An agreement cannot be dismissed as impossible until every effort has been made to bring one about.

ON PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Young Canadians in Toronto and elsewhere have been taking part of late in annual competitions for prizes for public speaking. Not long ago newspapers announced the results of a contest, of which Miss Agnes McPhail, M.P., was one of the promoters, between school pupils in Grey County. More recently Toronto youths have been matching their forensic powers in efforts to win trophies given by Dr. James L. Hughes and Mr. H. Maurice Cody.

Really great orators are rare because they represent a rare combination of natural gifts and acquired skill. There are men who have glib tongues but who cannot be regarded as great orators because they lack discretion in the exercise of the faculty of speech and have not the power of logical statement. It has been said that "true eloquence consists in saying all that is necessary and nothing but what is necessary." Cicero touched upon another aspect of oratory. He said "he is an eloquent man who can treat humble subjects with delicacy, lofty things impressively and moderate things temperately." The great orator may owe something to a fine voice and a fine presence, but he will owe more to his ability to array his facts in logical sequence, to clothe his thought in appropriate languags and to implant in the minds of his audience a conviction of his own sincerity. It is sometimes asserted that great orators are rarer today than they were among a previous generation of men, that the quality of public squeaking in Parliaments, in Great Britain, in Canada and in other countries, in courts of law and on political platforms has declined. Possibly this is true. On the other hand, it must be remembered that pressure of business in deliberative assemblies and in courts in Great Britain and in this country has probably changed the character of public speaking approved in those places. More than ever in Parliament and in the courts "true eloquence consists in saying all that is necessary and nothing but what is necessary." From time to time, a speaker, striving to say all that is necessary, transgresses the other half of the rule, but he is not complimented upon his eloquence. Rather, he causes grumbling about his verbosity. Thus, young men who hope one day to make listening Senates tremble while they praise, to sway gatherings of their countrymen, to win favorable verdicts from juries or to convince hard-headed justices, show wisdom in practicing the art of public speaking. Even if they do not cherish those ambitions, they gain something of value by the effort to learn to deliver a creditable speech. They learn, at the outset, to study their subjects and ascertain the facts of their cases, to marshal those facts logically in support of their conclusions, to express their arguments clearly and to throw off self-consciousness in their discussions with other people. These things may be of advantage to them in their businesses as well as in careers on the platform.

Some men when called upon to speak briefly in public are struck dumb, stammer a few platitudes and subside into their seats. The young man who learns to think upon his feet will save himself from such uncomfortable situations. Some men asked to deliver a brief impromptu address ramble on unterminably, talking much but saying little and boring their audience to the point of desperation. The young man who learns to say the thing appropriate to the occasion concisely and in suitable language will spare other men who listen to him much suffering.—Mail and Empire.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 7—Poor grades of butchers' cattle had to compete with Western shipments of this class, and one abattoir was in receipt of 17 cars of these. Shipping steers and heifers were firm, and not in too good supply. For one load of steers, $8.85 a cwt. was paid and others brought $8.75 a cwt. Export heifers were steady at $7 to $7.75 a cwt. Good to choice butchers' cattle were wanted at firm prices, but common and just warmed up stuff was slow and easy. Two loads of fair quality feeders 800 and 900 lb. average, sold at $5.85 and $6.35 a cwt. A bunch of good baby beeves brought $10.25 to $12 a cwt. Choice cows sold firm, and others at steady prices. Export cows were $5.50 to $7 a cwt.

Calves closed the week easy in Buffalo, and buyers for that market are going a little slow. The supply of good to choice veals was light, and this held prices firm at 13 to 13 1-2 cents a pound. Other grades were steady, with mediums 9 to 11 cents.

The demand for a few nice lambs for Christmas is keeping the market firm for any light choice lambs. Some of these sold at 14 3-4 to 15 cents a pound. Average lambs were 14 to 14 1-2 cents, and heavy lambs 13 cents a pound. Choice sheep were held from 7 to 7 1-2 cents.

Packers did not attempt to presume that they were going to get hogs any lower today, and were willing to take offerings at the steady price of $11.75 a cwt. f.o.b. Sellers were asking $12 a cwt. One packer received two cars from the West this morning.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—Shrinking away of estimates of the amount of wheat likely to be obtained for export from Argentina did much today to lift wheat prices here to new top records for the season. Closing quotataions on wheat were strong, 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 net higher, new style, December 1.79 1-2 to 179 3-4, and May 1.75 5-8 to 1.75 3-4. Corn finished 3-8 off to 3-8 up; oats at 3-8 to 3-4 advance, and provisions varying from 25c decline to 27c gain.

One leading authority today figured that the Argentine exportable surplus of wheat would aggregate only 93,000,000 bushels, the smallest total by far that has yet been mentioned—the minimum heretofore talked about being at least 100,000,000 bushels. Largely on account of the latest reduction of the estimate, unusual strength developed both in the Liverpool wheat market and at Buenos Aires, as well as here. May delivery in Chicago also July quickly surpassed the season's previous top quotations.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 7 (Canadian Press).—There was a fair enquiry from foreign buyers for Manitoba grades of wheat in the Montreal grain market today, but as prices were unsatisfactory, no new business was done.

The market for spring wheat grades of flour was again strong and millers generally marked up prices another 20c per barrel, which makes a net advance since the first of the month of 60c per barrel.

There were no new developments in the market for winter wheat flour, but the undertone was strong on account of the higher prices ruling for the raw material, the small offerings from Ontario millers and the light supplies available on spot.

The feature of the butter trade was the increased demand that developed from both local and outside buyers for supplies with the result that a more active business was done and in consequence a very firm feeling prevailed in the market.

The receipts of cheese were 1,697 boxes, as against 2,328 for the same day last week, and 538 for the corresponding day a year ago. There was also an improved enquiry from foreign buyers for cheese, and as some of the bids were more in line with exporters' views the volume of business was a trifle larger than it has been of late, and in consequence a firmer feeling prevailed in the local market.

OMEMEE MASONS ELECTED OFFICERS

Many Brethren From Peterboro Visited Lorne Lodge for Occasion.

OMEMEE, Dec. 8.—Probably one of the most enjoyable and memorable evenings in fraternal societies was held in Lorne Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Hall on Thursday evening. Many visiting brethren from Peterboro and several from Lindsay were present.

After the opening ceremonies were disposed of by Wor. Master C. Hart, the Rt. Wor. Bro. G. W. Hall, D.D.G.M., conducted the business in connection with the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

W.M.—Bro. Ernest Corneil.
S.W.—Bro. Harold Dick.
J.W.—Bro. H. T. Carmichael.
Chaplain—Bro. T. C. Ivory.
Treasurer—Bro. E. Grandy.

The Peterboro Lodge then assumed control, with Wor. Bro. Campbell in the East. The entered apprentice degree was exemplified in a very distinguished manner, accompanied by musical ritual.

The entire gathering then adjourned to the banquet hall, where great preparations had been made for the occasion. Places were laid on snowy white cloths for 75 and several more had to be made room for, and after all had partaken heartily, the following toasts were proposed:

"The King and Craft"—Proposed by the Wor. Master C. Hart and responded to by all rising and singing the National Anthem.

"The Grand Lodge"—Proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. H. R. H. Kenner of Peterboro and responded to by Rt. Wor. Bro. Hall of Lindsay.

"The Visiting Brethren"—Proposed by Wor. Bro. R. J. Patterson of Omemee and responded to by Wor. Bros. Campbell and Adair of Peterboro.

"The Junior Warden"—"Happy to Meet, Sorry to Part, Happy to Meet Again," followed by the hearty rendition of "Auld Lang Lyne."

Throughout the entire banquet many old familiar songs peeled forth and all were delighted with the monologue and songs rendered by Bros. Smith and Hendry of Peterboro.

Those from Peterboro who attended were: Rt. Wor. Bros. H. R. H. Kenner, J. G. M. Wilson, W. D. Campbell, R. L. Dobbin, Chas. B. Adair, Very Wor. Bros. A. C. Herridge and Bros. W. A. Logan, J. E. A THOUGHT.

THE ALIBI-ER.

I loathe the man who, when he's licked,
Cries out: "No fair: Behold, I'm tricked!
I've been hornswoggled; fed on lies"
I hate a man with alibis!

Give me a chap who fights to win,
But who, if loser, pulls a grin.
Then shuts his trap and keeps it so
Till it is time again to go.

That is the sort of bird we watch
And be on—even if we're Scotch.
We pull for all that sort of guys,
Because they pull no alibis.

Down with the one who bellyaches
And starts explaining when the breaks
Have been against him. We despise
The whining loser's alibis.

LINDSAY LOSES BOOZE FACTORY

Thriving Business Raided by Police—Operator Sentenced to Jail.

CUSTOMERS CALLED

LINDSAY, Dec. 8.— Another Lindsay industry, which has been thriving in its own modest way, suspended operations rather abruptly on Saturday. This time it is a moonshine factory, which was situated within a stone's throw of the main street. Monday the proprietor was lodged in the county jail where he will eat his Christmas dinner, a sentence of two months in the county Bastile with a fine of $200.00 and costs having been imposed by Police Magistrate Bradford. Anderson will serve an additional three months if the fine is not paid.

Anderson's house has been shadowed by the police for some time, as a brisk business is reported to have been done by the occupant in dispensing home brew. Saturday night License Inspector Porter and Provincial Officer Storey decided to make a raid, and when near the house met Anderson whom they searched. They extracted a fat bottle of bootleg whiskey from his pocket which showed a 30 per cent analysis. They then proceeded to search the house, but Mrs. Anderson, the officers claim, got busy and dumped the contents of a keg into the sink. While the officers were at the house two citizens dropped in for their week end supply, but beat a hasty retreat when they spotted the representatives of the law.

CHINESE LAUNDRY FIGHT IN LINDSAY

Competitors Attacked Successful Rival Sunday.

LINDSAY, Dec. 8.—A miniature tong war was staged on Kent street Sunday evening, and for a while the air was filled with Chinese expletives which went over the heads of the eye-witnesses.

Rivalry in the laundry business is said to be at the bottom of the trouble, and as the proprietor of one laundry, who recently announced the gift on his part of sums of money to the local churches, was leaving the Elsmure Cafe, also conducted by a Celestial, he was confronted by two compatriots. One laid hands on him, and gave him quite a pummelling before citizens interfered. The victim of the assault claims that the other Celestials are jealous of his success in business, and charge him with enroaching on their territory. A police court case will follow.

SECURITY UNDER DISARMAMENT IS FRENCH ANXIETY

Denial at Geneva of Breach Between France and Great Britain.

DIVERGENT VIEWS

Demand for Assurance of Mutual Assistance Against Warring Nation.

GENEVA, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—Quickly spreading rumors that France and Great Britain had split on the question of how to handle disarmament caused M. Paul Boncour and Lord Cecil to receive the newspaper correspondents last night and utter a solemn assurance that, although they were divided on some points of the programme which will be studied in preparation for the proposed disarmament conference, there was no faltering and no diminution of the sincere co-operation characterising their countries' efforts. Having said this much they proceeded to shake hands.

Nevertheless the statements made by these representatives of Britain and France indicated that their positions are widely apart on one important point and that is whether the new commission, which will prepare the agenda for the disarmament conference, should study a means of assuring effective operation of mutual assistance against a warring nation.

M. Paul Boncour contended that elaboration of such a system in extending the obligations already contained in the league covenant was an absolute necessity if the nations were to reduce their armaments. He argued that the nations would hesitate to disarm unless they possessed the certainty that their disarmament and their resultant inequality with some other powers would be counter-balanced by guarantees that they could count upon sufficient forces in time of a crisis to replace those they had themselves given up.

In other words, M. Paul Boncour insisted that disarmament and security are closely linked.

NEW PUMP HAS BEEN INSTALLED

Equipment in Campbellford Pump House Is Working Satisfactorily.

DE LAVAL MAKE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8.—The new pump which the Water and Lifht Commission purchased last summer from the De Laval Company, has been installed in the pumping station and is now in satisfactory operation. It has been set up in the basement of the building and is certainly an acquisition to the equipment. The pump has a capacity of 1,000 gallons per minute and is driven by a 100 horse power motor. It makes 1,700 revolutions per minute, moving so fast that the wheels appear to be stationary.

The old pump, which has a 75 horse power motor, is still in commission, ready to be started up at a moment's notice. It has a capacity of 750 gallons per minute, so that, with both pumps in operation, there will never be any lack of water in case of a big fire.

The Underwriters' Association has for some time recommended an increase in the pumping capacity here so that the action of the Commission in putting in the new pump should result in a reduction in the insurance rates in Campbellford.

THREE BRITISH CITIZENS HELD IN FRENCH JAIL

Detention Followed Arrest of Young Woman Suspected of Espionage.

HIRED AS A SPY

Was Noticed Recently Around Aviation Camps in France.

PARIS, Dec. 8. — (Canadian Press.)—The keenest curiosity as to what foreign countries in these times of peace, good will and disarmament, should hire a French girl to act as a spy and deliver military information against her native land, has been the predominating emotion of people and press toward the case of Marthe Moreuil, alias Marcelle Monseil, under arrest for espoinage.

This was partly answered late last evening when a man, giving his name as Fisher Williams and alleging that he was a Polish-born naturalized Englishman was detained by the police after a long cross-examination as the man to whom Mlle Moreuil was transmitting information. The authorities, studiously refrained from saying that the woman was in the pay of the British.

The police records show that the girl is 24 years old, that her real name is Moreuil, and that she adopted the name of Monseil for espionage purposes. She has been active along spying lines in the past few months.

The girl's confession seemed at first to the police entirely too willing. To them she appeared as an amateur spy, who had obtained notions of her work from the moving pictures; she acted as if she were always within range of the camera. She told them of her trips to St. Nazaire, Bordeaux, Ayre, Cuers, Pierrefeu and San Raphael, the last three aviation centres, as if she greatly relished her experiences.

The information she acquired is said to be quite inoffensive.

The arrest took on more importance last evening, however, when two more British subjects, known as Oliver Phillips and James Leather, were arrested and lodged in La Sante prison. It is realized now that the government has a real espionage case on hand.

OFFICERS VISITED MADOC REBECCAS

Members of Other Lodges of District Were Also Present.

MADOC, Dec. 8.—On Friday evening Oakdale Rebecca Lodge entertained Crescent and Tweed Lodges from Thomasburg and Tweed. Ten candidates were initiated into Madoc Lodge. On this occasion, also, Mrs. Frances L. Donaldson, President of the Rebecca Assembly, paid her official visit, as did the District Deputy President, Mrs. Blanche Alexander. During the evening Mrs. Donaldson was presented with a silver comport and Mrs. Alexander, who recently removed to Bancroft, was presented with a silver cake plate. A very successful and enjoyable evening closed with dancing and the serving of dainty refreshments.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church held its annual bazaar on Saturday afternoon. In spite of the very inclement weather, a splendid crowd was on hand to see the quantities of beautiful needle-work displayed.

Exquisite bits of colored and white embroidery were shown, crochet and drawn-work in many novel and dainty articles suitable for Christmas gifts. The home-cooking booth and the Children's Mission Band table were also well patronized. The decorations of evergreens, bunting and flags were very effective. Afternoon tea was served and the brightness and general cheeriness of the place were a decided contrast to the gloom of the rainy day.

Warm the chimney flue by burning a newspaper in its throat and the new fire will start more readily.

REBEKAH LODGE HELD EUCHRE PARTY

Good Crowd Attended in Spite of Conflicting Attractions.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 8.—About twenty-five tables were in use for the progressive euchre held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Thursday evening, the officers and members of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge No. 176, being hostesses.

Other events in the village and vicinity lessened the attendance somewhat but a thoroughly good time was enjoyed. When play began the gentlemen were in the majority this fact compelling some to take a "lady's" part, and at least one of these handed in a card that ranked highest when the scores were totalled.

The prize winner included, for the ladies, P. I. Bentley, first, Mrs. David Armstrong, consolation; for th gentlemen, Mrs. D. Armstrong, first, and Mr. Norman Bowles, consolation.

The supper interval came at 11 p.m., and afterward a number remained for further card playing, or dancing, before a pleasant evening was finally brought to a close.

C.G.I.T. Meeting.

The Wide Awakes C.G.I.T. group held its regular meeting on Friday evening, with a good attendance considering the unfavorable weather which prevent those living in the country from being present.

The President, Jean Burnham, was in the chair, and the newly-elected "Herald", Pearl Davis, discharged the duties of her office for the first time.

During the business period it was noted that the group is in a fairly prosperous way financially, and has recently contributed two dollars to the China Testament fund, ten dollars to the Maintenance and Extension Fund of the United Church, and two dollars to the Armenian Relief Fund in connection with the Georgetown Home for Armenian boys. The girls have in view the sending of two of their members to a C.G.I.T. training camp next summer, over forty dollars being required for this purpose.

A talk on "Friendship" was given during the devotional period, the leader basing her remarks on incidents connected with the friendship of David and Jonathan, and of the "Order of the Three' among David's mighty men, who brought him water to drink from the well by the gate of Bethlehem, risking their lives in proof of true friendship. The Scripture lesson was from First Samuel 20: 24 to 42, and was read alternately, and the Saviour's words, "Ye are my friends", brought the message that the best friend to have is Jesus, and the lines from Thomas A. Kempis "Imitation of Christ," "Make a friend of Jesus who, when all else shall fail, will never leave thee, nor suffer thee to perish in the end,' helped to impress the lesson.

The usual recreation period was enjoyed at the close.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

ABERDEEN-ANGUS CATTLE ARE A VERY FINE BREED FOR BEEF, TAKING MANY CARCASS PRIZES

Should be Practically Pure Black, Low Set and Smooth.

BUTCHERS' IDEAL

Are a Hornless Variety — Cows Are Rather Light Milkers.

The Aberdeen Angus breed was first developed in the counties of Aberdeen, Kincardine, Forfar and Banff, Scotland. In Aberdeen, particularly in the Buchan district, the breed was first known as Buchan Humlies, while in a section of Forfar, commonly called Angus, the breed was known as Angus Doddies. The real origin of the breed is not known. There were hornless cattle common to the district in the very early days and some writers claim that the breed had its origin in a sport from the black-horned cattle formerly common to the district in which they have been developed. Hornless cattle have been known in Scotland for well over a century and it is more than likely that the breed was really started from some of these polled cattle, freaks in the horned breed.

In the development of the breed, Hugh Watson of the County of Forfar was the first great improver. He was born in 1789 and continued to work with his cattle until the time of his death in 1865. His herd was built up from a half dozen cows and a sire, specially selected and in the improvement of his herd he practised a good deal of in-and-in breeding. His most famous cow, Old Granny, lived to be thirty-six years old and produced twenty-five calves.

Watson's work was followed by that of Wm. McCombie, who was born in Aberdeenshire in 1805 and began breeding Angus cattle in 1830. McCombie put great stress on the sires he selected. He was a believer in individual merit as well as pedigree. He developed the great Queen Mother family from a cow called Queen Mother (348) which he purchased from Wm. Fullerton and from whose line he bred Pride of Aberdeen (331), the founder of the Pride family.

Working at the same time as McCombie, Wm. Fullerton founded a herd in 1833 and met with considerable success. He bred the cow Queen Mother, the foundation of the Queen Mother or Queen family.

Of the more modern breeders of Angus cattle who have done a good deal toward the improvement of the breed, Sir George Macpherson Grant of Ballindalloch stands out in front, and the Ballindalloch herd has produced a large number of really outstanding cows. The Erica tribe with its many branches had its beginning in this herd, as well as such families as Coquette, Jilts and many others.

The breed was first introduced into America in 1873 and the first Angus to come to Canada were brought to the Ontario Agricultural College in 1876. Aberdeen Angus cattle have made more progress in the middle Western States than they have in Ontario, but from their first entry into this province they have held their own against other breeds in the production of beef and have always stood in high favour with butchers because of their smoothness, quality, and reputed high percentage of edible, lean meat. The breed is spread throughout Canada over all provinces and is bred and fed as a specialized beef breed. The calves make excellent baby beef and some prize Angus bulls for crossing on Shorthorn cows in the production of high-class, early maturing beef. Angus cattle are fair grazers and are particularly well suited to loose-box feeding. While in the beginning only a few families were famous, such as the old Queen Mother and the Pride of Aberdeen and the Lady Ida, many new strains are now recognized. In the United States the various branches of the Erica family are very much prized. This family, of course, had its origin at Ballindalloch and several strains of Ericas, such as Eisa, Enchantress, and Elba Ericas, have been developed, as well as the branches of the family named after the bulls, Trojan, Kildonan and Chieftain. In the United States, also, a number of different lines of a family called Blackbird have been developed from the Old Lady Ida family, and from the Blackbirds again came the Blackcaps. In fact, the Ericas, Blackbirds and Blackcaps are more prized blood lines in the United States than are the Pride of Aberdeen and Queen Mother tribes. Other recognized families are McHenry Barbara, Coquette, Heatherbloom, Beauty of Portlethen, Jilt, Favourite, Zara, Westertown Rose, Mina, Nosegay and Victoria.

Aberdeen Angus cattle are black and should be almost solid black, very little, if any, white being found on a high-class pure-bred Angus. Occasionally a little white is seen on underline or udder of cows, and on rare occasions a red calf is dropped. Red males or those with any pedigree of white above the underline or on the legs are not eligible for registration. Bulls should weigh from 1,800 to 2,200 pounds or more and cows from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds. The Aberdeen Angus of best type represents the butcher's ideal of a beef animal. Angus cattle are very low set, deep and exceedingly smooth. The head is clean cut, short and broad, with a sharp, distinct poll. The neck is short and the shoulder veins well filled. There is a tendency in Angus cattle toward roughness of shoulder, but this is not found in the best specimens. A great spring of fore ribs, a straight, strong top, extreme smoothness over the hooks and between hook and pin bones and a more or less cylindrical spring of rib are characteristic of the breed. Angus cattle should be low in the twist, full in the thighs and should show fine quality of bone, extreme evenness and smoothness of fleshing with a soft, pliable skin and a thick coat of hair. Aberdeen Angus cattle or their crosses have won more carcass competitions than any other breed of beef cattle. The cows, however, are rather light milkers, due no doubt to the extreme beef tendency of the breed.

Frozen Apples Retain Color Shape and Taste Both Good

Louis Hatherly of Grandview avenue brought to The Examiner last week some Ben Davis apples which had been frozen but which had thawed out and retained their shape and color, and were, if anything, improved in taste by the ordeal.

The apples were picked up beneath the trees in William Robb's orchard at Garden Hill. They fell off shortly before the severe frosts a couple of weeks ago, and were lying on the ground at the time. After being frozen they were covered with a blanket of snow. When the snow left Messrs. Hatherly and Robb picked up several barrels of the fruit, all in good condition, while those which had been frozen on the trees were all shrivelled up and had changed to a brown color. Apparently either the snow which covered them or the fact that they lay on the ground is responsible for the preservation of these apples after undergoing such a severe frost.

BIG THRESHING OF MIXED GRAIN

Sixteen Hundred Bushels of Oats and Barley From 24 Acres.

TURKEYS SCARCE

WARSAW, Dec. 8.—John Payne's threshing outfit last Tuesday threshed over sixteen hundred bushels of oats and barley, mixed, from twenty-four acres. The grain is of good quality.

The roads are becoming smooth again; before Saturday some of them were very rough.

Farmers have received notices that hereafter livestock shipments from Peterborough and Lakefield will be fortnightly, instead of weekly. The next shipping day will be Monday, December 14. Lists of dates for a year were sent with the notices.

Turkeys are not nearly so plentiful this year in this neighborhood. Matthew McMurray, who usually has a very large flock, has less than twenty, and others, who usually have a dozen or more, have two or three. There were plenty hatched, but the damp weather did not agree with them.

Geese seem to have held their own with most people, as well as ducks.

P. G. Towns, who buys largely, has been giving 31 cents for turkeys over thirteen pounds, and 30 cents for those under.

Mr. Foster sent the last shipment of milk to Peterborough on Tuesday.

The cream collector for Lakefield creamery comes around on Saturdays.

CARE OF ROPE.

Should Be Stored in Clean, Dry Place—Unwind Properly.

Some farmers buy rope by the full coil, and this is a good plan, as it can be bought at a saving; when a piece of rope is needed it is at hand, and no time is lost in going to town for it. However, the rope should be stored in a clean, dry place where acid or other chemicals can not get on it. The slightest trace of some acids or chemicals will weaken and shorten the useful life of the best rope, and when a new rope fails in its work, for no apparently good reason, the maker or dealer is blamed.

In unwinding rope from the full coil, lay the coil with the inside and nearest the floor. Then draw this inside end up through the center of the coil and measure off whatever amount is needed. If the coil has been properly reeled by the maker, this method has a tendency to throw the twist out and thus to prevent kinks. On the other hand, the usual practise of taking the rope from the outside of the coil tends to throw the twist into the rope, so that if long lengths are removed, the kinks are a source of trouble. If only short pieces are taken off, either method is all right.

CAULIFLOWER VARIETY TESTS

There is practically only one type of cauliflower, the Erfurt, with two main groups, the early and the late. As lack of moisture and high temperatures cause heads to "bolt" or "button", the strains used must be either very early or late, so as to escape the heat of midsummer. An average of seven years shows that late so-called varieties such as Algiers, produce more and larger marketable heads than an early sort such as Snowball. Farmers could probably just as well leave cauliflowers alone, except for home use; ordinary truckers might only grow the late kinds; whilst the expert market gardener alone can afford to run risks with such a fickle crop as early cauliflower.

When January comes in on Friday, it is said in an old almanac that the winter will be stormy, the summer unpleasant, the harvest moderate. There will be but little fruit on the trees, and but little honey. There will be earthquakes in divers places, and many thunder- and lightning-storms.

BURNBRAE MAN IMPROVES HERD BY FRESH BLOOD

James Nelson Bought Fine Young Holsteins From Various Herds.

HIGH-GRADE STOCK

Cattle Bought Are of Families Having Good Milking Records.

BURNBRAE, Dec. 8.—Mr. James Nelson, one of the most prominent breeders of purebred Holsteins in the Burnbrae district, has been doing a thriving business in this line during the past month. Early in November he sold five splendid females, due to freshen shortly, to a breeder from Brooklin, Ontario, who lost heavily in the accreditable system. Three of these were excellent heifers, sired by his Grahambred bull whose dam had a record at one year and eight months of over 14,000 pounds of milk in a year. Mr. Nelson's herd last April passed the 7.B test without a reactor.

Recently, he visited the Cobourg consignment sale and purchased three good heifers from the herds of Carmen Baker, Brighton, and A. D. Foster, Bloomfield. He has also purchased a young cow and calf from his brother, P. B. Nelson, Campbellford, and a young herd sire from the herd of F. W. Ward & Sons, Dartford. Young bull is from one of Messrs. Ward's high record cows and sired by Ourvilla King Colanthus, whose dam has a record of 28,000 pounds milk and 1,185 pounds of butter in a year; also 35 pounds butter in seven days.

Buyers from outside points have picked up a few dairy cattle in this district lately. Farmers, as a rule, at this time of year, try to sell any cows which they do not want for themselves, so prices are somewhat below the average at the fall sales.

Eggs Going Up.

Egg prices are beginning to soar, being over the 50-cent mark now. With early pullets starting to lay, the egg production should show a decided increase before Christmas.

Separators In Use.

With cheese factories closed down, the cream separator begins its annual fall and winter grind on Burnbrae farms. The fall make of butter and sale of cream will be smaller than some seasons, due to the late closing of factories. Also, cows milked heavily well into November and are drying up faster than usual now. Butter prices are firm yet at from 45 to 50 cents.

Farm Rented.

Mr. T. A. Smith, who sold his stock and implements at auction some time ago has rented his farm to Mr. Geo. McKenzie, and, with his family, has moved to Belleville where he has purchased a residence.

The Old Mill Road

There is a lonely winding road,
'Tis near my childhood's loved abode;
It leads through maples, oaks and pine
And ends at that old home of mine.

Along its sides the wild ferns grow
And daisies dancing in a row,
And in the Autumn asters swing
And in the treetop robins sing.

The squirrels and rabbits o'er it go;
The hungry fox runs to and fro;
On moonlight nights the fairies sing
And trip the greensward in a ring.

And Spectral forms along it glide
And in its lurking shadows hide;
The forms of those now far away,
Those who erstwhile came that way.

Oh lonely road, I love you still;
I tread your grassy sod at will.
The clover there grows fresh and green
With sweet, shy violets hid between.

What, though you now deserted are
The ones that trod you distant far
I tread beneath your trees alone,
The Autumn winds around me moan.

I soon shall go this way no more,

ONION VARIETY EXPERIMENT

Since 1911, onions of different shape, —flat, oval, globular—and of various colours, from dull white to dark red, have been tested at Cap Rouge Experimental Farm. There is not much difference in the time it takes to get them ready for market. Yields have differed somewhat, but it was noticed that high production practically always came from seed grown by a well-known breeder. In general, Red Wethersfield (flat) has given satisfaction, because it is such a good keeper. For a very good-looking bulb, it is hard to beat Prizetaker (yellow), and for pickling, Barletta (white) is unexcelled. If a round, red variety is wanted, Red Globe will just fill the bill.

How much does a hen eat? Experiments show that Leghorn hens, and others of that size, consume 80 pounds of feed each per year, 30 pounds of which are mash, and the balance grain. Breeds of the American class consume 94 pounds per hen, 43 pounds of which are mash, the rest grain. These trials show it requires 6.45 pounds of feed for each dozen of eggs laid by Leghorns, and ten pounds for the larger breeds.

It is a good thing horses, cows, hogs and sheep can not talk. Otherwise what a setting out some masters would get!

I seeded a bushel of winter wheat to the acre one spring about the middle of April, as a nurse crop for alfalfa. The wheat began to turn brown the latter part of June and was practically all dead by August 1. None ever headed out. It served a double purpose, first keeping the weeds down and later as a mulch for the alfalfa.

DURHAM COUNTY FARMER TOOK PRIZES FOR SHEEP AT THE INTERNATIONAL SHOW

F. B. Gaspell of Hampton Exhibited Cotswolds at Chicago and Won Awards in Classes for Fat Sheep.

COBOURG, Dec. 8.—The farmers of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham are coming into the limelight quite frequently of late, and as a result this Province as a progressive Agricultural county, is coming more and more into prominence. F. B. Gaspell of Hampton, Durham county, has applied to the honor of Canada, by winning awards in the sheep class at the International Live Stock Exhibition at Chicago, in the fat Cotswold class. Mr. Gaspel's exhibit was chosen for the reserve championship. He also received the premium award for a pen of three wethers lambs.

CLEAN HOUSE IS NECESSARY FOR HEALTHY HENS

Drainage Must Be Good, So That Floor is Always Dry.

VENTILATION NEEDED.

Plenty of Sunlight is of Assistance in Keeping Healthy.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

If poultry are to be kept free from disease their living quarters will require as much attention as those of other stock. The specialists give the poultry this attention and more, but the great majority of poultry-keepers neglect the housing conditions.

First of all the house should be supplied with drainage that will insure a dry floor at all times. Dampness promotes the growth of bacteria and makes birds subject to colds, roup and other diseases. Ventilation without drafts is very necessary, fresh air coming in and foul air going out. Large amounts of moisture are eliminated from the lungs of birds. There are no sweat glands and the bird metabolism is much more intense than it is with other farm animals. The exhaled moisture must be removed or the house will become damp and unsanitary. Provide four square feet per bird, face the house south and provide a large, open front through which the sun's rays can enter and reach every inch of floor space. Arrange the interior of the house to facilitate easy cleaning and disinfection. This means movable nests, roosts and feed hoppers, that can be lifted out to permit a thorough cleaning, at least once every three weeks.

The Runs.

Don't fence in the poultry if it can be avoided. Better fence in the garden and give the birds the run of the farm. The green feed and insect life will do much to keep the young birds growing and healthy at no cost. If the birds must be reared under intensive conditions, then two fenced-in runs should be provided. These should be limed, spaded and seeded to some green feed crop, being used for the birds alternately. The use of lime and the application of the spade frequently will do much to keep the yard in fair condition.

The Utensils.

Most diseases spread through contaminated feed and water. To prevent contamination, the utensils should be of such a design that the bird cannot get its feet into them. Feed hoppers and water fountains clear of scratching, and have a narrow platform on which the bird can stand while feeding. Wide platforms will mean contamination. One large hopper or fountain is much better than a lot of little ones. Utensils in which milk and antiseptic drinks are used should be of crockery or enamel ware. Feeding utensils, if of such type as can be soiled by the birds, should be given frequent attention and kept in sanitary condition.

The practice of throwing scratch feed on the same spot of ground is not the best. Those attending poultry should keep in mind that the bird soils or contaminates whatever ground it passes over, and the greater area of range the less the degree of contamination. The chicken cannot use a fork or shovel to clean the yard or pen, in which case the attendant must do it, if conditions are to be the best.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Farm Notes

KEENE, Dec. 8.—There is still a lot of threshing to be done in the vicinity and the grain is turning out very heavy, some farmers having to draw direct from the mill, being unable to get all their grain in the granaries.

IDEAL APPLE TREE.

The ideal apple tree is one that has been so pruned from the beginning that its main limbs are well placed and form strong crotches that will carry the tree to maturity without breakages or injury, and enable the tree to bear annual crops of satisfactory proportions and quality at low cost and without the necessity for the use of props.

A novel chicken trough can be made from an old auto tire. Select a tire that has no puncture, and simply cut it into two parts, sawing exactly down the center of the tire. In this way the tire will be divided into two halves, each of which can serve as a circular trough. A large-sized tire will hold nearly three gallons of water, and is sanitary as well, as it can be cleaned easily and will not scum like a wood or galvanized trough.

MUCH WORK DONE BY STOCK YARDS

Employees Feed, Grade and Care For Stock in Every Way.

The service generally performed by the Union Stock Yards and for which charges are levied on its patrons, is that of supplying a suitable place for assembling, sheltering, feeding, grading, dealing in live stock with all the protection facilities and conveniences needed for such operations.

On arrival at the stock yards the company accepts the responsibility of the live stock. Its employes unload and deliver the stock to the alleys of the different commission firms to which it is consigned; the cattle to the cattle alleys, sheep and calves to the sheep building and the hogs to the hogs building. The pens are padlocked until the commission firm signs and takes over the consignment. This is the service and protection the Stock Yards Company render for their unloading fee of $1.00 per car.

In addition to the services of unloading and yarding, the Stock Company supply and operate, weigh scales over which all stock sold must be weighed, guaranteeing correct weights to the vendor and purchaser. No additional charges are made for this service, it being included in the yardage charges.

The employes of the company feed and water the stock when requested and keep the pens and alleys clean and in repair. They also do a great deal of heeling about the yards and assist the Government Hog Graders. These are services that have additional fees on some yards. The company maintains a traffic department whose services are available to shippers at no expense in making arrangements with the railways, for cars or in case of disputes over loss and damage in transit. The company also maintains an office building for the use of commission firms, banks and Government officials, so that the business of its patrons may be quickly and conveniently despatched. Live stock is insured against fire while in the yards, for which 1½ cents per car is charged against the seller of the stock. The alleys and pens are also cleaned and disinfected against outbreaks of contagious disease under restrictions laid down by the municipality and the Health of Animals Branch of the Federal Department.—A. Leitch, Dept. of Economics, O. A. College.

THE FUTURE IS NOW

Possibilities of a great new industry of world-wide importance are opened for Ontario in the discovery of zinc deposits in the Sudbury district. Should the deposits prove as extensive as they are expected to be the province will possess a new industry of unlimited potentialities, and Ontario will supply a happy sequel to Quebec's good fortune in securing the immense wealth of the Aluminum Company of America.

One can not avoid noticing, however, that each instance represents American enterprise. In the case of the Aluminum Company it may be taken as a profitable compliment that an established American institution should find in Canada industrial advantages so great that it becomes worth while to move across the border. But the case of the zinc discovery contains something less pleasing to national pride. It is American initiative which has located the zinc deposits and it is consequently an American syndicate which proposes to proceed with its development and an American syndicate which will reap the reward of enterprise and energy.

There is nothing an American can do which a Canadian can not do as well or better; the outstanding success of Canadians in the United States has proven it. But Canadian ability avails little if it is not used, and cases such as the zinc discovery raise the question of whether or not Canadian enterprise is being properly encouraged to develop Canadian wealth. There is the possibility of being unduly overawed by a wealthy neighbor; there is the possibility of becoming too seriously inoculated with political wailings of hard times, and there is that insidious and fatal habit of talking and thinking too much of Canada's splendid future. The future is all right but it means nothing without energetic employment of the present. Canadians must learn to think in terms of now, or their future may gently disappear under their noses into the pockets of practical neighbors who prefer rael dollars to legendary ones.—London Advertiser.

A good hen is loved by all.

If your hired men shirked half the time, you would discharge him, wouldn't you? And yet, you keep two hired servants, the gasoline engine and the tractor, standing around a good share of the time. Perhaps you get the wood sawed through the help of these servants, but that is about all. Why not make the engine pump water, cut ice, etc., and your tractor run a feed-grinder? A farmer I know of is doing just that. He figures that he will save enough in hired help this fall to pay for a new ensilage-cutter. Next year he will clear the debt off. Then he will get a thresher. These machines make a man almost independent of hired help.

FROST AFFECTS BACTERIAL LIFE IN WINTER SOILS

Bacteria Play Great Part in Preparation of Plant Food.

ADD TO NITROGEN

Are Not Killed Off to Any Extent, Although They Lie Dormant.

(Experimental Farms Note. A. G. Lochhead, Dominion Agricultural Bacteriologist.)

From many standpoints, the soils of Canada present special problems which differ from those of soils of many other lands, especially where milder climatic conditions prevail. One point of difference lies in the fact that throughout the greater part of Canada the soil to a depth depending on soil type, temperature and amount of snowfall is in a frozen state for a considerable part of the winter, often three months, or more. This condition naturally affects the activities of the bacteria and other small organisms which play an indispensable part in the preparation of plant food, and consequently bears upon the general question of soil fertility.

Soil bacteria are of interest to the farmer because they prepare soluble plant food out of materials which exist in a form unavailable to the plant. Another important part they play is that of adding to the soil's supply of nitrogen by taking this element from the air. It is estimated that nitrogen-fixing bacteria associated with a leguinous crop are able to fix 50 pounds to 100 pounds of nitrogen per acre every year, while other groups which thrive in most soils of good texture and well limed are able to add 10 pounds to 40 pounds of nitrogen per acre per annum to the soil's supply.

It is therefore important to know the fate of these bacteria in frozen soil during the long Canadian winter. Experiments at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, have shown that bacteria are not killed off to any measurable extent during the course of the winter, but remain in a dormant state. Their various activities are suspended during the period of frost but fortunately their numbers do not become depleted, and with the advent of mild conditions are able to resume their work in the early spring. The freezing of soil under Canadian winter conditions should be regarded as beneficial rather than otherwise, for though complex food materials would be little altered, yet during the winter there would be no over-production of soluble nitrates to be washed away and lost with the spring thawing. Yet, these numbers of bacteria are not lessened, so that in the spring there is no necessity of general soil inoculation or other procedure than good cultivation.

GREAT CARE IN GROWING SEEDS

Experimental Farms Aim To Produce Seed of Highest Standard.

REGISTERED SEED.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The Experimental Farms operated by the Dominion Government throughout Canada aim to produce seed grain of a degree of excellence which is obtainable only through the exercise of very special care. This grain is designed for use by special seed growers who wish to produce Registered Seed in commercial quantities. Registered Seed, as is now pretty generally known, is the highest legal Seed Grade recognized by the Seeds Act of Canada. It is defined as seed which, on field inspection, is found to be at least 99.95 per cent true to variety. It must also have originated either from Registered Seed or from what is known as Elite Stock Seed. The latter class of seed, which must be at least 99.95 per cent true to variety is the initial starting point of all Registered Seed. From it Registered Seed is produced in the first place, a fact which emphasizes the great importance of having Elite Stock Seed all that the definition implies and requires.

To make sure that the degree of purity and trueness to type required by Elite Stock Seed has been attained, a very careful inspection is necessary. So thorough must this inspection be that it is not considered practicable by the writer to attempt to vouchfo very large acreage as being up to the high requirements of this grade. It is highly desirable, however, that there be maintained for propagation at as many places as possible, a fair supply of this class of seed of the leading kinds of grain grown. This is the policy of the Dominion Experimental Farm system. These farms aim also to propagate this seed so as to be able to supply seed growers with a fair quantity of First Generation Registered Seed, thereby enabling them to proceed in the work of producing Registered Seed without loss of time.

In 1925 the Experimental Farms produced a good many hundreds of bushels of registerable seed of various kinds. This seed will be handled largely through the Canadian Seed Growers' Association with which organization the Experimental Farms co-operate closely.—L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist.

LARGE SUMS ARE LOST ANNUALLY THROUGH FAILURE TO PROVIDE PROPER SHEDS FOR IMPLEMENTS

Unnecessary Handling in Poorly Arranged Buildings Adds to Cost.

EASILY REMEDIED

Building of Right Size and Shape is Cheap and Easy to Build.

It is difficult to estimate the amount of money that is lost on the farms of Ontario through unnecessary handling of implements that are carelessly stored during the winter, or, worse still, loss from non-storage of such materials in the mistaken belief that the careful laying past of tools without which the modern farmers finds himself as helpless as a shopwalker in a coal mine, is "not worth while." Machines have no feelings. Nevertheless, the man who takes some pains to house them for the winter is more likely to get efficient service in the following spring than is the man who dumps them away as if he never would have occasion to use them again. The loss sustained through such culpable negligence may (and often does amount to several hundred dollars per annum, on a farm of average size. The advent of the tractor and the other heavier equipment now required makes depreciation resultant from non-storage a very high factor, sometimes indeed reaching a figure equivalent to 20 per cent of the cost of replacement.

Machines are frequently laid past in unhandy, poorly-lighted and inconvenient quarters, because better accommodation for storage is not immediately available. Sometimes they are left in a shed with all kinds of wanted and unwanted materials. They have to be removed every time anything stored in the shed is required. In such cases, the time lost, in man and horse hours during a single season may be more than equal to the cost of erecting a small storage house for the essential implements.

Another common practice is that of storing the implements in the barn. In this case the implements have to be left outdoors in all kinds of weather during the harvesting and haying seasons. Further, the danger of the loss of all the implements by fire is ever present. How many times have we read in The Examiner in recent years of farm fires in which this item has occurred—"and a number of valuable implements were destroyed"?

The building of an implement storage house presents no very difficult problem in this part of the country where practically every farmer still has a little wood lot on his property. A long, narrow shed, open, or with doors on one long side, seems ideal for the purpose. Machines should be taken apart and stored in sections, according to seasonal use. Machines used for haying may be placed in one section of the shed, tillage tools in another, seeding tools in still another. A through driveway should be made for vehicles, manure-spreaders, tractors, and for other pieces more or less in constant use. The ideal to be aimed at should be that of so arranging the machines that none should ever be handled unnecessarily.

A simple structure for this purpose may be made of bents. These bents are plank trusses of cantilever type. They are strong and durable and require no great skill in construction. Twenty-two feet is a nice width for the storage of implements in use on the average sized farm in this neighbourhood. The length may be fixed in accordance with the number of tools and the method of the individual farmer. A wise addition is the protection of the structure by a fireproof or fire resistant covering, eliminating to a considerable extent the risk of a conflagration. A concrete floor makes for greater facility in shifting and has the additional recommendation of protecting the wheels from contact with the earth. A clay floor well tamped and well oiled makes a good substitute for concrete.

ALTO-CUMULUS IS RAIN CLOUD

May Precede Rain or Snow by a Few Hours.

LAMB'S FLEECE

Among the interesting clouds which one can deeply enjoy gazing upon, especially when they occur on a fine moonlit evening, are the white to grayish alto-cumulus formations. These occur at a height of three to four or more miles, and are called by some the "nurslings of the sky," but I like to call them the "lamb's fleece of the moonlit sky," on account of the soft, fleecy appearance.

In form and in arrangement the "fleece" is much like the "mackerel sky" of the cirro-cumulus, often appearing in rows, though also frequently forming, especially in winter, in closely packed, well-rounded masses which, unless very thin, usualy cast appreciable shadows. 'Round the sun or moon a wide ring or wheel of colored light, the corona, is often visible on this cloud, as on the cirro-stratus and the alto-stratus. The effect of the moon shining through and between the fleecy masses is indescribably charming.

The alto-cumulus, while it is often considered to be a fair weather cloud, is not always so, as it may precede rain or snow by a few hours. If it thickens into alto-stratus, and then into lower cloud layers, rain or snow follows shortly. But since it also forms along borders of air-currents of different temperatures, its rain-forecasting possibilities are often quite uncertain.—Willis E. Hurd.

KILLING LICE IN CATTLE STABLE

Spraying Will Help—Sabadilla Powder is Good Application.

PROPER CARE.

While thoroughly spraying the stables may rid them of cattle lice, most herds become infested during the winter months. The best method we have found of clearing cattle of vermin is to rub sabadilla powder into the skin by brushing against the hair. Sabadilla may be purchased at any drug store, and usually one or two applications are sufficient. If the cattle are badly infested, a second application from a week to ten days following the first, may be necessary. Some report good results from dusting a mixture of four parts cement to one part hellebore over the animals and working it into the skin by combing or brushing the hair the wrong way. Others wash with some coal tar disinfectant, and this gives very good results, but it is more difficult to perform than the dusting.

Care should always be taken in changing feed and all changes should be gradually made. The cattleman should avoid turning his stock on wet rape or wet clover, and should accustom them to eat these feeds gradually, in order to prevent bloat. He should, in purchasing new stock, always take the precaution to know something of the health of the animals bought. Tuberculosis and contagious abortion are the two worst diseases affecting the beef cattle industry and, where found, should be isolated and all precautions taken to prevent their spread. The medicine chest should always contain Epsom salts, linseed oil, castor oil for the calves, tincture of iodine to be applied to sores, carbolized vaseline for caked udders, and a little ginger and nux vomica for digestive troubles. Usually from one to three pounds of Epsom salts will purge an animal, and one to two pints of linseed oil will act as a laxative. An ounce of ginger given with any purgative prevents griping, and two to three drams of nux vomica three times daily may be used along with Epsom salts for impaction. For ordinary bloat, from two to four fluid ounces of turpentine in a pint of linseed oil may be given and the dose repeated in an hour if relief does not follow. For bad cases of any disease, it is always well to call the veterinarian.

MANY FACTORIES IN SMALL AREA

One Condensor, Five Creameries and 19 Cheese Factories Along Shore.

IN NARROW STRIP

COBOURG, Dec. 8.—The annual District Dairy meeting for the nineteen cheese factories situated along the north shore of Lake Ontario and comprising an area of about sixty miles, was held at Belleville this week with a gratifying attendance. These factories are situated on a ten mile width. They are operated by eighteen stock companies and by one individual, and it is estimated supply milk from 8925 cows. In this area there are five creameries and one condenser. Some idea may be thereby gained of the importance of dairying to this district. The reports were optimistic

FREIGHT TUBE BENEATH THAMES TO RELIEVE STREET CONGESTION BEING DISCUSSED BY LONDONERS

Docks Are on One Side of River and Station on Other.

NEED CONNECTION.

At Present Goods Are Transported Through Streets and Across Bridges.

New York and London, the worlds' two greatest cities, have a common problem in efforts to solve freight congestion and the movement of goods within their city limits. In both municipalities the same proposal has been advanced—a freight-carrying subway, a sort of underground belt line linking railroad yards and docks with central depots for receiving and handling freight. But whereas New York's proposition is the official plan of its Port Authority, London's is a private enterprise, for which governmental sanction must be obtained as well as stock subscriptions.

The London freight subway proposal has aroused keen interest among those who have to deal with the enormous amount of goods carried along streets of the British capital. If it should prove practicable and materialize, it would relieve main thoroughfares of a large proportion of traffic which now overloads them, and there are possibilities of important savings in time and money to traders in such a new method of solving the transportation problem.

Nothing could be more antiquated than the present system of handling freight in London. Motor trucks or horse-drawn vehicles are often at congested markets for hours before they can be loaded. Then they proceed to their destination along the main arteries at a far slower pace than lighter vehicles —omnibuses, taxicabs and private cars —and they hold up, as they proceed, whole lines of other traffic at important junctions of busy thoroughfares.

Increase In Street Congestion.

Lord Ratheredan declared in the House of Lords a few weeks ago that the only way to deal with London's traffic problem was to provide underground roadways, and pointed out that motors on the streets were increasing at the rate of 20 per cent. a year. The police estimate the growth of the congestion at a yet higher rate. They found that in 1924 there was a 31 per cent. rise over 1923.

The freight subway scheme has yet to be officially approved, but it has attracted support in reputable quarters. Engineers and contractors of high standing have been working on it, several titled folk would be glad to be identified with it, if it developed a reasonable prospect of success, and officials of five big railroad systems are giving its plans serious examination before they are laid before the British Ministry of Transport and Parliament.

The essential program is to build three parallel tubes with two tracks each to connect the docks with great railroad termini. The big markets, Billingsgate, Smithfield and Covent Garden, and a certain number of important stores would also be served. A network of lines would be constructed under the central regions of London, and spurs would be run under Oxford Street and Piccadilly and to important freight yards in North London like Chalk Farm. Stations would be provided at short intervals as on the subways to serve district needs, and street haulage, it is contended, would be cut down enormously by short trips to and from these local depots.

Sir Henry Maybury, Director General of Roads in England and Chairman of the London Traffic Commission, who visited this country the past month to study our methods of handling traffic, said that the construction of an underground freight railway in London, was being considered by a group of promoters negotiating with representatives of five railway lines and several financiers.

Must Get Government's Approval.

"I know many of the people," Sir Henry said, "who are engaged in the promotion of the London underground goods railway and I believe they are sincere in their efforts to help solve one of London's most difficult problems, namely traffic congestion. But before any action is taken on the scheme the promoters will have to satisfy a committee of the House of Commons that the undertaking is financially sound and that the money for the construction of the subway is forthcoming.

A plan for a non-passenger underground railway for the British capital has been developed by the London Post Office, which since 1914 has been experimenting with a tunnel system of carrying mails between its main and district offices. Equipment and operation of the system on the principle of automatic electric control and propulsion have been tested out on a small scale. As a result of these tests, the Post Office is installing an underground automatic electric railway which is to run from Paddington to Whitechapel, a distance of 6¼ miles. The line will be completed next year and is expected to carry 60 per cent. of the total postal traffic of London.

"The termini of the English railways," Sir Henry Maybury said, "are on the western bank of the Thames, while the docks are on the eastern. There is a huge freight traffic streaming in both directions between the docks and the terminal stations, which naturally must use the streets and the bridges across the Thames.

"The Port of London Authority, a quasi-public body operating within the well-defined limits of the statutes governing its activities, could not extend its jurisdiction over the proposed railway. Nevertheless it would be sympathetic toward the project."

Trade Facilities Act.

According to Louis J. Halle, Vice President of the Winchester American Corporation, the organization committee which is promoting the London underground railway is made up of C. Erlund, a well-known engineer; Lord Askwith, Sir Henry McMahon, Sir R. Dudley Bartlett, Colonel A. J. Barry, Colonel Addie and a representative of five railway syndicates whose name has not been given out.

Mr. Halle explained that it is possible that the proposed subway would be built either wholly or in part under the British Trade Facilities act, in which case the project would involve a government guaranty. This act was passed several years ago, enabling the Government, through a specially created committee, to guarantee any portion or all of such foreign loans as are applied toward the purchase of materials manufactured in England. The purpose of this act was to encourage domestic industry and trade and thereby alleviate the hardships of unemployment.

Backers of the London freight subway assert that the building of the tube would give employment to 40,000 men. They maintain that, in view of the present unemployment situation in England, work on an extensive underground system in London, requiring the employment of an army of laborers and skilled workers, would be welcome to both the Government and the British public.

Estimate of Cost.

One estimate of the cost is about $160,000,000. This sum is vastly less than the one that would be required for a similar undertaking in New York, for, unlike the American city, London is not built on a rock, and its subsoil consists of clay, through which tunnels can be driven with comparative ease. On the other hand, an underground freight belt line in London would have to be constructed at a considerable depth. In addition to the intricate network of sewers, gas mains and wire conduits, London has a far-flung passenger tube system which is likely to be extended at any time. To reach an unimpeded level, a new railroad must go beneath all these obstructions and possibly twenty-five feet below the present "tube" level. This would increase the cost not only of construction but of operation, for every ton of freight carried would be lowered and raised again, necessitating an expensive elevator service.

According to Mr. Erlund, Chairman of the project's Organization Committee, all the latest mechanical devices for handling freight would be installed. He suggested that car bodies capable of being transferred easily from subway to motor truck chassis might be used. Mechanical carriers, endless belts, moving platforms and the like are operated at many freight centres, and Mr. Erlund believes that by carefully selecting the best of these, the work of an outdoor or underground freight depot would be enormously facilitated and accelerated.

Critics of the proposal express disbelief that average independent British tradesmen could be induced to cooperate for any such united enterprise. They point out, also, that to distribute a carload of meat, for instance, among retailers awaiting it would require a storeage and warehouse and that, the value of land in busy centres of London being high, its acquisition would add considerably to the cost of construction.

In the opinion of many opponents who are familiar with traffic conditions, it is an almost impossible task to coordinate markets, railroad termini and London shopping centres. Markets grew up hundreds of years ago in sites convenient then but now most illogically placed in relation to the modern metropolis, they hold. Railroads came as near to the centre of London as early nineteenth century prejudices allowed, while the docks are situated according to the course of the Thames.

Resembles New York Port Plan.

Nevertheless, shippers are interested. They express no doubt that improved methods are possible, but in the campaign to convince the Government and Parliament it is thought that very definite figures will be needed to demonstrate that a freight subway can be built without increasing to a prohibitive extent the cost of the new service.

A system of striking resemblance to the one proposed for London has been advocated for several years by the Port of New York Authority as one of the central features of the "Comprehensive Plan" which the States of New York and New Jersey, with the sanction of Congress, have been endeavoring to apply to the Port of New York. This was originally recommended by the New York-New Jersey Port and Harbor Development Commission in its 1920 report. In brief, it provides for a freight service to and from Manhattan by means of an underground, automatically operated electric railroad that would connect with trunk line terminals in New Jersey and freight yards in the Bronx. On Manhattan a series of "inland universal stations" would be built back of the waterfront to serve territories divided into zones of equal traffic density and to accept freight to and from all railroads.

The length of the Manhattan freight subway would be about fourteen miles. The Port Authority experts estimate that the system could be built in three years at a cost of from $230,000,000 to $255,000,000.

Use of Motor Trucks.

But while the automatic freight subway is the ultimate goal toward which the Port Authority is striving as a solution, a modified plan has been adopted as best suited to give earlier relief to New York shippers and receivers. It differs from the original and final plan in that the "inland universal stations" alone would be built, and these would be served by motor trucks making use of streets, ferries and the vehicular tunnel now under construction between New York and New Jersey. Shippers would send their goods to these central stations, from which motor trucks, carrying full loads, would connect with the railroad freight yards. The ground floor of the central freight station would be used for incoming goods and a lower level for outgoing trucks. Uppeo floors would be for warehouses and wholesale and industrial establishments. Nine such stations are proposed, designed so that they would be adaptable if a freight subway system materialized.

New York port and city authorities have for a long time been grappling with the problem of congestion in freight and passenger traffic. The extent and complexity of the problem may be gathered from the fact that 85 per cent. of the city's railroad receipts pour into Manhattan, a strip of land twelve and a half miles long and two and a half miles at its widest part. One-third of these freight receipts are fruits and vegetables. It is estimated that the quantity of these foods consumed in one year fills from 140,000 to 145,000 freight cars, enough to make a train 2,000 miles long with the engine in New York and the caboose in Denver. The fruit and vegetable traffic has increased twice as fast as the growth of New York's population, so that the union produce station which the Port Authority now proposes to build may be unable to meet the demands made upon it ten years from now.

More than ten billion pounds of goods annually pass through the pier stations on the lower west side. One hundred thousand barges bearing a million cars a year are floated across the rivers of New York in both directions. There is a tremendous amount of duplication in this service, in which are utilized twenty-eight piers on the North River, twelve piers on the East River and six stations on the Harlem River.

Only one of the eleven railroads serving New York's commerce reaches the city with its own rails, and even this serves the lower part of Manhattan by car floats. There is not enough room for the trucks loading and unloading at the piers and bulkheads. The immense fleet of freight vehicles adds to the congestion in the streets. Then there are 146,000,000 commuters passengers during the year, using transit facilities which interfere with the movement of freight trains. There is barely room during the morning and evening rush hours for trains carrying freight. All this imposes upon the authorities the duty of finding new means of getting in and out of the congested area. And this means, experts believe, will ultimately be found in the automatic electric system which London and New York appear ready to install as soon as the carriers, shippers, industries and the public are sufficiently imbued with a sense of its economic importance.

COSMOS CLUB TO BUILD RINK

House and Land Have Been Purchased for Open-Air Arena.

PLANS HOCKEY TEAM

MILLBROOK, Dec. 8.—The Cosmos Club is broadening out on a new venture having recently purchased the house opposite Allwool & Sheppard's mill formerly occupied by J. Sloan, and sufficient land adjoining for a hockey rink of regulation size.

The house, when put in shape, will provide suitable waiting rooms, and accomodation for hockey equipment, the club evidently intending to enter the district league, and possibly the O.H.A., this season.

The ground has been fenced in and as soon as possible will be put in condition for ice when weather permits. Season tickets for skaters will be on sale and the larger rink will probably lessen attendance at the curling rink which the local club gave up to skaters on Friday and Saturday nights of each week. Increased accomodation at the open rink will make it possible to have the band in attendance occasionally, the lack of music to skate to having been decidedly felt in the smaller covered rink.

R. Hutchison is president of the Cosmos Club, and C. E. Sutton secretary. The membership takes in the majority of the young men of the village and district, and the invitation dances given, under "Cosmos" auspices, during the fall and winter season have proved to be most enjoyable and popular social occasions.

PREVENTION OF DISEASES WHICH ATTACK MIDDLE AGED PEOPLE IS NEXT JOB PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

Circulatory Diseases Begin to Appear Just as Man Becomes Useful.

ARE INCREASING.

Cause More Deaths Than All Infectious Diseases Combined.

Health Rules for the Middle-Aged, Presented by Dr. Edwin M. Dwight, of Boston, to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, New York, recently.

"1—Do not follow ideas BECAUSE they are new. Consider the 'Laws of Moses' which have stood the test of more than thirty centuries.

"2—Do not follow fads, or become extremists in your habit of life. You were created to be omnivorous—therefore, eat plainly of a mixed diet. Fuel is necessary for the creation of energy, and oxygen for the combustion of fuel. As much energy is needed for mental effort as for physical.

"3—Treat yourself as you would your bank account. Make more deposits than you draw checks and you will create a reserve which will be available in those physical and mental emergencies which come to us all.

"4—Circulatory disease is largely a personal affair and its prevalence is in inverse relation to the amount of physical work done in the fresh air.

"5—'This above all: to thine own self be true.'"

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—While life insurance death claims indicate a slight reduction in the general death rate throughout the country for 1925, the toll of lives exacted by the automobile will be higher than last year according to Dr. Edwin W. Dwight of Boston, in an address delivered yesterday before the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, now holding its Nineteenth Annual Convention in this city. Referring to general health conditions in the country and basing his conclusions on the death claims of 52 life insurance companies for the first ten months of 1925, Dr. Dwight, who is Medical Director of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company, estimated that deaths from automobile accidents this year will total 18,600 as compared with 17,566 in 1924.

"A greater saving of life in younger ages than in middle and later ages is indicated for the current year," said Dr. Dwight. "Diseases typical of the older ages such as heart disease, cancer and Bright's disease show increases or only minor decreases, while such diseases as are more typical of children and younger adults as measles, scarlet fever, diptheria, meningitis and whooping cough show marked decreases.

"Influenza, typhoid fever and homicides also loom up with increased death rates during the first ten months of the current year.

"In considering individual diseases among adults it appears that the greatest decreases in death rates during the first ten months of this year are in tuberculosis, cerebral hemorrhage (apoplexy) and suicides. A decrease in pneumonia deaths is also indicated.

"Among the children's diseases, measles shows the best record. Scarlet fever, diptheria, meningitis and whooping cough also show decreases in death rates. The only disease class in this group to increase this year is diarrhea and enteritis."

Lifes of Middle-aged.

Continuing his address, the speaker presented a study of ways and means to lessen twentieth century strain on the lives of middle aged men and women. Preventive medicine should now turn its energies toward prolonging the lives of this large group of trained, experienced and useful people by combating circulatory diseases, declared Dr. Dwight, and more outdoor exercise was suggested as one means to that end. He stated that this group of the population bears the brunt of civilization; that its members are of the greatest importance to our development as a nation, and that they should be saved for the national good.

Armed with a mass of original life insurance statistics, Dr. Dwight told the members of the Association that lives which have been saved in the past by preventive measures were largely those of infants and children. At age thirty, just when a man is becoming of real value to his family, his community and the nation, the circulatory diseases begin to appear. This adult, growing yearly in efficiency, presents the next job in preventive medicine.

"Using the U.S. Census figures, we find that during 1922, the mortality from heart disease was greater than that from any other cause and, if we except pneumonia, tuberculosis and cancer, deaths from Bright's disease and apoplexy are far in excess of those from any other condition," said Dr. Dwight. "The increase in deaths from disease of the arteries and diabetes have placed them among the important causes of death. Circulatory disease caused more deaths in 1922 than all of the preventable and infectious diseases combined and what is of more importance it effected that group of individuals who are at this time of the greatest importance to our development as a nation.

Circulatory Disease.

"Something of the importance of this group to life insurance companies is shown by the fact that 50 per cent. of the declinations of almost any life insurance company doing a standard business have been, and still are, due to circulatory disease and that this percentage of declinations has increased quite markedly during the past ten years; that it is considerably greater in the city districts than in the country and that the material from one company shows an increase in the percentage of declinations from circulatory disease of 10 per cent. in the rural and 2 per cent. in the city districts during this period.

"There are few questions in which there is so wide a difference of opinion as in connection with the cause, development, diagnosis, treatment and prevention of these various manifestations of that general condition which is gradually being recognized as circulatory disturbance or circulatory disease.

"Each man has been riding his own hobby. Thin men believe that the underlying cause is fat. Dyspeptics, that it is overeating. Dentists, that it is teeth. Prohibitionists, that it is alcohol. Laboratory workers, that it is infection and most of us, who like to think that we are working harder than any previous generation, talk of the '20th Century strain.' All of these factors are of importance in connection with individuals and the treatment of individual cases.

"The members of your Association control most of the great 'statistical laboratories' of the world. They have been years in developing. Their material is the result of years of accumulation. They are actively functioning and have made Life Insurance Medicine almost an exact science.

"Is it not worth while for us to develop such facts as we have at hand, classify and consider them, and make an attempt to reach some fundamental truths upon which a foundation can be built and upon which we, or our successors, can erect a superstructure which will be worth while and help in the settling of some of these very serious problems?"

Dr. Dwight then reported the result of a study he has just completed of 30,000 individuals upon whom impairments were reported in the course of examinations for life insurance. These individuals resided in all sections of the country. Of the 30,000 cases investigated, 27,000 men showed an incidence of circulatory impairments of 80 per cent.; 3,000 women showed an incidence of such impairments of 52 per cent.

Indoor Occupations.

The 27,000 men were then divided by occupation, 38 classes being formed. Arranging these occupations in the order of relative frequency of circulatory disease, it is found that garment workers head the list with something over one circulatory impairment to each of the individuals reported, while underground miners show the least of all with less than one-half impairment to each individual.

Those occupations following the garment workers in the upper section of the list and ranging down from 99 per cent. to 75 per cent. of circulatory impairment are: manufacturers, accountants and clerical, mechanics, students, clergymen, other professions, professional engineers, indoor occupations with labor, executives, carpenters, indoor salesmen, indoor occupations without labor, merchants, painters, dentists, druggists, theatrical, chauffeurs, brokers, traveling salesmen, bankers and school teachers. Those occupations in the lower half of the list, running from 75 per cent. of circulatory impairment down to 45 per cent. are: teamsters, bakers, garage employees, railroad workers, lawyers, stationary engineers, butchers, hotel employees, physicians, outdoor occupations with labor, outdoor occupations without labor, millhands, laborers, hotel owners and miners.

Dr. Dwight reported a study of an entirely different group of impairments covering 33,800 individuals engaged in indoor occupations and 10,800 who worked outdoors. The indoor workers showed an incidence of circulatory impairments of 116 per cent. while the outdoor group was 87 per cent.

"When the study necessary to the preparation of this paper was undertaken," said Dr. Dwight, "the author was disposed to believe that there would be found to be a very intimate and plain relation between the development of circulatory disease and the amount of physical, mental and nervous strain to which the individual had been exposed. He was surprised, therefore, when it appeared that other elements must be at least as seriously considered in order that the individual studies might be satisfactorily explained.

"Even a superficial study of these 38 occupations, as arranged according to the frequency of circulatory disease, will demonstrate that it is not all due to strain, either physical or mental. It seems to be also clear that none of the ordinary theories are sufficient to explain these conditions as they have been found. While garment workers, manufacturers and accountants and bookkeepers have been for a number of years exposed to strain of one kind or another, there is no particular reason to believe that manufacturers, students, clergymen and members of the professional classes are subject to focal infections to a greater extent than many of the other groups in which the incident of circulatory disease is less prominent. There is no reason to believe that garment workers, clerks and mechanics are more given to over-eating than are some of the other groups that stand low in the list. Neither is over-weight associated with these particular groups. Clergymen are not more given to the use of alcohol than are teamsters, hotel employees or laborers.

"It was necessary, therefore, to find some other condition or other conditions, which ran through all the groups in which the incidents of circulatory impairments was greatest. And, finally, it would appear that, while no one cause will account for the conditions as demonstrated in this paper, the following working hypothesis has been established and it is believed that this fits better the facts which have been presented than any other which is available at the present time, namely: The incidence of circulatory disease is in inverse relation to the amount of physical exercise which the group takes in the open air and, other things being equal, it is in direct relation to the amount of nervous and mental strain."

Dr. Dwight then presented a set of rules of health suggested by his study.

FLIGHT TO MOON AGAIN PROPOSED YOUNG AUSTRIAN WOULD ATTEMPT TO MAKE TRIP IN SPECIAL ROCKET

Max Valier is Astronomer and Aviator and Plans Flight.

MANY THEORIES.

Triple Rocket is Considered Most Feasible For Reaching Satellite.

Having flown during the war, Max Valier, a young Munich astronomer, has been captivated by the idea of traveling to the moon and other celestial bodies. He hopes to be the first to make the attempt. Some of the results of his scientific study of the prospect are given below, with comment by Professor R. H. Goddard of Clark University, whose experiments pointed the way for Valier.

By HERMAN G SCHEFFAUER.
Berlin.

Man's dream of setting foot upon the moon is as old as the man's first sight of the moon. Writer after writer, in every land and every age, has given free play to this dream. This planetary desire is one which draw's men's fancies as irresistibly as the object of it draws the seas. A cosmic awe, an unfathomable thrill, a poignant spell overcomes us as we follow vicariously the terrific adventures of "men in the moon"—knowing them to be lunar lies invented by some timid, bald-headed romancer housed comfortably in a suburban villa.

But what if it were possible to reach the moon? What if it were possible to penetrate even beyond the moon into interplanetary space? What if not only small rockets of steel, but large passenger-carrying rocket-ships could be launched into the void beyond the zone of the earth's downward pull? What if physicists, mathematicians and astronomers, and not mere fiction-mongers, were to give their attention to the problem? What, finally, if the practicability of a rocket reaching the moon were proved?

At Work on "Space Ship."

Max Valier is a young astronomer who lives in Munich. During the war he was an officer in the airplane service of the Austrian Army. In 1918 while trying out a new motor, he fell more than 4,000 yards in a burning plane at Aspern, near Vienna, but fully recovered. This experience merely increased his passion for flight through the air, through the invisible zone of the earth's attraction, through the black space that lies beyond. He supplemented his astronomical learning by a study of technics and ballistics. He devoured the treatises of Professor Robert H. Goddard of Clark University and of Professor Hermann Oberth, a German scientist. His own astronomical and philosophical publications embrace eight or nine volumes.

Valier has one great essential quality—the cosmic sense, saved, or at least separate, from the cold, hard abstractions of astronomy. He has the live planetary passion, which is as necessary to lift the moon-explorer above the levels of doubt and despair as the explosives and gases are necessary to the telescoping rocket that is to be Earth's first assault upon her satellite.

Step by step Max Valier has built up his plans for the invasion of extra-terrestrial space and the storming of the moon. But before the regions beyond the atmosphere are conquered and the grand foray into outer space begins, Valier must conquer terrestrial space. He is now engaged, therefore, in developing his "space-ship" out of the modern airplane.

The first machines will have bearing planes, but will resemble a projectile more than an airplane. These machines, if Valier's plans work out, will mount into the air almost vertically, like rockets, until they have attained a maximum speed of some 1,500 meters per second; they will then climb to a height of forty or fifty kilometers in a ballistic parabola, and then in a gliding flight sweep toward their destinations. This would make it possible to cover distances of hundreds of miles (Paris to Berlin, New York to Washington) in thirty to fifty minutes, by utilizing the potential energy of altitude and the kinetic energy of speed. If the speed can be increased later on to 2,000 or 2,500 meters per second, a height of sixty to eighty kilometers can be achieved, which would enable the passenger rocket to fly from Europe to America in two to two and a half hours.

If the speed be still further increased —to 6,000 or 8,000 meters per second —gravity will be overcome. A speed of 12,000 meters, or nine miles, per second, would, it is estimated, carry the "space-ship" to the moon. Modern artillery is capable even now of firing a shell a distance of 100 kilometers into the air—striking an object 120 to 150 kilometers from the cannon itself—like the mysterious gun the Germans brought to bear upon Paris in 1918.

Much of this, as Valier is aware, is still problematical. Pfiysical laws, apparently insurmountable, raise their heads and convert the most plausible figures and theories into zeros. But the human spirit has solved many such problems by making use of other physical laws. Who shall say that distances astronomically as negligible as that between the earth and the moon may not some day be crossed? What will there be left to conquer after Mount Everest is opened to tourists and there are regular excursions to the Poles? The moon will become the most immediate, the most fascinating target for man's tireless ambitions.

The Moon Rocket.

Valier, like Goddard and Oberth, discards the principles of the projectile fired from a cannon. This idea has haunted the world because of the popularity of Jules Verne's famous romance. But the enormous "Columbiad" or cannon of his "Trip to the Moon," could be sunk or built only upon some granite mountain. And the hollow aluminum projectile in which his heroes made their imaginary flight would be crushed like a paper bag even before it left the mouth of the enormous tube—crushed against the superincumbent column of air. The solenoid or electric cannon has also been suggested as a possibility—it would merely be a question of size—but this, like the question itself, is mountains.

The only feasible method, apparently, for penetrating the atmospheric envelope and escaping from the influence of gravity, is by means of a rocket. Professor Oberth has made calculations based upon the higher mathematics, chemistry and dynamics. The first rocket to seek the moon would be experimental. Great sacrifices of money, time and labor would be necessary, but there need be no sacrifice of life—at first.

The moon-rocket will be a rocket in three parts, each telescoping into the other, shell within shell. Theoretically, any number of shells might be employed, but technically even a five-fold rocket presents almost insuperable difficulties. Professor Oberth's calculations have convinced him that a triple rocket, consisting of a nether alcohol rocket and two upper hydrogen rockets, is capable of being built and of attaining a final speed of 12,000 meters per second. The speed would be increased still further through the dropping-off of the empty husks of the two propelling tail rockets, the head then rushing on by itself. But the heat engendered by the exploding and out-rushing gases would be so terrific that new problems are presented in merely preventing the melting of the metal shell.

The possibility of reaching our moon or the planets of the solar system is believed to be merely a matter of motive power. Professor Goddard has estimated that in order to carry a pound beyond the power of gravity of the earth an expenditure of some 802 pounds of motive fuel are required. Once the experimental rocket, follow-

Inter-Planetary Regions.

Let us assume that a moon rocket with two men in its observation chamber has been fired off, and the speed automatically increased until the zone of gravity is passed. The men descend from their spring hammocks—if the term descend may be used, for up and down will now have lost all significance. They will float like spirits in mid air, and pull themselves about by the leather straps attached to the walls, and even to the floor of their steel cell.

Jules Verne depicted his passengers as opening a bottle of wine to celebrate the passing of the zone of earth's gravity. But in these regions liquids will no longer obey earthly laws. No wine would flow, even from a tilted bottle. If the bottle be swung the wine would rush out in a mass, gather into a spheroid and float in the air, or dash itself against the walls of the cell and disintegrate into particles which would fill the air like a mist.

The passengers on the rocket-ship will be forced to suck their liquids through rubber nipples like babies. The human body will be provided artificially with its necessary elements. But what powers of adaptation will become necessary!

The landing upon the moon seems to present the greatest difficulties, and Valier is somewhat hazy upon this point. But once a landing has been effected, shelters built upon the principle of a thermos bottle, and "diving" suits upon a similar principle, might enable human beings to live, move and even work upon the moon. Ice probably will be found there. Relay rockets would carry materials to the moon. A power station, based upon the principle of great solar reflectors, might in time be erected.

The moon, according to Valier, would be utilized subsequently as a mere transfer station or springboard for the space-ships that would undertake to invade Mars or Venus and even some of the larger planets, landing upon them or circumnavigating them. The ships could, he thinks, even anchor upon Deimos or Phobos, the two tiny moons of Mars, and allow themselves to be carried several times around the red planet.

But human audacity, having once obtained a foothold beyond the earth, will go still further. In those regions where weight does not exist and bodies remain poised in their orbits, artificial moons may be constructed, landing stations which will circle perpetually about the earth like new satellites.

Might Land by Parachute.

The return of a space-ship to earth would seem to present insurmountable obstacles. What is to prevent this rocket-machine of Wolfram steel or other metal from being consumed like any tiny meteorite upon contact with the thick envelope of the atmosphere? Provision, however, has been made for this, and the possibility of landing accepted—in theory. The peak of the torpedo-like space cruiser would contain an enormous double or triple parachute with ropes attached to the nose of the vessel. This parachute would be unfolded as soon as the earth was approached. It would spread out and draw the nose of the vessel upward so that it would approach the earth bottom first. At the same time the powerful vents would discharge their fiery gases and serve as brakes upon the speed of the ship.

Once the requisite funds have been supplied and the first experiments made, Valier says he will enter the first man-carrying rocket to be aimed at the moon. He hopes to take with him some young woman who shall have proved by response to his call that her courage is equal to his.

It is possible that the ship and its passengers may never return. Staring from the bullseyes of their tiny observation chamber, the cosmic pair may behold a fiery instead of a silver disk approaching them, until the whole heavens are covered with the flaming, coruscating face of the sun. They would never reach its molten, thrashing surface—for the space-ship and all it bore would end in a tiny flare of gas long before. But need this deter the astronomer and adventurer? They would be the first, at least.

Professor Goddard's Work

Professor Goddard, who conceived the plan of using liquid propellants in a rocket, has for many years studied the possibility of the project that Valier now advances. He is still experimenting with it. It is believed that powder and other ingredients giving off gases will supply a "kick back" against the atmosphere and produce the power needed for driving the rocket. The gases would be released in a steady flow, like that which operates an automobile motor. The rocket would thus carry a highly complex mechanism, the result of years of careful study of the atmosphere and the space beyond. If human beings traveled on it, they would be supplied with oxygen from a tank, much like the crew of a submerged submarine.

The explorers might carry oxygen to last for many days, but how a second rocket could be sent to the moon and how their return voyage could be managed are among the problems that remain to be solved.

"In connection with the general principle of rocket compulsion," said Professor Goddard a few days ago, "I studied the airplane-rocket idea several years ago, and know the possibilities as well as the limitations of the combination. The ideas presented by Max Valier along this line, and also in Oberth's publications, as well as a number of things of which neither has written, have been the subject of much study and investigation by me for a number of years, and the results of this work are embodied in documents which I have not yet made public.

Long Experiments

"Such matters as have been made public cover, among other things, the essentials of the plan which Oberth claims to have originated, namely, the use of liquid propellants in a rocket, with continuous combustion. This plan was conceived by me in 1909, mentioned by publication in 1914 and tested experimentally in 1921. Subsequent developments on the long-range rocket, carried out under my direction, have been confined entirely to rockets of this type. The account of my work, in greatest detail, that has so far been published appeared in the Smithsonian Miscellaneous Collections for 1919. I sent a copy of this paper to Oberth, at his request, and fourteen months later, in July, 1923, received a copy of his pamphlet 'The Rocket to Planetary Distances.'

"The reason for my withholding the unpublished matters I have mentioned is the present status of the experimental work. With the idea of producing something tangible from the theory, I am at present engaged in developing a small model intended to demonstrate the principles involved in a large rocket of practicable size. Circumstances, however, make it necessary to work with a model which is almost, if not quite, at the limit of smallness at which it can be made operative.

"While the whole matter is one of tremendous fascination, I feel that I can make no detailed statements until everything possible has been done with the model upon which I am working. In short, it is work rather than talk that is needed most in the present stage of the problem."

Hemorrhoids

Or piles are quickly relieved by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

It is a serious matter to have piles and one person in four has them at one time or another. The annoyance and distress is great. It is difficult to obtain lasting relief. So much so that your physician may tell you that a surgical operation is necessary. That is unless he is familiar with Dr. Chase's Ointment for many doctors recommend this treatment to their patients.

For nearly half a century Dr. Chase's Ointment has been the never failing relief for itching, bleeding and protruding piles. It is now very generally known by the medical profession, and the public generally, as the standard treatment for this torturing ailment.

Ask your friends about Dr. Chase's Ointment for "users are boosters" in this case. Relief comes quickly and you can obtain the ointment at any drug store.

THE HALL STORE

S. E. DIXON, DEAN OF TEACHERS IN NORTHUMBERLAND, TAUGHT IN THE COUNTY FOR 53 YEARS

Started at $280 Per Year, Retired at $600 and Gets Pension of $365.

STARTED AGED 17

Retired in 1917 After Seeing Many Changes in Country.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8. — To start teaching school at the age of 17 on a salary of $280 a year, to follow the profession with credit to himself for 53 years, all of that time in Northumberland County, to draw a salary of $600 for the last year of his service and to retire in his old age on a pension of $1.00 a day, is an epitome of the professional career of S. E. Dixon, who is rated among the educationists as one of the best Public school teachers of his day and generation. And yet there are those, who with the financial facts as above stated before them, wonder why more men do not make a life profession of teaching. Mr. Dixon might have followed and succeeded in some other profession in which the material rewards were greater, but he remained a teacher for pure love of the work, and is satisfied now with the part he has taken in the scheme of life. The value of his services in helping to build up the citizenry of Canada is something that it would be impossible to estimate.

His Start in Life.

Mr. Dixon was born in Leeds County 78 years ago and received his second education in the Colborne High School. At the age of 17 he secured a third-class certificate and started to teach in the school at Smithfield. His salary was $280 a year, but his board, washing included, cost him only $1.50 a week. He was never reduced to the necessity of boarding round the section as were so many of the pioneer teachers of Ontario. The young pedagogue, passing rich as he may have been regarded by those around him, was ambitious to climb higher, and he gave up teaching for a time to take another High school course, getting a second and later a first-class certificate. He received his professional training in the Toronto Normal School.

His Record of Service.

There are in Northumberland County today grey-haired men and women who have kindly recollections of Mr. Dixon as the teacher who taught them to read and who first guided their too often reluctant footsteps among the pitfalls of primary education. He was teacher at Smithfield for two years, was eight years at Castleton, eight at Dundonald, two at Sharon, the same length of time at Orland and 28 years at Salem, where he was engaged when he gave up active work, the salary which he was receiving at the time being $600. That was about eight years ago, before the Teachers' Federation had succeeded in boosting the salaries of its members and before the Department of Education paid rural School Boards a bonus for engaging high-priced teachers.

Trouble Over Politics.

It was in Salem that Mr. Dixon spent the greater part of his working life, and it was in that place, too, that he encountered the first and only serious difficulty in his professional career. That was back in the eighties when the C. P. R. was being built and party feeling over that problem and the National Policy ran high. The young teacher, ambitious to get himself out of an educational rut, saw an opportunity to give his senior pupils a lesson in current history, and he explained to them how the two political parties had differed over the question of the best policy to be adopted in building the long transcontinental line. Sir John A. Macdonald was in favor of keeping faith with British Columbia and completing the road inside of 10 years as that was one of the conditions insisted upon by the people of the Pacific when they entered Confederation. Alexander Mackenzie, while he was Premier and when in opposition, maintained that the proper policy was to build the road by degrees as the Northwest was settled. He would also make the lakes of that territory connecting links in the line, while the Conservative party would follow the land route throughout. Mr. Dixon explained these matters to his pupils and inclined to the opinion that the Conservative policy was the logical and economical one.

Another precept with Mr. Dixon sought to instil into the minds of his pupils was that since the syndicate that built the road required a bonus, it was good business to make them a grant of otherwise valueless land in part payment.

The enterprising young teacher also explained to his class the difference of free trade and protection, and told that in order to avoid direct taxation it was necessary to have some form of customs tariff. It will be recalled in this connection that all this happened in the early age of high tariff in Canada, and that the country was divided into two hostile camps over the issue.

One of the big boys in the school went home and told his father, who was a trustee, the teacher was teaching politics, and immediately there was action. A meeting of the board was called and the teacher was placed on trial for his professional life. The result of the investigation was that there was a vacancy in the Salem school.

But it is hard to keep a good man down. Some time afterward Mr. Dixon was re-engaged as teacher in that school and was permitted to pursue his way in peace for the rest of his working days. The rising generation were reserved as subjects (or victims) for the political propagandist and the party press, to gather from those sources as best they could, their ideas as to the merits of leading public questions.

Mr. Dixon owed allegiance to no party when he took up the discussion of public affairs in his class work. He was simply doing his duty as he saw it in imparting important information to his pupils.

Mr. Dixon received his early education in the days when the birch rod was regarded as the teachers' best helper. He started to teach with the idea that in no other way could knowledge be imparted or discipline be maintained, but as he grew older that delusion departed. He believes that the boys and girls of 50 years ago were just as bright as are those of today, and that they were rather more inclined to form studious habits, being less distracted by the many forms of amusements that now tempt young people from the serious things of life.

His Home Broken Up.

After retiring from teaching he continued to reside at Salem, but his home was broken up by the death of his wife a few months ago. At present he is residing at Rednersville with his son, Rev. Soford F. Dixon, who is pastor of the United Church there, and who was formerly stationed at Lakefield. Another son is James C. Dixon, a merchant at Warkworth. James U. S. Dixon of the Bank of Montreal, Peterboro, is a grandson and Miss Lillian Dixon of the same city is a granddaughter.

In spite of his advanced years and the nerve-racking nature of his life-long vocation, Mr. Dixon is enjoying the best of health and his council is alprized by his colleagues at the annual gatherings of the Teachers' Association.

The Junta Platform

Economy is the main plank in the Junta platform. There must, according to their creed be no more avoidable expenditure until some of the present debenture debt is cleared off.

The Junta would insist that a chartered accountant be engaged as auditors so that a correct idea may be had of the town's financial condition. A move in this direction was made at the initial meeting of the present Council last January when one of the members moved that an expert auditor be engaged. Several of his colleagues favored the idea but sufficient notice of the proposed change had not been given and the present auditors, whose work as such had been satisfactory, were re-appointed.

A General Turn-Over.

One of the leaders in the Junta movement has a drastic plan in the interests of economy a plan which given effect would result in an upheaval in every department of the town's administration. He would call for the resignation of every salaried official appointed to office and would then advertise for successors, all applicants being required to state salary. Applications for re-appointment of the present officials would be considered. In this way the sponsor of the plan believes that a large sum of money could be saved the taxpayers each year.

Mr. Horkins Holds Back.

T. J. Horkins has served 12 years on the Board of Education and two years in the Council. While he is associated with the new movement he declares that he would not accept any office in the gift of the town even if it came to him by acclamation. He is a man who never lacks for ideas and for these he is always ready and willing to fight.

J. A. Anderson's Record.

J. A. Anderson, after serving several years in the ranks as Councillor, was elected Reeve in 1923 in a three-cornered contest, his opponents being Chas. H. Davidson, then Reeve and J. Nelson Stone. Mr. Davidson came back one year later and defeated Mr. Anderson by a majority of over 59. Last year Mr. Davidson was returned by acclamation. He will be in the field again this year and if re-elected will be a candidate for the Wardenship. He holds the record for length of service at Cobourg.

When Mr. Anderson was at Cobourg an attempt was made to increase the equalized assessment of the town and villages by 25 per cent and that increase was at first actually agreed upon by the committee having the matter in charge. It is a matter of record Mr. Anderson was one of the members of that committee who worked half the night to effect a compromise and was finally successful in having the proposed increase passed at 16 per cent, a difficult achievement in a committee and Council in which the rural members are in the majority.

Secured An Offset.

As an offset to this increase Mr. Anderson worked for a reduction in the county rate which was finally set at eight, instead of nine mills. Under this schedule Campbellford that year saved $18 in county taxes notwithstanding the increase in the equalization.

Another Boost In Equalization

In 1924 on motion of Deputy-reeve Nelson of Percy Township, the urban equalized assessment was again increased by 10 per cent. Reeve Davidson and Deputy-reeve Dorie of Campbellford fought against this measure but the rural vote prevailed. Reeve Davidson did the only thing left for him to do, he gave notice of an appeal to the County Judge. This appeal was endorsed by the Town Council but through some oversight it was not filed within the time required by statute.

T. J. HORKINS OF CAMPBELLFORD MAY BE MAYORALTY CANDIDATE

J. A. Anderson Suggested for Reeveship in Pre-Election Rumors.

TALK OF ECONOMY

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 8.—Just before the civic election in every municipality there is likely to arise what in higher circles is described as a "Junta," a body of independent and public-spirited citizens whose aim is to bring about reforms or, at least, to get out of the rut into which every town council, sooner or later is so likely to fall. The Junta plans a departure from the established order, to prepare a slate of its own rather than accept the nominations of the regular convention.

Campbellford this year has a Junta, the members of which are prominent citizens and large taxpayers, who are already engaged in preparing a slate. The man favored for the office of Mayor is T. J. Horkins, while the candidate selected for the Reeveship is J. A. Anderson, who in the year 1923 held that position. It is only fair to both these gentlemen to state that at the outset that neither is seeking office and that their consent to stand has not yet been obtained but both are being urged to come back and to lend their services to the community.

Working In the Open.

The Junta is working in the open, not behind closed doors as is so often the case with so-called reformers. At the dinner that was given in the St. Lawrence Hotel Friday night to Sir Henry Drayton and other distinguished visitors who came here to attend the reception tendered M. S. Maybee, M.P.-elect and Mrs. Maybee, several members of the Junta were seated together at a table while at the next table were some of those belonging to the Town Council among them a prospective candidate for the Mayoralty. The town officials could not fail to hear the conversation that was carried on by the Junta and in which the former had a personal interest. J. A. Anderson was being urged to run for Mayor and all sort of support was promised him. If, however, Mr. Anderson ever does return to public life it will be as a candidate for the Reeveship, the office for which he was defeated by present Reeve, Chas. H. Davidson, two years ago. Mr. Anderson is interested in County Council work and during the year he represented this town at Cobourg he made a record as a member who always worked for economy, for the interests of the United Counties as a whole and for those of his consti-

MAKING PRESENTS WITH NEWSPAPERS

Interesting Procedure and Easy Task—Uses Old Papers.

It is quite easy to make useful bowls, trays, etc., from paper and these make fine Christmas presents for your friends. In the first place a few old newspapers should be secured. The glazed paper found in magazines is of no use for the present purpose. The paper should be torn up into small pieces about two inches square. The exact size and shape is not a matter of any importance but the scraps must be torn and cut off. If the edges are a little uneven so much the better. As the paper is torn place the pieces in a bowl of cold water so that they may be saturated. Some good paste will also be required. This can be made by mixing cold water with a cupful of flour until it becomes milky. Then add boiling water until the paste thickens. The adhesive is improved by the addition of about a teaspoonful of powdered alum.

If you wish to make a bowl, select one of the required size and shape. A pudding basin is very good as a beginning. Start to line the inside of the bowl with the scraps of paper. Do not overlap these more than is needful, but take care to cover the inside completely. The damp paper will keep in place well if it is pressed into position. When putting the paper in place do not trouble if it overlaps the top edge of the basin which is acting as the mold. It will be an easy matter to trim this round afterwards. When the first layer of paper is in position go over the whole surface with the paste. Then put on another lot of the scraps and these will adhere even more easily than the first owing to the sticky surface. Then add another layer and so on until you have seven or eight in place.

The paper bowl you are making must be dried and it is a good plan to put basin and all in a moderately hot oven. Watch closely to see that the surface does not scorch and when it seems fairly dry give it a good pull and out it will come from the mold. Give a little more drying so that the article is really hard. Now get some glass paper and rub down the bowl you have made until it is quite smooth. You will be surprised at what a fine surface you can secure in this way. Next trim the edges round with scissors and the actual making of the bowl is at an end. To make it look smart it is well to give the article a coat of enamel. Two coats will make it still better and, if desired, any patterns or designs may easily be painted on the surface. The bowl is then ready for use and it will be found light and strong, and will, of course, hold water.

In fact it is just like the papier mache ware that can be bought at a store. Trays and other articles can be made in just the same manner and there is no fear that the article used for a mold will be damaged in any way.

CHILDREN EXCITED ABOUT CHRISTMAS

Parents Might Initiate Them By Allowing Them To Help.

The little folk are all excited over Christmas, but, of course, they are on their good behavior, even though it is quite a strain on the youngsters.

The suggestion has been made that the children be given a job helping to decorate the house and make some of the Christmas decorations. A task such as this would help to keep them from being bored, and also from getting into mischief.

Around Christmas time, there are many things that little hands can do.

Even the littlest child can make paper chains of many bright colors.

For out-of-doors exercise, in which old and young will be keenly interested, there is the trip to the woods to gather evergreens. Pine branches, especially the white pine, are graceful for use anywhere in the house, as are also hemlock twigs with tiny cones hanging from them. Ground pine lends itself to garlands nicely. If an old dead evergreen can be found which is shedding its bark, an armful of this will be found very fragrant when burned in the fireplace.

If these evergreens are brought in many days before Christmas, care must be taken to keep them very wet, so that they will not drop their needles.

A garland of pine, decorated with red apples, will give a different effect and yet carry the Christmas colors.

Among other plants available for use are the lovely flaming poinsettias and the graceful branches of the bitter-sweet. This latter can be kept all winter. Ivy makes a different household decoration, growing up on light trellises of wood or iron.

English Home Music Squelched By Radio

LONDON, Dec. 17. — (United Press.) —There are indications in Great Britain that the radio is sounding the doom of the piano and the home musician.

According to a report on broadcasting dance music which has been made by Lawrence Wright, the well known song publisher, for presentation to the British Broadcasting Company at the forthcoming conference concerning performing royalties, London is the least musical area in Great Britain and Lancashire the most.

At the moment the British Broadcasting Company pays a royalty of four shillings per station on every dance tune that it broadcasts, so that a popular dance number like "Toy Drum Major" or "Sunny Havana" relayed to ten stations can earn as much as a pound per minute while being sent through the other.

BALE ACKNOWLEDGED.

Mrs. W. R. Morris Has Received Letter From Grenfell Hospital.

Mrs. W. R. Morris has received the following letter from the Grenfell Hospital at Harrington, in the Canadian Labrador, acknowledging the bale sent from the Peterboro branch of the Grenfell Society:

My Dear Mrs. Morris,

We have had keen delight in opening the bales from our Peterboro friends. All summer long, we have been hoping and hoping for boys' trousers, and at last we are rewarded for our long wait by so many pairs that every little lad on the coast can be the proud wearer of a new pair of trousers. Thanks much for all the other things also. We are firmly convinced that Peterboro has not been idle. All the donations are very gratefully received, and everything sent in exceptionally good condition.

Again we thank you very, very much.

Sincerely Yours,

YE MIRACLES OF YE SEASONS.

"Whosoever on ye nighte of ye Nativity of ye young Lord Jesus, in ye greate snows, shall fare forth bearing a succulent bone for ye loste and lamenting hounde, a wisp of hay for ye shivering horse, a cloak of warm raiment for ye stranded wayfarer, a bundle of fagots for ye twittering crone, a flagon of red wine for him whose marrow withers, a garland of bright berries for one who has worn chains, gay arias of lute and harp for all huddled birds who thought that song was dead, and divers lush sweetmeats for such babes' faces as peer from lonely windows. . . . .

"To him shall be proferred and returned gifts of such an astonishment as will rival the hues of the peacock and the harmonies of heaven, so that though he live to ye greate age when man goes stooping and querulous because of the nothing that is left in him, yet shall he walk upright and remembering as one whose heart shines like a greate star in his breaste."—From "Ye Miracles of Ye Seasons," or "Ye Artless Precipitation of Ye Greate Astonishments."

Organists Who Will Herald Christmas In City Churches

Old Carols and Newer Compositions Will Be Given By All Peterborough Choirs To-morrow and on Friday—A Review of Christmas Music and Programme of Every Church.

EARLY two thousand years ago in a small Asiatic city, a mighty celestial choir greeted the birth of the greatest king who ever swayed a sceptre: music, pulsing with joy and gratitude such as the world has never heard, dumbfounded the wondering shepherds as they watched their flocks in the discomfort of early morning chill. Astounded though they doubtless were by the announcement of the angel who told of the Saviour's birth, they must have been further mystified by the appearance of the glorified host, chanting with one accord the message which has thrilled all ages since the dawn of salvation—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good-will toward men". Could those rough uncultured tenderers of sheep grasp the wondrous import of those words or did instinct lead them to gaze in adoration at the Child which lay in such an humble cot? It is quite possible that no other agency than that of marvellous music had such a tendency to impress the people with the real significance of the virgin birth and the promise of a new dynasty. Music even in those ancient times was the great interpreter of emotion for was it not necessary that the boy David strum his great harp to curb the rioting passions of King Saul. Truly it was in accord with the occasion that a heavenly band of musicians should herald the monarch of a spiritual kingdom, a Monarch Who came to offer His life that others through Him might achieve salvation.

Down through the ages believers in Christ celebrate His coming with song and music, they give gifts to one another, making sacrifices in proof of great friendships and throughout the Christian world a spirit of especial good will is manifest. When the first Christmas-tide anthems were heard by a dozen heavy-lidded shepherds, all Christendom listens to and sings the glory of God in gratitude for his priceless gift to mankind. Again, people gathered on the hillsides listen to the thrilling chorus and advance with reverent feet to the side of a low manger which holds in its waxet embrace the baby wrapped in swaddling clothes.

Season of Music.

With no season or festival is music so closely connected as with Christmas. Although Easter may have a somewhat similar association in the minds of many persons, it must be admitted that others observe that period in an almost pagan fashion. In the newspapers there are more reports of fashion parades than of music. Of course there are many people who do realize the significance of the festival that brings to a close the solemn season of Lent, but in the minds of others it is associated more with the awakening of spring, the idea which the name suggests.

That is why music is not so universally recognized as part of the Easter festival as it is accepted as a feature of Christmas celebration.

There are many persons to whom the most beautiful part of Christmas is the annual singing of the ancient hymns which have customarily been used on that day. Everybody knows them—"Hark, the Herald Angels Sing", "Come All ye Faithful, Joyful and Triumphant," "Christians Awake, Salute the Happy Morn," and "As Shepherds watched their Flocks by Night." Wherever the English language is spoken those hymns and many others have been sung at every Christmas tide. They make an appeal to youthful imagination and they stir the hearts of the old whose Christmas season is one of reflection and memory. For the older folk Yuletide would not be Yuletid without the ancient hymns.

In modern times the carols have played a universal part in the Christmas festivities. They always bring to mind those picturesque fellows, the waits, who popped up once a year in all parts of England to sing "God rest you merry Gentlemen," "Good Christian Men Rejoice," "When Christ was born of Mary Free," and "The First Nowell" those quaint old poems many of unknown authorship. The phrases of these carols are as much household words as the familiar greeting "Merry Christmas." People instinctively hum them and everyone enjoys hearing them. Men may become dyspeptic and outgrow the enjoyment which Christmas dinner affords, others may not derive a whole-hearted joy from Christmas giving but there are few indeed who will not feel a responsive thrill at hearing the music of an old carol.

There will be few homes in Peterborough where the Christmas carol will fail to register its impress. If they are not sung at home, most of the churches in the city will resound with their melody. If people do not go to church they will surely have some of the carols on phonograph records, or they will listen to them as gathered out of the sky by the sensitive fingers of the radio. Those facts prove the conquest of the carol. During the Yuletide season it is universally heard, something which cannot be said of any other form of music at any other time of the year.

Peterborough Choirs.

Peterborough choirs are making elaborate preparations to celebrate the great event and together with the more modern compositions will present many of the old hymns and carols for the pleasure of their congregations. One of the oldest and most magnificent selections which will be sung in many of the churches is the Adeste Fideles, which was translated to the English in 1841, and is more commonly known now as "Come All ye Faithful."

While many of the organists and choir leaders have not been in the city for a lengthy period there are others who have been figures in the music sphere of Peterborough for a quarter of a century and are still rendering devoted service to the church. Many are high lights in the world of musical interpretation and all are interested in fostering the art by encouraging its study.

St. Andrew's.

John Crane, the organist of St. Andrew's United Church, has possibly served longer than any other in the city. His first position was that of organist and choirmaster in St. Paul's Church, from 1895 to 1914. In the same capacity he also played in Trinity Church and since 1919, he has fulfilled the duties of his present post. St. Andrew's Church is equipped with a fine three manual, with an optional fourth, Karn organ, having a large range of stops. It is electric throughout and is the largest instrument in the city. The choir is composed of thirty-three members, divided thus: 11 soprano, 7 alto, 7 tenor and 8 bass. The choir has a reputation for the general excellence of its work and has achieved notable results in its unaccompanied singing. Its repertoire is of a very high standard and there are among its membership a number of talented ladies and gentlemen who are heard frequently on the concert platform. Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, the well-known vocalist, is soloist in this church.

The evening service at St. Andrew's next Sunday will take the form of a praise service of Christmas Music. The choir will sing several numbers, including Tours, 'Sing O Heavens;' "Hark! What means." Verdi; "Jesu Redemptor" by Yonn, with solo parts by Mr. D. Carlisle, Cornelius' "Christmas Song," with Mrs. Turner in obligato. Other numbers will be, "An Old Christmas Song," by Mrs. Park, who will also sing in duet with Mr. Nevin Stainer's "Lord Divine All Love Excelling." Mr. Humpage will sing "Comfort Ye!" from "Messiah" and Mr. R. A. Brown will sing Gounod's "Nazareth." Christmas hymns will be used and the service will be largely a musical one.

Sacred Heart.

The career of John Armstrong, organist in the Church of the Sacred Heart, is almost contemporaneous with that of Mr. Crane. He has lived all his life in Peterborough and received his early training from Professor Seward and Dr. Davies. Any success which has attended Mr. Armstrong's efforts he ascribes directly to the choir and he declares that any artist must have good material or the results will never be worth while. Since the Sacred Heart Church was built, seventeen years ago, the present organist and choir leader has served there. Prior to that time he played in several other Peterborough churches. A children's choir of 24 voices is the especial pride of Mr. Armstrong and it has won considerable commendation from various sources. The adult choir also consists of 42 voices apportioned as follows: 12 sopranos, 4 alto, 4 bass and 4 tenor.

For Christmas day a special service of music has been arranged, consisting of Roseweg's' Festival Mass in G., and the singing of Christmas carols by the children's Gregorian choir in front of the crib previous to the opening of the service.

George Street.

J. H. Renwick, organist and choir leader in George street United church has completed his 15th year and has in that time strengthened the choir considerably. Mr. Renwick has played in St. Philip's Church, Toronto, also in churches at St. Thomas and Port Hope.

He studied under Dr. Vogt, principal Toronto Conservatory of Music, and received vocal instruction from Edward Hayes, formerly of New York now of Paris. Mr. Renwick has several recitals throughout the year and has had a number of distinguished pupils, many of them taking the highest marks in Dominion examinations and winning medals of recognition. His pupils very rarely receive lower than an honour standing. The choir is composed of 20 soprano voices, 13 alto, 7 tenor and 9 bass. Daisy Murry is the soloist. The organ is a two manual Karn and was recently improved by the addition of some new stops. Two thousand is estimated as being the usual attendance for the Sunday services.

A special Christmas cantata will be presented on Sunday evening, entitled "The Coming of the King" by Dudly Buck, an American composer, who has followed the English school of composition.

St. Paul's.

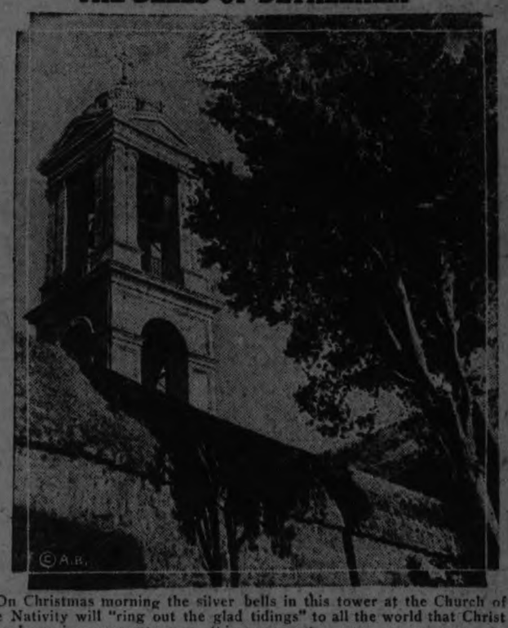
Mr. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church has prepared a special program of old English, French and Austrian carols.

"The Neighbours of Bethlehem" is taken from the French. "The Shepherds' Christmas Song" from the Austrian folk songs and the English production by Gustav Holst of "Christmas Day," a fantasy of old carols, giving a representation of the waits and their rendition of "Good Christian Men Rejoice with Heart and Soul and voice." "God Rest ye merry, Gentlemen." "Come ye children, Blithe and Merry." There will be three Cornish carols. A male quartette will offer "Hosannah to Great David's Son" by Jude; with this there will be a male voice "Hallelujah" chorus. There will also be a solo and choir presentation of Gounod's "Nazareth."

Mr. Chenhall has been in the city for four years. He was formerly organist and teacher of theory in Cornell University, of Ithaca, N.Y., but came to Canada during the early part of the war period. His early training was received in Newcastle Cathedral, England, under the tuition of Dr. Rea, and he completed the requirements of the Royal College of Organists.

The choir is composed of more than forty voices and Greta LeBarr is acting as soloist. Mr. Chenhall is considerably interested in music outside of church work, and is director of the Male Voice Choir which has scored several successes within recent years.

"THE BELLS OF BETHLEHEM"



On Christmas morning the silver bells in this tower at the Church of the Nativity will "ring out the glad tidings" to all the world that Christ was born in a manger near this same spot.

St. John's.

In St. John's Church there will be no music of a Christmas character on Sunday but an extensive program will be presented between the periods of the Advent and Epiphany. Frederick G. Mann is organist and choir leader and has arranged for several anthems.

Some of the selections will be, "Glory to God in the Highest," Cook; "O, Zion that Bringest good tidings," and "It came upon the midnight Clear," both by Stainer. The choir boys will sing, "The Angels' Carol" and "A Christmas Chime," the two selections prepared by Dr. Bunnett. In addition to those already mentioned, the choir will sing Adlam's "Communion Service in F, together with a number of carols.

The choir numbers more than 40 members, fifteen of them being boys.

Mr. Mann received his training in Norwich Cathedral, Norwich, England, where he started as a chorister at the age of 9 years. Some of his instructors were Dr. E. Bunnett, Dr. P. J. Illsley, both deceased and Dr. H. Sanders, whose brother was in Peterborough some years ago. Dr. Saunders is at present located in Ottawa. For fifteen years Mr. Mann has acted in the dual capacity of organist and choirmaster and has been for the last two and a half years in this city. Previous to coming here he has played in St. John's Church, Ottawa, Grace Church, Ridgeway, Pennsylvania and St. James' Church, of Carlton place. He has been a member of the Canadian College of Organists since 1916. At present he is secretary for the McGill University faculty of music, representing this district. He is also conductor of the Peterborough Stringed Orchestra, which will come before the public early in February for the first time under that name.

All Saints'.

Mrs. W. A. Logan, organist of All Saints' has held that position for the past five years. Prior to that time she acted in the capacity of supply for St. Paul's Church. She received her training in music from Professor Deumonthel. In conjunction with the choir leader, George E. Chandler, she is planning to have music of a special character on Christmas day. There will be a carol service on Sunday.

On Christmas day the choir will sing Jackson's "Te Deum," "Arise, Shine," an anthem by Maker and the Adeste Fideles. In the morning Mrs. Logan will play "Hosanna" by Wach, a selection which includes the Hallelujah chorus, and "Christmas Hymn," with voluntary transcription by Ashmore. In the evening she will play "Celestial Voices" by Flagler, and the "Christmas March" by Merkel.

The choir numbers fifty voices and there is in addition a boys' choir, having thirteen members. Mr. Chandler has been choir leader for the past sixteen years and was previous to that time in St. John's church, under the direction of R. J. Devey. He received his training in England, under Dr. J. W. G. Hathaway. He has sung solos in most of the great oratorios, including the Messiah," "Elijah," "Daughter of James," "The Crucifixion" and "St. Paul."

St. James'.

Fred Chenhall, organist and choir leader, who has been at St. James' Church for the past 3 years, is preparing a cantata, "Light of the Ages," by Fred Peace, which embodies the story of Christmas. This will be supplemented by a string octette and carol singing by the choir.

Two of the selections will be "There were Shepherds," by Vincente and "The First Christmas Morn," by Dudley Buck. Soloists are Mrs. Ada Kitteney and Frank Pratt.

Last year Mr. Chenhall arranged a presentation of the Oratorio "The Building of the Ship" which met with large success. He received his training in music from his father, Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O. The St. James' choir is composed of seven bass, eight tenor, five alto and seventeen soprano.

Knox.

Charles Peaker, of Knox United Church has arranged for music of a special Christmas nature, and has also prepared a score of English carols. Rev. M. C. Mackinnon, pastor, will relate a history of carol singing.

In the morning, two of the selections will be, the "Gloria" by Mozart and Praetorius' "The Cherry Tree Breaks into Bloom," which will be followed by Brahms' organ prelude.

Some of the carols will be, "The Coventry Carol." "The Cherry Tree," "Good King Wenceslas," "I Saw Three Ships," "Gloria Tibi Domine," "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen" and "The Holly and the Ivy." One of the features will be a choral picture of the shepherds and the sheep. The four succeeding recitatives will concern the angelic vision and will be sung by Mrs. Ross Williamson. This will lead into the great Christmas chorus "Glory to God" which is an excerpt from the "Messiah." Maurice Park will sing the recit. "Comfort ye" and the aria "Every Valley."

Soloists in the Christmas music will be Mrs. Ross Williamson, Maurice Park, Misses E. and V. Buckham and H. Hughes. On the organ Mr. Peaker will play a number of choral preludes taken from Bach's "Organbuchlein."

Mr. Peaker is concluding his second year at Knox Church. He was born in Yorkshire, England, and passed the Canadian A.T.C.M. examination in 1919 with the highest mark in the Dominion. He is the possessor of a medal from Dr. Harry Perrin, head of McGill University for the composition of an anthem. In June, 1925 he graduated from Toronto University, with the degree Musical Bachelor.

Murray Street.

Although Francis Sutton, of Murray Street Baptist Church has been in the city but a short while he has won considerable regard from members of the choir and others in his profession. He received his education in music in England and in Canada at Regina College, and also Chicago and Toronto. He was eight years Director of Music at the Norwegain Lutheran College at Outlook, Saskatchewan and running concurrently he was for 7 years acting in the same capacity for the choral union of the Young People's League in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Two of the numbers on the programme of Christmas music are compositions of Mr. Sutton. Some of the selections will be Grubert's "Silent Night," "Hosanna by Simper," "There Were Shepherds" Gaul; "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," by Willis, "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks" Sutton. The first Nowell, a ladies' chorus, "Sleep, Holy Babe," Sutton a carol "We Three Kings of Orient Are" by Hopkins, and Mozart's "Glorious is Thy Name."

Miss T. Pearson will be the soloist.

St. Peter's.

Miss I. Hurley, organist of St. Peter's Cathedral, is also a well-known pianist to all Peterborough people. She has been organist for several years at St. Peter's, where her services are considered invaluable. Joseph Minicola is the leader of the choir which consists of forty voices. He and Miss Hurley have arranged for special Christmas music to be presented at High Mass on Christmas Eve.

Miss Hurley has taken music for several years, receiving her early training from her sister, Miss Kitty Hurley, who was at one time an organist at St. Peter's. Later she was a student under Mademoiselle Decrey, of Alsace Lorraine.

V. Boorman.

For the past five years V. Boorman has been organist and choir leader of Mark street Church. He received instrumental training from R. J. Devey and John Allan, pipe organ from the former and John Renwick, and vocal from John Ball, of New York.

There will be a special presentation of Christmas music by the Mark street choir on Sunday evening. Mrs. E. Ward will sing "The Light of the World" by Wetherley, and Mrs. Young, "Night of Nights," by Vandewater. Another feature will be "There's a Song in the Air," Wilson's composition sung by Mrs. Ward, with a violin obligato by V. Boorman and soprano solo by Mrs. H. Hunter. Ashford's "O Little Town of Bethlehem" will be sung with an alto solo by Mrs. F. Stenton, and a soprano solo by Mrs. W. Smith.

Park Street.

Mr. Robinson has been organist at Park Street Baptist Church for the past six years. The choir, which he directs consists of twenty-six members. There are eleven soprano voices, five alto, four tenor and four bass.

For the morning service there will be a special anthem, "The Heavens are Telling," by Caleb Simper, while in the evening there will be two selections, Ashford's "The Shepherd's Vision," and "He Shall Reign,' by Caleb Simper.

Immaculate Conception.

The Immaculate Conception Church choir, under the direction of Miss Hummel, has prepared seasonal compositions to be sung at High Mass on Christmas Eve. The choiris composed of fifteen voices and of them Miss Hummel said that what was lacking in numbers was made up in the quality of the individual voices. The main body of the church is, as yet, unfinished, and the services are held in the basement. Miss Hummel acquired her musical training in Peterborough.

The program for the midnight Mass will consist of a prelude—"Silent Night," Concones "Mass in F." The offertory will be "Alma Redemptoris" while the "Adeste Fideles" will be presented at communion service.

St Luke's

Previous to his appointment here, Mr. Thompson has played in various districts about Peterborough, notably Port Hope, Toronto, Norwood, Brighton, and Campbellford, coming to St. Luke's Anglican Church when Rev. Walter White was rector. In addition to being an organist Mr. Thompson is also an artist of considerable skill, and has in his possession several beautiful sketches of communities in which he has served as organist. St. Luke's choir is made up of twenty voices, and in addition there is a boy's choir of eleven voices.

On Christmas day there will be a communion service, with an anthem "Sing O Heavens," by Gaul, and an appropriate prelude and postlude.

Trinity.

Succeeding G. King as organist in Trinity United Church, Miss Mabel Clarry has been here but a very short time. She has, however, prepared a wonderfully comprehensive programme of Christmas music. Miss Clarry was at one time organist and choir leader in Charlotte Street Methodist Church in this city, but left for the West, the year in which Trinity Church was built.

She was organist and choir leader in Zion Methodist Church of Moosejaw, Saskatchewan and later went to Columbia University, New York, where she specialized in music for more than two years. Miss Clarry's home is in Millbrook.

Trinity has a full choir of 45 voices, comprising 7 tenor, 8 bass, 5 contralto and 25 soprano. Miss Clarry intends to open a studio with the purpose of giving instruction in vocal, ear training and sight singing.

Morning Service: Soloists, Mrs. Doig, Miss Blanchard, Miss Black. Organ, "March of The Magi," Dubois; processional, "O Come All Ye Faithful;" carol, "The First Nowell" (traditional melody). Anthem, "Christmas," Shelley (with obligato solo and duett); carol, "Sing Noel," Old French (one of the oldest existing carols taken from a XV. Century M.S.); offertory, "Pastoral Symphony (Messiah), Handel; soprano solo, "Star of Bethlehem," Adams. Anthem, "And the Glory of the Lord" (Messiah), Handel; organ, "Festival March," Calkin.

Evening Service: Organ, "Marche Solemnelle," Goumod; carols, "At Solemn Midnight Came a Call." Old French; "Silent Night." Anthem, "It Came upon The Midnight Clear," Sullivan (soprano obligato, Mrs. Doig. Hymn Anthem, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Dressler (violin obligato, Miss Palmer); contralto solo, "The Gift," Behrend (Miss Alma Blanchard; Violin solo, "Meditation" from "Thais," Massenet (Miss Edwina Palmer. Anthem, "And The Glory of the Lord" (Messiah), Handel; organ "Triumphal March," Lemmens.

So, in the churches of Peterborough, many splendid voices will herald the birthday of the King, Who rules today as surely as He ruled that little group which crowded His humble manger cot and the angel host which astounded the hillside shepherds, will live again in the memory of all people.

PRINCE LOST LOVE OF FORMER YEARS

Canine Friend, "Molly," Turned Affections to Another.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The Prince of Wales does not often lose friends, but as a result of his prolonged absence during his South African and south American trip, a canine friend has turned on him despite all the blandishments of His Royal Master.

This is his cream colored cairn terrier "Molly", a pet of two years, which the Prince left with Lady Burton, who breeds Cairn terriers, when he started on his long journey.

Lady Burton made a pet of Molly, and on the day of the Prince's return took the dog to York House. When the Prince went to greet Molly she would not even look at him. For several days he tried to regain her friendship but in vain. The dog became quite unhappy, would not eat, and had to be returned to Lady Burton's kennels.

664,000 GERMANS DOLED.

Bread Line Lengthens in Month.

BERLIN, Dec. 19. — (Canadian Press).—More than 650,000 unemployed persons in Germany are receiving public relief. An announcement issued Friday shows that those unemployed receiving public relief have increased from 473,000, on November 16, to 664,000 at the present time.

A month without a full moon will not occur for another two and a half million years.

HOUSING ILLS RIFE IN LONDON

30 Per Cent. of Families Live Three to Dwelling.

LONDON, Dec. 19 — "Room to live, room to work and room to play."

That is the demand of the new urban report of the British Liberal Land Committee entitled "Towns and the Land." It is rather a remarkable document, apart from its avowed purpose as political propaganda, for it sets forth conditions which undoubtedly must be remedied in some way.

Great Britain is badly housed. The people in many districts are crowded into quarters that are insufficient and insanitary and for which grossly unjust rentals are charged. Statistics show that only 38 per cent of the families living in London occupy structurally-separate houses. About 32 per cent are housed two families to a dwelling and 3 per cent containing three or more families each.

If you go among the dwellings of working people, you usually find two or three women trying to work in the same kitchen. Several groups of children, belonging to different mothers, are tumbling about the floors and playing in the tiny yards. The sleeping accommodations are made to do duty in all sorts of ingenious ways. Trundle beds are tucked away under bedsteads. Mattresses and bedding are rolled up in corners. Men who work nights crawl into beds that have just been vacated by those who are employed, or who seek employment by day.

Futile Treatment

More than 16 per cent of London's population lives in conditions condemned by health authorities as "overcrowding." Recently a report was issued by the Almoner of the City of London Hospital in which this pessimistic paragraph appears:

"On the question of housing, it is difficult to avoid despair. Patient after patient tells the same tale of ill-health due to being forced to live in overcrowded, insanitary houses, and often the out-patients treatment in such conditions seems thrown away."

The following comparison between two localities is significant: Shoreditch is a crowded district in which the conditions above described prevail. Bournville, famed throughout the world as one of Britain's experiments in ideal housing, a garden city, has an abundance of light, air and other influences contributing to health denied to Shoreditch. In Shoreditch the average death rate for each thousand over a period of five years was 18.3. In Bournville for the same period, 7.7. In Shoreditch, the infant mortality was 138 for each thousand average, for a period of five years; in Bournville, 51.

Land Values

It is acknowledged that one of the chief factors in obtaining proper housing for the people in these great commercial centers is the high cost of the land. Wherever commercial enterprise has brought large numbers of people together, the agricultural significance of land has been lost and new values as sites for houses, shops and factories have arisen. And along with site values, rentals, for dwellings have increased until indiivdual families no longer can afford to occupy houses by themselves. This process is constant everywhere.

The report cites an instance that is aptly illustrative.

"London's underground railway system recently was extended to Edgware from Golder's Green. This extension was financed under the Trade Facilities Act, the principal and interest of a loan of about $32,000,000 being guaranteed by the government for this and other developments of the underground system. Thel line was opened Aug. 15, 1924. On Sept. 17, 150 acres at Edgeware were sold for $316,000. Some of the land fetched $5,000 an acre. Before the line was constructed, the value of the land was purely agricultural, and even its prospective value was quite low."

Based upon such facts, the report summarizes three important conclusions. "Transport must be tackled, together with town-planning and housing. We must build out where the land is cheap; where people can have plenty of fresh air and elbow room, and where the subsequent inevitable inderement in land values will belong to the community.

"And a new source of revenue must be found for them in the taxation of site values. Those values have been created by the community. It is about time the community got a plum or two out of the pudding of its own making."

SEEK TREASURE AT PORT TALBOT

Underground Passage Has Been Found Near Old Residence.

OTHER ROOMS SOUGHT

ST. THOMAS, Ont., 8.—(Canadian Press.)—Shades of the war of 1812, tales of buried treasure — gold and precious stones, or mayhap a huge store of century old wines—and other possibilties of romance or worldly gain, lie buried and are in process of excavation by workmen engaged on a development enterprise at Port Talbot, near this city, on the shore of Lake Erie.

Clearing out a cave-in property just east of the old Talbot residence excavators dug into the remains of what is generally believed to have been an underground passage. The story goes that this was used by Colonel Thomas Talbot, Canadian patriot, during the war of 1812, as a hiding place for the valuables and choice wines he was forced to leave behind at the call of battle. This theory is strengthened by the knowledge that an above-ground age-old storehouse stood on the exact spot where the cave-in occurred.

At the present time the excavation has been carried to a depth of 24 feet. Timbers uncovered are heavy oak logs, and planks arranged to establish a series of compartments each about four feet square and about two feet high. Nine of these compartments have been uncovered so far, all empty. Further exploration has been held up through lack of appliances for deeper digging and hoisting of the excavated materials. It is possible that the complete underground structure will not be unearthed till spring.

Many residents of the neighborhood are inclined to think there may be rooms of considerable size lower down. Others are confident that a secret passage leading from the spot to the banks of Lake Erie will be disclosed. Col. Talbot, they say, was an eccentric Irishman, quite capable of such things.

Judge MacBeth of London, until recently the owner of the property where the accidental discovery was made, can offer no explanation for the find. Herbert F. Williams, who represents the Detroit syndicate, referred to heretofore, suggested that a shelving of the lake bank may reveal the entrance to the underground passage, if one exists. Meanwhile hidden treasure tales are constantly told throughout the district ,and all parties interested are hoping for an early continuation of excavation operations.

DANISH KRONE IS COMING BACK

Economic Life is Adjusting Itself to Par of Exchange.

PRICE INDEX DOWN

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 8.—(By Canadian Press)—The economic life of Denmark is slowly but surely adjusting to the normal condition with the Danish Krone at par. During the month of October the increase in the value of the Danish Krone was continued, although, owing to a short relapse in the rate of exchange during the early part of the month, the average quotations in October were 24.51 compared to 24.45 during September.

Official figures of Denmark exports and imports during September show an export surplus of $500,000. For the whole period of January 1 to September 30, the import surplus was $20,500,000 compared to $37,500,000 for the same period in 1924. On the other hand Danish export figures were maintaind almost on the same level as last year due to increases in quantities. Exports of agricultural products in October were somewhat less than September. The price obtained in the foreign markets for Danish agricultural products during October were rather uneven. Prices for butter and eggs were considerably higher han in September whereas prices of bacon and cattle declined.

The Danish wholesale price index fell during October from 180 to 179 whereas during the two preceding months of August and September the declines of the price index was from 212 to 186.

As usual, many double-headers will be scheduled for Saturdays and Sundays.

REV. J. TODD AT A SUPPER CLUB

"Don't Be Afraid to Let People Call You a Fool," He Says.

AT Y.M.C.A.

"Don't be afraid to let people call you a fool," was the crowning message of Reverend J. Todd, speaking to over forty young men at the Friday Supper Club at the Y.M.C.A.

In beginning, Mr. Todd said it was wise "for a shoemaker to stick to his lathe," therefore he was going to deliver the boys a little sermon. He chose as his text, "We are fools for Christ's sake," and he explained this as meaning "We are fools for our principles, for purity, for decency's sake."

A man considers it a compliment to have it said about him, "He is no fool." But this is food for serious thought. This statement about a man, the speaker thought, should act as a danger signal to that man; since in all likelihood it means that he is in an area of complacency and mediocrity.

"Jesus was the deepest dyed-in-the-wool idealist, and he likely gained the reputation of a crank and a fool when he lived," said Mr. Todd. Friends offer graciously the advice, "Don't be a fool," as we are about to enter some great project that differs from their views and precedent. We are often tempted to take short cuts to an end, said the speaker. Christ was tempted in this manner. Certainly the little fellows in their little grooves yelled "Fool" at Abraham, Caesar, Christopher Columbus and "Abe" Lincoln, who journeyed beyond the circle of the accustomed.

"Each have a contribution to make to help make this life a little finer," said the speaker. The world has gone forward by men who have lived branded as a fool. The easiest game to play is the safety first game, and the hardest is not the safety first game. It is hard for a man with dear ones depending upon him to follow the hard game, the game that makes people scream, "Fool," but in most cases it is the game that leads to greatness.

Herb. Lush contributed to the programme two splendid solos.

Next Friday Mr. C. Cook, president of the Kiwanis Club, will be the speaker.

BIBLES CARRIED ALL OVER LAND

More Than 400,000 Were Distributed in Canada by Bible Society.

ANNUAL MEETING

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press.)— Stories of heroism paralleling the best missionary traditions were revealed in the reports of colportage in distant and lonely outposts of the Dominion, which were made at the annual executive meeting of the Canadian Bible Society here recently. Far up the shores of the St. Lawrence too the Labrador Bible were carried; in the lumbering districts of Ontario and on the great plains of the west among peoples of alien speech.

During the past year more than 400,000 copies of the Scriptures in many languages were circulated in Canada by the Society, which has for its purpose the wider circulation of the Scriptures to every man in his own language, without note or comment. In the same period more than 9,000,000 Scriptures were circulated in China by combined Bible Society effort, almost one half by the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Reports were also made ot the meeting on plans for the increased usefulness of the society in the leadership of the young life of Canada.

The meeting was attended by representative Christian leaders from the Atlantitc to the Pacific. There were present Revs. Principal Smith, Vancouver; Arch Ward, Saskatoon; W. J. Southam, Winnipeg; Prof. Anderson, London, Ont.; Principal O'Meara, Toronto; A. E. Runnells, Montreal; Dr. H. E. Thomas, Sackville; and H. D. Raymond, Charlottetown ;and Messrs. T. C. FARMER'S SUN HAS DEFICIT BUT WILL CARRY ON Shareholders' Meeting Yesterday Was Featured By Uproar and Personalities.

WILL ASK SUPPORT.

Appeal Will Be Made To U. F.O. Annual Meeting For Increased Support.

TORONTO, December 8. Canadian Press. — The shareholders of the Farmers' Publishing Company, receiving a financial statement which showed that the "Farmers' Sun" had a deficit of $5000, for last year, and that the capital was almost eaten up, their annual meeting last night decided that the paper should not be abandoned and resolved to appeal at the annual meeting of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, and at the U.F.O. convention on the following days, for increased support for the Sun.

The meeting was also featured by uproar and bitter statements of a personal nature, and by the intimation of W. L. Smith, editor of the paper, that he was giving up office.

The discussion opened with heat, changing to verbal battles between the shareholders, and bitter talk of dissension in the farmers' ranks.

Then after almost three hours the gathering cooled down, several of the most violent critics departed, and the remaining shareholders rushed through the business.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS AT MURRAY STREET

McMaster University Men Coming on Sunday—Afternoon Meeting.

The services of three prominent members of the famous McMaster University Evangelistic Band, in the persons of Messrs. Todd, Crofoot and Cameron, have been secured by Murray Street Baptist Church for next Sunday, for morning, afternoon and evening services.

In order that more may hear these visitors without interfering with the other city church services, the Baraca Class of Murray Street Church, the organization behind next Sunday's programme, has arranged for a men's mass meeting to be held at 4.15 o'clock in the afternoon in the auditorium of the church, to which the men of the city are invited. There will be a fifteen-minute song service from 4 until 4.15 o'clock.

Two of the visitors, Messrs. Don Cameron and Hector Todd, spent considerable time together in an evangelistic campaign in the Province of Quebec last summer. They have done a good deal of singing together, and it is expected that their singing of evangelistic songs will be a feature of Sunday's meetings.

Mr. Crofoot, the third member of the Band, is specially qualified to speak to men. He is also a singer, and he and Dr. S. J. Graham, of the Murray Street choir, will make the other pair for a quartette.

It is expected that this quartette will sing at the men's mass meeting, and also at the regular evening service.

A male voice chorus has been practising under the direction of Mr. Francis Sutton, A.C.T.M. They will lead the singing of Gospel songs and provide a number at the men's mass meeting and at the evening service.

It is expected that the three services will be of special interest to young people.

At the morning service Mr. Hector Todd will speak on "The Christian's Task."

In the afternoon, at the special men's mass meeting, the subject will be "Looking Back Toward the Cross," and Mr. Crofoot will be the speaker.

At the regular evening service Mr. Don. Cameron will speak on "What must I do to be a Christian?"

There will be special singing at all the services.

A PRESENTATION ONWARD TEACHER

Members of Bible Class Gave Mrs. Stubbs an Electric Set.

The Onward Bible Class of the George Street United Church held its annual business meeting in the church parlor on Friday evening, Dec. 4. The meeting, in charge of the present, Mrs. McHowel, was opened with a hymn, after which very encouraging reports were received from the officers of the past year. The members were then favored with a vocal solo by Mrs. Curvin, after which the election of officers took place and resulted as follows:

Teacher—Mrs. J. Stubbs.

President—Mrs. McHowel.

Vice-President—Miss C. Roseborough.

Secretary—Miss L. Allen.

Asst. Secretary — Miss M. Roseborough.

Treasurer of Building Fund — Mrs. F. Sanderson.

Treasurer of King's Bank—Miss A. Allen.

Treasurer of Special Collections—Mrs. Curvin.

Visiting Committee — Mrs. McWilliams, Mrs. McCullough, Mrs. Gunsolas and Miss Cooper.

After the officers were duly installed and short addresses given, the class presented Mrs. Stubbs with a three-piece electric set, Miss A. Allen and Mrs. McBain were called upon to make the presentation, while Mr. Kelly read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Stubbs.—We, the members of your Bible Class, have gathered together this evening, not only to discuss and plan our proposals for the coming year, but also to express to you in a few words our sincere appreciation of all you have done for us in the past.

We know that the work you have been doing was not done for the praise you might receive, nor was it because you had to do it. It is simply because your heart is so in the Master's work and your great love for Him has so strengthened you, that you would be at a great loss were it not for giving freely unto others what you yourself have received. You know, Mrs. Stubbs, one cannot go about doing good and living a Godly life without benefitting those with whom you come in contact.

So with us your kindly spirit, your faithfulness to your class and your wonderful Scriptural teachings send us out better women, more able to face our daily tasks and help us to live nearer to God.

May you be long spared to continue this work and may the Master send His richest blessing upon you. We are looking forward to the New Year with you in your usual place after enjoying all the happiness of the Christmas season. In conclusion, we would ask you to accept this small gift in the way it is given, and to remember your sincere friends,

The Onwards.

Mrs. Stubbs, although completely taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply, thanking the members for their kindness and encouragement during the past year, and also expressing her appreciation for assistance given the class in the various social functions during the year.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the Doxology.

Wheat Price Sagged But Loss Was Made Up

CHICAGO, Ills., Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—The unexected weakness of quotations at Liverpool, together with new Argentine crop estimates widely at variance from some that were yesterday put forward led to an early down turn today in wheat prices here. Today's estimates figured the Argentine exportable surplus at 135,000,000 to 140,000,000 bushels. On the other hand, the announcement of additional vessel charters to move wheat from Chicago to Buffalo tended to bring about price rallies. The opening, 1 1-4 to 2 1-8c lower, new style, December 178 1-2 to 179 1-4, and May 173 5-8 to 174 1-2, was followed by upturns that on some transactions lifted the market to the same as yesterday's finish.

Corn was easy, sympathizing with wheat. Besides, reports were current that a majority of elevators here were making contract corn due December delivery. After opening 3-8 to 1c off, May 83 3-8 to 83 1-2, the corn market recovered most of the decline.

Oats were relatively firm. Starting at 1-4 to 1-4 a 3-8c lower, May 45 1-2 a 5-8 to 45 5-8, the market scored slight general gains. Scattered buying gave something of an upturn to the provision market.

Rising Stock Prices Reflect Coolidge Message

NEW YORK, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press).—Rising stock prices to-day reflected Wall Street's response to President Coolidge's message to Congress in which he predicted continued prosperity. Higher call money rates brought an interval of depression, but selling was well absorbed and prices quickly resumed their upward movement. Motor shares, after an early burst of strength, encountered an attack from bear traders while profit-taking interrupted the advance in rails.

Crown Reserve and Vipond Led Trading In Mines

TORONTO, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press)—Crown Reserve and Vipond were again heavily dealt in on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. A substantial increase in the volume of trading, which brought a large number of issues into active dealings, made the morning's turnover more than four hundred thousand shares.

Keeley, one of the leaders, was sold up nine points at 163. Vipond advanced seven to 159, and Crown Reserve sold up to 25, but closed unchanged at 23. Tough Oakes gained a point and a half and Kirkland Lake two. Con. West Dome three-eights and Argonaut a point.

Advance More Moderate But Market Still Firm

TORONTO, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press).—The general advance was moderated on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, but the market continued to show uniform firmness. Brazilian shared the leadership with mines and oils and closed the morning three-eighths higher at 79 3-4. British Columbia Fishing advanced a point to 61, and Twin City seven-eights at 74 5-8. Keeley's advance of ten points at 165 was a feature of the active mines section, and Vipond was sold up eight at 159.

Imperial Oil, British American Oil and International Petroleum were all active and strong.

The regular monthly meeting of the Queen Alexandra Home and School Association was held in the school on Monday evening, with a record attendance, there being over sixty people present. A vocal solo, "The Gift," was sung with much feeling by Mrs. Ford Turner, and the meeting concluded with the service of light refreshments by Mrs. Robert Reed, assisted by several of the members.

The 49 men were released on bail, to be arraigned to-day.

ONE CASE IS BEING TRIED TO-DAY BY JUDGE HUYCKE, COUNTY COURT

Other Care on Docket Postponed Because Defendant Not Present.

EVIDENCE HEARD.

Plaintitff in Mitchell Vs. Bardeau Case Told of Auto Smash.

Of the two cases scheduled to be heard by His Honour Judge Huycke in County Court this afternoon that of Nichols vs. Newnham was deferred as the defendant was unable to be present. R. R. Hall, K.C., appeared for the Plaintiff and F. D. Kerr, K.C., for the defendant. As both cases were for non-jury trial both the Grand jury and the Petit jury were dismissed.

In the case of Mitchell vs. Bardeau, G. N. Gordon, K.C., was retained by the plaintiff and Keith Lennox of Toronto for defendant. John Mitchell, the plaintiff was called and stated that on July 11, near the hour of midnight he had been driving his car from Peterborough to Cavan and when at a point between four and five miles from the city he saw approaching, a car which was on his side of the road, that is, the right side.

The witness stated that he pulled out on the grass with his right wheels, but the on-coming car did not swerve to avoid him and struck his car at the left hand front corner. As a result of the crash, a piece of glass from the windshield cut his (Mitchell's) hand, severing some tendons and incapacitating him for work for several weeks. Mr. Mitchell, while in the box, flexed his fingers showing that the index finger was practically uncontrolled.

Dr. O'Brien gave medical testimony as to nature of the wound, and Provincial Constable Norman Maker testified as to the position of the two cars when he found them on his arrival at the scene after 1 a.m., an hour later than the accident had occurred.

His Honor Judge Huycke, in his address to the Grand Jury, welcomed the members, and intimated that their duties would be light. He spoke regretfully of the fact that the Crown Attorney, G. W. Hatton, K.C., was unable to be present because of illness. His Honor the Judge said that the public did not fully appreciate the services of public men, and said that Mr. Hatton always dealt with legal matters in a considerate manner. He believed always in giving first offenders a second chance. The Judge declared that it was to the credit of the City that Peterborough did not have many criminal cases, and reported that in the jail today were seven people under sentence or on remand.

Continuing, the Judge stated that the Grand Jury was an ancient institution dating back more than a thousand years and said that the members of such an institution were entitled to a certain respect. There were no duties in connection with the present court excepting that they keep in touch with the municipal buildings, to investigate for the purpose of seeing that all officials were doing their duty. They should see that the work was being done efficiently but not extravagantly

Following this discourse on general duties His Honor spoke of the splendid example to nations which was set by the successful completion of the Locarno pact. He also spoke of the loss which the British Empire had recently sustained in the death of the Queen Mother Alexandra, and in that connection read the welcome which Alfred Lord Tennyson had composed in her honor at the time she came to England. The Grand Jury was then dismissed, and after a brief address to the Petit Jury, that body was likewise dismissed.

The following are the members of the Grand Jury: W. A. Richardson (foreman), W. J. Booth, J. W. Byers, G. L. Humphries, Ernest Milburn, Clayton Nurse, F. C. McBride, F. J. Overend, Gordon Pane, G. H. Thompson, W. R. Widdess, William Davidson and K. Poole.

Hon. Cecil Forester, who has inherited the unique right of keeping his hat on in the presence of the English King. This privilege comes down to him from the time of Henry VIII. And then he wasn't wearing a hat!

CZAR'S HANGMEN WERE ARRESTED

Charged With Having Strangled at Least 500 Revolutionists.

FIFTEEN IN TOILS.

MOSCOW, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press) — A reminder of how the hunter has become hunted in Russia was provided yesterday by the arrest of fifteen former executioners under the Czarist regime with having strangled to death at last 500 revolutionists. The evidence against them as set forth in the local press says that they received $10 to $30 for each execution and that one of them, a priest named Rosanoff who officiated at the hangings, received $1.50 for each prayer on the gallows. The place of execution is said to have been in the cellar of a private house. There was a large table and on it a chair. Attached to the ceiling was a stout rope from which the victims were suspended when the chair was thrust from under them. Their bodies were then taken secretly to a cemetery nearby.

F. Nickle and to the Sons of England Lodge at Oshawa, who brought the matter to the attention of the proper authorities.

Congratulatory reference was made to the election to the federal Parliament of Brother E. A. Peck.

Appreciation was also voiced of the services for some years past of Bro. F. Rathbone, in his capacity as secretary of the Hall Trust.

FARMER'S WIFE DEFENDS WASTE OF APPLE CROP

Cost Just as Much to Pack and Ship, But Price is Down.

CAN'T GET AWAY

People Were Invited to Pick What They Wanted, But Refused.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 8.—(By Canadian Press).—Criticism of the farmer who lets his apples waste has been much to the fore this year. One farmer's wife comes to his defense:

"An orchard is counted for so many barrels at so much in a farmer's budget. This year the price is very low, owing to the large yield, and it is costing just as much to pick and ship the apples as when the price is three times as much. As for giving them away, I know one lady who tried it. She sent word to her city friends to come and get all they wanted, but they made excuses—the cellar was too hot for apples, or they did not have barrels. Had she hired a man at from two to three dollars a day, and bought barrels at one dollar each—that is the price here—and paid express to the city, the friends would have said 'it was nice of her to send them,' but afterward, 'apples are so plentiful, why couldn't she'

"An instance is quoted of a farmer with 100 barrels ready to ship and the wind stripping his trees, but who would not give them away. Why should he? I have gone into stores and seen hundreds of dresses there, but if I wanted one I had to buy it. The farmer likely had pigs. We feed what lots of people would call waste and throw away.

"This summer an organization sent out to our lake 25 boys for two weeks, and asked us farmers to feed them. We made pies, cakes and everything but bread for the two weeks. What would happen if one of our men took 25 of our boys to the city and asked just plain citizens to feed them for two weeks? I am sure the boys would like it just as much as the city ones did".

Two Women Walked 1,000 Miles To Win $100

VANCOUVER, B.C., Dec. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Annie Rorvik and Mrs. Sam Johnson, of Prince Rupert, B.C., travelling more than a thousand miles on foot in Canada averaged 10 miles a day and covered the distance in two months. They won $100 from Mrs. Rorvik's brother, who said the thing could not be done.

Their packs weighed from 30 to 45 pounds, consisting chiefly of food and sleeping bags. Sometimes they cooked their own meals and on other occasions they enjoyed the fare of cook cars of railway and road gangs and in the homes of hospitable people along the way. Their beds at night were often in haymows, sometimes in hotels and frequently on the side of the tracks under the shelters made by piling up railway ties.

"Along the Skeena River we saw a number of bears. Once as we were preparing to 'beat it' in a hurry, we discovered that it was the bear that was frightened," they told an interviewer. "Another time we were asleep beside the C.P.R. tracks when a track watchman came along. The glare of his searchlight startled us ,but he silently passed on. Tunnels were our worst fear. We thought we might get trapped, but that never happened. One day we went through a dozen, one of them of which was 1700 feet long."

MILLBROOK PERSONALS

MILLBROOK, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Leonard Henderson, (nee Geraldine Morton), received for the first time since her marriage on Thursday and Friday of this week, the unfavorable state of roads and weather not preventing many from Millbrook and vicinity from motoring out to her home, "Hillhurst Farm", Fallis Line, and extending warmest good wishes, on the afternoon and evening of both days.

Th bride, who wore a becoming dress of rose silk crepe, was assisted in receiving her guests by her mother-in-law, Mrs. A. J. Henderson, while the tea room was in charge of Mrs. A. J. Fallis.

Another bride who was receiving this week was Mrs. William Gray, (formerly Mrs. Louisa Reynolds), who held her post-nuptial reception on Wednesday and Thursday, afternoon and evening, a large number of callers finding their way to her cosy home, King street, west. Rose-shaded lights, and bright fires were a welcome change to the cold and dampness out of doors, the bride's neice, Miss Viola McBride, opening the door for the incoming guests.

Mrs. T. H. Bradley, poured tea, and the dining-table looked very attractive, centred with feathery green fern, and with red candles burning brightly.

Mr. Arthur Bristow has moved in to the house on Tupper street formerly occupied by Mrs. Gray.

Mr. J. L. Byam last week purchased three new foxes and now has five pairs, with enlarged pen space for their accomodation. The official inspector has not made his visit as yet this fall.

Mrs. C. M. Westmacott and Miss Rose Macnamara left on Saturday, the former to make an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. Robin Fowler, at Victoria, B.C., and with other friends en route at Toronto, Winnipeg, Penticton, and other points. Miss Macnamara will spend the winter in Toronto. Mrs. Westmacott expects to reopen her home here next May.

The Semi-sports Frock of Tweed and Wool Crêpe

Very often a soft woolen frock is a necessity for comfort. The model pictured here is especially interesting to the miss and small woman of individual smartness, who demands unusual treatment in even the simplest of frocks. A soft tweedy material in gray and rose fashions this straight one-piece frock, with rose wool crêpe forming the vestee, cuffs and set-on section at the lower edge of the skirt. An inverted plait extends from the hip to the hem at the left side, and has four large buttons for trimming. The long sleeves are joined to a short kimono shoulder and gathered into deep cuffs at the wrists. The collar may be worn buttoned up to the neck, while a narrow belt ties in loops at the center back. The diagram pictures the partly finished frock, and No. 1108 is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 requires 4¾ yards 36 or 40 inch, or 3¼ yards 54-inch material. When making the vestee, cuffs and lower section of contrasting material, ⅞ yard additional is required. Price 20 cents.

NEW VELOUR HAT AND FUR COAT

Something quite new in the treatment of velour is seen on the smart hat at the right. This model is of sapphire blue, the crown being cut out in innumerable little decorative suots through which glistens satin of the same shade. At the left is a fur coat in a novel combination of raccoon and opossum. This model is smartly serviceable for the many sports occasions at which fur coats are worn. Loose and wrappy lines distinguish this model, which is topped with an enormous and comfortable collar.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

As you have helped others, I am going to ask you to give me a little advice.

Some time ago I met the only girl I will ever love. I went out with her only a few times and we had a few words, nothing serious, but like all other quarrels we parted bad friends. Now since then I have been thinking of her constantly but I have never asked her to go out with me, as I am afraid she may refuse. She doesn't go with a steady, so do you think I have a chance yet? I don't see her very often but she always speaks quite friendly to me. She seemed to like me while we were together.

She is a wonderful girl, not a bit bold or loud in anyway; that is why I took such a notion to her when we first met, she seemed so different.

How can I regain her friendship again? Do you think if I asked her to go out again would she refuse. Please advise me as I just think the world of her and I want her back again.—Accept my thanks. "BUDDY."

BUDDY: I haven't the slightest doubt in the world that the young lady, if she were to sit down and write me a letter, would say substantially the same thing as you have said, and would wonder just how she could make up with you. I would be willing to bet a good deal on the chance that she has cried herself to sleep several times since you had your quarrel. If she doesn't go with a steady, and she speaks friendly to you, as you say, and she's the only girl you will ever love, why be so foolish as to keep the thing up? The type of girl who is not bold or loud will hesitate a long time before taking the first step. She still retains a bit of the old-fashioned way of thinking that a man should be the pursuer. And don't you think that is the best way, too, and the nicest way? Ring her up immediately and thank your stars that you are lucky enough to have the chance before something separates you and the only girl forever. Accept my best wishes for your reconciliation.

A gloomy face helps neither the wearer of it nor his neighbor.

A Fashion Model's Diary

SHE TELLS OF THE VOGUE FOR PYJAMAS

Gaby informed us Friday that she had gotten Saturday off, and was planning a week-end trip.

"Where are you going?" I asked.

"I'm going to visit a young cousin," she informed me, and added that the girl was at a girls' college, some hours away from New York.

We were all interested to get Gaby's impression of college life, and begged her to observe all that went on, and tell us about it when she returned.

She came back Monday and gave glowing accounts of her impressions. She was most enthusiastic in her praise of the clothes she saw. She assured us that the girls were quite as smartly dressed, in their way, as we were.

"What is their way?" Pam queried.

"Oh, smart sports frocks, and good-looking skirts and sweaters and blouses," Gaby informed us.

"Good, wholesome-looking clothes," Pam commented.

"And as for the pajamas, I'm sure they wear the gayest collection there I've ever seen," Gaby added.

"Pajamas do seem to go well with bobbed heads, and you say there were many bobbed coiffures," I commented.

Gaby didn't bother to answer, as she was busy sketching a pair of pajamas.

"This is one type I saw a lot of," she informed us, holding up the sketch.

We saw that the overblouse part was made with an open V-neck, the kind that is always so becoming.

Gaby explained that the material was crepe de Chine, in gay candy stripes. She added:

"You see they are not altogether unfeminine, for these are less tailored in appearance than the regular type of men's pajamas."

MODERN POETS NOT HUMANIZING SCIENTIFIC IDEAS OF THIS AGE

No Such Thing as Contemporary Poetry, Padraic Colum.

VISITS MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 8, —(Canadian Press.)—Revival of interest in local life was said to be the main movement in modern poetry, by Padraic Colum, Irish poet, essayist, dramatist and lecturer, in addressing a meeting of the Montreal Women's Club at the Mount Royal Hotel Monday. He said there was really no such thing as contemporary poetry. None of the poets of to-day had absorbed the great ideas which were moulding the world in this age, he said.

"No poet has succeeded in humanizing for us the political and scientific ideas of to-day, and until such poets arise we cannot be said to possess a contemporary poetry," Padraic Colum declared. "It would be difficult to find poetry which is contemporary with the sort of life we are living, comparable to the metropolitan civilization we live in —comparable, for instance, to a sky-scraper or a great bridge.

"Poets live in a world that knows nothing of such scientific discoveries as the possibilities of the breaking up of the atom, or Einstein's theory of relativity," the poet went on adding that it was the particular business of poets and artists to take hold of the ideas that were moulding the world and to humanize them for the race, for it was only when these ideas pass through art that they become absorbed into the race.

A skyscraper, or anything that is being done in the modern world today, is as much a matter for poetry as the shepherd driving his flock over the hill.

"There is a movement in contemporary poetry which makes it possible to bring together certain poets into the same classification, and that is the revival on interest in local life," he said, explaining that after the time of Tennyson came poets making poetry out of particular localities."

THE PUMPKIN PIE PRINCESS—XX

by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

ONCE THE PUMPKIN HOUSE OF A TINY LITTLE GIRL NAMED ESMERELDA FELL ON THE MOON. SHE SHOWED THE MOON KING'S CHEF HOW TO MAKE A PIE OF HER HOUSE, AND IN RETURN HE GOT HIS MAGICIAN TO GRANT HER WISH TO BE AS BIG AS OTHER LITTLE GIRLS. THE MAGICIAN ALSO TURNED A TOAD HE FOUND IN A GOLDEN BOX BENEATH THE CASTLE BACK INTO THE PRINCE HE HAD BEEN BEFORE A WICKED SORCERESS HAD BEWITCHED HIM. THE PRINCE ASKED ESMERELDA TO GO HOME WITH HIM.

ESMERELDA AND THE PRINCE SAILED THROUGH THE SKY WITH LIGHTNING SPEED.

AFTER SOME TIME, THEY SPIED THE WORLD, A SMALL BALL IN THE DISTANCE, BUT AS THEY APPROACHED IT RAPIDLY IT GREW LARGER AND LARGER.

FINALLY THEY LANDED GENTLY ON ITS EDGE, ON THE VERY SPOT WHERE ESMERELDA'S PUMPKIN HAD STOOD. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate

OFF IN THE DISTANCE THEY COULD SEE THE CASTLE WHERE THE PRINCE HAD LIVED AND THEY STARTED FOR IT IMMEDIATELY.

THE ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

Have you studied the intricate but exact science of number, color, and name vibration?

Or are you among the back numbers who class modern science with palmistry and mere fads?

Whatever you are, you will be interested in this.

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, and who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

All You Must Do

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Give a pen-name for use in The Examiner, or, if you desire a more complete reading, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars, but if for any reason you desire to omit any of these, a partial reading will be given. Here is what is offered:

When full particulars are given:

The signifcance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; how you must act to gain happiness; whether the date named is an auspicious one on which to take an important step; your particular color; where to apply your efforts and where you will best succeed.

When only name is given:

The significance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; gain happiness.)

When only birth date is given:

How to gain spiritual and material success; the measure of your force and power; and by what color you are influenced.

When only full name and a particular date are given:

An analysis of the day, with a direction as to how best to apply your efforts. It is better to state briefly the purpose when seeking advice of this kind.

Please Remember

that the full name and full date of birth must be given, such as: "John Robert Doe, 12 March, 1899." In seeking advice on a particular day, state the date, month, and year.

And Take Warning

that "The Oracle" will not sugar-coat his pills. If you desire only pleasant things brought to your attention, do not send your inquiries to him. If there is a warning to be issued, "The Oracle" will give it; if there is a bad trait to be corrected, "The Oracle" will warn you of it.

No full names will be printed in The Examiner, only initials or pen-names as given being used. And any informaton given to "The Oracle" will be kept confidentially. Replies will appear the day after the inquiry is received. Here is the form:

Full name .....

Birth date: (day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an mportant transaction or engagement?

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

K.A.W.—You will succeed by cleverness rather than by force, and you must learn to use the velvet glove rather than the mailed fist, whatever your inclinations. In other words, cultivate diplomacy. Men with characteristics such as yours have become great doctors and clergymen. Your birthdate and name features show you to be at heart gentle and kindly, a subject fit for trust and confidence. Play no games of chance. Your colors are orange, gray, scarlet and heliotrope.

"TOOTS"—Yours is the joy characteristic, bringing laughter and cheer to others and gleaning perhaps more than your fair share in the doing. You are receptive and peace-loving, except when you wish to quarrel, when you are quick and cruel. You are apt to lack initiative and efficiency, and should cultivate control and industry. Your color is gold. Guard well your next year of life, and seek capable advice on important steps. Do not permit your color to blind you to finer things—love, home and friendship. The day you name would be satisfactory for important events, but do not be rash. Investigate well. If an investment of money is contemplated consult your banker. If an affair of the heart pends, confide in your parents or in some near friend.

F.C.S.—Yours is a curious reading. Both your name and your birth-date characteristics indicate vacillation and change, but a contradictory indication is given of mental and physical force. Your birth date characteristic is self centred and limited vision; you are daring and inclined to disergard the rights of others to achieve your aims. Cultivate friendships that are worth while, and broaden your mind by reading good books and studying the trend of daily world events. Your colors are rose, orange, and yellow, denoting love, straigth-forwardness and joyfulness.

J.H.Mc.—If you would succeed you must be prepared to plug away at your job, your name characteristics show. Your spiritual success will be limited, but hard work will bring financial success. Your birth date characteristics denote ability to face the circumstances of daily life with a smile. Though erratic in trifles you have the virtue of permanency in major questions. Do not be discouraged if the early months of 1926 bring you disappointment, but let your natural personal force carry you through. Cultivate care in money matters; remember that the dollars grow out of cents. Colors, red and brown.

M. McM.—Not much can be scientifically deduced when the name alone is given, as in your case. It is the comparison and joining of birth and name characteristics that yields results. You are reserved and retired, and should endeavor to overcome nervousness. Do not give way to the moodiness to which you are subject; laugh, and you will have many friends.

"BUDDY"—Your name virbrates to characteristics of joy and your destiny is to bring laughter and pleasure to others. You are a happy companion with those whom you favor, but should repress inclinations to moodiness. Your birth date connotes high mental powers with leaning towards scientific achievement. Yours is a future of accomplishment, but you will not realize the full joy of attainment unless you develop a more human outlook. Don't be stand-offish. Co-operate with your fellows. Don't be afraid of hard work, physical or mental. Your color is opal, formed of varying shades of gold and blue. The day of which you enquire would be for important events a good one, but if the matter is of major importance take competent advice. Consult with others who are disinterested before committing yourself irrevocably.

J.M.—See note to M. McM. above. Your name only is given. You are inclined to be irascible, and hard to get along with. Yet there is a faint indication of warm heartedness which you succeed in burying. Come out of eclipse and show the best of your nature. You would be successful in another line of business.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

DICKY MEETS A REAL MOOSE

"Well, of all things!" Dicky exclaimed when he looked up and read the letters above the pen "M-o-o-s-e," he spelled every letter out slowly "The nearest I have ever come to seeing a moose was the head that hangs in the lodge room that Daddy belongs to," he mused "I'd certainly like to see what a real-for-sure moose looks like."

Just then out from behind a bunch of rocks stepped a creature about the size of a horse. His neck was very short and thick, his face was broad and long, humping up toward the nose. His great thick upper lip hung down over the lower one. Very small eyes winked at Dicky.

"My, what wonderful antlers you have!" exclaimed Dicky. "They are much nicer than the ones on the head hanging in the Moose Hall."

"I'm glad of that," declared Mr. Moose. "I rather like my flattened antlers. I never did admire the ones my cousin Billy Deer owns. I like mine much better. His are round instead of flat like mine. Mrs. Moose declares I'm handsome with antlers and horribly homely without them."

"I should think you would be homely without your antlers," laughed Dicky. "Has your wife great antlers like yours?"

"Goodness, no! She hasn't any at all. Never has any," replied Mr. Moose. "She's not so very good looking. How do you like my bell?"

"Haven't heard any bell," Dicky laughed. "Where is it?"

Mr. Moose laughed merrily and

"What Wonderful Antlers!"

shook his head. Then the hairy fold of skin that hung down under his neck dangled back and forth.

"That's what they call my bell," he said, "that fold of skin. But you see it's the kind of bell that doesn't ring. Would you believe me when I tell you that moose are the largest of all our deer relatives? We are, just the same."

"You don't look like a cousin to Billy Deer. Your legs are so much larger than the deer have," said Dicky, "and your hoofs look more like a cow's than they do like a deer's. But I surely do admire your antlers and dark brown suit. I should think you'd be glad you're in the Zoo, so folks can't shoot you for those antlers."

"Indeed I am glad I'm in this Zoo," Mr. Moose laughed. "I wouldn't go back to the old life in the Far North for anything. No sir-ee. Here comes my best friend now with my supper."

"Just reminds me I'd better run home or I'll miss my supper," laughed Dicky. "I'll come back and chat again some time." Just as the keeper came up with Mr. Moose's supper Dicky scooted on home.

Here is a pictorial slant on the alleged Chicago water steal from Canada. Top left is a scene on the Chicago drainage canal showing four tugs escorting six scows heavily loaded with stone. When the barge route for Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico is completed, its supporters believe this canal will be crowded with traffic. Top right shows the basoule bridge on Michigan avenue, Chicago, looking west, and is a graphic illustration of the possibilities of a seaport in the very heart of Chicago. WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS—
The "World's Shoemaker"

No boy ever had a less auspicious start in life than William Lewis Douglas, born August 22, 1845, in Plymouth, Mass., amid poor surroundings. His father died when he was five years old and the little lad was "bound out" and began the heart-breaking struggle with life.

At seven years of age he was put to pegging shoes in a dismal garret and doing chores far beyond his childish strength. He was cuffed and scolded until his period of bondage ended. Then, for eight years of toil he was given $10.

But his spirit was still unbroken. Determined not to be an ignorant drudge all his life, he arranged to work on a farm where he could attend school during the Winter months. Then he spent several years learning how to design, cut and make fine shoes by hand. But no matter how weary at the end of the day's work, he attended night classes.

In the late '60's machinery came in and young Douglas was quick to see that it meant large-scale operations. He got a job in a Brockton, Mass., factory where machinery was used, and in five years he was superintendent of the plant. In 1876 he decided to strike out for himself. He was married and had a little family and had saved no money. But he borrowed $875. He rented a room, installed some machinery and hired five men.

Douglas personally selected the leather, cut it up and supervised the work, and then went out and found buyers for the output of his little factory—48 pairs per day. His business increased rapidly, and he opened a three-story factory and ran his output up to 1,800 pairs daily.

Increasing his manufacturing facilities, Douglas began a unique campaign of advertising. Every shoe that left his factory had his picture stamped on the sole. Moreover, on each shoe was stamped the price at which it must be sold—thus establishing the one-price method.

He owns the largest shoe-factory in the world with floor space aggregating

He Pegged Shoes as a Boy

350,000 square feet. Its output is over 3,000,000 pairs of shoes per annum.

The force of five workers has increased to an army of 4,000. W. L. Douglas, unlike the prophet, is honored in his own "bailiwick." From the Mayor of Brockton he became State Representative, then State Senator, and finally the Governor of Massachusetts, in 1905.

REV. DR. CONWELL DEAD.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8. — The Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, renowned Baptist clergyman, founded and President of Temple University, lecturer, author and philanthropist, died early Sunday after a long illness. Conscious until the end, Dr. Conwell bade good-bye to his only daughter, Mrs. Anna Tuttell, and several close friends, and then passed quietly away. He was 82. His only son, Leon Conwell, Mayor-elect of Somerville, Mass., and editor of The Somerville Journal, was unable to arrive before death came.

Dr. Conwell had been in failing health for more than a year. Ten weeks ago he was operated upon for a cancer. He probably will be buried to-morrow at Worthington, Mass. The body will lie in state to-night in Baptist Temple, of which he was pastor.

YOUR HEALTH

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.,

Christmas is the children's day, a day devoted to gift giving.

The Scriptures are filled with references to gifts and giving. Here is one saying of the Master, recorded by both Matthew and Luke:

"If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him?"

Is there here a veiled suggestion that a man's chief resemblance to the heavenly Father lies in his attitude toward his children? If there is one thing born in man, it is an overwhelming love for his children. This love, it seems to me, is the surest evidence of the divine spark in the human heart.

Even though the tendency of the parent be toward evil; or, as the Master said, even though the parent be evil, he knows how to give good gifts unto his children. At least, he wants to give them good gifts.

What is the greatest gift a parent can give the child?

The greatest and best of all good gifts is the gift of a strong, vigorous body.

To have such a body the child must be born of normal and healthy parents. What a child is to be is determined, not alone by the conditions of his own lifetime, but to a very considerable degree by the physical condition of his ancestors.

Fortunately, much of what we call bad inheritance may be overcome. Most of the congenital defects can be lived down or otherwise remedied. I am out of harmony with the common fear of hereditary evils. The individual has at least a 90 per cent chance to determine his own health. But, after all, the contribution of his parents by the gift of inherited physical perfection is tremendously important.

The manner of life the child will lead is determined largely by the teachings of his parents. Next to the vigor the child has at birth, the second important thing is to instruct that little one in the simple rules of hygiene. From earliest infancy, through the entire period of childhood and adolescence, the parents may be giving good gifts every day.

I have thought often of the manner of life the Christ Child had. Born a normal and vigorous baby, He was brought up amid the simple surroundings of a poor man's home. He learned to use His hands. The tools of the carpenter were His playthings. He swung the axe and the adz. He climbed the ladders and by honest toil developed a lad's appetite for coarse and wholesome food.

If you would give good gifts unto your children, you can do no better than to imitate the gifts Joseph and Mary gave Jesus. Whether your child is rich or poor, he must have manual exercise if he is to thrive. To give him a life of laziness is not a good gift—it is an evil one. Set him physical tasks and encourage him in out-of-doors sports. These are good gifts.

Make Christmas Day for your children, as it was for the Christ Child, the beginning of a lifetime of health and usefulness. In this way you glorify childhood and honor the Child who became our Lord and Master.

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

Solution will appear in to-morrow's paper.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 9

A fairly fortunate day is forecast from the auspicious transits of Luna sustained by favorable mutual aspects. Jupiter, the Greater Fortune, is assisted in its friendly offices by the gracious Venus, the secondary benefic in the planetary chain. This combination should bring happiness and prosperity to all lines of human interest, business as well as personal; but there is some menace of complications through letters or documents and also by a tendency to rash acts and caustic language. Be cautious in these respects.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of most fortuitious circumstances in all personal as well as business interests, providing they curb the tongue. Exercise precaution in the matter of writing. A child born on this day should be finely endowed in intellectual and social qualities, but it should be assisted to apply itself to business in a calm and conservative way, as it may be inclined to rash and impulsive ways and may be careless with writings and caustic in speech.

NEW YORK ADDED $400,000 TO RED GRANGE'S SUDDEN WEALTH IN DAY

Cheque for $300,000 to Appear in Films Was Bulkiest.

ODDS AND ENDS, TOO

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—Red Grange trod a golden path in his spectacular week-end visit to New York.

The former hero of college gridirons, now starring as a professional with the Chicago Bears, left the city yesterday afternoon for Washington to fulfill a playing engagement there today after realizing close to $400,000 here within the short space of 24-hours on his fame and name.

The climax of Grange's financial operations, now as sensational as any of his performances on the football field, was the signing of a motion picture contract Monday under which he was immediately handed a cheque for $300,000, representing a flat guarantee for his first appearance on the screen.

In addition to this Grange was paid $36,000 for participating in the 19 to 7 victory scored by his Bears over the New York Giants Sunday at the Polo Grounds before a record crowd of 75,000, and received $40,000 more from metropolitan business concerns obtaining his endorsment for sweaters, dolls, caps, shoes, tobacco and souvenirs.

Grange gained about 150-yards during his short afternoon's work against the Giants so that his share of the gate receipts represented $240 for each yard he advanced. The amount he received for his game here was nearly double that for any previous engagement and brought his total estimated revenue from actual playing to about $90,000.

Grange Careful With His Money, Press Agent Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press)—Red Grange has not forgotten the economical lessons of his days as a professional football star.

According to his manager, C. C. Pyle, Grange is given $100 a week for spending money, the remainder of his income being put in an Illinois Bank.

"A week ago Saturday," said Pyle, "I gave Red a $100 bill. Yesterday thinking he might be in need of some change, I asked him if he wanted his hundred.

"'Oh, no,' he answered, 'I still got $70 left and the trainer owes me $10.'"

NATIONAL LEAGUE IN SESSION TO-DAY

Propose to Terminate Season Before Oct. 1.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press). — Armed with persuasive adjectives, good intentions and bulging pocket-books, magnate and manager lined up here last night for the annual barter in baseball stars to-day at the meeting of the National League.

There was no indication last night that they would be required else. Baseball corridors echoed to call upon oratory for anything notes from a turbulent session of the International League yesterday, but they fri[illegible] to chase the dove of peace fr[illegible] e camps of the senior baseball c[illegible] uit and of the American League, the latter of which will go into session Wednesday. Furthermore, signs pointed even to a joint session of both leagues without discord on Thursday.

It appears generally established that both leagues will approve an earlier closing of the season but not a shortening of the 154-game schedule. President John A. Heydler of the National League favors terminating the race on September 26 in the West and September 29 in the East, thus permitting the world series to get under way October 1.

Several magnates have suggestions for improving world series contests.

D. AND O. LEAGUE PRESENTS TROPHIES

Meeting Held in Cobourg Last Week—Cobourg and Oshawa Winners.

COBOURG, Dec. 8.—The event of the week in sporting circles was the meeting of the Durham and Ontario Baseball Executive held at the New Durham hotel here, accompanied by the presentation of trophies to the fortunate winners of last season. The Sinclair trophy was presented by Mr. Ed. White of Cobourg to Mr. Murphy of the Oshawa Junior team, the winners of the junior championship in the D. and O. League.

Mr. Orme Gamsby of Orono next presented Mr. Ed. Campbell, manager of the Cobourg Dyeing Company team with the Spalding trophy. The recipients on behalf of their respective teams made suitable reply.

The executive of the D. and O. League will meet at Port Hope on the last Saturday in February to elect officers.

ROCKY KANSAS IS NEW CHAMP

Buffalo Boxer Took Lightweight Title From His Fellow Citizen, Goodrich.

VETERAN FIGHTER.

BUFFALO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Rocky Kansas of Buffalo, last night won the lightweight championship of the world from Jimmy Goodrich, also of Buffalo, in a stirring 15-round bout, replete with action every second. The veteran challenger outscored the champion and achieved the goal he set himself to win more than 14 years ago.

The new champion, a sturdy, stocky fighter of Italian descent, has been the idol of Buffalo boxing fans for years. His victory last night surprised the experts, who had figured that the youth and skill of Jimmy Goodrich would carry him through.

Goodrich was chosen successor to Benny Leonard in an exhibition bout last summer without fighting Leonard, who retired. Kansas was defeated by Leonard three times.

MANY BRITISH PLAYERS HURT

Frozen Pitches for Saturday's Football Games Caused Injuries.

SOME SERIOUS

Soccer conditions in the Old Country Saturday were severe, and despite the use of many devices to protect the pitches, including the spreading of straw, salt and sand, the burning of gasoline and a plentiful distribution of blazing braziers, the hard frost rendered the footing on most of the playing pitches treacherous and notwithstanding the utmost care exercised by the players themselves, many in soccer and rugby circles sustained serious injury. Mooney, of Newcastle, broke a leg; Hopkins, of Liverpool, broke his collarbone; Jennings, of Luton, strained his groin; Wells, of Arsenal, loaned to Sheppey, broke his leg playing against Whitstable, and Osborne, of Manchester, was carried off, as was Parker, of Sunderland.

Goals at a Discount

The ground of the Bradford Club was sprinkled with gasoline and set alight. This melted the ice and rendered the pitch quite playable. The cautious tactics of the players as a whole put scoring at a discount; Eyre, of Bournemouth United, alone distinguishing himself by scoring 3 goals before he was carried off injured. The Bury-Burnley game had to be postponed. Attendance dropped everywhere, the big league games only attracting 450,000 spectators altogether. Fighting the frost cost clubs a goodly sum, Huddersfield spending $1,000, while unemployed were utilized in getting the Blackburn grounds in readiness. Reading seemed so sure-footed in their game with Northampton that the referee examined the boots of players during half-time.

Arsenal Still on Top

The tit-bit of the English first division was the game between Huddersfield and Arsenal, the leaders, the struggle ending with honors even, each team scoring two goals. Aston Villa kept on the track of the "Gunners" by drawing with Tottenham Hotspurs. The Villa team has now played seven drawn games this season.

Derby County, of the second division, registered a handy win over Middlesborough. The supporters of Derby believe that, after missing promotion for two successive seasons, their form this year gives promise of better things.

Reading's win over Northampton was the best performance in the Southern section of the third division, but Plymouth Argyle are evidently determined to keep their substantial lead. They easily defeated Queen's Park Rangers. Bradford, in the Northern section, had a narrow shave after a long immunity from defeat. Coventry led at half-time, but a delayed goal gave Bradford the counter they wanted to draw.

Hibs Get Sackful

In Scotland the frost caused the postponement of many Rugby games, but the soccer schedule was completed. The feature tussle in the Scottish League First Division was Hibernians win over Hamilton by the great score of 8 goals to 4. Ritchie scored three for the winners and Murray two of Hamilton's goals. Williamson got two.

Morton's Surprise Packet

Kilmarnock performed meritoriously to draw with Rangers. Cunningham scored twice for the latter and Smith and Hoad registered for Kilmarnock. Each side had a penalty goal.

The Aberdeen forwards failed badly in the second half against Hearts, for whom McNeil scored twice. Morton played one of the best games of the season against Airdrieonians and brought off a surprise victory.

SOLDIER JONES BOUT STOPPED

"Soldier Jones" (on the left), the Canadian light-heavyweight champion, was to have fought Paolino, the Spanish heavyweight at Barcelona, Spain, tonight, but the chief of police stopped the bout. In the above reproduction the Canadian is taking a look at Camarao, the Portuguese, who stands 6 feet 6¼ inches and weighs 235 pounds.

WESTERN RUGBY NOT DEVELOPED YET FOR FINALS

Suggestions That Teams From the West be Restricted.

FAR BEHIND EAST

Winnipeg Tigers a Great Disappointment—Lack Canadian Coaching.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 8. — Canadian Press. — Revision of the Canadian Rugby Union rules by which the west would be restricted from playing in the finals until such thave "improved sufficiently to attract sufficient people to make their cross country jaunts less of a financial burden to themselves, and to the teams they play against," is advocated by the Evening Journal following the 24-1 defeat administered to the Tammany Tigers of Winnipeg, by the Ottawa Senators in the Dominion Rugby final here on Saturday.

There is not much likelihood of the east losing its football supremacy, in the opinion of the Citizen, which says that Saturday's "disappointing game" served to demonstrate that western football is still very far behind the brand played in this section of the country. "It would be going too far to say that the Tigers resembled a Collegiate team, by eastern standards, but it would be true to say that they looked very much like an Intermediate outfit," the Citizen says.

In this connection Lou Marsh in the Toronto Star says:

Something must be done to stop these West v. East senior Rugby final fiascos. Saturday's fizzle at Ottawa when Ottawa Senators, the eastern champions, defeated Tammany Tigers of Winnipeg, western champions, 24 to 1, cooked the goose as far as future crowds for these affairs are concerned. When a dominion final could not be "sold" to a town all warmed up by its first championship in 26 years, plus a brilliant and unexpected triumph over a smart team like Queen's, what hope is there for a crowd in blase Rugby cities like Toronto, Hamilton or Montreal in future years? The reason is not far to seek. Western teams are outclassed, and always will be outclassed as long as competition in the west is so meagre and U. S. coaching is behind the teams. Only 4500 people turned out for the final game. The only consolation they had when the thing was over was that Ottawa had won.

Look at the record of the west in these Dominion finals:

1922—Argonauts 23; Edmonton Eskimos 0.

1923—Queen's 13; Edmonton Elks 1.

1924—Queen's 54; Regina 0.

1925—Ottawa 24; Tammany Tigers of Winnipeg 1.

U.S. Coaches.

The two Edmonton teams were coached by "Deacon" White who learned his football in the United States. The Regina team was tutored by Ritter, another U. S. college player of renown, and the mentor of the Tiger team was Harold Roth, another U. S. college star. They do not know anything about Canadian football and their coaching produced a hybrid style of play which was ineffective against eastern experience.

Every game was a joke. Argonauts faced by a hard plunging and sturdy line were bucked all over the field by the Eskimos but when they got the ball their well drilled halves gained back in a play or two all the territory that the westerners had dynamited off in a dozen bone-smashing plays. The Eskimos never looked to have a chance. All they had was grit, and courage and brawn.

The following year, against the Edmonton Elks the great Queen's machine just loafed along and let them down easily with a 13 to 1 score. Queen's did not try to rub it in. The score could just as easily have been doubled.

In 1924, the Queen's team, tired of the demand to play off with the outclassed western champions, handed Regina a 54 to 0 beating, and figured that a sloughing like that would stop the trek eastward and let Eastern Canada close up senior football before the snow came.

But the westerners are nothing if not game and persistent. Down comes this Winnipeg team, the 1925 champions, heralded as the "best senior team ever turned out in the west."

"The best team that was ever turned out in the west!"

Wow!

It is too bad to have to say it, for this Tammany Tiger team is a collection of mighty fine lads and good athletes too, but it was positively the worst team which has yet come east after a senior Rugby championship.

Members of several former champion teams were on hand to see Ottawa capture its first Dominion Rugby championship in 23 years. They included Tom "King" Clancy, president of the Ottawa team, Father Prud'homme, a great inside wing on the Ottawa College line-ups in the nineties, Mr. D'Arcy McGee, who played full back for the Rough Riders when they won Dominion honors in 1902, Tom Boucher, a star on several championship aggregations, and many others.

The invaders might not be of Dominion championship calibre, yet they revealed themselves gentlemen athletes both on and off the field. They accepted defeat like well-bred sportsmen. Their lusty cheer for the Ottawas at the close of the game was a gesture of true sportsmanship.

Come back again Winnipeg!

After the game the losers tripped into the Ottawa dressing room, and insisted on shaking hands all round with the winners. The Winnipeg boys lost no time in peeling off their sweaters and asking the Ottawas to exchange the famous red, white and black shirts for them. An exchange was made all round.

Hardened paint brushes will become soft again if boiled in vinegar.

Teapots and percolators should be thoroughly washed and scalded after using.

RARE COINS AND STAMPS SOLD AT CHURCH BAZAAR

Indoor Fair Held in Mr. C. Garside's Store by Ladies' Aid.

OF UNITED CHURCH

Receipts of $255 in Spite of Unfavorable Weather.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 7—The annual two days' bazaar held under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society of the United Church on Friday and Saturday of last week proved quite successful, though unfavorable roads and weather made it all but impossible for people living in the country to attend the sale.

Mr. C. C. Garside kindly gave the use of his store for the bazaar, but the committee in charge found the limited accomodation somewhat of a drawback and larger quarters will be secured another season. The lack of space was felt particularly in serving the hot supper on Saturday evening though this was a feature of the sale which was well patronized. Mrs. G. W. Sayles was in charge, and the waitresses were Misses Margaret Howard, Jean Burnham and Marjorie Sayles.

The attractive manner in which the array of saleable articles was displayed together with the appropriate decorations presented a pleasing picture ,and offered an agreeable contrast to the cold and dampness out of doors as the many purchasers came in and inspected the goods on sale.

Few could pass the tempting display of homemade candy in attractive containers, which was directly opposite the entrance doors, and was presided over by Mrs. Ross Edmunds and Mrs. F. H. Howard. The children were especially delighted with the small baskets of sweets, flower petals of varying shades making up the outside covering.

Fancy Work Booth

Embroidered luncheon sets, and pillow covers, handkerchiefs made up like bunches of roses, and tatted doyleys of an intricate pattern, were among the "best sellers" in the dainty array of articles useful and ornamental which filled the fancy work counter, Mrs. G. Locke and Mrs. J. McKnight being in charge.

Mrs. C. C. Garside and Mrs. R. H. Edmunds soon had their stock of aprons depleted, the list including, besides the children's aprons, kitchen aprons in a variety of materials and patterns, as well as those of a daintier kind for afternoon wear.

The children's wear department was well patronized, Mrs. F. W. Smith and Mrs. Hugh Kennedy being responsible for this section, and the "country store," with Mrs. T. H. Aiken and Mrs. W. G. Rowland as "salesladies," was practically sold out by the tea hour on Saturday evening.

The stock of California Dahlias was exhausted early in the afternoon and more might readily have been sold had they been on hand. Mrs. G. E. Burnham had this item in charge.

Homemade baking was on sale on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. A. J. Brown and Mrs. J. L. Ryan giving ready attention to the many customers, the counter being cleared by the closing hour.

As usual the "fish pond" gave great pleasure to the younger folk, and was practically exhausted by the supper hour on Saturday afternoon. Mrs. W. West "baited" the hook for the eager fishermen.

The sale of rare coins and stamp by Rev. Joseph Wilks, who generously donated a supply of these unusual wares from his large stock, was an interesting fature on both days. Mr. Wilks has been collecting coins for seventy years and still possesses the first one he bought, a thick copper coin probably two inches in diameter, when he began this interesting hobby. Thirty-five years ago Mr. Wilks added stamp collecting as another interest to which he has devoted attention until he had seven thousand from practically every country in the world in his possession. He has disposed of a number but still has four thousand on hand, and still continues the study.

A number of the boys are interested in these two lines and Mr. Wilks was kept busy explaining points of interest and value to the young collectors and incidentally selling quite a lot of what he had decided to dispose of, donating the proceeds to the bazaar funds.

A pair of white gates, rose-trimmed, gave entrance to the tea room presided over by Miss May Duncan, the large red candles in green holders which centred the tables, giving a Christmas atmosphere in keeping with the season. The small pine trees, and red poinsettias, used in the decorations also accentuated the Christmas feeling.

Miss M. E. Needham, president of the Aid Society, had a general oversight of the proceedings, and greeted as many of the customers as possible during the busy hours of both afternoons, and on Saturday evening as well when the sale concluded.

The total receipts were $255.00, and this amount would have been considerably increased had the bad weather not continued on both days being particularly unfavorable on Saturday.

The three local churchs are holding their sales on successive Saturday's this year, the Presbyterians having used the Armouries for their bazaar the week preceeding the one under United Church auspices, and the Anglicans intend holding theirs next Saturday, December 12, in Mr. Garside's store.

Pro Football Player Dies On Field Of Broken Neck

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8. — Paul McConville, a member of the Frankford Panthers, a professional football team, had his neck broken Sunday while playing against the Summerdale A. A., and died before reaching a hospital. McConville was hurt in the first quarter when he brought down a runner with a flying tackle. Several other players piled on top of them and when they were untangled, McConville remained on the ground. He was carried unconscious to the side lines and when first aid failed a hospital ambulance was summoned. Physicians said he had been killed almost instantly.

AMERICANS IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Dec. 8. (Canadian Press).—New York Americans will make their bow before a Montreal hockey crowd here this evening for the first time since sneeding the Hamilton Tiger stripes in favor of the stars and stripes of the Madison Square Garden team's uniform. The Americans are scheduled to play their peppery rivals of last season, the Canadiens, the game being at the Mount Royal Arena.

Manager Tommy Gorman led his Gotham combination into Montreal at the week-end, and the team worked out yesterday at the Arena before a fair-sized crowd. Plus the services of Joe Simpson and Morrison from the West, and of Billy Cameron, formerly with Canadiens, New York are practically the same as the team which last year landed Hamilton into the N.H.L. play-off and then went on strike and refused to compete for the League title.

The New York combination, in pre-season "dope," was rated the likely championship combination in the augmented circuit this season. Their defeat at Toronto last Saturday night by St. Patricks was an unexpected set-back, as it is within reason that the Americans would prefer to go home for their opening in New York next Tuesday with a good record from their long road jaunt, and St. Pats' victory precedes two tough battles, the one here to-night with Canadiens and the second Thursday night at Ottawa.

Y. M. C. A. LEAGUE

The first series of the Y.M.C.A. which finished last Friday, was a very close race with two teams tied for first place and two for second place. The first series of this league has furnished much excitement and the two weaker teams in the league for the first year have had a lot of fun and were certainly stepping along at a good rate in the last part of the first series. If they keep up their games they will certainly cause a great many overthrows of the leaders in the next series.

In this series the old rivals, George St. and the Teachers fought it out again for first place, though they were chased for a long period in the race by the Royals and the De Lavals. The Royals strengthened from last year's team and a new team, the De Lavals, composed of some mighty fine bowlers, were left in a tie for second place and will certainly be the teams to beat in the next series. For some time the Teachers and the De Lavals were tied in first place in the league, but faltered during the last few weeks and dropped.

The two leading teams, the Teachers led by H. H. Graham, and George St., led by Norm. Routley, will play off a series of games to decide the first place in the last series.

The standing of the teams were as follows:—

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Teachers	21	9	700
George St.	21	9	700
Royals	17	13	566
De Lavals	17	13	566
Woollens	8	22	266
Northern Lights	6	24	233

KNOX UNITED CONGREGATION WAS SUCCESSFUL IN RECENT CAMPAIGN FOR BUDGET FUND

Announcement of Amount Subscribed Was Made at Anniversary Concert.

TRIBUTE PAID.

Minister and Officials Thanked Workers and Contributors For Assistance.

Knox Church was a scene of bubbling jubilation last night as members of the congregation listened to the reports of success in exceeding the objective set for the recent campaign. Mr. Pitchford announced that the sum of $2,525 was assured and expressed his gratitude on behalf of the finance committee to all who had so generously donated. He declared that all outstanding accounts, including cost of new furnaces for the Lecture Hall and other improvements, could now be paid and that all in connection with the church would be square at the end of the year. H. McCannon, chairman of the board, said that he had enjoyed the work of canvassing the people because of the reception which the various committees were accorded. Everyone was enthusiastic and seeing that the objective would not be quite attained by Friday night, a special committee went out Saturday morning and managed to roll up the objective. Mr. McCannon said it was the largest offering that had ever been given in connection with Knox Church. J. P. Morrison paid a tribute to the ability and zeal of the Ladies' Aid and the Board of Management.

Rev. M. C. Mackinnon thanked the friends of the church not included in the congregation who had helped so generously. "I am proud of Knox Church and her people," he declared. "They have done amazingly well and have surpassed all expectations. This anniversary is the first and greatest in the history of the church. We have a remarkable group of ladies and the men have done heroic service. I am especially proud of Mr. W. S. Hill and Mr. E. Lillico, formerly of St. Paul's. All United churches are standing as a mighty force in Peterborough. Let us push on and do what is in our power to do that we may glorify God and help bring in His Kingdom." At the request of the minister, the congregation sang the Doxology.

Professor John Dow.

Professor Dow said that all he had he owed to St. Andrew's for it was there he had secured an education, a wife and a passing knowledge of golf. St. Andrew's, he declared, stands on a bleak and windy promontory, cut off on either side by two wide firths. It might seem from its enforced separation that it would be without any chance of greatness, yet from that place had come mighty statesmen and philosophers.

Formerly it had been a tract of forest, peopled with wild boars. From that bleakness to the home of a mighty university is a story of romance and history. St. Andrew, the patron saint of Scotland, was crucified and lay for a while at Constantinople. Later, it was said, his body was taken to the north of England and reposed for some time in a monastery. Following a church squabble, one monk went northward and with him went some sacred relics, three fingers bone and three toe bones of the beloved St. Andrew.

A cathedral was built which took 158 years to complete and it was finally dedicated as a memorial to Bannockburn. Most of the people at that time were living in miserable hovels, covered with thatched wattle boughs, yet they founded that wonderful structure. Religious houses rose about it rapidly, giving birth to the university of today as more colleges were added. Formerly, when pilgrimages had ceased, one of the hostels was turned into a home for old ladies; now one of the best girls' schools in the British Empire is located on that site.

Some of the restrictions which governed the first students appear amusing now, but were doubtless serious enough to those intellectuals of former days. No women were admitted in the precincts of the college, excepting the laundress, who could not be on the sunny side of fifty or a nurse in case of sickness who was not to be too young. The students could not wear hair such as to encumber the ears. Five shillings was collected from each student in advance as assurance against broken windows as the money was never returned the youth of the college smashed every pane of glass in the town at the end of each year.

Mr. Dow told a number of interesting features in the lives of many students who had obtained their education in the university. Many of them were poor, and could not buy proper subsistence. Some were obliged to hold the candle sticks in order that the professors might read their lectures. Each half-year the college buildings were thoroughly scrubbed and cleaned, a job which fell to the students' lot. At one time Mary, Queen of Scots, had stayed there, and in his time John Knox was a constant visitor to the various colleges.

Mr. Dow then launched into the reading of a number of poems which had been composed by R. F. Murray, a student poet. Mrs. Dow sang some of his songs.

The verse showed evidences of a gifted pen, running the gamut of pathos and humor. Some of the selections were: "The Voice That Sings," "The City of Golf," "After Many Days," "The Wasters Presentiment" and "The Broken Hat." Mrs. Dow's singing was greatly appreciated by all present.

Other numbers on a very enjoyable program were a piano duet by Mrs. M. C. Mackinnon, L.T.C.M., and Charles Peaker, Mus.Bac., who presented a charming interpretation of Beethoven's Storm Scene and a violin solo by Alex. Robertson, heartily encored.

Toward the conclusion of the entertainment, the pastor, Rev. Mr. Mackinnon thanked all who had participated in the program. He assured Professor Dow and Mrs. Dow that a sincere welcome was their's should they choose to return. Professor Dow replied that he had enjoyed the visit and liked Peterborough exceedingly. He said that, in a lecture of the type he had given, he felt it didn't matter what he said because his wife could always put it over.

Mr. M. N. Clark acted as chairman.

AT THE GRAND

THE DUMBELLS' NEW SHOW

In "Lucky 7," the Dumbells' latest show; which comes to the Grand Opera House for a one night return, on Wednesday, December 9th, there will be found the most ambitious and successful revue this famous organization of soldier entertainers has ever produced during the seven years of its annual tours throughout the Dominion.

Not only is this revue brighter and more colorful than any that have preceded it, but in its variety, its novelty, its balance, and its well-sustained humor, it challenges comparison with any similar entertainment now before the public here.

The public is invited to note the fine symbolic significance of the tableau sketch, "Up the Hill;" the irresistible comedy of "Red" Newman in the skit behind the lines, entitled "Red Goes on Leave;" the uproarious burlesque of "Us Girls Must Have Our Fun;" and the weirdly grotesque humor of "High St., Africa," among the sketches.

Then there are feature songs of all sorts, from "Red" Newman's "Let's Start the War Again"— a rollicking successor to "Oh, It's A Lovely War"—to Ross Hamilton's beautifully staged numbers, "I'm Wonderful" and "Darling, I Love You;" Al Plunkett's delightful "Whiter Than Snow," his radio number "Hi, Hi, Ho," with its lilting chorus, and "As Long As She Loves Me."

The burlesque nonsense of Pat Rafferty! Jock Holland's diverting songs; Stan Bennett's "Johnnie" trifles; Ben Allen and Morley Plunkett in comic dialogue; Glen Allan's wonderful dancing, and Jimmy Devon's speedy stepping, with Captain Plunkett's jazz band and its framed inset feature pictures, make up the balance of a show that has no dull moment and not a single weak spot.

AT THE REGENT

"HAVOC."

"Havoc," the big war picture, which is being shown at the Regent Theatre all this week, with the exception of Wednesday, when a different picture will be presented on account of the return of patrons wishing to get the hockey reports, is under the direct patronage of the G. W.V.A. which is profiting substantially by the proceeds of the presentation, and whose funds for relief work will be augmented by attendance at the theatre during this week.

"Havoc," although it is replete with war scenes that are quite different from the ordinary run of episodes of the sort presented in previous productions here, is not a war picture alone, for the main theme is one of a romance of the type that never fails to attract the interest of the watcher. It is the tale of the eternal triangle, two men loving the same woman, and that woman fooling them both.

It is an unusual picture with an all-round element of excellent screening about it that makes it really worth while. The story never drags. In fact it has a somewhat abrupt habit of shifting from scene to scene that keeps the audience up on its toes every minute. The story is interesting and the scenes of war give an impression of reality that make them outstanding. The use of photographic tricks to give the realistic atmosphere is quite out of the ordinary. The spectator is almost a performer, so close he or she seems to come to actual conditions as they must have been at the time. It is not the ordinary type of war scene, with sudden outflashings of gigantic struggles. Rather, the war of the trenches is shown, the men standing in the mud, grey figures stealing over shadowy barbed wire entanglements through a misty dawn, with the flash and flare of the star shells beating down on defenceless positions. Interspersed with the actual scenes of conflict are episodes from the officers' quarters, and an intriguing bit of the presentation in the character of the sub-titles, which also share in the out-of-the-ordinary atmosphere of the whole production.

The main theme, interwoven with the war scenes, is the love of two men, pals for many years, for Violet Deering, an English beauty who fascinates, then fools them both. Roddy Dunton is her fiance, but she tires of him and transfers her attentions to his pal, Dick Chappell. As a comparison to the war scenes, in a picture that must have made a strong impression on England, the country of its screening, the episodes from London night life are quite startling. While the men are laboring in the mud of Flanders, their former companions are dancing in the night clubs of their home city and the fun and frivolity of the philanderers goes on uninterrupted.

Violet Deering is an excellent example of the type of heartless flirt seldom presented on the screen. She gives a wonderful presentation of her role. The two men who love her are fine types also and the acting throughout is notable. The story has a dramatic atmosphere from first to last and the denouement, while inevitable, is logical and satisfactory.

"Havoc" is one of those pictures which hold the attention from the first to the last minute and remain in the mind after it has been witnessed. As an evening's entertainment, it could hardly be surpassed, and no one will regret spending the money for a ticket which helps along a good cause and at the same time affords the spender an opportunity of seeing a screen production quite out of the ordinary. The musical score, rendered in splendid fashion by Ken Blood and his orchestra, and the vocal selections by local singers, which accompany the picture, serve to round out an exceptionally fine entertainment. —Jeannette.

AT THE CAPITOL

"WILD HORSE MESA."

The feature at the Capitol Theatre for yesterday and to-day is a typical Zane Grey production, "Wild Horse Mesa," which had good crowds for its presentation at yesterday's matinee and evening performances.

At the four corners, where Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico meet, is the Wild Horse Mesa, where thousands of wild horses live. Panquitch, a great white horse, is the undisputed monarch of this fifty-mile stretch, and head of the band of horses whose possession becomes a point of pride with a group of men who wish to make a fortune out of the beasts. Life Melburne and Benton Manerube are partners in a caravan outfit, that plans to invade the Mesa and capture the mustangs.

Action, plenty of it, swift and vivid, colors the picture. The horse-thieves are harassed by Indians and their white companions, who have designs also on the band of outlaw beasts. Toddy Nokin is a Navajo chieftain, experienced in the tricky ways of white men, and Sue is his daughter, in love with Chayne Weymer, a friend of her father.

The story centers about the struggle between the two bands, the fights and wild rides which feature the conflict and the great stampede in which the wild mustangs are headed for the cliff and their own extermination. Chayne heads them off and incidentally saves his sweetheart, but when he traps the big Panquitch, the girl pleads with him for the freedom of the beast, and he lets it go.

It is a characteristic Zane Grey production, thrilling and lively, and provides an excellent change from the routine of a milder type of photoplay.

LLOYD VICTIM AT LAST OF NIBLICK AND MASHIE

At last the lure of the mashie and niblick has gotten Harold Lloyd. This young man of great enthusiasms and hobbies has gone in for many different athletic games. Tennis, swimming, riding, football, handball—each had their periods of concentration and are still indulged in to a great extent, especially handball and swimming. But now he is as badly bitten by the golf bug as the maddest golfer.

It was after Harold Lloyd had finished "Safety Last" that he was enticed into donning plus fours and making the round of a course while he was vacationing in New York. Harold had never held a golf club in his hand before that day. But what a change has taken place since! Seeking to achieve the highest skill of which he was capable in the game, he took lessons from a professional, and now he vows that he is soon going to start giving lessons to his daughter, Mildred Gloria, who is not yet two years old.

Harold Lloyd's newest picture is "The Freshman," in which the great game of football supplies a lot of comedy and thrills. It is to be the feature attraction tomorrow at the Capitol Theater, with Jobyna Ralston, Brooks Benedict, Hazel Keener, Pat Harmon and others giving the famous comedian leading support.

"JIMMIE'S MILLIONS," GOOD ENTERTAINMENT AT ROYAL

Filled with chases, the flying leaps, the hurdles, the dives, the fights and the sensational acrobatic stunts which have made him so popular, Richard Talmadge's new picture, "Jimmie's Millions," marks a new chapter in the production of this type of movie entertainment in that the story does more than provide a vehicle for stunt stuff. The productions, which was shown at the Royal Theatre yesterday for the first time in this community, stands out as an interesting and amusing story of the first order.

Richard is cast as a young war hero who has a penchant for being late. In an attempt to make him prompt at appointments his wealthy uncle leaves him a bequest of several million dollars; but to collect this money he must be on time for several months. He gets into many escapades from that time on, and in his endeavor to be prompet, is forced to break jail on one occasion, and then (for an entirely different reason) has to get back again. But he is thrown out; and the consequences of trying to get put back into the hoosegow are delightful.

Changing directors has not in the least impaired the merit of Talmadge's work. James P. Hogan directed this picture, the first which Jimmy Horne has not handled, and he has done a splendid job.

The choice of a cast is unusually fortunate. Betty Francisco is as talented as she is beautiful, and plays an appealing part to perfection. Lee Moran, the "bozo" detective, struts his stuff with a broad and amusing humor. The rest, including Brinsley Shaw, Dick Sutherland, Ina Hanson, Charles Clary and Wade Boteler, are all good.

Collins, Brioux and Harris presented their skit and, judging from the applause, they made a hit. The Adventures of Mazie is one of the best comedy series that has come to our attention. It is a well balanced programme.

BENEFIT CONCERT

There was an excellent audience in the G.W.V.A. hall last evening for the benefit concert, arranged under the joint auspices of the G. W.V.A., All Saints' Church and the staff of the Utilities Commission. Between three and four hundred people were present and applauded in enthusiastic fashion the very fine programme presented. The entertainment was varied and interesting, including musical ensembles, solos and duetts, monologues and a comedy interlude by Peterboro's own comedian, Mr. Sammy Harris. The concert, arranged for the benefit of the widow of the late Jack Crompton, who was killed this spring after a fall from a street pole, while working for the Peterboro Utilities Commission, was presided over by Lt. Col. T. J. Johnston, who opened the programme with a brief address.

Preluding the entertainment were several fine selections played by the orchestra of All Saints' Church.

A notable feature of the musical programme was the playing of the Salvation Army saxaphone group. The flashy, blaring, brazen tone of the saxaphone, as it is usually played in jazz orchestras, is absolutely lost sight of in the music of this group. They have a soft, harmonious tone that makes their presentations of popular melodies exceptionally pleasing. Under the baton of Bandmaster F. Robinson they played several times and were encored on each occasion. Four of the bandsmen of the Army also gave a quartette selection.

The vocal solos on the programme included very well rendered selections by Mrs. H. Doig, Mrs. J. Dwyer, Mrs. W. Tanner, Miss Edith Tucker and J. Hodson. Mr. A. Everitt, Mr. T. Stazicker and Mr. S. L. Willis, who also gave vocal solos, were compelled to respond to hearty encores, Mr. Stazicker's fine melodious voice receiving repeated applause. A vocal duett by Messrs. Stan and S. L. Willis, tenor and baritone, brought them back also for an encore number.

Mr. R. Farthing contributed two well-received 'cello numbers to the programme and Mr. Frank Clarke played the banjo in his usual proficient style. Mr. Clarke's music is always interesting, and he appears to get the maximum amount of melody out of the picked strings of his instrument. He was compelled to come back after an outburst of applause for each number.

An interesting interlude in the musical programme was the monologue, "The Whitest Man I Ever Knew," given by Mr. Stazicker in excellent style, and Mr. Sammy Harris had his audience in a continuous giggle with his efforts as a comedian and a song, appropriate to the occasion, set to the tune of "When I Leave the World Behind," and delivered, as were his jokes, in a style peculiarly Mr. Harris' own. With a little more experience in stage presentation and possibly a slight toning down of an exuberant imagination, Mr. Harris may be expected to develop into a really entertaining entertainer.

Mr. R. J. Devey did yeoman service last night as accompanist, playing the piano for the majority of the soloists in his characteristic good-natured style. Miss Mathilde Masson played accompaniments for Miss Tucker's songs, and Miss Alma Blanchard for Mrs. Doig's solos.

LEAGUE COUNCIL

ganization or clique within the organization.

British sources declare that the British position reserves itself into a matter of expediency—achievement of new disarmament without clogging the Conference with technical details and difficulties.

League War Instrument.

MOSCOW, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).— Addressing the Moscow District Communist Conference last night, Alexis Rokoff, president of the council of commissars, declared that Russia was prepared to abolish the Red army and scrap all ammunition factories and war industries provided the Bourgeois countries did likewise.

M. Rykoff characterized the League of Nations as an instrument of war and subjugation and not of liberation. The European Powers, in seeking to get Russia into the League, wished her to make political capitulations in the East and economic sacrifices in the West. The Locarno agreements were useless as the League to secure peace for the world.

It is contended by M. Rykoff that the United States dominates Europe.

The council in private session discussed the question of disarmament as outlined by disarmament council (council No. 2) seeking a means of composing the differences between Great Britain and France, the question of tying up the subject of mutual assistance in the event of war with that of disarmament.

OTONABEE LODGE ANNIVERSARY

Two of Surviving Members of Resuscitation Date Were in Charge.

MANY VISITORS.

The 43rd anniversary of the Resuscitation of Otonabee Lodge No. 13, Independent Order of Oddfellows, was celebrated in fitting fashion last night. A large number of the members were present, many accompanied by their wives, over two hundred people making the total in attendance.

In the absence of past Grand Master Rev. Walter Cox, of Lakefield, the chairman for the evening was Bro. M. M. Mowry, who is an honorable veteran of Otonabee Lodge, having passed his fiftieth milestone in Oddfellowship, and having received his decoration as such last year. Bro. Mowry, who, with John Mathieson and G. J. Early of Cannington, are the only surviving charter members, was assisted by Bro. W. F. Green, P.G. Rec. Secy. Otonabee Lodge, who is the only surviving member of thirteen who joined on the night of the resuscitation of the Lodge, forty-three years ago.

The members who have attained twenty-five years' continuous membership in the Order, and who were decorated with jewels commemorating this event, last evening, were Bros. R. M. Glover, M. T. Breckenridge, T. G. Detcher and W. H. Roberts. Wm. Mitchell of Port Hope, the fifth member to be decorated, was unable to be present and sent a telegram regretting his unavoidable absence.

Among the officers present were D.D.G.P. R. J. Craig, District No. 19, representing the Grand Encampment of Ontario, D.D.G.M.F. Merrett, District No. 44, representing the Grand Lodge of Ontario, N.G. D.P. McFadden, W. E. Curry, J. H. Vallery, and several other officers representing Peterborough Lodge No. 111, also W. R. Widdess, representing Lindsay Lodge No. 100. Veterans of the Lodge to the number of nearly twenty-five were present at the gathering last evening, evidencing the loyalty to the Order felt by its members.

An interesting programme was presented at the close of the official session, with several vocal solos by Bro. Duncan R. Cowan of Toronto, who sang "By the Seaside," "I come frae Scotland," "Molly Flynn" and "Whistle the Tune." Appreciative applause was accorded the various selections on the programme, which also included several renditions by the popular I.O.O.F. quartette, composed of Messrs. Turner, Worrall, Lee and Baldry and a duet by Mrs. E. Kitney and A. Lee. Accompanists for the programme were Mrs. Kitney and F. Chenhall. The Lodge felt particularly indebted to the efforts in the entertainment line of Bro. D. R. Cowan, who excelled himself in his presentation of a fine programme.

Many comments are being made by members and visitors to the Lodge rooms on George street on the fine appearance of the interior, recently redecorated and re-papered in tasteful style.

IN MEMORIAM.

SANDERSON.—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Albert Sanderson, who passed away December 10th, 1924.

"The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought her death so near.
The silent grief that's in our hearts
No human life can trace,
For many an aching heart is hid
Behind a smiling face.
The golden gates were open,
A gentle voice said 'Come,'
And with farewell words unspoken
She calmly entered home."

TURKEY LOSES FIRST ROUND IN DISPUTE OVER MOSUL BOUNDARY LEAGUE UPHELD BY WORLD COURT

Council of League of Nations Has Right to Determine Frontier.

TRY MEDIATION.

Many Thrills in Geneva Proceedings—Turks Reiterate Opposition.

GENEVA, December 9. Canadian Press. — Turkey lost the first round last night in the battle for Mosul.

The council of the League of Nations, despite a vigorous Turkish protest, and even a threat to leave Geneva immediately, unanimously voted to accept the consultative opinion of the world court as a guide to the settlement of the problem whether Mosul will go to Great Britain as part of the Irak mandate or be handed over to Turkey.

The world court has declared that the council has a clear right definitely to determine the Mosul frontier —Turkey voted in the negative when the ballot was taken, but President Scialoia announced that neither the vote of Turkey nor that of Britain would be counted in pursuance of the terms of the covenant.

Mediation First.

The next step of the council will be a direct effort to mediate between the parties; but if this fails the general opinion is that the council would proceed to impose it. decision on the disputants, it it can secure the necessary unanimity. Such unanimity may be difficult, as M. Unden, of Sweden is said to lean towards an award more favorable to Turkey than do his colleagues.

Tuesday's proceedings were dramatic in the extreme, and the crowded council chamber got a series of genuine thrills. However M. Unden may stand on the sovereignty issue, he insisted as reporter on the controversy that unanimity was obligatory in accepting the world court's ruling, and laconically informed the Turkish representative that he was sorry but the votes of the parties to the dispute did not count.

Turks' Tone Calmer.

Munir Bey, Turkish Minister to Switzerland, who heads the Turkish mission, warned the council that his country would never turn over the destinies of Mosul to the uncertainties of arbitration, and declared that Turkish preliminary assent to any decision was indispensable, because the council could only mediate. He threatened to bolt the negotiations. but later, when the council accepted the world court's ruling, tamed this down to announcing that Turkey would pursue the negotiations until an actual award was made against her without her consent. If that happened, he informed the council, his power ended and he must consult the Angora assembly.

Two Rice Lake Farmers Killed In Auto Upset

PORT HOPE, Dec. 9—Frank Minifie and Thomas Henry, farmers residing near Harwood, Rice Lake, lost their lives Monday afternoon when the former's motor car, in which both were riding, skidded off a small bridge on the Beaver Dam road, pinning both men beneath it in the stream below.

JOHN R. BOOTH, FOUNDER OF HUGE LUMBER INDUSTRY DIED TUESDAY

Owned Largest Timber Limits in the British Empire.

IN 99th YEAR.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. — John R. Booth, dean of Canadian lumbermen and a pioneer of the industry in the Dominion, died here at 3.15 Tuesday afternoon. He would have celebrated his 99th birthday on April 5 next.

No serious illness blighted his last days, in fact his illness was never of a positive nature, but he became gradually weaker until Saturday, when he lapsed into a semi-conscious condition, from which he never fully recovered. His brother and sister, sons, and daughter and several grand-children were at his bedside during the last hours of his life.

Princess Eric, his favorite grandchild, was the only member of his family unable to be present.

The life of "J. R.," as he was familiarly known, was one rich in the romance of industry, hard and ungrudging work. He was the owner of the largest timber limits in the British Empire, the creator of a great fortune, and the founder of an industry which ranks among the foremost of its kind in the world. Burial will take place in the Booth plot in Beechwood Cemetery, Ottawa, but the date of the funeral has not yet been announced.

The late Mr. Booth was a pioneer citizen of Ottawa, setting here in 1857. He commenced his industrial career in that year by renting a small shingle mill on the banks of the Ottawa river near the Chaudiere Falls. From this modest start, Mr. Booth has gradually increased the size of the plant until today it stands as one of the largest of its kind in the world. Pulp and paper have been added to the industry of the mills and more than 2,000 employees are engaged in the manufacture of its products.

Although Mr. Booth was chiefly known as a lumberman he was also a builder of railways. He constructed the Canada Atlantic and Parry Sound railways, now a part of the Grand Trunk Railway system but he disposed of these holdings in 1904, to the G.T.R. for $14,000,000.

"Old J.R." as the late Mr. Booth was generally known in Ottawa and to his associates throughout the country has been a prominent figure in Ottawa from its birth. He was particularly generous to the city and in the earlier days when public money was not so plentiful contributed largely towards the construction of utilities.

He was not a politician, but it is said, that one occasion he did extend himself in this direction. This was in 1911, when, opposed to the proposed Taft-Fielding pact, he addressed a large gathering of his employees from the top of a woodpile in the Booth Lumber yards. To these woodpile speeches the government attributed in no small measure, its defeat in Ottawa.

It is told of John R. Booth that at one time upon his visit to Canada King George V was his guest on a crib of square timber on its journey through the lumber sluices at Ottawa, and that he tendered His Majesty a real shanty dinner of "pork and beans."

Born at Waterloo, Quebec, on April 5, 1827, Mr. Booth was educated in the public schools at that place and worked on his father's farm until of age, when he hired as a carpenter on the Central Vermont Railway.

In 1857 he came to Ottawa and from a modest start he has erected the mammoth industry which now bears his name.

He was a director of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, president of the Dominion Nickel and Copper Company, and a director of the Canada Cement Company.

The late J. R. Booth, is survived by two sons, Jackson C. and John Frederick Booth, both of whom are connected with the Booth plant and one daughter, Mrs. A. W. Fleck of this city.

DIED ON TUESDAY.

Nationalist Party in Australia Has Clear Majority From Elections.

LABOR SUFFERED.

Result Regarded as Electors' Reaction to Seamen's Strike.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 9. —Canadian Press. — The final counting and checking of the votes cast in the Australian general election of November 14th last, have been completed. Not a single Labor candidate was elected to fill any of the vacant seats in the Senate.

The defeated candidates for the Senate included Senator Albert Gardiner of New South Wales, leader of the Opposition in the last House.

As a result of the general election the government now has 27 supporters in the Senate and the Labor party 9.

The Nationalist party, of which Premier S. F. Bruce is the leader, now has a clear majority in the House of Representatives and in the Senate.

Prior to the election the Labor group in the House of Representatives had 29 members, the Nationalists 27, and the country party 14, Liberals 4, and there was one independent. The government was carried on by a coalition of the nationalist and country parties.

Whale Skeleton Found Many Miles From Coast

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—The skeleton of a prehistoric whale has been discovered 24 miles inland from the North Sea Coast, imbedded six feet down in the bog of North Schleswig.

Experts of the Institute for Geological Research at Copenhagen have taken charge of excavation for the skeleton hoping to find an answer to the puzzle of how the giant sea mammal got so far from the sea. They advance the theory that some great tidal wave — have swept the whale inshore several thousand years ago, since the skeleton is pronounced to be a species long since extinct.

$20,760 of People's Money At Stake in Power Case

An explanation is due to the ratepayers of Peterborough as to why a certain action, at the suit of certain inhabitants, ratepayers and power and light users of Peterborough to compel the Campbell Flour Mills to pay the balance of their account to the Peterborough Utilities Commission, has not been proceeded with.

The balance claimed to be owing by the Company to the Commission amounts to the principal sum of $16,813.82, with interest amounting to $3,947.17, making in all the sum of $20,760.99. The Company had a motor power capacity of 390 horse power connected with the distribution system of the Commission, and on this connected load, it is claimed that the Company under its own contract with the Commission was liable to pay at least $22.50 per horse power.

It is claimed that the Company operated its 750 barrel mill every day on about 75 horse power, whereas it, in fact, took between three or four times as much power to do so. The Company has never done it before, and has never been able to do it since. No other company in the world has ever been able to produce 750 barrels a day on 75 horse power. If a man could produce such results, his fortune would be made.

The fact is that the meter installed by the Commission was not properly installed, and it only registered about one quarter of the power consumed, and that condition was allowed to continue for about three years.

It is most surprising that such a condition could exist for three years without being detected, and it is still more surprising that when it was discovered no action was taken by the Commissioners to recover any part of this amount which really is the property of the tax payers. These autocrats will not even make the slightest attempt to obtain the names of witnesses to establish this just claim. The action of the Commissioners can only be accounted for by the fact that they are utterly incompetent to fill the position they occupy and the sooner a change is made, the better it will be for the taxpayers. But the unfortunate part is that you can only change one a year, whereas they should all be swept out of office at one and the same time.

It was thought at first, that the ratepayers and power and light users could take some action to compel the Commission to collect this claim of over $20,000, but the Supreme Court of Canada has lately decided that they have no standing before the Court to do so. We are forced to adopt the language of one of the Judges of this Court where he says: It is one of those actions which could be brought by the Commission and if it is found that the Commission does not properly exercise its functions and fulfil its duties, it is for the ratepayers to make a change and put in persons who will fulfil their duties according to what the majority of the ratepayers think best.

Some public assurance should be given by candidates for the Public Utilities Commission that this claim against the Campbell Flour Mills will be investigated in the Court and not behind closed doors as in the past.

The Commission is noted for its enquiries behind closed doors. The Commission lately conducted an enquiry into an account against a manufacturer where the meter registered too much. The Company at its own expense put in a meter of its own and the Commission has been compelled to make a refund for an amount in excess of $1,000.00, but when it comes to collecting twenty times that amount the Commissioners, fold their arms, look wise, plug their ears, and do nothing, and the ratepayer suffers.

The City Council conducts its business in the open, but the Commission in fact conducts its real business behind closed doors.

The Council would be well advised to see that legislation is passed that will bring the Commission under more control, so that the taxpayers will be better informed on the inner workings of these little autocrats. More can be said if some candidate will only announce a policy that is in the real interest of the ratepayers and power and light users of Peterborough. It is time for a change.

Dec. 9th, 1925. R. R. HALL.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature was the lowest this morning of any day this fall, namely five degrees above zero. It is quite probable that someone will check me up and inform me this is "winter." If the reader will consult any almanac he will see that winter does not begin until December 22. Whether it will be an "open" or a severe winter, no one can say definitely, and one man's opinion is about as good as another's. Herewith I give that of Dan Whetung, whose reputation as a weather prophet is more than local. In a letter to me he says:

"Received your inquiry about the coming winter. I don't think we will have much winter between now and New Year's, but after that we may have it severe. Do you notice those two bright stars out in the south-west. Before the the world's war there were three bright stars at that time. I used to tell the boys here, 'Big war coming.'"

The "stars" the writer refers to are the planets Jupiter and Venus.

P. S. — Since the above was put in type the thermometer went down 3 degrees more, or to 2 above zero.—W. P.

Parisian Learns Why Some Girls Dislike Washing Dishes

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Modern girls who fall a-trembling at the prospect of household chores do not, it would appear, merit the strictures heaped upon them by women of an older generation.

They are really suffering from latent alterations of the cervico-brachial nerve plexus, declared Dr. Gommes to the Paris Medical Society. This condition can be diagnosed, added the physician, and successfully treated. That is, of course, if the young woman would be willing to part with the ailment.

Luck and industry are closely related.

Those who think wholly about themselves have small thoughts.

Railwaymen Will Demand Increase Of Ten Per Cent.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 9.—(Canadian Press).—Unanimity now exists between the divisions of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, according to A. Glay, Western chairman of the Order of Railroad Conductors, Canadian Pacific Railway. The present agreement expires at the end of the month, and demands will be made on the railways of Canada and the United States for an average increase in wages of ten per cent.

TWO CANADIANS DEAD IN WRECK IN OLD COUNTRY

Methodist Minister and Wife, Formerly of Nova Scotia, Victims.

SIX WERE KILLED.

Charabanc Crashed Through Railway Gates—Struck By Train.

LONDON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—Rev. William Nightingale, a Methodist minister, formerly of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, and his wife Martha B. Nightingale were accidentally killed at Fenny Stratford, Buckinghamshire, Monday night while travelling in a charabanc. Four other persons in the vehicle also were killed, but three passengers escaped unscathed.

The charabanc crashed through the gates of a grade crossing on a railway and a moment later a train ran into it with the result that six lives were wiped out almost instantly.

Mr. Nightingale was the pastor of the Wesleyan Church at Woburn Sands, Bedfordshire. He and his wife and other members of the party in the illfated charabanc were returning from a Wesleyan gathering at Bletchley, Buckinghamshire, when the fatal accident occurred.

Mr. Nightingale was a minister in the Nova Scotia Methodist conference for 30 years, his last charge in Nova Scotia having been at Dartmouth. Three yars ago he was given permission by the Nova Scotia Conference to go to England, where he wished to continue his ministerial work, and since then he had been at Woburn Sands. He was about 69 years of age and was ordained in the Methodist ministry in Nova Scotia in 1887.

EXHIBITION BOARD DIRECTORS LOOK BACK UPON ACHIEVEMENT OF 1925 WITH SATISFACTION

Meeting Last Night Indicated That Higher Mark Is Set.

BUILDINGS NEEDED.

Votes of Thanks Express Appreciation of Services Rendered Exhibition.

The directorate of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition indulged in a gentle love festival last night when, at a meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce room, votes of appreciation and resolutions of thanks were awarded to all and sundry who had in any way won distinction by putting the Fair over the top.

According to reports presented by Fred. Holmes, there has been a steady increase in the number passing through the turnstiles. The number of paid admissions in 1918 was 16,552, which was this year increased to 36,212. In 1918, 3,247 people paid to see the grand stand performances, compared with 11,472 this year.

A financial report was submitted by Charles S. Cummer, and was adopted. It showed receipts amounting to $25,526.26, expenditures $23,143.17, resulting in a balance of $2,338.09. This, when added to the 1924 deficit of $2,011.00, gives a total of $4,394.00 as a net profit for the year.

Following the discussion of finances, a vote of appreciation was tendered to Webber Turner for the splendid show which he had obtained for the Fair this year. Mr. Turner said in response that he had always been deeply interested in the work, and felt that an Exhibition was like any business: in order to make money it was necessary to spend it. In order to get the people to come back more than once or twice, it was essential that something be provided by way of inducement. He thanked the Board for the confidence which had been reposed in him.

The Dog Show.

As a discussion of the Dog Show arose, W. S. Merrell stated that that department had been fairly successful, although it did not operate to a profit on a financial basis. Mr. Merrell felt that there was no use in continuing the show unless a proper building could be erected and prize money be apportioned more justly.

He said the Dog Show was a new

COOLIDGE URGES STRONGER AIR FLEET IN MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Chief U. S. Executive Address of 10,000 Words Longest in Years—Touched On 46 Subjects.

SUGGESTS DISARMAMENT ACTION.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—A wide range of legislative recommendations, some of them new, others a reiteration of policies he has advocated to Congress for the last two years, was contained in President Coolidge's annual message Tuesday to the House and Senate.

One of the longest presidential messages in years, aggregating 10,000 words, and touching on 46 subjects, it was read by clerks in each house.

In the field of domestic legislation, the executive urged further tax reduction, giving general approval to the bill drafted by the house ways and means committee; recommended action to strengthen aviation along lines proposed by his air board; renewed his advocacy of power to deal with labor disputes in the coal industry as proposed two years ago by the coal committee; advised a curtailment of the shipping board's powers and control of the merchant fleet by one executive, and touched again on the need for encouragement to co-operative marketing as an aid to agriculture.

Recommends Prohibition

The President also appealed for observance of the Prohibition Law by the public and vigorous enforcement with the co-operation of states. He renewed his advocacy of railroad consolidation, governmental re-organization and increased state and local state in reclamation projects, opposed return for the present of property seized from aliens during the world war, and recommended sale of Muscle Shoals to the highest bidder.

In a lengthy discussion of foreign affairs Mr. Coolidge appealed for favorable senate action on the proposal for United States adherence to the world court ,voiced gratification over the Locarno security agreement and expressed willingness for the United States to take a lead in any feasible plan for further reduction of land and sea armaments.

TAKES OVER HELIUM

LINDSAY ENGINEER WILL SPEAK HERE

E. L. Miles, M.E.I.C., Will Address Local Engineers on Land Reclamation.

A regular meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada will be held in the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening, December 10th, commencing at 8.15 p.m.

At this meeting E. L. Miles, M. E.I.C., F.R.S.A., will give an address, entitled, "Reclamation of Lands in Western Canada."

Mr. Miles, who is the county engineer and road superintendent for the County of Victoria, is a member of the local branch and in 1913 delivered a very interesting paper here with reference to the county road system of that county, which paper will be remembered by all who attended the meeting, as it occasioned considerable discussion as to road improvements done by contract versus public works department.

Mr. Miles has spent some years on irrigation and reclamation work in the west and has a thorough knowledge of his subject, and a pleasing delivery. The subject is not of immediate interest locally, yet it should be very interesting and instructive to hear of the extent to which this work has progressed in the west, the utilitarian nature of the work and the tremendous increase in national assets thereby.

The meeting will, as usual, be open to any non-members who wish to attend. The local branch covers an extensive territory, much more than is generally realized by its members, and Mr. Miles, coming from Lindsay, one of its extremities, should be encouraged by a large and appreciative attendance.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY

Peterborough, December 9th, 1925.

To His Honor Judge Huycke.

May it please your Honor to receive the report of the Grand Jury of the County Court of Peterborough, as appointed on December 8th, 1925.

We congratulate the County on being free from serious crime, the fact that there are no cases to come before this Jury being evidence of this condition.

Inspection has been made of the County Jail. We compliment those in charge on the condition of the premises. Among the inmates are two old men charged with vagrancy. One, we understand, goes out in January. The other man, who has been a resident of the City of Peterborough for some time might be more comfortable in the Old People's Home and we suggest that this be considered by those responsible.

Visits of inspection were made to the House of Refuge, the Protestant Home, the House of Providence, St. Joseph's Hospital, Nichols Hospital, St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter. These institutions appear to be managed in a capable and efficient manner. We wish to commend those in charge for the condition of the buildings and equipment and congratulate the County on having the management and direction of these various institutions in such capable hands.

At the House of Refuge, painting in some of the rooms, especially on the ground floor, seems necessary. We also consider that a barn is necessary for the proper operation of the 96 acre farm on which this institution is located. These matters, we understand, are receiving the consideration of the County Council. A small organ would add to the enjoyment of the inmates and is really necessary for the religious services. The one they have is useless and we recommend that this equipment be obtained.

The Grand Jury are well pleasd with conditions generally in the County and consider that the services rendered by our various institutions will compare favourably with that of any County.

Your Honor in addressing this Grand Jury referred to work of the Crown Attorney. We agree entirely with your remarks and hope that Mr. Hatton will soon recover from his illness and be able to attend to the duties that he has in the past so ably performed.

We also rejoice with your Honor on the signing of the Treaty of Locarno which we trust will have the desired results in regard to the peace and security of the Nations of the earth.

We were deeply impressed by the timely remark of your Honor in regard to the death of the beloved Queen Mother Alexandra and join with you and the nation in mourning this loss.

We respectfully submit to you this report.

M. A. RICHARDSON,
Foreman.

STREET CARS STOP SERVICE

Hamilton Voters Opposed Relief Measures—Now Without Transportation.

BY-LAW KILLED.

HAMILTON, December 9. — The street railway service will cease operating on Thursday at midnight, according to the announcement made by George E. Waller, the manager of the company. The decision quickly followed the defeat by the electors of proposals to either extend the franchise or purchase the property. While the company's course should not occasion any surprise in view of the repeated warnings given during the negotiations, both at the city hall meetings and through the press that it was impossible to carry on unless relief were given, nevertheless when the decision was confirmed it occasioned considerable excitement around the city hall.

Mr. Waller called upon City Clerk Kent following a meeting of the directors and officially informed him of the company's intentions. He explained that in the newspapers the company was publishing its intention in a statement addressed to the electors.

What Company Says.

The company recalls that it has been carrying on under difficulties in the hope of an agreement being reached and that information had already been broadcast that the railway would have to cease operation unless this agreement was reached.

The company thanks the voters who supported the agreement bylaw and regrets that it will have to dispense with the services of its loyal staff. Having no quarrel with those who opposed the agreement, the belief is expressed that most of the opposition was due to misunderstanding and lack of appreciaton of the seriousness of the situation faced by the company. No better service can be given on any better terms than those of the proposed agreement, is the opinion of the company.

BRITISH DOUBT THAT TURKEY WILL FIGHT

Such a Step Would Quickly Align League Against Her.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — (United Press).—British diplomatic quarters are inclined to-day to doubt that Turkey would attempt hostilities to force a decision favorable to that country on the Mosul dispute. It was pointed out that such a step, even if attempted by a militarist leader intriguing against the Turkish Government, would quickly align the League and the British Empire against Turkey.

EXHIBITION BOARD DIRECTORS MEET

thing for Peterborough, and that everyone had been generous. In conversation with the secretary of the Kennel and Bench he had learned that more generous prizes must of necessity be provided in order to secure the patronage of kennel owners.

Reg. Turner moved a vote of thanks to the men who had carried on the Dog Show enterprize, and said that the unfavorable financial balance should not be considered a deficit but rather an asset, because an attraction had been provided because of the Dog Show.

A motion of thanks was carried regarding the exhibit which the Department of Game and Fisheries of Toronto had provided. A resolution was also passed to the effect that all accounts would be paid after they had been properly vouched for by the auditors, Morris and Lawrie. A copy of the audit was to be submitted to every member of the Board. The secretary was authorized to notify the chairmen of committees that they might present their reports at the annual meeting.

Maple Leaf at Chicago.

Webber Turner, in conjunction with the President, Roland Denne, presented a report of the Chicago trip. Mr. Turner intimated that he had been successful in engaging the attractions for the year 1926, and that in every particular they will measure up to the bigger and better standard which is the sliding objective for each succeeding exhibition. Mr. Denne said that in the course of the banquet the band struck up the refrain of the "Star Spangled Banner." At the completion of that selection Mr. Turner whipped a Union Jack from some hidden recess and requested that the "Maple Leaf" should also be played. The band instantly complied. Following the hearing of the reports, a vote of thanks was presented to the president of the Board and the chairman of the Amusements Committee.

At this juncture Reg. Turner rendered a delightful selection on a chair rung as he impersonated a one-armed flute player. Some appreciative Scot murgured sotto voce, "A Hundred Pipers and a'."

Regarding the hinted proposal of the Dominion Government to curtail the grant of $2,000.00 at present provided to Class "B" exhibitions, it was decided that the president and secretary be a committee with discretionary powers for the purpose of averting this threatened calamity. In the meantime the secretary is to determine the requirements of a Class "A" exhibition for which a grant of $5,000.00 is provided.

Thomas McIndoo, when solicited for suggestions, said that it might be wise, to adopt the practice of giving championship ribbons. He added that, in the matter of committees, every man on the Board should be on one committee, but no more than one, as interests were apt to become diversified and accordingly lessened.

George Paxman said that every member of the Exhibition Board should be a member of the Poultry Show. Suiting the action to the word, he straightway proceeded to sell Poultry Show membership tickets to those assembled.

Webber Turner brought to mind the work which had been performed by G. H. Roper and Douglas Loomis of the Y.M.C.A. in arranging the sports programme, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded.

A motion that Miss Littlefield might be a representative of the Fair Board to attend the February Carnival of the Toronto Skating Club arose out of the suggestion thrown out by Webber Turner that some idea for a suitable stunt to stage next year might be gleaned. Mr. Turner said that he had obtained the idea and the costumes for the cavalry ride which had been accorded a grateful reception at the past exhibition.

The meeting was adjourned on motion.

MELON HARVEST FOR CHRISTMAS IN WALL STREET

Stockholders Gather in Excess of Golden Sheaves For Holiday.

$11,000,000 TOTAL.

Extra or Increased Dividends Declared By Some Leading Companies.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. (Canadian Press).—Recent rumors in Wall Street that a crop of "Christmas melons" was ripe to be cut up for Christmas presents were fulfilled yesterday with the declaration of extra or increased dividends by a number of leading companies.

The increased or extra dividends were well scattered over the list, including rails, rail accessories, steel, telegraph, banking, coal stocks and one or two specialties, and will result in enlarging disbursements to stockholders about $11,000,000.

Western Union increased its dividend one dollar, going from a $7 to $8 annual basis.

In the railway list, the Virginian Railway, anticipating the early lease of the road to the Norfolk and Western road increased its annual dividend rate from 4 to 6 per cent. The American Brake Shoe and Foundry Co. increased its dividend rate $5 to $6.

The Glen Alden Coal Co., after deferring dividends at the regular directors' meeting last month, due to the acute situation in the anthracite fields, came through yesterday with the regular semi-annual dividend of $3.50.

The Mohawk Valley Coal Co. added 20 cents to its regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents.

The National Licorice Co. added five per cent. to its regular semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent. on common stock.

Two dollars were added to the regular quarterly dividend of $5 by the Bank of New York and Trust Company. In addition, the bank declared a bonus of ten per cent. of their annual salaries to be paid to officers and employees of the bank as a Christmas present.

Midland Steel Products Co. duplicated its action of last June by declaring an extra dividend of $1 on preferred and 47 cents on common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1.

Russian Boot Doomed, London Modistes Claim

LONDON, Dec. 9.— The Russian boot for young women, which came in here with a rush along with the fall rain and mud, is doomed, modistes claim, because there is not a chance of the idea ever being taken up by royalty and the "best people" generally.

The makers of fashion declare incidentally, that the best people seldom set the styles but follow them after the second best have trodden the pathway of the pioneers.

But, it is pointed out, it is quite different with the Moscow boot, because to keep a fad going royalty must give its sanction, and royalty will never do that because no member of the King's Household ever walks in damp, muddy streets which have made the Russian footwear popular—for the time being, at least.

PROHIBITION A FARCE.

English Surgeon Found the United States "Wet."

LONDON, Dec. 9.—"Prohibition is really a farce in America; you can get liquor anywhere," said Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, distinguished surgeon, arriving at Plymouth on the liner Rotterdam.

"The poorer people get the poisonous stuff and the richer people the good," he added. "I saw more drunken people during my month in America than I saw in England in two or three years. I saw drunkenness everywhere—in the streets and on the trains. Everybody seems to carry alcohol. I hope prohibition will never be introduced into England."

SEPARATED BY MOTHER-IN-LAW

Port Arthur Farmer Says Religion Was Cause of Family Trouble.

COURT HEARING.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Dec. 9—Claiming that the basis of the trouble was his refusal to join a certain religious sect, Arvid Holanen, farmer of Ware Township, giving evidence in supreme court Tuesday in support of his claim for damages against his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jolivanen, stated that they were holding his wife and child against his will and that in their campaign of attempted elimination of the son-in-law had gone as far several times as to introduce the girl as wife of another, the hired man at their place.

The parents are alleged to have induced the young wife to go to their home before the birth of the baby and refused the father admittance when he afterwards went to get them to take them to his home, the mother-in-law once striking him over the head with a heavy stick when he appeared at the doorway. The case is proceeding.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS.

Peterboro is not the only Ontario city in which the transportation problem is very much to the fore.

The ratepayers of Hamilton voted on Monday on two bylaws affecting the street railway system in that city, and by a vote of 7,713 to 2,328 declined to authorize the purchase of the system by the city, and by 9,155 to 7,627 vetoed a 25-year franchise agreement.

As a result of this action the operating company has announced that the service will cease tonight, leaving Hamilton without street railway accommodation.

In St. Thomas on the same day the citizens decided to scrap the street railway altogether and to give a franchise to a motor bus company so that henceforth St. Thomas will depend upon the motor bus as a means of transportation.

Peterboro is not going that far, just at present, but in a short time will be watching the experiment of a service in which street cars and the motor bus will be combined.

There are many citizens who believe that before long street railways will be considered as archaic as a team of oxen, and that the modern bus will be in use everywhere as a means of transportation.

The local experiment will afford a good chance to test these views in the light of actual experience.

FLYING THE FLAG.

The local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association has been given permission by the City Council to bore holes in the sidewalks in the business section in which flag-poles may be set on occasions when decorations are in order.

The veterans propose to sell the necessary poles and flags to the merchants, and a general adoption of the scheme would result in a simple but uniform and effective decoration of the city's principal streets when desirable.

If the new method will lead Peterboro to be a little more generous in its display of the national flag on occasions of patriotic and historic interest, it deserves enthusiastic support.

As the Examiner has been compelled to point out more than once, there is a strange reluctance here to flying the flag, a reluctance that is manifested on practically every anniversary or public holiday.

The advantage of the plan sponsored by the G.W.V.A. is that the flags can be placed in position in a second or two, and the effect, if the merchants generally fall in with the scheme, is very pleasing.

A number of centres has already adopted a similar scheme, with the result that the business section is speedily converted into avenues of flags on national holidays and occasions of historic significance.

It is to be hoped that the G.W.V.A. effort along this line will be successful.

A FORWARD STEP.

For the first time in the history of Peterboro at the coming municipal election the polling pools will be confined to the schools of the city and to the City Hall, thus doing away with the old plan of hiring stores or private houses for use as polling booths.

The Examiner believes that this is a forward step upon which the Council is to be commended.

The Aldermen also are to be praised for their decision that a notice will be sent to every elector informing him or her where to vote.

This latter course will probably not be necessary after this year because once the voters comprehend the fact that each year the polling booths will be located at the same places, i. e., at the city schools and the City Hall, one great obstacle in the way of a larger vote will have been removed.

One difficulty that more perhaps than any other has discouraged citizens from voting at municipal elections has been the fact that the location of the polling booths was often changed from year to year, with the result that when an elector went to the place where he voted the previous year and found a change had been made he more often than not declined to go any farther.

Once the new plan is understood this difficulty will be eliminated. The voter will know that his polling booth is located at the school in his district, and once at the school he'll have little difficulty in finding where to vote.

This year, with a notice to be sent to every elector, a suggestion brought out by Alderman Crowe, the old excuse will no longer hold water—the voter cannot claim that he didn't use his franchise because he couldn't find the proper polling booth.

A NEW EMPIRE.

Except among Western wheat growers perhaps, the recent announcement of the discovery of Garnet and other early maturing wheats has caused but a ripple of interest in Canada.

Yet no discovery in recent years has meant so much in the way of adding material wealth to this country.

It is, of course, difficult to grasp the full significance of what has been accomplished by the scientists of Canada's Agricultural Department.

The department itself throws some light on the question by a statement to the effect that the northern limit of agriculture in this country has been forced 60 to 75 miles further north.

Do you realize what that means?

It means that a vast territory extending, from east of the Hudson Bay Railway line to the Peace River district and of a depth of between 60 and 75 miles has been suddenly converted from a non-productive region to a splendid farming country.

It means many thousands of square miles of wheat lands, hundreds of new homesteads for immigrants, the addition of many millions of dollars to Canada's wheat production each year.

Marquis wheat pushed the northern boundary far back; the Garnet variety shoots it many more miles north, and the effect of the discovery cannot be too strongly emphasized.

The new wheat has been tested; and the results were so successful that the Department of Agriculture has no hesitation in now announcing the importance of the discovery to this country.

A BRITISH EXPERIMENT.

A most promising experiment is now being carried on in the British shipbuilding industry.

A joint committee of employers and employees is now sitting, discussing ways and means of reducing the costs of shipbuilding.

This committee has just published its first report—a booklet of 32 pages. Such a report has never before been published in Great Britain.

It has aroused the keenest interest in the daily press. It is a new departure in industrial co-operation.

For the first time, a large British trade union is showing a spirit of reasonableness and a desire to increase the efficiency of its members.

This experiment began six months ago. At that time the whole British nation was aroused by the loss of a big shipbuilding contract.

The Furness Withy Steamship Co. asked for bids for five ships. The British bid was $1,065,000 per ship. The German bid was $765,000. The contract went to Germany.

The British shipbuilders were amazed. They declared that their bid allowed only for material and labour. They protested that no allowance had been made for overhead expenses, nor for taxes, salaries nor dividends.

"Unless we can reduce our costs, we are done," they said.

They asked the trade unions in the shipbuilding trades to meet them in conference. The unions agreed. And this report is the first result of their deliberations.

As to hours of labour, the report states that there is a 54-hour week in Germany and Holland, a 48-hour week in France and a 47-hour week in Britain.

As to wages, Germany pays $9 a week to skilled workers and $7 to unskilled. Britain pays $14 to skilled and $9.50 unskilled.

It appears that a skilled man in Germany gets 50 cents less a week than an unskilled man in Britain, and works seven hours more a week as well.

But hours and wages are not the main cause of high costs in Britain, says this report.

The main causes are the rigid classification of jobs by trade unions; the opposition to machinery and the fact that very few workers are on piece-work.

Too much niggling and obstruction by trade union agents—too much hand labour and too much time-wasting by employees—so says this remarkable report, which is signed by labour leaders as well as by employers.

It appears that the trade unions have created a set of rigid rules, with regard to the classification of jobs.

A labourer, for instance, must not use a tool, not even a foot rule. An electrician who does the wiring must not fit the block that takes the switches.

There is a perpetual civil war between the shipwrights and the carpenters. If a shipwright touches a carpentering job, all the carpenters go on strike, and vice versa.

There is also a war between the fitters and the plumbers. If a fitter oversteps his limits, the plumbers lay down tools. There is always a general stoppage on every offence, no matter how small the offence may be.

In one case there was a 10 days' strike of 360 shipwrights, caused by the employment of a carpenter to mend a platform. The shipwrights contended that the platform rested upon steel beams and was technically a deck.

This "demarcation" of labour, as it is called in Britain, has almost brought the shipbuilding business to a standstill. The workers are much more intent upon waging war upon one another than they are upon output.

But this joint committee voted to put an end to it. Also, it voted to encourage the use of labour-saving machinery and the habit of payment by results.

This committee is still sitting. Very likely it may become permanent. It is now probing still more deeply into the causes of low output and high costs.

The shipbuilders, who have always been turbulent, are now leading the way to industrial peace.

Already, this conference has stopped strikes. There has not been a strike for six months.

It has lowered costs, too, and there are more ships now being built in British yards.

The Blue Star Line has just placed an order for nine ships—a $16,000,000 order; and all of it has gone to British firms.

One of the trade union leaders has gone so far as to petition the Government to grant a subsidy to shipbuilders.

If the Government would give $7,500,000 a year to shipbuilders, he says, it would save the payment of $25,000,000 a year in doles to idle workmen.

In general, the shipbuilding industry is in a state of depression; and British firms do not expect a revival for at least three years.

Shipping is now at its lowest point since 1909. There are 6,000,000 tons of idle ships in all parts of the world. Britain has 45 per cent. of all the ships now being built. But even with this percentage, her shipyards are less than half full.—Written from London by Herbert N. Casson for the Wall St. Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Hon. Andie Fauteux, the loser in Bagot, is apparently out after Jimmy Simpson's record as a losing candidate. Monday's was his third defeat in a row.

Most municipalities in which civic elections were held on Monday report a very light vote. The problem of interesting the electors in municipal affairs has apparently not been solved by bringing on elections earlier.

The new Collegiate Institute question promises to develop into the major issue of the local municipal election.

Death Of Mona Lisa Thief Draws Crowds To Picture

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Interest in Mona Lisa, the Leonardo da Vinci painting which was stolen years ago from the Louvre, has been intensified by the announcement that the chief died near Varese, Italy.

Curious crowds of visitors stand about the celebrated picture, which now is heavily framed under thick glass. It receives more attention from casual visitors than any other painting in the Louvre.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 8.—The market was less active to-day, but any wanted cattle were equally as firm as on Monday. Three extra choice baby beeves sold from $13 to $16 a cwt. A small number of heavy steers brought $8.25, and a couple of good butchers steers for an out-of-town customer cost $7.25 to $7.50 a cwt. Export bulls were steady from $5 to $5.75 a cwt. There were fewer cows on sale, and prices were steady, with the exception of canners, which are easier. Common butchers' steers and heifers are still slow at unchanged prices. The stocker and feeder trade is dwindling, and the season is almost done.

There is a constant demand for good veal calves, and this is keeping the market strong. Bunches of good lambs sold this morning at 13 to 13 1-2 cents a pound, and good mediums were up to 11 1-2 cents. Common calves are 7 to 8 cents.

Lambs remain firm, and the light finished ones are at a good premium. A shipment of show lambs from C. P. Brodie of Ringwood, sold at 17 1-2 cents a pound, and good average ewes and wethers were 15 cents. Choice sheep were 7 to 7 1-2 cents.

Hogs sold at $11.90 and $12 a cwt.,cwt. f.o.b., on Monday, and the market is fully $12 a cwt. to-day.

Sterling demand $4.84 1-2.
Sterling cables $4.84 7-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Optimistic estimates from authoritative sources regarding the Argentine exportable surplus led to active selling of wheat to-day and to a sharp break in prices. Wheat closed heavy, 2 3-4 to 5 cents net lower, new style, December 1.75 1-2 to 176, and May 170 3-4 to 171. Corn finished at 3-8c decline to 1-4c advance; oats 1-8 to 3-4c off, and provisions varying from 25c lower to a rise of 15c.

According to the latest figures concerning the Argentine surplus the total is expected to be about 135,000,000 or 140,000,000 bushels whereas yesterday the estimate which attracted most attention was only 93,000,000 bushels. One of to-day's estimates was from the United States government commercial gent at Buenos Aires, and another to-day was from a leading grain trade specialist at Liverpool. Largely owing to the new figures, sudden weakness developed in the Liverpool market, and was followed by a downward trend in values here.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—A moderate amount of business was done in cash grain in the domestic market including some No. 4 barley at 2 cents per bushel over the December option, c.i.f. Bay Ports. A steady feeling prevailed in the market for oats, with Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white grades quoted at 53 1-2c, No. 3 white at 52c, and No. 4 white at 50 1-2c per bushel, ex-track. Ontario malting barley changed hands at 86 1-2 cents per bushel ex-track.

There were no further developments in the local flour market for spring wheat grades, prices being maintained at the late advance noted. There was some demand from foreign buyers at the higher level of the market, and sales of odd lots were reported, but the volume on the whole was small.

The tone of the market for winter wheat flour remains very firm on account of the continued small offerings, but as the demand is somewhat limited at present there is no actual scarcity, as supplies on spot are ample to meet immediate wants, but the volume of business was small. The demand for white corn flour was quiet and prices were unchanged at $6.80 to $7 per barrel in jute bags, delivered to the trade.

A very firm feeling prevails in the market for all lines of millfeed and prices were unchanged. The demand continues steady for supplies in mixed car orders.

To-day being partly a holiday here a number of retail and wholesale houses were closed and in consequence the demand for eggs was much quieter than usual and the volume of business was small, but the undertone to the market was steady and prices showed no important change. The receipts were 2,152 cases, as against 136 for the same day last week, and 718 for the corresponding day a year ago.

There was no change in the condition of the market for potatoes, prices being fully maintained on account of the somewhat smaller offerings and the fact that there was no pressure on the part of holders to liquidate. The demand was still rather quiet, and the volume of business small.

Butter prices were unchanged with sales of finest creamery at 45c per lb. in solid packages, and at 46c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

The receipts of cheese were 3,407 boxes, as compared with 4,571 for the same day last week, and 3,053 for the corresponding day a year ago. The improvement in the demand for supplies from English importers noted on Monday was again renewed and in consequence the undertone to the market was firm with some business passing.

W.M.S. MEETING IS HELD AT NORWOOD

President in Chair and Programme of Christmas Features.

NORWOOD, Dec. 9.—The W. M.S. of the United Church, Norwood, held its December meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the Sunday school room. The president, Mrs. E. C. Squire occupied the chair. The programme given was along Christmas lines. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. (Rev.) Stillman. Mrs. Court Murphy gave a very appropriate recitation, "The Christmas Guest". A solo was rendered by Mrs. John Riseborough. Mrs. (Dr.) Mortimer Clarke who has recently arrived home from China gave a very interesting talk on her work in that country, and also displayed a number of curios that she had brought home with her. On Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Y.W.A. Mrs. Clarke again gave an address. Both addresses were very much enjoyed by all who were fortunate enough to hear them.

The Mission Band of the United Church held it annual bazaar on Saturday afternoon in the dining room of the church. There were seven booths decorated in rainbow colors. The fancy work and apron booth in charge of Mrs. E. C. Squire and Mrs. R. G. Lawlor was done in violet and had a great display of articles for sale. The homemade candy booth, in indigo, was in charge of Mrs. Keefer and Mrs. Carbrey. A booth where shredded wheat,baking powder,etc., could be purchased was ably looked after by some of the C.G.I.T. girls and was done in blue. The ice cream booth, in green, was also in charge of some of the girls. Homemade cooking was greatly in evidence and this booth, done in yellow with a very elaborate sign, was in charge of Mrs. C. Bongard. Next came the post office where post mistress Mrs. Humphries with Masters Douglas Farnell and Wilson Riseborough as assistants, did a flourishing business with underpaid parcels, and lastly the vegetable booth in red and supervised by Mrs. Ellsworth Hogg. Each booth had also its bevy of Mission Band members as helpers. Tea was served from five o'clock to seven o'clock and in spite of the exceedingly unfavorable weather a large crowd was in attendance. The proceeds amounted to about $112.00.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

FRENZIED FINANCE.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The Hon. L. A. Taschereau is the Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec, but the honorable gentleman also appears before the public as a great expert financier, and it is in this latter capacity that he has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. The honorable gentleman has succeeded in laying his hands upon the tidy little sum of over $4,000,000. Now, on the face of it this appears to be rather a smart thing to do. Many of us have been trying for a long time to lay our hands on just about that amount, but how many of us have succeeded?

As we all know the Province of Quebec is carrying out the policy of govenment sale of liquor, and this amount is the profit claimed by the government on "liquor sales of about $33,000,000", including sales of beer, which is not sold by the government, but which pays a 5 per cent tax. This policy is sometimes called government control, but this name is, of course, only a joke.

Now let us look for a moment carefully into this wonderful financial scheme. In the first place the people individually are out of pocket this amount of $33,000,000. To this amount must be added an amount commensuate with the injury which they have received financially and otherwise by having used the liquor. This is an unstated amount, but every man who uses his head for something more than a hat rack is well aware that the amount is enormous. Cases could easily be stated in which this financial injury to men and their families has amounted to more than 100 times the amount spent by them in a year for liquor.

The foregoing constitutes the debit side of the account.

On the credit side it is proper to enter the amount of financial gain to the people, if any, from the tourist trade attracted to the province by the presence of liquor, and possibly also by any benefit received by reason of expenditures by distillers and brewers; but surely it will be clear to your readers that the latter amount, if based upon a reasonable percentage of the estimated factory cost of any liquor manufactured in Quebec, is a trifling amount when compared with the aforesaid debit amount. This then is the case for the people of Quebec as individuals, and the honorable gentleman is very proud of the transaction. He feels that his province is the only one in the Dominion that can show such wonderful results. "They are all out of step excepting our Sandy."

Now, sir, we have only to read the daily papers to learn the lamentably superficial knowledge of financial and economic question possessed by some of our politicians. But nevertheless how any man can approve of such a financial deal as this, and at the same time hold up his head as a financier is beyond my comprehension. It is true that there is a Federal tax of about $10 per gallon on distilled liquor, and, of course the province benefits by the expenditure of the $4,000,000.

But what a price for the people of Quebec to pay for some improvements on roads and public buildings!

ONE OF FATHERS OF CANADA WAS BOOTH PREMIER PAYS TRIBUTE TO CHARACTER

Pioneer of Vision, Strong Will and Simple Life, Says Hon. Mr. King of Ottawa Lumberman.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Premier W. L. Mackenzie King expressed deep regret last evening on hearing the news of the death of the late J. R. Booth. The Premier Minister believed, however, that the thought which would be uppermost in the mind of all who had witnessed Mr. Booth's near approach to the completion of 100 years would be one of pride and thankfulness for what his life and example meant to Canada.

"Mr. Booth," stated Premier King, "was indeed one of the fathers of Canada, and it is not too much to say that it is to men of such sterling worth and indomitable will, as he possessed, more than aught else, that we owe the development of our Dominion.

"He belonged to the race of hardy pioneers who possessed wide vision, an abounding faith in their country, and the genius of being able to link those virtues to practical achievements.

"Of his many great qualities none was more marked than the unostentatious natural simplicity and directness of character which he maintained so resolutely to the end of his day. He never lost the sense of a just appreciation of human as well as material values."

FORMER M.P. ARRESTED; THEFT OF TRUST FUNDS IS CHARGED

J. A. M. Armstrong Is Accused of Stealing $2,000 From Schomberg Citizens.

SECOND SENSATION.

Arrest Follows Closely That of H. H. Coffey, Former Employee of Armstrong.

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press). — Another sensation was sprung last night, following the arrest of Henry H. Coffey, ex-manager of the Schomberg branch of the Imperial Bank, when J. A. M. Armstrong, former M.P. for North York, was taken into custody by County Constable Thompson, of Richmond Hill, on a charge of theft. Mr. Armstrong was brought to the city and locked up in Court Street Station. Bail was fixed at $50,000, but has not yet been arranged. The complainant in the case is the Crown, represented by County Crown Attorney C. F. Moore. The specific charge against Armstrong is the theft of $2,000.

Mr. Moore admitted that the charge had to do with the alleged theft of trust funds placed in Mr. Armstrong's care by certain Schomberg residents. Asked if the Armstrong arrest had any connection with Coffey and Imperial Bank affairs, he replied that at present it had not, but intimated that the two might be connected later. Mr. Armstrong was arrested at his home in Schomberg.

That Armstrong and Coffey had business interests in common is admitted by Mr. Armstrong. Both were interested in Argonaut Gold Mines. At one time Coffey worked for Mr. Armstrong in the latter's insurance and real estate office. This position he held until he became manager of the Schomberg branch of the Imperial Bank.

WOMEN POLICE ARE PROPOSED

Force Local Councils to Appoint Them is Legislative Plan.

IN BRITISH HOUSE.

LONDON, December 9. — Canadian Press Cable. — Miss Ellen Wilkinson's bill to compel the police authorities to employ women constables, was given its first reading in the House of Commons last night.

The government left the measure to the free vote of the House, neither taking sides in favor of it or against it.

Miss Wilkinson is the only Labor woman member of the House of Commons.

The Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, informed a deputation of feminine social and political workers that he was not opposed to women being on the police force but said it was difficult to dictate to the local authorities on the matter.

There are only 85 police women throughout the country, he said, 48 of them belonging to London, and he thought that this showed a definite objection by the local authorities to women police.

Sir William suggested that Commandant Allen of the women's auxiliary police should draw up a manual about the proposed duties of the policewomen which he could peruse, and perhaps publish.

BOYS AND GIRLS CROWD U. S. JAILS

Startling Indication of Crime Among Youth.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 9.—The part that youth is playing in the crime waves that have swept the country, partqicularly the east, during the past few years, was revealed yesterday by the State Commission of Prisons.

In its report of inspection of the Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, the report says that during the last six years, 16,250 boys and 1,589 girls have been incarcerated in the jail.

"This exhibit of the crime and depravity which has been rampant among the youths of Brooklyn for the past five years is a startling and terrifying one," the report says.

On the date of inspection, there were 49 boys under the age of 21 incarcerated charged with all sorts of crime, "from murder down to petty offences," the inspectors reported.

For the year ending June 30 last there were 2,817 boys and 243 girls from 16 to 21 years of age, held in the prison at various times for different crimes.

MORE LIQUORS GO TO STATES

More Than Quarter of Dominion's Export Goes Across Line.

AMOUNT INCREASES

OTTAWA, Dec. 8 (Canadian Press).—Canada's exports of Canadian distilled liquors to the United States are increasing, according to statistics available here. A glance at the figures covering exports of Canadian whiskey, gin and "other potable spirits" shows a notable increase in the quantity and value of these liquids which cross the international boundary line. Statistics for the calendar year now drawing to a close are not available, so comparison is made between figures for 1924 published recently and those for 1923.

Of all the Canadian whiskey exported in 1924, more than one quarter went to the United States. The value of Canadian liquor exported to the United States during that year was more than half the total valuation of liquor exported to all the countries of the world. Or to quote figures, the United States absorbed 325,910 gallons of Canadian whiskey in 1924, out of total exports of 1,180,711 gallons. The value of the whiskey exported to the United States, was $9,888,536.

Turning to comparative figures for 1923 and 1924, a decided increase in both quantity and value of Canadian whiskey exported to the United States is shown. This is more noticeable when contrasted with a remarkable falling-off in the exports to Great Britain. In 1923 Canada exported 206,928 gallons less than in 1924. The value of the 1923 exports was $3,150,944 just $2,138,136 lower than in the following year. If the rate of increase continues, two more years will show the exports of Canadian whiskey to the United States around the ten million dollar per annum mark.

Great Britain, on the contrary, has decreased her importation of Canadian whiskey. In comparison with 175,072 gallons exported to the United Kingdom in 1923, the exports in 1924 are small, running about 15,000 gallons. The value of the 1923 exports to the United Kingdom was $821,130. If the 1924 exports it was but $64,189.

The only other liquor specified in the official returns is gin. Again the United States imports of the Canadian product show a great increase. The 2,000 gallons exported by Canada to the United States in 1923 increased to 7,355 gallons in 1924. The value of the exports rose from $27,232 in 1923 to $108,723 in 1924. Canadian gin was not exported to Great Britain in either of the years under review.

"If other potable spirits" than whiskey and gin, the United States took 2,402 gallons in 1924 as compared with 9 gallons in 193. The 1924 exports to the United States were valued at $38,432 and the 1923 at $158.

Canada's grand total of exports of distilled liquors during 1924 was 1,210,458 gallons valued at $10,064,486; for 1923, 1,130,679 gallons with a valuation of $8,391,484.

FRENCH POLICE INVESTIGATING GIRL'S STORY OF ESPIONAGE PLOT

Three Englishmen Arrested in Paris Proclaim Their Innocence.

OFFICIAL SILENCE.

PARIS, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press).—Official silence marked the beginning of the judicial investigation Tuesday into the espionage confession of the 25-year-old Parisien, Marthe Moreuil, with whom, it is alleged, three Englishmen are implicated—James Leather, Ernest O. Philipps and William Fischer.

Mlle. Moreuil apparently has been engaged in espionage activities for several months, her efforts being directed against the air defences of France. Her confession said to be quite complete, is accepted by the police with reservations, and police energies are now engaged in ascertaining the extent of the plot and what so far has been accomplished.

The magistrate, M. Peyre, yesterday conducted searches of the domiciles of all three men under arrest, but it is understood that no incriminating evidence was found. The men are loud in proclaiming their innocence.

The Nationalist newspapers are conducting a campaign against Britain, but the Moderate sheets appear to have dropped the case altogether. Others attempt to treat it from a humorous side. There were no further developments Tuesday.

CHARGES UNWARRANTED.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press). — The British Foreign Office declares that it is totally in the dark regarding the dramatic arrest of three Englishmen in Paris, charged with espionage in complicity with Marthe Moreuil, the beautiful red-haired girl known in Montmartre as "Mlle. Foxtrot."

John Henry Leather, Ernest Oliver Phillips and William Fischer, who are under arrest, are employees of the French branch of the English firm, Burndept, Limited, manufacturers of wireless apparatus. This company is sending a representative to Paris to investigate what the company believes are unwarranted charges.

Marthe Moreuil, it is charged, was hired by these three Englishmen to get information about the French air forces.

NO EXCITEMENT IN DAIL DEBATE

Rumors That Republican Deputies Were To Take Seats Unfounded.

REMAIN ABSENT.

DUBLIN, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press). — The Dail Eireann assembled yesterday in an atmosphere of tense excitement. There were rumors that the Republican deputies who heretofore have refused to take the oath or their seats in the Dail, would appear for the purpose of defeating the London agreement regarding the boundary.

A meeting which these deputies held at Shelburne was supposed to herald such intention, and moving picture operators lined up in the courtyard to film the event. They did not appear, however, and the debate was carried on quietly.

The only striking incident was Capt. Redmond's statement that though he was unable to support the government he would place no obstacle in its way, and would not vote.

Tom Johnson, Labor leader, complained that there was no evidence of any new spirit in the North. He especially objected to the abolition of the Council of Ireland as breaking the only link.

The debate was adjourned until to-day.

FIRE DESTROYS FARMER'S HOUSE

High Wind Started Fire in Chimney of William Johnston's Home.

TOO MUCH HEADWAY.

BETHANY, December 9. — Fire believed to have started in the chimney by the high winds, destroyed the house, woodshed and implement shed on the farm of William Johnston, about two miles east of here, just before 11 o'clock last night. Although a large number of neighbors turned out the fire had made too much headway before it was discovered, and it was found impossible to save the buildings or their contents, besides the furniture and implements Mr. Johnston lost $125 which he had in a pocket of his clothes which were hanging in the room where the fire started.

Mr. Johnston and his son, Ormond, were alone at the time. Mrs. Johnston having gone to Peterboro to visit friends. They had been doing some work around the barn and were sitting by the stove for a time before retiring, when the son thought he heard a crackling noise and went and opened a bedroom door. The room was found to be a mass of flames. The wind was every high at the time and it was thought that a chimney fire started the blaze.

The amount of insurance carried is not known.

"Another Secret Wrested from Nature"

—Says the Vegol Chemist

This soap actually grew! Thousands of trees in our African plantations produce the rich palm oil, cocoanut oil, and olive oil, from which Vegol is made. The greatest staff of soap experts in the world have been at work on this problem for many years—"How can we produce the highest grade toilet soap—fragrant and pure—so that everyone can enjoy it, at a few cents a cake."

Nature's oil trees supply the answer. Vegol is the new process, creamy health soap—that you and all your household will revel in. There are no animal fats or irritating chemicals in Vegol. The rich oils, the fresh odor, the natural color of Vegol are all of vegetable origin. Plainly packed, yes, but each cake of Vegol is one-third bigger than the ordinary 10c. to 25c. toilet soap. A wonderful saving.

SYNOPSIS

David Lacy, driving through Connecticut tonight, was mystified to be hailed by a young woman in nun's garb, who asked the privilege of riding with him. They drove to the Sound, crossed on a ferry, and were on Long Island when they had a collision, in which Lacy was spilled. Now he's trying to make out what it's all about. Meanwhile, the girl, who is Connemara Moore, finds herself on a yacht in the company of Pooch, another stranger, being pursued by "revenooers."

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

"Hey, what's the idea, sprinting like that?" demanded the big man. "Didn't you hear me tell you to stop?"

"I could hear the tune, but I couldn't quite catch the words," said David. He smiled politely.

"Yeah? Well, I'll words you, if you try getting new around here," replied the big man, who was evidently possessed of no mean wit. "Come on now—stick 'em up."

"Anything to make you happy," agreed David. "That's all I live for, really." He raised his hands above his head obligingly.

"That's better," the big man said. The revolver, in his admirably steady hand, pointed at David's chest. He made a backward gesture of his head toward his companion. "All right, Sweetie—go on through him."

"Sweetie!" said David. "Isn't it nice you boys get on so well together! That's what I like to see."

The shorter figure came into the circle of light. David's first thought was that never had he seen worse-fitting clothes.

From somewhere within the depths of a flapping sleeve a thin small hand shot out. David looked at it attentively, then closely scanned its owner's countenance. Between the cap and the upturned coat collar was the powdered, rouged face of a rather pretty girl—scarcely the daughter of a hundred earls, but still a rather pretty girl.

"Is there no line of business," David asked himself, "that is safe from the inroads of women, these days?"

He shook his head at her, more in sorrow than in anger.

"Oh, Sweetie," he said, in grieved tones, "aren't you ashamed of yourself, dressing up in Brother's clothes? Will you never outgrow your tomboy ways?"

"Aw, shut your face," replied the laconic Sweetie. With deft and experienced fingers she searched him thoroughly, while he regarded the process with deep interest.

"Not on him, Doc," she reported to her companion, finally.

"I could have told you that, Sweetie, if you had only asked me in a nice way," said David. "Look at all the trouble you and your boy friend had to go to, just because of your impetuous ways."

"The girl must 'a' got it," the big man said. He approached David menacingly, "Where the hell did she go to?"

"That," said David, "is just what I was looking into when you interrupted me."

"One more of those cracks, and you're going to get a bust in the nose, see?" prophesied the big man.

"That's that wicked temper again," said David sadly. "You must try to remember that your heart is God's little garden."

With a bellow the big man lunged at him. But the girl, with a bored air, pulled him back.

"Oh, can that," she said wearily. "They must have gone off in a boat, Doc, like you said. Swede had the right dope on that bird, Pooch, after all. Me, I always did think he was crooked."

"Yeah? Well, we can fix that up, all right, all right," said the big man. "Come on, Sweetie—we'll get 'em. We got a pretty good notion which way they'll be headin'. What'll I do with him—" he indicated the attentive David with a movement of his head—"crack him on the head and leave him lay here?"

Sweetie considered a moment. "Oh, drag him along," she said. "He can help with the engine. I'm rotten at that stuff."

The big man approached David. "Go on, you," he ordered. "Try anything fancy, and it'll be your last official act, see? And keep 'em up."

The girl, with the flashlight, led the way along the ditch. Then came the obliging David, his hands airily above his head, the end of Doc's revolver nuzzling his back. At his heels was Doc, breathing heavily, and whole-heartedly cursing various roots and stones and twigs.

"Couldn't we have a song?" suggested David. "It's always easier to march with music. What do you know, Sweetie?"

"Think you're funny, don't you?" growled the big man.

"No," said David, with perfect truth.

"Well, then shut up."

"What would he have said if I'd said yes?" David wondered. But he remained silent. He gathered that they were on their way to find Connemara and he felt it best to stay quietly along with them. Doubtless they could find her far more easily than he. They appeared to know her ways. Probably they all traveled in the same set.

The ditch dwindled away, gave place to a stretch of sharp stiff grass, then to an expanse of gray, cold, unpleasantly flabby sand. Beyond it the black water tossed peevishly. Lightning cut viciously across the wild sky, and with a roar and a rush the storm broke. There was no preliminary patter of infrequent drops; sheets of water dropped abruptly from above. The little procession toiling along the soggy sands was drenched immediately.

Suddenly the girl uttered an exclamation of relief. The last lightning flash revealed a tiny, ancient pier, to which was tied a little open motor-boat—apparently one of the first ever made.

"This is us, Doc," commented Sweetie. "I knew it was right along here."

"Well, it's about time," was Doc's remark. It appeared to David to mean singularly little. He feared that the big man was one who spoke merely for the pleasure of the exercise.

The procession veered sharply, and made toward the boat. The girl got in it, and took the cover from the rusty engine.

"Get in, you," the big man ordered David. His voice breaking to a whine, he turned imploringly to the girl.

"Aw, say, Sweetie, why don't I just busy him now and leave him here?" he asked.

"Oh, let him alone," replied the girl. "He'll do his stuff if the engine dies on us. We can flop him overboard if he tries any stunts."

"Bless your little soft heart, Sweetie," murmured David. He got into the boat and sat beside her. Doc untied the rope and followed them.

The little boat tossed and lurched on the growling water as the big man wrestled with its motor. David noticed, by a flare of lightning, that the craft's name was painted, in well-worn letters, across its stern. There displayed were the words Idle Hour.

"What an understatement," thought David.

The big man paused, raised his head to the raging heavens, and told God all about the stubbornness of the little engine. In the middle of his remarks the girl yawned. Having concluded, he addressed himself again to his work, gave a mighty wrench, and the motor started, with a succession of plaintive chugs. He took the wheel, and tossed his revolver to Sweetie.

"Keep it on him," he said.

"I'll do that," promised Sweetie grimly. She turned the revolver on David.

That the Utilities Commission be requested to place three lights on Waterford Street between London and Dublin Streets and one on Westcott Street at the railway.

That new standards and lights be placed on the Ashburnham bridge as recommended by the Utilities Commission, namely, six ornamental iron standards with rippled glass globes, midway between the concrete pillars with one 300 watt lamp in each globe and with one 300 watt lamp in the top lantern of the large concrete pillars; and one 100 watt lamp in each side lantern and 100 watt lamps in the side lanterns of each smaller pillar, and that the present conduits and wiring be repaired—and, further, that the Utilities Commission be requested to do the work for the Council and render an account to the Council for the cost. The report of the Utilities Commission is attached to this report.

That the recommendation of the Utilities Commission for the improvement of the street lighting in the East Ward be adopted, namely, that on every other pole, except on Hunter Street East, there be installed an iron bracket with a 100 watt lamp with a radial wave reflector and on Hunter Street East, eight 300 watt suspended units with Holophane reflectors, the cost to the City to be $2,682 per year, and that the Commission be requested to proceed with the work. The report of the Utilities Commission is attached to this report.

Your Committee extended the garbage collection area to include Water Street, both sides, from the Canadian National Railway to Anson Street and Stewart Street, both sides, from Smith Street to Reid Street.

We recommend that the recommendation be made to the Local Board of Health that the admission of patients to the Queen Mary Hospital be placed on the same system as the admission of indigent patients to the other hospitals, namely, that when the Relief Officer reports that the patients or those responsible for them are not able to pay for the treatment they be admitted as free patients.

That the Board of Works be credited and the Property Committee charged with $36.00 for wood used at the incinerator.

We recommend that the tender of P. Anglesey and H. Withers, of $8,800, for the collection and removal of garbage in 1926, be accepted.

Railways and Parks Committee.

The Railways and Parks Committee reported as follows:—

Your Committee referred the matter of renting the restaurant and toboggan livery privileges and the lighting of the toboggan slide, the lighting of the skating rinks and enlarging the dressing rooms at the rinks, and other such necessary arrangements for the slide and rinks to the Chairman of this Committee and Ald. Phelan with power to act.

That as there is not sufficient funds left in the appropriation to construct a toboggan slide near Jackson Park, this Committee decided not to construct such a slide this year, but to have the toboggan slide at the James Stevenson Park re-erected.

Your Committee authorized the Mayor, the Chairman of this Committee and Ald. Phelan to engage the caretakers of the skating rinks and the toboggan slide.

H. Bradburn, M.P.P.

CROW LAKE MAN DIED OF WOUNDS

BIBLE CLASS HELD SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

Good Sum Realized by Bethany People Despite Wet Weather.

BETHANY, Dec. 9.—The third annual bazaar in connection with the Adult Bible Class of the United Sunday school was held in the Sunday school room of the church on Saturday evening, December 5. Upon entrance the room presented a pleasing appearance with its decorations of evergreens and the Christmas colors red and green in streamers, window drapery and table runners. The various booths had many attractive articles for sale. The novelty booth just inside the door was in charge of Mrs. Will Byers and Miss Sarah McMullen. The apron counter was looked after by Mrs. Otto Spencer. Mrs. Crerar was in charge of the numerous fancy and embroidered articles while Mrs. W. L. Rowan had a variety of children's ware for sale. Miss Hazel Jackson and Miss Verna Belle Lee were in charge of the parcel post department. Mrs. Monk had charge of the country store where all sorts of homemade cooking, butter, fowl, cream, eggs and fruit were to be had. Mr. Douglas, Driver and Mr. Leslie Challice did a rushing buiness in the ice cream booth. The Young Ladies Mission Club had an attractive booth where all sorts of delicious home made candy in dainty baskets was sold. The tea room was in charge of Mrs. P. C. Brown, Mrs. Wm. Lee, and Mrs. Arnott while a number of the younger girls assisted in waiting. Mrs. Leslie Challice was secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. P. C. Brown was door keeper. During the evening Santa Claus made a flying visit to the bazaar with his bag of toys much to the delight of the younger portion of the crowd. One little chap apparently wasn't greatly impressed at the appearance of St. Nick, for he disappeared from view and for a time caused great alarm among the parents and friends when in vain they searched for him. Finally he was unearthed to the great relief of all, from under a chair where he had crept. The committee in charge of the bazaar was pleased at the results, almost $200.00 being raised in spite of the wet and disagreeable evening. At one time it was thought that the event must be postponed as the rain was coming down in sheets.

The Young Ladies Mission Club is staging a play in the Town Hall on Thusday evening, December 17, entitled "The Heiress Hunter". They have given a great deal of their time to the preparation of this play, under the managership of Rev. A. Poulter, and are hoping for good returns for their efforts.

Mrs. Heber Sisson of Port Arthur, is visiting with friends in this vicinity for a few days.

Mrs. Logue has returned to her home in Belleville after a pleasant week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Wellington Card.

Mr. Arthur Jemison was a business visitor to Lindsay on Saturday.

Mrs. Rehill of Peterboro was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Crerar, on Saturday and attended the bazaar in connection with the United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McMullen of Lindsay were week end guests of Mrs. S. Arnott.

She Was Troubled With Chronic Constipation

Once your bowels become constipated you are in for a lot of trouble, as constipation is one of the most prolific sources of disease that the human race is addicted to, therefore a free motion of the bowels every day should be the aim of everyone who aspires to perfect health.

Mrs. O. W. Lawrence, Cloverdale East, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with chronic constipation, and became so bad I was almost afraid to eat anything.

One day I saw your advertisement of

Milburn's LAXA-LIVER PILLS

so I got three vials, and after taking them I have never been troubled since with constipation."

OBITUARY.

DR. ROBERT LEE

BETHANY, Dec. 9.—Mr. Wm. Lee received the news on Sunday evening of the sudden and unexpected death of his brother, Dr. Robert Lee, of Frobisher, Sask. The body is being brought east for burial at Port Hope. Great sympathy is felt for both Mr. Lee and his sister, Mrs. S. Jemison. This is the second death in their family within the year as another brother, Dr. Frank Lee, of Grand Rapids, Michigan was buried from Mr. Wm. Lee's home on Christmas eve last year. Another brother, Mr. Sam Lee has only just come east from Saskatchewan for a visit here with friends and left his brother apparently in the best of health.

MRS. E. A. WATSON.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 9.—The funeral of Mrs. Edward A. Watson, nee Bertha Robinson, took place on Friday afternoon from St. John's Church and was largely attended. After a short service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watson on Burnham street, the cortege proceeded to the church. The service was in charge of Rev. A. W. Mackenzie and Rev. Walter Cox. The address was given by Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, who had known the deceased for the greater part of her life, and paid a great tribute to her steadfast character, her unselfish devotion to duty and to her friends, for she had the rare gift of keeping her friends. "She was a good daughter and a good wife, and we know she would have made a good mother. She spent her life for others and she gave her life for others," he said.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. Wm. Watson, Wm. Webdale, Taylor McBrien (Peterboro), W. C. Dunsford (Toronto), A. Robinson (Peterboro), Darcy Wilson (Young's P[illegible])

JAMES BELL.

BETHANY, Dec. 9.—The death of James Bell, only son of Mr. Ernest Bell, one mile north of the Brick Corners, Manvers, occurred very suddenly on Thursday, December 3, after only a few hours illness. The little chap, who was only ten years old, was a favorite with old and young. He was a bright, child and very clever at school and Sunday school. The funeral on Sunday was largely attended by sympathizing friends, and neighbors. Rev. Fierheller, who had charge of the serivce, spoke words of comfort in his usual kind manner to the bereaved parents and sisters. It is seldom that such a beautiful display of flowers is seen as that which banked the small casket.

The remains were carried to their last resting place in St. Mary's Cemetery by six small school boy chums, Lloyd Sutton, Thos. Walker, Emery Grandy, Willie Tremaine, Cairns Lee and Wesley Porter.

Ernest Bell, the father of the boy, served in the war, returned and settled on a farm and little James was becoming a great help and comfort to him. The sympathy of the entire community is with the Bell family in their bereavement.

JOHN KNOX.

ROSENEATH, Dec. 9.—The funeral of the late John Knox took place on Monday afternoon from the residence of his brother, Mr. James Knox, Fenella, and was largely attended, considering the condition of the roads. The late Mr. Knox was at one time well known in this community before leaving for California, where he lived for a number of years. He returned home about three years ago and has been failing in health ever since, until Saturday, Dec. 5, he passed away at the home of his sister, Mrs. L. D. Sykes, Tyrone.

Deceased is survived by two sisters and two brothers.

Restore Rivers To Old Beds To Aid China's Education

PEKING, Dec. 9.—Superstition has caused Kuo Chuen-yen, a Hong-Kong millionaire, to donate $200,000 for the restoration of two rivers to their original channels.

At Ni-Shan, in Shantung province, birthplace of Confucious, the Chu and Sze are silting up, thus, according to superstition, being responsible for a gradual decline in classical learning in China.

Mr. Kuo therefore decided to assist classical education by having the streams dredged and returned to their original beds.

ACCIDENTS DURING HEAVY RAINSTORM

Bad Roads and Misty Weather Caused Two Minor Smashups.

BETHANY, Dec. 9.—This village was deluged in rain on Saturday, leaving the roads almost impassable and the shifting fog helped to increase the danger of travel. Nelles Whiteside was driving in his car about three miles west of the village and did not see another approaching rig until he was almost touching it. He put on the brakes suddenly to avoid a collision with the result that the car was turned over. The only damage done was a broken wind shield. Another man in returning from the baazar had his lights go out and in turning his car had it into the ditch, where he left it until morning and got a neighobr to help him get it out with a team of horses. In neither case was anyone hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Waram spent the week end with friends in Toronto.

MINISTERS' MEETING

Association Met in Millbrook on Monday Morning.

MILLBROOK, Dec. 9—The December meeting of the ministerial association was held on Monday morning in the Board room of the United Church.

Rev. H. W. Foley, of Fraserville, was the speaker, his subject being: "The Formation of the New Testament." Mr. Foley dealt with his theme in a most comprehensive manner, covering the three hundred years involved and showing how the books came to be listed in the sacred canon.

A lively discussion followed, and the meeting was considered a most profitable one.

The unfavorable state of the roads hindered the members living at a distance from attending, those present including Rev. Canon Allen, who was warmly welcomed as this was his first meeting since his long illness; Rev. D. R. Dewdney, who acted as secretary pro tem; Rev. F. H. Howard; Rev. J. O. Totten, of Cavan, and Rev. H. W. Foley.

Miss Velma Payne, dressed as a Japanese woman, sang "Beautiful Japan", Miss Winnie Batten and Mrs. Pollock gave a duet. Mrs. Arthur Edwards read selections describing Christmas in a Mission School in Japan. The letter, written by Mrs. Atkinson, when she was in Japan was written on paper about eight inches wide, and was eight yards long, rolled instead of folded.

This is the week for Dummer taxes to be paid.

ST. PAUL'S ASKED TO RAISE $7,000 BY PRESBYTERY

Peterborough Presbytery Has To Raise $16,000 For 1926 Budget.

ALLOCATION MADE.

New Moderator Elected To Replace Rev. G. I. Craw, Who Has Moved.

(By a Staff Reporter).

PORT HOPE, Dec. 9.—The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, will be asked to raise $2,500 as its share of the $600,000 budget for 1926, this amount being the allocation made at the meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery held in St. Paul's Church here on Tuesday. The total amount to be raised by the Presbytery is $16,000. St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, will be asked to contribute $7,000, the highest allocation in the Presbytery. James Dutton, the elder representing that congregation, maintained that the amount was excessive, but it was allowed to stand as recommended by the committee of which H. W. Goodwill of Cobourg was chairman. The next highest on the list, $1,400, is the share of St. Paul's, Port Hope.

Centreville is asked for $300, Millbrook for $300, Hastings for $250, Havelock for $100, Keene for $150, Westwood for $150, Norwood for $200, Omemee for $100, Warkworth for $200, Warsaw for $40, and Lakefield for $100.

The allocations of the other congregations in the Presbytery are as follows: Brighton $200, Ballyduff $50, Janetville $40, Nestleton $30, Bowmanville $90, Newtonville $50 Colborne $200, Lakeport $50, Cobourg $2,500, Lakevale $100.

Why the Decrease?

G. Tower Fergusson, Toronto, representing the Administration Board of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, addressed the Presbytery and explained that the $600,000 was less than half of the budget of last year, but there were less than half of the number of members to raise it, owing to the Union movement. He was optimistic, however, and said that there never was a time when the people had so great a mind to work in the Presbyterian Church as at present. They are trying to make up, as far as possible, for those who have left. There are now 1,000 Presbyterian congregations in Canada, 42 Presbyteries, eight Synods and 150,000 members. He explained that of the $600,000 budget aimed at, $250,000 is for home and $150,000 for foreign missions, $50,000 for the maintenance of Knox College and the same amount for the College at Montreal, $10,000 to cover the expenses of the General Assembly next year. Provision must also be made for the Superannuation and the Widows' and Orphans' Funds. Ministers, he said, should be the leaders in the effort by their congregations to raise the money required.

Moderator Elected.

When the Presbytery met at 9.30 it found itself without a Moderator, owing to the removal of Rev. G. I. Craw, who held that position, to Midland. Rev. H. D. Cameron of St. Paul's, Port Hope, was elected moderator pro tem., and Rev. W. H. Walker of Janetsville and Nestleton, was chosen, on motion of Rev. James Grier and elder James Allan of Campbellford, the choice of Moderator being made by rotation.

Rev. Mr. Grier was elected convenor of the Home Mission and several service committees, and Rev. H. D. Cameron was appointed interim moderator for Centreville and Millbrook, both of which positions were formerly held by Mr. Craw.

No Change at Hastings.

At the last meeting of the Presbytery a committee was appointed to consider the question of making Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings permanent clerk, and also placing him in the position of general overseer of the Presbytery, his special duty being to assist the weaker groups.

The proposed change would make it necessary for Mr. Thomson to leave Hastings, where he has been for the past 43 years.

Rev. H. D. Camerop, convenor of this special committee, stated yesterday that the members were not yet ready to report so that the matter was dropped for the present.

The suggested change would establish a new precedent in Presbyterian procedure and that is one reason why the committee is proceeding slowly. Another reason for delay is the fact that there is a dearth of pastors in the Presbytery and it was felt that it would be unwise to create another vacancy at present.

Called to Bowmanville.

Rev. Robert McDermott, at present unattached, received a call from the congregation of Omemee and another from the churches at Bowmanville and Newtonville. He accepted the invitation to the latter charges, where the guaranteed salary is $1500, the Presbytery to make the congregations a grant of $300 for the first year.

Arrangements were made yesterday for the induction of Mr. McDermott on Thursday evening, Dec. 17. Rev. H. D. Cameron will preach the sermon. Rev. H. W. Goodwill will address the people, and Rev. W. H. Walker, the minister.

Neither Dismayed nor Discouraged.

The chief speaker for the delegation that came from Bowmanville and Newtonville to urge that the call be sustained, was Elder David Keith, a veteran of 92, who has for years been a familiar figure in Presbyteries and General Assemblies. He explained that the congregations were left without any property as church and manse had been taken by the Unionists, who were in the majority. The Presbyterians at Bowmanville and Newtonville joined forces and would have to pay a rental of $500 a year for a place of worship, and $360 a year for a manse. This was why the members found it necessary to ask the Presbytery for a grant of $300.

"Of course we would like to receive the money," said Mr. Keith, "but if you don't care to give it to us we will try and carry on without it. At all events we hope that we will not require assistance after the first year."

Committees Appointed.

The Moderator appointed the following committees:

To arrange for the holding of rallies of the Young Peoples' Societies in the Presbytery—James Dutton of Peterboro; Rev. H. D. Cameron of Port Hope, and Rev James Grier of Campbellford.

To dispose of church property at Bethany—Rev. D. A. Thomson, Jas. Dutton and Rev. W. H. Walker.

Our church life—James Dutton, Rev H. W. Goodwill and Rev. Jas. Grier.

It was the unanimous opinion of the delegates that the best society that can be formed by the young people in a congregation is a branch of the Christian Endeavor.

The next meeting of Presbytery will be held in St. Paul's church, Peterboro, the second Tuesday in March

BREAD FOR SHELTER CAUSE OF DEBATE

Cost of Delivery of Quaker Oats Donation Arouses Member.

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon in the board room of the Chamber of Commerce, with a good attendance. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. S. Fanning presided. Others present were Messrs. J. Edgar, J. Abraham, R. H. Parsons, W. Stocker, W. J. Hopwood, Dr. R. C. Blagrave, Rev. P. Costello, Mesdames Hodgson, Newhall, Darcy, Welsh, Gibbs and Devey.

The report of the agent was given in his absence by J. Edgar, the secretary, showing five applications for children, children brought to the Shelter (not wards), one; returned to parents (not wards), one; on parole (not wards) one.

The matron's report showed twenty-three children in the Shelter during the past month, with five brought in and three sent out. Two children were in the hospital during the month.

Considerable discussion took place regarding the delivery of bread to the Shelter. This is a special donation of bread received three times weekly on alternate months from the Quaker Oats Company, who make a certain amount of bread in connection with flour tests, and give it during alternate months to St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Shelter. The agent, Mr. Powell, who is now ill, had looked after the delivery of the bread, being allowed carfare for this purpose. The secretary, Mr. Edgar, had made a tentative arrangement with the caretaker at the Shelter, Mr. D. Rogers, to get this bread down to the Shelter, allowing him forty-two cents per week carfare.

Mr. Stocker was of the opinion that delivery might be arranged in such a way as to obviate this expense, which he totalled up to a respectable figure annually. He thought some of the boys might be delegated to get it and offered to buy a small cart for the purpose. Rev. Dr. Blagrave, whose contention was supported by Mr. Hopwood and several of the ladies of the Board, strongly endorsed the stand taken by Mr. Stocker. One of the ladies anticipated no trouble with the matter, when consideration was given to the fact that the Board members spent so much of their time gratis in looking after the requirements of the orphan children under their charge. A resolution was finally passed to ask Mr. Rogers to look after the delivery of the bread.

Donations were acknowledged as follows: Trinity Church, cake and sandwiches; Young Men's Class of George street church, sandwiches; Cricket Class of St. John's Church, cake and sandwiches; George street church, chicken, bread, pie and cake; Trinity Mission Circle, pie, cake and sandwiches; Royal Black Preceptory cake and sandwiches.

Accounts were ordered paid, as follows: Herb Allen, .50; Dr. C. C. Cragg, $5.00; E. F. Mason, $14.40; Grafton and Company, $9.48; Fuller Brush Company, $4.75; R. Hall and Son, $4.12; A. P. Brown and Co. $2.15; Miller, Powell Co. $1.45; Canadian Packing Co. $4.20; W. and A. Ingram, $2.65; Bell Telephone Co. $6.66; R. Neill, Ltd. $16.43; Singer Sewing Machine Co. $1.05; T. L. Edwards, $8.69; Stock's Bread, Limited, $18.42; Peterboro Milk Products, Ltd, $27.81; G. W. Powell, $10.17; Nicholls Hospital, $99.00. Total: $242.93.

A letter was received from Mr. Powell, thanking the Board for flowers sent him.

TWO ENCAMPMENTS CONFERRED DEGREES

Class of Candidates Exalted in I.O.O.F. Hall Last Night.

The officers and members of Hiawatha Encampment, No. 66 I.O.O.F. were present on invitation at the regular meeting of Mount Hebron Encampment No. 56 last evening, and participated in the degree work, when a class of candidates was exalted to the Royal Purple Degree.

The Mount Hebron degree team conferring the Golden Rule, and the Hiawatha team the Royal Purple degree.

District Deputy Grand Patriarch B. G. Craig was present, together with a large attendance of the patriarchs of both encampments.

At the conclusion of the degree work all present adjourned to the dining room, where the Daughters of Rebekah, Golden Link Lodge, had prepared a splendid meal to which ample justice was done.

Community singing in charge of P.D.D.G.P. F. Read, with Bro. Martin B. Chenhall, accompanist, was then the order of the evening, in which all joined heartily; the meeting concluding shortly before 12 o'clock.

BENEFIT CONCERT IS BEING ARRANGED

To Raise Funds For Old Couple in Poor Circumstances.

Mr. A. B. Crowe, manager of the Capitol Theatre, has kindly consented to loan the Capitol Theatre or the Grand Opera House on Sunday evening for the purpose of a benefit concert which is being arranged for two old people mentioned in The Examiner some days ago. This is a woman of seventy years of age, and her blind husband of eighty-five years, who live in a little shack in Belmont Township. The old lady picks up a precarious living by coming into town and selling copies of songs at a dime apiece, and has even engaged in splitting wood at a dollar a cord. They have one cow and some stony land on which they raise a few vegetables. Two sons served overseas in thre Great War. Many people have evidenced a desire to help these people, and an energetic local lady is taking charge of a benefit concert for them, which will probably be held at half past eight oclock at the Capitol Theatre on Sunday evening. The programme will be announced later.

ST. JOHN'S W.A. MEETING.

Monthly Business and Devotional Meeting Was Held on Tuesday.

The monthly business and devotional meeting of the Afternoon Branch of St. John's W. A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. A. W. Turner, in the chair.

There was the usual large attendance, and Dr. Blagrave opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer, after which the usual business was discussed. It was gratifying to all to have the president inform the members that all pledges had been met, with a small balance with which to start the New Year. This is especially good, considering how much higher the pledges were for 1925.

The nomination of officers for the ensuing year then took place in charge of the two scrutineers appointed for this purpose, after which the meeting was closed with the members' prayer and benediction.

Tea was served by Mesdames Budd, Lemmings and Matthews.

GORDON DEFENDS HELP FOR VETS

Urges That Unemployment Relief Be Maintained—Opposes Reduction.

OTTAWA, Dec. 9. — (Special). —Hon. G. N. Gordon was in the city to-day interviewing Hon. Dr. Beland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, urging that no reduction take place in the matter of unemployment relief for ex-service men who may be temporarily out of winter employment. Mr. Gordon's view was that this service of the Department should be continued indefinitely and the Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment promised consideration of the case. The proposed change in unemployment relief was that only pensioners who had twenty per cent. disability or greater should be entitled to relief in cases of unemployment. The suggestion was that pensioners having less disability than 20 per cent. were now practically all re-established. It is understood that T. L. Church, M.P., Toronto, supported Mr. Gordon's contention.

PIANO RECITAL.

Pupils of Miss Viola White Entertained in Centreville School Room.

On Friday evening, Dec. 4th, in the school-room of the Presbyterian Church, Centreville, the pupils of Miss Viola White gave a very interesting and entertaining recital.

They were assisted by Miss Irene Falls, elocutionist; Mr. Stewart Dawson, violinist, and Mr. Harry Brown, soloist. The numbers contributed by the above were well received and added variety to the programme.

All the piano solos and trios by the pupils of Miss White were well done and reflected the conscientious work of their teacherr. The folk dances and drills in fancy costume were decidedly bright and were thoroughly enjoyed.

The concluding numbers to the programme were concert compositions played by Miss White. These were done in splendid form, with fine finish and musical taste. Just before playing Miss White was presented with a beautiful gift of roses, by her class, showing their appreciation of her enthusiastic interest in their musical work.

CLAIMS HE IS "PAWNEE BILL"

On the left, with long flowing hair, is the evangelist now in Canada with Billy Matheson, ex-prizefighter evangelist. He claims to be "Pawnee Bill," the famous bandit, who with Jesse James and Buffalo Bill conducted many hold-ups in the old days in the Western States. He says he was converted at one of Matheson's meetings in Hamilton. H says that he served as a spy in Germany during the war, and for his services in this capacity he received a complete pardon from President Wilson of his sentences for previous crimes. On the right is Matheson. The two say they will conduct evangelistic services in various parts of Canada.

WILL DISCUSS U.F.O. POLITICS

Miss MacPhail and Ex-Premier Drury Will Take Part.

MORRISON REPORTS.

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—The question of the United Farmers of Ontario taking part in politics has again been raised at the annual meeting of that organization and today it was decided that the matter would be discussed at tomorrow morning's session.

Agnes MacPhail, M.P., and former Premier Drury, will take part in the discussion. Urged by general secretary J. J. Morrison, the organization, following the downfall of the Drury government, adopted a resolution to withdraw from partisan politics.

Mr. Morrison presented his annual report today. He briefly reviewed the history of the U.F.O.

That history, he said, had its acts of wisdom and of folly, its moments of disaster but with surprising tenacity it has stood the test and maintained its principles. "Battle scarred though we may be, the U.F.O. holds a higher place in public esteem than ever before," said Mr. Morrison.

The reversal at the polls had shaken U.F.O. to its foundations. Mr. Morrison said that independence of the U.F.O. in politics, although lived up to by early members, had slumped into partisanship. It had suffered as only parties suffer from self-seekers.

The U.F.O. was now fixing its fences after the storm.

Discussing the future Mr. Morrison said the U.F.O. must take its place in solving the problems of Canada. The transportation problem in Canada, he said, had become almost a night-mare.

Mr. Morrison said that taxation was so heavy that it was apt to press upon the personal liberty of free men. He hoped the U.F.O. was not so superficial that it was satisfied with the partisanship of political parties.

The United Farmers Co-operative Company Ltd. today elected the following officers: President, H. A. Gilroy, Alvinston; Vice President, James Ross, Woodbridge, and a third member of the executive, J. A. Bothwell, Owen Sound, former president.

Luxuries Will Cost More If French Tax Bills Pass

PARIS, Dec. 9. — (United Press)—Smoking, drinking and motoring are to be more expensive in France if the new tax bill of Finance Minister Loucheur passes. It provides for raising the rates on tobacco, cigarettes and gasoline, to say nothing of letters, telegrams and such major things as real estate revenue from foreign securities, death duties, and rail road fares.

Loucheur hopes to raise a total of eight billion francs, including four billion for a sinking fund. A national lottery is favored to assist the task.

MOSUL QUARREL ONLY QUESTION BEFORE LEAGUE

Agreement Between France and Britain Removes Stumbling Block.

STUDY MESSAGE.

Decide Coolidge Ready For Naval Disarmament Conference Only.

GENEVA, Dec. 9 (United Press) —France and Great Britain to-day reached a full agreement of the programme of the proposed League of Nations disarmament conference.

This left the Mosul controversy practically the sole stumbling block before the Council. This question, it was said, offered grave possibilities.

Meantime League men studied the message of President Coolidge to Congress, reaching the conclusion that he was ready for American participation in a naval disarmament parley, but not in a land conference.

Syrians Appeal.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Immediate action by the League of Nations Council to check alleged French misuse of the mandate over Syria is urged by Isham Djabir Bey, representing the Arab Palestine Congress. He appealed to Signor Scialoia, President of the Council, to-day, for the right to appear before the League body and present the Syrian demands.

The Syrian representative declares his people wish the Council immediately to send a commission of inquiry to the scene. He also asks French abandonment of the mandate and the extension of the right of autonomy to the Syrian people.

OBJECTS TO CRITICISM.

Sammy Harris Was One of Principals at Benefit Concert.

With regard to the report on the Benefit Concert given in the G.W.V.A. Hall on Monday evening wherein a few peculiar remarks were made as to my stage experience, etc.

I was asked to appear in this concert and did not go there with the intention of trying to benefit thereby; simply endeavouring to help out in the best manner possible.

Could like it to be understood that in appearing at concerts, etc., I am not catering to reporters.

Yours faithfully,
Sammy Harris.

The report complained of read as follows: "Mr. Sammy Harris had his audience in a continuous giggle with his efforts as a comedian and a song, appropriate to the occasion, set to the tune of "When I Leave the World Behind, and delivered, as were his jokes, in a style peculiarly Mr. Harris' own. With a little more experience in stage presentation and posaibly a slight toning down of an exuberant imagination, Mr. Harris may be expected to develop into a really entertaining entertainer."

NO PREMIUM ON QUEBEC POWER

Order in Council To Be Passed Today By Quebec Cabinet.

HELPS ONTARIO.

QUEBEC, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—Ontario can get power from the Province of Quebec without having to pay a premium of 50 cents per horse power. An order-in-council to this effect will be passed at a meeting of the provincial cabinet to-day.

Rumors have been current for the last few days that negotiations were on between some interests and the Quebec government regarding water powers located along the interprovincial border.

TIMELY WARNING.

The Christmas Decorations Should Be Treated to Prevent Fires.

The Christmas season is fast approaching, with the accompanying danger to life and property from decorations of an inflammage nature.

The Ontario Fire Marshal recommends that all fabrics for decoration purposes should be immersed in a solution of Commercial Ammonium Phosphate in the proportion of one pound of phosphate to one gallon of water. If then slightly wrung and dried they will offer considerable resistance to fire until again washed.

Remember that nothing can render these displays absolutely safe, and that if accidents are not to mar the festive season, constant vigilance and care must be exercised.

CONTROL SYSTEM ELECTION PLATFORM

Toronto Report Says Modified Government Control Will Be Issue.

TORONTO, Dec. 9.— (Canadian Press.)—A Toronto report says today that a bill outlining a modified system of Government control with a restrictive local option feature will be prepared as the platform on which to appeal to the electors in a forthcoming general election in Ontario.

BRADFORD EX-MAYOR IN PAINFUL SCANDAL

H. M. Trotter Admits Irregularities in His Civic Dealings.

BRADFORD, Eng., Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press). A painful municipal scandal has arisen in Bradford in connection with H. M. Trotter, formerly Lord Mayor of Bradford, and for 25 years an alderman and chairman of the Baths Committee, who, it is said, admits irregularities in his civic dealings.

Bradford Council discussed the affair at a meeting last night amidst a strong sense of restraint. The fact that Trotter had occupied a prominent position in the city for so many years and was respected generally influenced the members of the Council to deal with the matter quietly and without heat, but it was decided that there should be an inquiry into the whole affair.

REMOVAL OF TAX IS APPRECIATED

Premier Ferguson Discusses Action of Quebec Cabinet on Power Export.

SHORTAGE IMMINENT.

TORONTO, Dec. 9. (Canadian Press).—"We very much appreciate the spirit in which such action was taken. It will be of direct advantage to us. If we ever find it necessary to go to Quebec for power," stated Premier Ferguson this morning in discussing the action of Premier Taschereau of Quebec in removing the power tax of 50 cents per horse power on any power that might be exported to Ontario from that province.

"If we can get power anywhere to help us over the critical period I think the public will agree that it is good business to get it," stated the Premier.

"If we can get power from Quebec there is no reason on earth why we should not avail ourselves of it."

While admitting that a shortage was imminent, Premier Ferguson did not state if imports would take place in the near future.

Denied in Quebec

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—Premier Taschereau of Quebec today denied that his government would remove the tax on the export of power to Ontario. The matter, he said, would not be considered.

A report came from Montreal last night that the government had decided to remove this tax.

APPEAL DISMISSED.

Evidence in Annulment Case Did Not Satisfy Judge.

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—The appeal of Fay D. Cole, asking to have her marriage to Basil W. Cole annulled was dismissed without costs by the First Appellate Court to-day. Chief Justice Mulock said that the case was tried by Justice Kelly, who dismissed the action because it was not shown to his satisfaction that the parties had not cohabited or lived together as man and wife.

"The right of the Court to annul a marriage under the Ontario Marriage Act," continued His Lordship, "does not arise unless the trial judge is satisfied that the parties did not live together as man and wife. We see no reason to differ from the trial judge and his view of the evidence," said the Chief Justice.

TWO POWERS IN AGREEMENT NOW

Britain and France Have Reached Compromise on Disarmament.

DRAFT FORMULA.

GENEVA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—England and France today reached accord concerning the study of the problem of mutual assistance preparation for the international disarmament conference.

After a secret meeting of the League of Nations Council, M. Paul-Boncour of France announced that Foreign Minister Benes of Czecho-Slovakia had been appointed to draft a formula covering the question which divided the British and the French. He explained that the study of mutual assistance would be more flexible than originally proposed by the French, thus intimating that a compromise had been reached. The impression is growing that Britain favors the separation of the study of land and naval armaments, keeping the road open for a possible second naval conference in Washington, while France continues to regard the disarmament problems one and inseparable.

IN POLICE COURT.

Abraham Cherney appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning in connection with the charge against him of keeping liquor for sale. Counsel agreeing, postponement was obtained to Thursday, December 17.

Another man, Stanley Salsberry, was charged with obtaining money fraudulently. The case was adjourned to permit him to consult a legal authority. It is alleged that he had represented himself as an employer of the Standard Oil Company at a salary of $85.00 weekly; that he was on holidays at the time of the offence and that those holidays were paid, and that the accused had indicated himself as being backed by substantial funds placed in the First National Bank of the United States.

SLOGAN SEEMS TO TAKE EFFECT MORE THIS YEAR

Christmas Shopping is Being Done Earlier Than Usual.

MANY NOVELTIES

Peterboro Stores Provide a Great Variety of Pretty Gifts.

Are you thinking of your Christmas gifts? Most people are. In fact, many people have already laid in a goodly stock of them. Buying this year is said to be going on much earlier than in previous seasons. Perhaps the slogan, "Shop early," hammering away at the public eye through print and poster for so many years, is beginning to seep in.

Why not shop at home? That is, in your own town. You don't know how many pretty things you can get here, if you keep your weather eye open, and cheap things, too. Besides the staples, the gifts that are bought every year by successful suitors and husbands and wives, the articles like diamond rings that mark the Yuletide ending of a courting siege, or the carpet sweeper with which the fond mistress of a home presents her spouse, and the party frock that he bestows upon her, there are so many little odds and ends that draw the attention.

Toys for the Kiddies.

Here is a family of tiny dogs and cats, life-like in their realistic combat, facing each other in a shop window, and destined for tiny hands; or a baby doll, dressed from head to foot in white woolly things, with a complete outfit surrounding her of toilet accessories, like stiff-bristled hair brushes and little toys in red celluloid fishes or a clown astride a revolving globe.

How about a hand-painted Christmas card, with the three kings of old riding to the quest of the Infant Saviour or a dainty damsel smiling from behind a fan? Here is a pair of Spark Plug bootees for the baby, with the famous horse complete with goggle eyes, projecting from bright leather footwear. Or a pair of Indian hand-beaded slippers of flexible, soft kid for the lady, or boudoir shoes in quilted purple satin with self-covered heels, the last a new wrinkle. If you incline to utility in your gifts, bestow upon your little daughter a pair of the very convenient "Zipper" goloshes, with the long instep stretch that offsets the high heel drag, or if you want to please your party-going child, give her a pair of the lovely new black velvet slippers, trimmed with wavy lines of gold kid applique.

Here is a "Leiling" nightie, hand-embroidered, all the way from the Celestial Kingdom, or a slip in mauve and yellow, of sheerest silk.

Novelties of All Sorts.

Drop into the useful emporium where goods may be had at a very low cost and see the three-book library for the tiny tot, "The Acorn Pie," "Pep the Pup" and "The Lost Boat," all in a dainty little box at a ridiculously low price. Or get the effect for a buffet of a pair of the large, flame-yellow candles in specially designed holders, flanking a big glass bowl of the same sun-like hue. If you want to decorate this bowl, you can go upstairs in this convenient store and learn how to apply designs in sealing-wax that will make the most ordinary teapot or pepper and salt or little bowl a thing of distinctive elegance.

And buy a package of the new silvered metallic wrapping paper, with a glistening silver ground covered with a holly or poinsettia design, or a rattle for the baby, the new sort with the "goo-goo" eyes. Or a cluster of the cheery California dahlias, with red waxed petals against a spray of mountain laurel.

Look at the beautiful things in the various "Gift Shop" sections, with everything to suit every taste.

See the Christmas puddings in spotless white bowls, covered with holly-decked paper, calling to mind the Christmas dinner of Tiny Tim in the immortal Christmas Carol.

Here, in a jeweller's window, is a new variety of silverware, with a lovely pattern, and the drug store next door has perfume atomizers in colored enamels and dainty bits of French ivory, always popular with the young thing who is "saving" French ivory. In the millinery shops, they have exquisitely colored 'mums, with curling edges, for coat collars, and gorgeous big flat flowers for the dance frock. One of these is a dainty thing, its flat beige and fawn velvet petals stretching out from a centre in which a tiny girl's face appears in Indian ink on the round core of the big flower.

Santa Claus Court.

In one of the big stores there is a "Santa Claus Court," where Santa entertains the children from three to four o'clock every afternoon, much to their delight and that of their mothers.

In the same store is a section that should meet with popular patronage, wherever the choice of a Christmas gift is in doubt. This is a bower on the third floor, arranged in the prettiest fashion with yards and yards of brightly-colored paper streamers, where goods manufactured in the Canadian National Institute for the Blind are on sale. Behind the exhibit is the ever-present feeling that these are not ordinary things, turned out of a factory by machines that rap their way through a long day, sending forth dozens of articles of an identical shape and style, but they are the product of patient, plodding fingers, the finer-tips "seeing" the pliant reed that makes the dainty things in flower baskets and trays and jardiniere holders and boxes. Something of the patience of the blind worker goes into and colors the atmosphere about the dainty mauve and green things, sprinkled with gold dust in the new fashion, and bearing on them the emblem of the Blind Institute, the little tag with Hope and her broken lyre against a blue sky.

The Smart High Neckline

Fashioned in the mode of the hour—in jumper effect. The jumper type of frock has attained an assured position and is fashioned from a variety of materials. We have designed here an attractive model from striped flannel which simulates the two-piece effect, yet has all the comforts of the one-piece dress. The back is plain and in one piece, and the bodice front is joined to the skirt beneath a wide tuck. Two pocket-tabs are set on to simulate pockets; or if really truly pockets are desired, slash the material on the line for the pockets, make an inset pocket and tack the tab over the opening. There are inverted plaits at the side seams, and the collar may be worn high as illustrated, or turned back to form revers. The long, full sleeves are gathered into narrow bands at the wrist. WEDDING BELLS.

THOMPSON—LANG.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 28th, at the George Street Parsonage, by the pastor, Rev. J. E. Todd, when Mary Kathleen, only daughter of Mr. Fred. Lang, of Omemee, was united in marriage to Walter Harold Thompson of Emily.

The bride wore a dainty frock of peach-colored georgette.

Attendants were cousins of the bride, Helen and Esmond Storey.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson left on the evening train for Toronto, Virginia and Pefferlaw. On their return they will reside in Emily.

This Peach Crepe Evening Frock Has Flowers Outlined in Black at the Hem

The vogue for frocks that show touches of hand-painting is growing. We see simple crepe frocks with a single huge design of flower, bird or animal painted somewhere on its surface.

We also see frocks like the one above, with a graceful border design running around the hem. The border in this case represents stereotyped flowers, outlined in narrow lines of black, painted in by hand.

The frock itself is of crepe in peach tint, and the shoulder is decorated by a single real flower.

One beauty of daily newspaper advertising is that it has killed the store that asked two prices. Read the advertisements and you can shop securely.

ALL IS VANITY

A philosopher once said that all was vanity. This little afternoon frock may be an indication of it, for tiny little Hindu mirrors are used on the dress instead of buttons. The material is orange and gold brocaded chiffon over a slip of black satin.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10

While there may be the usual program of activities, this day may not be read as an important one. There are indications of some minor annoyances and disappointments, but the angle of Sol to Jupiter and Mars, assisted by other friendly figures, makes these of little consequence. However, new projects had best be deferred and there should be some precaution against loss or extravagance. The mental faculties may be directed into serious channels.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for some setbacks, disappointments or losses during the year, but these may not be of great consequence since Jupiter figures prominently in the yearly forecast. Be careful of new ventures and guard against treachery. A child born on this day may be expected to have pretty fair qualities, with a steady character and studious mind. It may have a rather even career, unless the hour of its birth indicates otherwise.

Women Prove Popular As Masters Of Hounds In Eng.

TIVERTON, Dec. 9.—Eve as master of fox hunting packs has proved a tremendous success in England and one reason is the fact that by her tact and charm she has been able repeatedly to placate surly farmers when men have failed.

One of the best known women masters is Miss Kathleen Styles, of the West Kent fox hounds, which is one of the favorite packs of Prince Henry.

At present, there are at least eleven women masters of fox hounds, eighteen women honorary secretaries of clubs and about twenty women masters of harriers and beagles.

Fox hunting now is on in full tilt throughout the country, Princess Mary and the Duchess of York having participated recently in several chases in this vicinity. Another keen follower of the hounds is Lady Jean Douglas Hamilton, who frequently hunts all day and then attends a theatre party or a ball in London in the evening.

THE SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori

Grace, as we observe it in others, seems such an easy, careless matter, that we feel sure they must be utterly unconscious of it.

Now the truth is, they are unconscious of it, but only because they have mastered their movements to such a degree that they can make them easy and pleasant to look at, and then forget them.

All grace is based on unself-consciousness.

The person who thinks of her movements does so usually because she is conscious of some defect in them. The minute she begins to think of them, her movements become stiff and awkward. It is only unconscious grace which is really appealing.

But how can we gain this desired grace, you ask? You cannot, my dears, without working for it. Some few are given grace as a gift, but all the rest must work for it. The thing that makes this work easy to do, however, is the knowledge of your sure reward.

Do not feel despondent, then, when you see some fair young thing move with the rhythm which you wish were yours. Waste no time in envy, but set to work to master the general points which lead the way to grace.

To begin with, you must exercise every day for a definite period. This gives you a sure control over your muscles, and you can make them obey you without really thinking about it.

Having set to work to keep your muscles supple, the next thing you must master is your posture. See that you sit and walk correctly.

When you seat yourself, have your chest out, your chin in, and your body well back in your chair. Lean forward from your hips, or rest your back easily against the back of the chair. You should be able to take this position without any degree of stiffness. If necessary, practice it in front of your mirror. See that you appear to be sitting easily. It is important to appear comfortable, as well as to be comfortable, for both these things count in gaining grace.

Let your feet rest in an easy position in front of you. Do not twist them about each other, or hang your heels in a rung of your chair. This is hard on your chair, or your hostess's chair, and it robs you of a graceful appearance.

Now, when you rise, rise easily and gracefully, retaining the chest out, chin-in attitude. If you have been sitting with your feet resting so that one is lightly in the lead of the other, you will rise with your weight on the forward foot, ready to take your first step with the foot that is slightly in the rear.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BEST CAT IN THE WORLD

"Oh, you beautiful, beautiful creature!" Dotty exclaimed, as she rounded the corner in the Zoo and discovered the new prisoner behind the iron fence. "What in the world are you anyway?"

"What's that?" roared the captive creature so loudly that Dotty held her ears. "Do you mean to tell me you don't know who I am? It shows you've never visited the far southern countries of the world or you'd know a jaguar when you saw one. I'm Mr. Jaguar, at your service. Look me over and see if folks are not correct when they say that Mr. Jaguar is the handsomest of all the cat family." Then Mr. Jaguar strutted back and forth behind the iron fence switching his long tail proudly.

"For goodness sake!" laughed Dotty. "Do you really and truly belong to the cat family. I like the way your beautiful yellow coat is dotted with rosettes of black. It looks just as if some one had painted every spot there."

"This very same spotted coat has helped me out of danger a good many times, let me tell you," chuckled Mr. Jaguar, shaking his tail. "You see it fits in among the foliage so beautifully. Looks like sunlight and shadows that folks can't spot me easily, when I'm trying to hide."

"You Beautiful Creature!"

"My! You're such a fierce looking creature I shouldn't think you'd be afraid of anyone," said Dotty "I should think your neighbors would be afrad of you instead."

"And well they might be afraid," boasted the handsome fellow, shaking his great big head. "For I can kill and eat horses, mules and cattle without any trouble at all. You see in my wild state, I had to get out every night and hunt for my feed. All I had to eat was the wild animals that roamed in the woods. But, dear me, I'm glad I don't have to do that any more. Since I've been in captivity my keepers supply me with plenty of food, so I don't ever think of killing anything. I've heard folks step up to my bars and say, 'Oh poor fellow! What a shame to keep him a captive.' Then I just sit back and laugh to myself. I don't need their sympathy.

"The neighbors I left out in the wilderness need the sympathy. I've seen the day I'd tear you to pieces, but I wouldn't for the world do such a thing now. No sir-ee, I'm just as happy as I can be and hope the rest of the world is too. Come and see me again sometime. I must take my nap now. Don't forget, when you have seen me you have seen the handsomest of all the cat family." Switching his tail proudly, he disappeared into his house, among the rocks.

Dotty watched him until the last tip of his pretty tail was out of sight, then she ran on down the path to visit with the other animals.

ONLY SIX YARDS MADE BY GRANGE

But Chicago Bears Defeated Washing "Pros" 19-0.

SEEKS $1,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—A net gain of six yards while carrying the ball and a goal kick after a touchdown by one of his mates was Red Grange's only contribution to the 19-0 victory of the Chicago Bears over the Washington All-Stars in a professional football game here Tuesday.

Million His Goal.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9. —. "Red" Grange, who has crossed other people's goal lines so often that he has become the nation's most famous football character, has set one for himself—$1,000,000.

In his dash for the new goal Red has "stiff-armed" love, by his own admission. When he makes his "touchdown," he plans to go back to Wheaton, Ill., scene of Red's iceman activities and be a solid citizen.

Grange's statements as to his future came following a day of signing papers which enriched his cause by something like $375,000. The Arrow Pictures Corporation, which produced a cheque for $300,000 as guarantee of their end for such a price in motion pictures, was the main item.

"I told father that I was leaving college before graduating because I thought I could earn enough in professional football to repay him for what he spent on my education," Grange said. "But I got that much so quickly I figured I'd better go on and get set for life. With what I collected to-day I've already got salted away in the bank nearly half a million dollars.

"No, I don't think I'll ever go into politics, no I'm not figuring on being married soon. I don't at the moment know any girl who would have me.

Grange's starring vehicle will be a sport story, the Arrow officials having announced that it will be written by a well-known sporting writer while Red is running around gridirons from here to Florida and thence to California.

It was asserted that the amount Grange was to receive for his first picture was the largest ever paid to any actor or actress for a single performance. Only four or five weeks will be required for making the film, it was said.

One field that is still open to Grange is writing. As yet, he has not contracted for any memoirs or feature articles, but this undoubtedly will come in time.

Grange has not decided yet whether he will play professional football again next season, but if he leaves the gridiron it will be of his own choice, and not because of public opinion.

"I have been criticized for leaving college and turning professional," he said yesterday. "If I were a baseball player and joined the Chicago Cubs or the White Sox there would be no criticism, but because I happen to be a football player there seems to be some question of the ethics of my case."

FINAL RUGBY GAME.

Regina Juniors Coming East on Saturday.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 9—The Montreal Amateur Athletic Association Junior Rugby squad began preparations for the Dominion final against Regina Pats here on Saturday when they held a scrimmage workout last night. The practice was the first meeting of the boys since their 12 to 3 victory over Toronto Argonauts in the Eastern junior final, and a full turnout reported in fine condition.

With the team at the top of its form at the present time, Coach Foster does not intend to overwork them and only one more practice will be held before the final game, this being set for tonight.

GREAT GOALER DONE.

GEORGES VEZINA

The wonderful goalkeeping star of Leo Dandurand's Montreal Canadiens, will never play hockey again. Vezina, known all over the country as the "Chicoutimi Cucumber," has been playing goal for Montral Canadiens ever since the days of the late George Kennedy. He has been the mainstay of the Canadiens' defense for fifteen years and the idol of the French-Canadian fans. He was taken ill during the opening game of the N.H.L. in Montreal, and the doctors have ordered him to quit due to lung trouble.

INSIDE GOLF.

By CHESTER HORTON

The action of the clubhead through the ball is so rapid that it is not possible to actually control the timing while the ball is being hit. Other factors are controlled so that timing becomes automatic. The hands have to work in the forward swing, and their work should be purposely delayed until the clubhead gets to a point, say, two feet from the ball. From there on the hands will loaf on the job unless you consciously put them to work, this being because the average golfer has weak hands. Make them actually throw the clubhead forward. Press with the hands all you can possibly press through this arc of the swing. If the hands loaf the clubhead will come in behind the hands, and timing will be late. A slice will result, or, if the body begins to push to make up for the lack of hand action, the club face will turn over and a hooked ball will result.

ROCKY KANSAS RING VETERAN

Gained Prominence in 1921 By Defeating Ritchie Mitchell.

IN 200 BATTLES.

BUFFALO, Dec. 9—Rocky Kansas, rugged Italian-American lightweight of Buffalo, whose real name is Rocco Tozze, is a veteran of fourteen years of boxing and of more than 200 battles in the ring. He was born at Buffalo in 1895 and was a favorite with the fans of his home city long before Goodrich rose to prominence.

His knockout victory over Ritchie Mitchell in 1921 made him nationally famous, and his subsequent showings were so impressive that he got two matches with Leonard. The first was a twelve-round no-decision affair in 1921, but in 1922 the then champion knocked Kansas out in eight rounds later a fight in which Kansas at one time looked like the victor. In a third bout Leonard won the decision after fifteen rounds.

Another of Kansas's outstanding victories was scored at the expense of Charley White in Madison Square Garden in 1923. He has always been noted for his stamina, ring generalship and skill at infighting, often wearing his opponents down by what seemed sheer strength. He has met Johnny Dundee, Luis Vicentini, Willie Jackson, Jack Bernstein and most of the other leading lightweights of this decade.

The record book credits Kansas with twenty-seven knckouts, while he has taken the full count only twice; Leonard in 1922 and Vincentini last year, having been his only conquerors by the short route. He has won thirty-two decisions and lost seven, with eight draws, his other battles having all been no-decision affairs.

QUEEN'S CHEER LEADER A LOSS

In His Final Year With Ten of the Senior Team.

WILL BE MISSED.

KINGSTON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Ten of Queen's Senior rugby team will be graduating this year from the University, it was announced by Secretary J. S. McDonnell of Queen's Athletic Board of Control, Tuesday.

The players who finish their college education this session are: "Pep" Leadley, Capt. Harry Batstone, "Red" McEslvey, "Bill" Muirhead, "Bozo" Norris, "Tiny" Adams, Bert Airth, "Curly" Lewis, Don McCrimmon, "Bud" Thomas. All were valuable assets to Queen's championship team and they will be sadly missed next season.

In this connection, the Intermediate team is also suffering the loss of two valuable player in "Pres." McLeod and Jack Dunlop. "Archie" Abernethy, the well-known and popular cheer leader, is in his final year, too.

QUEEN'S HOCKEY TRIP

KINGSTON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—The Queen's hockey team will play in New York City in the Madison Square Gardens on January 5 and 6, and it is expected that they will visit one or two other American cities if dates can be arranged. Pittsburgh is anxious to have two games, but have chosen Dec. 26 and 28. Queen's do not find these dates acceptable, but there is a chance that that city will be included in the trip to be taken by the team. They may also visit Boston. After the game in New York, Queen's players will return by Montreal and will play McGill there on January 9.

HOBBS HAD TROUBLE AS TYRO AT CRICKET

World's Record Holder Unable to Get On

For the second time in its history, the Taunton cricket ground in England has been the scene of a historic feat. It was on this patch of turf 30 years ago that A. C. Maclaren compiled his huge inning of 424, the highest ever scored in England, and a world's record until W. H. Ponsford beat it by five runs in Australia a couple of seasons ago. It also was on the Taunton grounds that John Berry Hobbs recently beat the feat of Dr. W. G. Grace, who had completed 126 centuries in first-class cricket.

Simultaneously Hobbs equaled and beat another record. Hitherto the greatest number of centuries scored in a single season was 13—accomplished by C. B. Fry, Tom Hayward, and Hendren. Hobbs has compiled 14 centuries so far this season. There were enthusiastic scenes on the ground as Hobbs made both his 126th and 127th centuries. Hobbs both equaled and beat Dr. Grace's record in the game in which Surrey, on which team he was playing, defeated Somerset. It was the third time in his career that Hobbs had made two centuries in one match, having scored 160 and 100 against Warwick in 1909, and 104 and 143 against Cambridge earlier this season. Against Somerset he made 101 and 101 not out.

Hobbs, born at Cambridge on December 16, 1882, is in his forty-third year. He first offered his services to Essex, which declined them, and it was on the recommendation of his mentor, Tom Hayward, also a Cambridge-born man, that he joined the staff at the Oval. Hobbs came into first-class cricket at the age of 22, when, having qualified for Surrey, he scored 28 and 155 in his opening match for the county against Essex at the Oval, and finished the season with an aggregate of more than a thousand runs. From that brilliant beginning he has never looked back. At the age of 42 he is in splendid health, and, in the opinion of the critics, should have several seasons of first-class cricket before him.

3,847 DOZEN BALLS USED IN NATIONAL

Use of Resin By Pitchers Recommended By the League.

....NEW YORK, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—The National League went on record at its annual meeting Tuesday as favoring modification in the playing rules to permit the use of rosin by pitchers.

Improvement of the game in general and curtailment in the quantity of balls used throughout the circuit, in particular were the motives of the magnates, who sat through a session of more than four hours without taking definite action on many problems which await settlement today.

A report from President James A. Heydler showing that 3,847 dozen balls were used in the league last year, preceded consideration of the playing rules. Mr. Heydler pointed out that this total was 245 dozen more than were used the season before.

"We recommend," Mr. Heydler explained, "that the rosin be used under the direction of the umpire. It will make for better games and cut down the rapidly mounting total of balls we are being required to use. We have come to the conclusion that failure of the pitchers to get a fair grip is the root of our troubles."

William Ashton, president of the Reading club, announced he had purchased Francis Sigafoos, a young third baseman, and Jack Keesey, a recruit first baseman from the Philadelphia Athletics.

Vernon Parks, a pitcher of the Syracuse team, was sold to the Jersey City club.

Walter Ludwig, formerly of Reading, was appointed business manager of the Scranton club.

The Newark Baseball club announced that it had signed Tom Sharkey, formerly of the Reading club, as trainer.

The Syracuse Internationals created a sensation when the secretary of the club announced waivers had been asked on 19 players, including George Bloss, outfielder, who led the Western league in batting last season as a member of the St. Joseph, Mo., club.

William J. Manley, secretary to President Toole, was granted an annual increase of $1,250.

According to the International league tentative playing program, the northern teams will open in the south, and southern teams will close in the north. The magnates also discussed a change in the option rule which will permit managers to send out first-year players on option, without asking for waivers. This proposition will be discussed further at the special meeting in Toronto.

EXCITING GAME WON BY BOSTON

All Kinds of Hard Luck Crammed Into 60 Minutes.

SCORE WAS 3-2.

BOSTON, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press.)— Hard luck Boston Bruins won a hard luck game here last night, defeating the strong Montreal Maroons 3 to 2, before a crowd of 4,000 fans. Almost everything that could happen in a hockey game occurred between the opening whistle and the closing bell, but the Bruins earned their victory by stubborn defence, which tied up the Maroon attack, and by the efforts of two earnest defence men, Stuart and Hitchman, who led almost every attack. Herberts received credit for two Boston goals and Cooper for the third, but the defence men deserved much of the credit.

CANADIENS LOST ON HOME ARENA

The New York Americans Swamped Montreal Team 6-2.

FORBES WAS STAR.

Press).—The New York Americans defeated Canadiens before a packed Arena here last night, the new National Hockey League team scoring a 6 to 2 victory. Canadiens put all their dash into the first session, but Fate was against them, and Vernon Forbes, in the Americans' goal, blocked every Canadien effort. The reverse of being one goal down at the end of their first 20 minutes' play took too much of fight out of the local team in the two final periods.

WINDSOR BEAT CUP HOLDERS

Port Arthur Team Lost the First Game of Eastern Tour.

SCORE WAS 2-1.

WINDSOR, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Windsor Seniors, recently nick-named "Hornets," continued their winning gait by defeating Port Arthur, Allan Cup holders, here last night by a score of 2 to 1. Both teams set a fast pace from the outset and Wilson by smooth working combination slipped in on Farrell in the first minute of play. Fourteen minutes later Brown with a beautiful solo rush got past the defence and beat Chabot easily. The second period was scoreless.

CONFERENCE ON ROADS WILL BE HELD AT OTTAWA

Inter-Provincial Meeting This Month is Seventh of Series.

LARGELY ATTENDED.

Fourteen Subjects Are On the List For Discussion By Delegates.

MONTREAL, December 9.— The next interprovincial conference on highway and motor vehicle legislation and allied questions, held periodically under the auspices of the Canadian Good Roads Association, has been called for to-day and to-morrow, with the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, as the meeting place. This conference will be the seventh of its kind, others having been held in previous years at Winnipeg, Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, Toronto and St. Andrews, N.B., and each has drawn a full representation of provincial highway ministers, their deputies, chief engineers and other heads or important members of highway departments, while at that held in Quebec in 1923 no less than four of the nine provincial premiers were also in attendance. Concrete results have already been effected in the securing of approximate uniformity of legislation regarding speed, fees, signals and other motor regulations, in cooperation between provincial highway departments for their mutual advantage, and in the co-ordinating of highway systems and methods of construction.

The keynote of this year's conference will be transportation, and a broadening of scope is indicated by the fact that for the first time representatives of the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Electrical Railways Association have been invited to meet with the provincial ministers and officials for the discussion of interests in which all parties are concerned. It is expected that each of the four institutions mentioned will delegate a representative to be present, while the attendance of provincial ministers and officials from all the eastern provinces and several in the west is assured.

Of the fourteen subjects which find a place on the agenda, three are of particular importance to the large transportation interests. Under the head of "Transportation" the delegates will be asked to consider whether, in the light of changing conditions, the present ratio of expenditures on highways, railroads and electric lines should be maintained or modified; while the effect on common carriers of competitive services by motor buses and trucks, and the regulation of the latter, will also be discussed. "Grade crossings" is another live topic, and its various aspects, such as grade separation, protective devices, amendments to existing legislation and education of the public as to the railway crossing menace will be taken up.

The delegates will be asked to express their views on federal aid for highways, for which the precedent was set by the Canada Highways Act of 1919, granting $20,000,000 to the provinces for highway construction, and the principle of which has been approved by each Canadian Good Roads convention for several years past. Another responsibility of the federal government is involved in a resolution to be submitted to the conference, calling attention to the conditions of many roads under the control of the Dominion departments, such as those through Indian reserves, along canal banks, through forest reserves or connecting with lighthouses. The resolution will ask for improvement of these roads in co-operation with the various provinces.

Eight provinces of Canada and forty-four of the United States now have a gasoline tax ranging from 1 cent to 5 cents per gallon. The equitability of the tax, as applied to vehicles used locally only, will be raised for discussion.

"Safety and Traffic" will be studied under such heads as highway rules and methods for their enforcement, examination for all drivers, uniform hand signals, penalties for local motorists and for visitors, and educational advertising campaigns conducted by the provinces.

Uniformity of danger and direction signs and the marking of routes, and the regulation or abolition of commercial signs along highways; the fairness or otherwise of present systems of assessing the cost of highways; regulation of headlights and spotlights, and legislation compelling all vehicles to carry lights at night; uniformity of speed limits for passenger cars, commercial vehicles and auto buses; the financing and economics of road-building, and savings in costs by the exchange of data as to labor, materials and methods; regulation of the weight and tire widths of horse-drawn vehicles; tourist traffic, motor camps and tourist publicity are among the other questions on which the ministers and officials will be invited to state their views or experiences.

The last item on the agenda is a resolution impressing upon the federal government the desirability of having the names of all postoffices displayed in a legible manner for the convenience of road travellers and the general public.

Lindsay's Male Quartette Heard in Ensemble and Solo Numbers.

ADDRESS ON MUSIC.

OMEMEE, Dec. 9.—The Lindsay Male Quartette, namely Messrs. W. Maunder, A. W. Allin, McBride and A. T. Claxton, renewed their already enviable reputation as entertainers, when they appeared in the United Church, Omemee, under League auspices, on Monday evening. The entertainment throughout was thoroughly enjoyable and should the group of artists again favor Omemee with an evening's programme, a real welcome will be again accorded them. Mr. (Dr.) Nesbitt was the very efficient accompanist of the evening.

Following the entertainment, dainty refreshments were served to the entertainers before their departure for Lindsay.

The programme was as follows:

Quarette—Coming Thro the Rye; Where's Joe? Solo and encore—W. F. Maunder. Violin Solo and encore—A. T. Claxton. Solo and encore—A. W. Allin. Quartette—A Little Close Harmony; Uncle Moon. Talk on Music—W. F. Maunder. Duet—The Battle Eve; W. F. Maunder and A. W. Allin. Solo and encore—W. F. Maunder. Quartette—Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Organ Number—W. F. Maunder. Solo and encore—A. W. Allin. Duet—W. F. Maunder and A. W. Allin. Violin Solo and encore—A. T. Claxton. Quartette—Poor Li'l Lamb. God Save the King.

The following splendid address on Music given by Mr. W. F. Maunder was highly appreciated.

In addressing the audience, Mr. Maunder said: "In venturing to speak to you for a few moment on "Music," I am first struck with the stupendous task that confronts me in trying to treat such a subject in the necessarily limited time at my disposal.

"There is probably not any other medium of amusement or expression that the average human being takes so much for granted yet would miss so much if deprived of it as Music. From the beginning of time, Music has been one of the most important factors in every celebration or gathering. Imagine if you can, the blank which would be left if, because of some supernatural happening Music in any of its many forms ceased to exist; all concerts, most theatres, radio, church services and even our homes would be seriously affected. Why, it is now claimed that stock, horses and cattle are more placid and that cows give more milk if furnished with Music than those that have not this advantage. A cow, if it could be trained, would possess an extremely good voice. You have all heard a cow humming or lowing, as it is generally known. The next time you do, analyse the sound and see if it is not a perfect musical sound. Of course the difficulty comes in, when the cow opens her mouth, then the musical part of the sound is lost. (Mr. Maunder illustrated this in a humorous imitation of the "moo" of the cow, with closed lips and with the mouth open.

The first reference in the Bible to music occurs in the 15th Chapter of Exodus, verse 1, which is the passage describing the flight of the Israelites from the Egyptians, through the Red Sea. The Egyptions had just been swallowed up by the sea and we had these words: "Then sang Moses and the Children of Israel, this song unto the Lord, and spake saying: "I will sing unto the Lord, for He hath triumphed gloriously. The horse and his riders hath he thrown unto the sea."

From which we see that the first use of music of which we have mention was as a thanksgiving or rejoicing with just a note of triumph included. And ever since music has been primarily a means of rejoicing and expression of gladness and triumph.

However, all music is not glory, but can be used to express any emotion desired for instance, Have you not noticed what at a concert of varied vocal numbers and one is sung, of a sad theme in a minor key, that the effect it has on your feelings is of subduing them, and that immediately after a rollicking song is sung your spirits bound up again (Another illustration was here given by the pianist, Mrs. Nesbitt playing a few bars from a well-known funeral march, and then a portion of a lively song.)

Music has always been recognized too, as the language of lovers the world over. Some of the greatest music ever written is an expression of the emotion; for instance, "The Unfinished Symphony" of Schubert. Franz Schubert was very, very shy and, having fallen in love with the girl of his dreams and being too shy to declare himself, he composed a song and entrusted it to his closest friend to sing to the girl. The friend, however, turned the song to his own advantage, and Schubert becoming broken-hearted, as a result retired into almost seclusion, fell ill, and just before he died he used this song as the theme for the above-mentioned symphony, which was played before the then greatest musical tribunal and he was acclaimed, one of the Masters, but too late, for he died almost immediately after. The human voice is an instrument just as truly as a violin is. The voice is an organ of the body stretched across a bridge, made vibrant by a bellows and transmitted to the listener by a sound box or resonators. From the fact that everyone is possessed of a voice (of varying degree of excellence, it is true), but nevertheless, a real voice, the vocal selection of music is probably more enjoyed than instrumental. For one reason, it is spontaneous. How many of you when things are going particularly well, don't hum, sing or whistle to yourselves? Probably, we have often said to ourselves, after hearing someone perform, "Yes, it was very nice and clear, perhaps brilliant, but there was something wrong; it didn't appeal to me." There's the rub; music must appeal to us, to our higher instincts. It must make us think, must make us grasp its meaning, as though we were listening to someone talking or acting. It must express feeling and thought without language. It was below and before speech, and it is above and beyond all words. Before man found a name for any thought or thing, he had hopes and fears and passions, and these were rudely expressed in tones. Music is born of love, and had there been no human affection there never could have been uttered a strain of music. Possibly some mother looking into the eyes of her babe gave the first melody to the enraptured air. Language is not subtle enough, tender enough, to express all a mother feels and when language fails, the highest, deepest, longings are translated into music; for music is the sunshine of the soul.

HOUSE PASSED BOUNDARY BILL

Little Debate on Irish Question, All Parties Endorsing Agreement.

NO TIME WASTED.

LONDON, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Without waste of time and reading the Bill as a pratically agreed-to measure, the House of Commons last night unanimously passed the Irish Bill, giving effect to the new Irish Boundary agreement in all stages without division.

There was little debate. After the Prime Minister, Stanley Baldwin, explained the financial undertakings of the agreement in an optimistic speech, J. H. Thomas, for the Laborites, and H. A. L. Fisher, for the Liberals, endorsed the Premier's sentiments.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we sph. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

Have you studied the intricate but exact science of number, color, and name vibration?

Or are you among the back numbers who class modern science with palmistry and mere fads?

Whatever you are, you will be interested in this.

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, and who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

All You Must Do

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Give a pen-name for use in The Examiner, or, if you desire a more complete reading, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars, but if for any reason you desire to omit any of these, a partial reading will be given. Here is what is offered:

When full particulars are given:

The significance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; how you must act to gain happiness; whether the date named is an auspicious one on which to take an important step; your particular color; where to apply your efforts and where you will best succeed.

When only name is given:

How to gain spiritual and material success; the measure of your force and power; and by what color you are influenced.

When only full name and a particular date are given:

An analysis of the day, with a direction as to how best to apply your efforts. It is better to state briefly the purpose when seeking advice of this kind.

Please Remember

that the full name and full date of birth must be given, such as: "John Robert Doe, 12 March, 1899." In seeking advice on a particular day, state the date, month, and year.

And Take Warning

that "The Oracle" will not sugar-coat his pills. If you desire only pleasant things brought to your attention, do not send your inquiries to him. If there is a warning to be issued, "The Oracle" will give it; if there is a bad trait to be corrected, "The Oracle" will warn you of it.

No full names will be printed in The Examiner, only initials or pennames as given being used. And any informaton given to "The Oracle" will be kept confidentially. Replies will appear the day after the inquiry is received. Here is the form:

Full name .....

Birth date: (day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an mportant transaction or engagement?

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

PEG—Yours is a strong character, denoting service of a dutiable kind. Great nurses have had your characteristics. But your intuition, which is highly developed, must dictate your course, and you must not resort to force or intrigue if you would taste the full sweets of success. Your birth date features show dark, mysterious, but conservative. You have poise and self satisfaction. You are inclined to mysticism. Cultivate a more matter-of-fact outlook on life, but guard the tender things of your heart and mind. There is some doubt about the date you name next year. In the months that are to come before then, try to improve your condition and carefully follow the instructions you receive, tempered always by your own good judgment. Your colors are steel and reddish brown.

H.J.—You are very magnetic, but have not the staying power that makes firm friends. Trust people more and seek the best in everyone. You are over-fastidious in dress, and inclined to over-estimate the prestige your "set" gives you. Mix more with real folk and let your natural charm prevail.

R.P.—You are reserved and retired and must endeavour to overcome self-consciousness and introspection. This is important because too much self-thought leads to morbidness. Your efforts should be toward soul adjustment, and for you this should be comparatively easy. Your birth date characteristics show you to be strong, active, and creative. Perhaps your present business is limited and you should be in something that offers scope for creative talent? In any event, you are being hampered in some way from expanding. You are logical, and have a quick perception of analogy. Your mind is master of your body—you must only try in order to achieve. Cultivate patience and tact and develop a regard for the rights and feelings of others.

C.R.D.—You are generous, kind-hearted, and noble; but you are jealous of those on whom you lavish your affection. Don't be unreasonable. Develop a broader outlook and do not be so particular about yur likes and dislikes. "See thy true self; know thy true self; assert thy true self." The reading of the young man whose name you sent appears under his own initials. His characteristics indicate that he would be a very suitable mate for you, although somewhat temperamental.

M. S. L.—I cannot give a reading without the full name. Initials are useless. Please send your own name in full.

H.G.P.D.—You would work better for yourself than harnessed to someone else's business, and you must branch out to succeed. Get out of the rut and develop your natural ability. Your birthdate characteristics show mental power well above the average, but little developed. You forget, in the thrill of living, that life is not all summer time, and you are making no provision for winter. You have a wide and varied acquaintance, but few friends. You are jolly company, a good story teller, and a happy entertainer, but these are not traits that bind "with bars of iron." Look higher, rely on your own inherent power, and study the art of personal attractiveness. Your colors are all shades of tan and buff. The day of which you ask would be inauspicious for any important venture. A day between the 25th and 30th of January would be better.

E.M.C.—You are a natural leader and an original thinker, and have developed a slip-shod attitude that has restrained your progress. You are overbearing and are inclined to snobbishness. Develop tolerance and endeavour to make friend. You must create your own future out of the excellent material nature has given you.

J.H.P.—It does seem hard, doesn't it? I know just your outlook, you see! Disappointment has followed trouble in your life, until it has almost discouraged you—or have you indeed, allowed yourself to be discouraged? Write me personally, and I may be able to indicate a way of help. Good cheer.

W.M. — Read the instructions again, please. The Oracle will not publish the full names of any person. The fact that you request the publication of another person's name is sufficient to discredit your good will. Remember the golden rule.

COLLEGE DAYS AND DAZE IN LLOYD'S "FRESHMAN"

He Sought the Throne of Popularity But They Crowned Him Boob.

Harold Lloyd brings to the Capitol Theatre today in "The Freshman," a story of college days—the most magical days of that most envious age—the Age of Youth! The age when a fellow comes to grips with life—when he begins to realize he's going out into a big world, either to be a leader or a follower of men.

Lloyd plays the role of Harold Lamb, who goes to college with the worthy ambition to be the most popular boy in the school. College meant tearing himself away from all the associations of his boyhood—away from his mother's loving influence and his father's wise advice! Away from his admiring friends, into a new world. A world that he wanted to see at his feet, worshipping him as the best regular fellow it had ever known!

But how unkind is youth! When Harold got to college all they saw was a chap trying to hard to be popular that he tipped over backwards—and was just funny! The very first day the school bully sized up Harold as being so innocent that he'd swallow a hook big enough to catch a whale, and never even gulp! Oh, it was great sport practicing jokes on him—razzing him—riding him—playing him for a boob!

Then, when he thought he had just about dethroned the present college hero, they told him he never could win that coveted place until he got on the football team. So, undaunted, he made a try. The only position open was the one of dummy. The team was in rotten shape. The coach gave them his choicest bawling out—it was a sizzler. They needed tackle practice, but the dummy had given up the ghost, so Harold volunteered, and when the coach called a halt Harold understood why the dummy passed out! But was he down-hearted? No! So they took him on as water boy and let him think he was a sub! At last, he'd made the team! And then he won the heart of Peggy, the cutest thing in the co-ed school, and everyone was having a roaring time (and Harold a ripping time in a basted dress suit) at a party of which he was host—when the crash came!

Good psychology—sound groundwork for a drama, and, as it is used in "The Freshman," it is a foundation for a story of rib-shaking laughs, heart-touching tears and spine-tingling thrills. This is Harold Lloyd's most ambitious comedy effort. It has large sets, a large cast of principals—Jobyna Ralston, Hazel Keener, Pat Harmon, Brooks Benedict, James Anderson and Joe Harrington—and hundreds of real college boys and co-eds for extras. The foo ball scenes were taken before eight thousand persons gathered at Berkeley Stadium to witness a big Stanford-University of California game.

AT THE REGENT

"THE TALKER" HERE WITH A GREAT CAST

Anna Q. Nilsson and Lewis Stone Featured in Version of Stage Hit.

An imposing array of favorites form the cast of "The Talker," First National's latest offering, which opened today at the Regent Theatre only.

In the featured roles we found Anna Q. Nilsson, as beautiful and as gorgeously costumed as ever; and the polished and immaculate Lewis S. Stone. These two were last seen here together in "Inez From Hollywood."

And in lesser roles are seen Shirley Mason, Ian Keith, Tully Marshall and others almost equally as well known.

Thus "The Talker," from its cast alone, can be guaranteed as good screen entertainment.

The story is from Marion Fairfax's stage hit of the same title, and while it unfolds a rapid succesion of tense love scenes and thrills, finds its basis in the prosaic figure of a woman who hates housework and likes to talk.

She is one of those ultra-modern who believes in the freedom of her sex, and she defies her husband to curb her. Miss Nilsson as the talking wife, and Stone in the role of the silent, or rather silenced husband, find ideal scope for some excellent portrayals.

The plot ascends tensely dramatic heights when Miss Mason, as the young and unsophisticated sister of the "talker," follows her preachments and elopes with a youth who turns out to be a rogue.

A series of thrilling episodes are the result, but happiness finally rescues the girl, and the husband is enabled to silence his wife with that most withering of all phrases: "I told you so."

"The Talker" was produced by Sam E. Rork, Inc., and directed by Alfred E. Green. Green's direction of Colleen Moore in "Sally" and other good screen plays has brought him up to the pinnacle of his profession.

The excellent photography is the work of Arthur Edeson, who filmed First National's great special, "The Lost World."

"The Talker" will be shown at the Regent tonight only.

AT THE ROYAL.

ROYAL MOVIE IS LAUGH HIT

Denny Demonstrates New Mode of "Showing Town."

That there are more ways than one of seeing the sights of the town is illustrated in Reginald Denny's latest laughing success, "I'll Show You the Town," the Universal-Jewel feature showing at the Royal theatre Thursday.

The days of the hackney coach, omnibus and rubberneck-wagon have gone and even a more modern vehicle than taxicabs has come to take their place. The airplane is at last coming into its own and, according to the pilots of the air, the flying machine outstrips all competitors in point of absolute efficiency.

In "I'll Show You the Town," the screen version of Elmer Davis' screamingly funny story, Reginald Denny is cast in the role of a young college professor who is placed in the predicament of having to show the sights of the town to an extremely homely, but wealthy widow who is on a short visit to the metropolis from her provincial home. Denny has but thirty minutes in which to accomplish this tour of the town. The widow, Agnes Clevenger, played by Cissy Fitzgerald, had never been up in an airplane and wasn't over anxious for the experience. Be that as it may the flight over the metropolis furnishes a full share of whole hearted laughs and is one of the outstanding situations in the production.

Incidentally, a sight-seeing tour by airplane has since been conceded to be not only efficient, but extremely practical. Five minutes in the air and the Widow Clevenger saw the town and all its sights. Marian Nixon, Edward Kimball, Lilyan Tashman, Hayden Stevenson, Margaret Livingston, Neely Edwards, William A. Carroll, Martha Mattox, Helen Greene and Lionel Braham, are in the supporting cast. Harry A. Pollard directed the production.

Richard Talmadge in "Jimmies Millions" and "Adventures of Mazie." Collins, Brioux and Harris in Vaudeville Skit.

"Jimmie's Millions," Dick Talmadge's most recent production, now showing at the Royal Theatre, has kept that house howling with glee and clutching their chairs with excitement during every performance of its engagement. The production, directed by James P. Hogan and released by F.B.O., is one of the most amusing combination of thrills and laughter which it is possible to imagine. The story is excellent, providing many unusual situations for the display of the star's widely-heralded ability as a stunt man—and Richard Talmadge is certainly the boy who can do his stuff! Betty Francisco and Lee Moran head an excellent cast.

The vaudeville skit by Collins, Brioux and Harris also calls for a word of praise. The audience certainly likes the boys' offering and the applause has been generous. Tonight is the last night.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

How easily have the minds of men been blinded by Satan and his agents, as to the plain words of Scripture. Those who accept Satan's lie, "thou shalt not surely die," and its concomitant, "endless torment," say the penalty passed upon Adam and his posterity for disobedience, was not "death" (extinction of life), but that it was "moral death," (separation from God). They also assert that God being a God of justice, must punish evil doers with endless torments. True! God acts justly, but He does not exercise His justice by employing torture, Ps. 37:9,10,20,30,38. By using the word "moral death," instead of the Scriptural word "death," in statement made in 1 Cor. 15:22, would contradict their own theory. It is the privilege and duty of all God-fearing men, to disabuse the minds of men of this horrible doctrine of "endless torment," which is a libel and blasphemy against Almighty God. I have failed to find a man or hear of one, that would torture his dog on account of its bad doings for one month; no, not for one day. Circumstances might arise that would cause him to destroy or put out of existence his dog, but on no account would he torture him, even for a short time. Surely there is room for a little reasoning here. Small wonder that men become infidels, when professed Christians tell them this horrible doctrine is taught in the Bible.—J. T. Butcher. 1d-136-4378

THEFT CHARGES ARE ADJOURNED

J. A. Armstrong and H. H. Coffey Are Remanded Until Saturday.

NO BAIL YET.

TORONTO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press)—J. A. M. Armstrong, former member of parliament for North York, was arraigned in county police court this morning on a charge of theft and was remanded till Saturday. At the same time Harry Coffey, former manager of the Imperial bank at Schomberg, was also arraigned on a similar charge and was likewise remanded. Bail in each case was fixed at $50,000 but neither man has yet been able to arrange release from custody. Armstrong, who was arrested last night expects bondsmen to arrive from North York this afternoon.

The charge against the former member of the Federal House alleged theft of $2,000 from Susan Mills, while under a joint allegation Armstrong and Coffey are charged by Richard A. Carter with "unlawfully stealing $1,475, property of the estate of the late Richard Carter on or about May 23, 1925."

THE WRONG ECHO.

Sims Reeves Forgets Where He is Singing, Until His Echo Speaks.

Sims Reeves was once singing in Scotland, an arrangement of "Hail, Smiling Morn, in which a chorus echoed the soloist, when he declaimed in his best manner: "At whose bright presence darkness flies away" — he heard the chorus, to his horror sing in broadest Doric: "Flees awa', flees awa'." Afterwards on referring to the incident he was told by the conductor of the choir "not to worry about it. Just a little defect in your pronounciation, Mr. Reeves."

OPERA INTERRUPTED.

"Play D Sharp, You Wretch," Shouts Man From Audience.

"Play D sharp, you wretches!" shouted a young man one night in the audience of an opera house, and he sprang to his feet as he shouted. The audience hissed, and attendants came towards the interruptor, while cries of "Turn him out!" resounded through the theatre. But when the audience recognized him, their anger vanished and a tumult of applause greeted him. It was Mozart. The opera was his own. At a certain important point in the score some of the instruments had played a wrong note!

NO JUDGMENT IN AUTO CASE

Decision Reserved After Hearing of Evidence in County Court.

DEFENCE DENIAL.

Judgment was deferred in the case of Mitchell versus Bardeau, which was heard by His Honour Judge Huycke yesterday afternoon in the County Court session.

According to the story told by the plaintiff, he, together with his son, were proceeding along the highway to Cavan, and when at a point between four and five miles from the city his car and that of the defendant collided violently, resulting in much damage to the car, and a personal injury to himself.

The plaintiff declared that he was driving on the right side of the road, and the car alleged to have been driven by the defendant came straight toward him. He declared that he could not get farther off the road without plunging into the ditch. The evidence presented by his son, Sidney, corroborated his story. The defendant Bardeau and two female witnesses who were in the car with him testified that they were proceeding towards Peterboro from Toronto. Just before the accident occurred, they stated that a big car with bright headlights had passed them. Bardeau stated that he was on his right side of the highway.

Just after the big car passed the defendant stated that the car belonging to the defendant veered toward them and the smash followed as a result.

Bardeau and the female witnesses stated that both Mitchell and his son had at the time of the mishap laid the blame on the glaring headlamps of the big car.

The plaintiff recalled to the box denied uttering such a statement and added that there was no big car with glaring headlights involved in this accident.

Judgment was deferred.

Nicholls vs. Newnham.

In the case of Nichols versus Newnham judgment was awarded to the plaintiff in the absence of the defendant, Margaret Jane Newnham, formerly of Smith, but now residing in Oklahoma City. The objections entered by F. D. Kerr, K.C., counsel for the defence, were overruled.

R. R. Hall, K. C., was acting as solicitor for the plaintiff.

STAY IN IRAK UP TO LEAGUE

Baldwin Says Decision of Council in Mosul Case.

ANSWERS QUESTION.

LONDON, Dec. 9. — (Canadian Press).—How long Great Britain remains in Irak (Mesopotamia) depends upon the League of Nations' disposition of the Turco-British dispute over Mosul, Premier Baldwin told a questioner in the House of Commons to-day.

Asked whether Great Britain was pledged to uphold and maintain Irak, the Premier said that must depend upon what was done at Geneva.

Needed Law Look Absent; Solictiors Are Reproved

During the trial of an action in the County Court it was found that a law report was missing from the Library. His Honor Judge Huycke emphasized his views very strongly to the effect that it was the duty of solicitors in whose charge the library was, to see that greater care was exercised with reference to the borrowing of books. He further urged that it was essentially necessary that the books should be always available to the solicitors and others who have the right to consult the volumes contained in the law library.

Trade In Mines Heavy Market Remaining Firm

TORONTO, Dec. 9. (Canadian Press).—Trading continued heavy on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, and the market remained firm. Vipond, Tough Oakes, Crown Reserve, and La Rose were the stocks most heavily dealt in. La Rose featuring the session with an advance to 45, from which it receded to 43 at the morning close for a two and a half point gain. Vipond dropped five, Tough Oakes one, and Teck Hughes three, but Keora, Barry-Hollinger, Keeley and McKinley Darragh, all heavily dealt in, were all stronger. Crown Reserve eased a half point, and West Dome Lake closed unchanged.

B. C. Fishing and Smelters Led On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Dec. 9. (Canadian Press).—British Columbia Fishing was the leader in activity on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, with Consolidated Smelters replacing Brazilian as the second most active stock. Brazilian in light dealings sold a point lower at 78 3-8. British Columbia Fishing steadily advanced to 63 7-8, from which it receded to close the morning at 63¼, a point and a quarter above yesterday's close. Consolidated Smelters was marked down to a low of 144 3-4, from which it recovered to 146¾, a point and a quarter lower than yesterday. Elsewhere the list showed a weaker tendency, softness being outstanding in mines. Atlantic Sugar eased a quarter, but Twin City and Winnipeg were fractionally stronger.

Market In New York To-day Showed Irregular Trend

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— Price movement in the stock market to-day lacked uniformity. Bullish operations ranged over a wide assortment of popular issues, but were not long maintained in any one group due to the practice of professionals in supplying stocks freely on all rallies. This procedure caused occasional hurries of selling which were invariably followed by renewed bidding for speculative favorites, giving the market an irregular appearance without appreciably weakening its position. Various specialties attracted large commission house followings, while expectations on larger dividends brought about brisk upturns in such issues as Baltimore and Ohio, and American Smelting, the latter crossing 129 to a new high level for the year.

Sharp Setback In Wheat Follow Foreign Reports

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.— (Canadian Press.)— Sharp new setbacks in value of wheat took place early today. Lower quotations at Liverpool were the chief bearish factor, emphasized by reports of fine weather in most districts of Argentine. On the other hands, petitions were under consideration by the Board of Trade committee that 7,000,000 bushels of wheat in store here be removed from the report of stock on hand as being of a quality fit only for chicken feed.

Opening 1-4 to 1 1-2c. lower, new style, December 175 to 175 1-4, and May 169 1-2 to 170 1-2, was followed by a rally that in some cases went slightly above yesterday's finish but then by a fresh decline with December touching 173 and May 168 1-4.

Corn and oats developed strength. Indications that much corn on farms would be held for higher prices attracted considerable notice. After opening unchanged to 1c. lower May 83 3-4 to 83 7-8, the corn market scored moderate gains all around, May rising to 84 5-8.

Oats started at 3-8c. off to a shade advance, May 45 3-8 to 45 5-8, and later made slight upturns all around.

Provisions were responsive to the action of the corn market.

LOCAL OPTION WITH GOVERNMENT CONTROL PROPOSED NEW POLICY OF CONSERVATIVES FOR ONTARIO

Will Be Election Issue Following Session Opening in January.

A TORONTO REPORT.

No Reference to O.T.A. or Liquor Situation in Opening Address.

TORONTO, ec. 10.—After many consultations and conversations with members of his party in and out of the Legislature, Premier Ferguson has decided upon the outline of the course to be followed by his government, according to information from sources intimate with his point of view.

The program as now lined up includes the following points:

Legislature will meet if possible about the last week of January. As well as being early, it will be a brief meeting of the House, and no contentious matters will be brought up by the Government. Provincial Treasurer Price's budget is designed to be the main course.

There will be no mention of amendments of the O.T.A. or suggestions of change in the liquor situations in the Speech from the Throne, and during the course of the session the administration will not broach the subject.

Election Issue.

A bill, however, outlining a modified system of government control with a restrictive local option feature will be prepared as a platform on which to appeal to the electors in the forthcoming general election.

The skeleton of this measure, as so far tentatively agreed upon, provides that counties and urban municipalities may invoke the government control system to be provided by local option vote, and every effort will be made to prevent delivery of liquor to, or carrying of liquor in, counties and cities voting dry. Express companies, for instance, will be prohibited from dropping off parcels of liquor in the dry areas.

"This local option feature will not be altered, whatever else might be subject to change," said the informant. "As I am given to understand it, the scheme provides for creation of a permit system for individuals, modelled upon that of British Columbia. All liquor ordered is to be delivered to residence or places of temporary abode by messengers from the government dispensaries.

"In the case of big dinners held in hotels or other public places a permit to serve liquor will be required. There is a nominal fee for these permits. There is still a question as to whether public drinking places will be allowed in cities. The aim apparently will be to keep down the number of dispensaries, and make it a 'mail order' proposition as much as possible, except in larger

Gold Nugget In Chicken Fed On Shore Of River

QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 10. — (Canadian Press).—According to a story from Beauce County, Mrs. Laurent Pauli, a resident of St. Francois De Beauce, found a gold nugget as large as a bean in the stomach of a chicken she was preparing for dinner. As an explanation, she says the hen had been feeding on the shore of Gilbert River, where years ago prospectors found gold.

SOARING PRICE OF RUBBER IN ENGLAND ADVANCES COST OF TIRES 20 PER CENT.

Rubber Companies, Born Over Night, Swamped By Public Demand For Stock — Like the Florida Land Boom.

LONDON, Dec. 10—Rubber shares which have been booming, reacted on British automobile owners and the public yesterday when the announcement was made that, because of the continued high prices of the product, tires will cost twenty per nt. more beginning today. The increase will be general throughout the country.

In the wide scramble for rubber, the spot price of which closed at 4 shillings 7 1-2 pence Tuesday, Mincing Lane might be compared to Miami, in the Florida land boom, and rubber companies have been springing up over night.

Rubber advertisements are spread through the newspapers, and the banks open their doors early to accommodate the crowds of applicants for new issues, despite warnings that "rubbish as well as rubber, is being put on the market."

SYRIAN PETITION TO THE LEAGUE URGES THAT WARFARE BY FRENCH BE STOPPED AND INVESTIGATED

Charge French With Arming Christians and Provoking Civil War.

MANY HOMELESS.

League Council Abides By Policy Already Adopted—February Enquiry.

GENEVA, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press).—A Syrian emissary went to the League of Nations palace yesterday and demanded that the League Council take action to stop the bloodshed in Syria. But as the Council had approved the plan of the mandate commission to meet in Rome in February to probe this problem the indications are that it will not recognize the Syrian petition.

The Council adopted a resolution supporting the mandate commission and is watching the situation with interest and anxiety, hoping that at the Rome meeting a full explanation of the causes of the present trouble will be found, as well as adequate remedies.

The Syrian representative did not suceed in seeing Sir Eric Drummond, the secretary-general, but left documents. One purports to be the copy of a despatch to the League of Nations from the Syro-Palestinian Congress, declaring that Syria for five months has been the scene of a sanguinary war and that French artillery and airplanes have been bombarding and burning villages. It charges that the French are arming the Christians against the insurgents and provoking civil war.

A famine menacing the country and thousands are homeless in a rigorous winter, the document continues, and the intervention of the League of Nations is awaited. A request is made for the despatch of a commission to carry out an investigation.

The rules of the League require action by the mandate commission before detailed consideration by the Council.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Dec. 10.—(United Press).—The Yorkville section of Manhattan seethed when it was reported that Hugh P. McGovern was robbed of a "cool million." However, it was discovered that the huge roll of McGovern's which was stolen consisted of 1,000,000 marks, enclosed in $1 American bills. What was more — even the dollar bill was counterfeit.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF GRANTED CANADA'S DISABLED PENSIONERS

Provision For Men Incapacitated By Their War Disability.

CHRISTMAS BOX, TOO.

OTTAWA, December 10. Canadian Press. — Amendments have been made to the regulation announced a few weeks ago by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment, governing relief to veterans in distressed circumstances.

The following statement was issued by the Department here last night "Many representations have been made to the Department from different sources, especially from municipal bodies and soldiers 'organizations throughout the country, regarding this departmental regulation issued some weeks ago. After consultation with the officials of the department, Hon. Dr. H. S Beland, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, has directed that in addition to the revised regulation, instructions will be sent out providing that any person who after investigation, is found to be unable to engage in employment because of his pensionable disability, will be granted unemployment relief.

This, it is hoped, will relieve all cases of hardship.

In addition to this the Minister has directed that all returned men entitled to pay and allowances shall receive the same on December 22 instead of January 1. This is done with a view to affording the pecuniary assistance before the holiday.

Old Lady Rudely Awakened 5-Ton Truck Enters Room

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 10. (Unted Press).—Mrs Phoeb Childs, 68, was awakened to-day when a five-ton truck, impelled by a freight train, knocked down a wall of her home and came to a stop in her bedroom.

Both Mrs. Childs and her son Jerry, with whom she makes her home, were thrown from their beds and the house, a one-storey frame structure, was virtually demolished.

The truck was hurtled into the house when it was struck by a Reading freight train at a grade crossing.

Great Industry Silenced While Founder Lies Dead at Home.

FUNERAL TO-DAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., December 10. — Canadian Press. — The body of John Rudolphus Booth, multi-millionaire, lumberman and railway builder, yesterday lay in state in a casket of bronze at his home on Metcalf St., where he died peacefully on Tuesday afternoon in his ninety-ninth year.

This afternoon, following a simple religious ceremony at his home which will be conducted by Rev Dr. W. T. Herridge and Rev. George D. Kilpatrick, interment will be made in the Booth family plot at Beechwood cemetery.

There were many callers at the Booth home, those who came to view the remains of the beloved lumber king, coming from all walks of life. They included the consular representatives, resident in Ottawa, of various nations, and officers and employees of the J. R. Booth Lumber Company.

From all parts of the country came messages of sympathy from those who knew Mr. Booth, or who were associated with him in business.

At the funeral to-day, His Excellency, the Governor-General, will be represented by his secretary, Arthur F. Sladen.

The plant of the J. R. Booth Company, at the Chaudiere, where Mr. Booth first started in the lumber business more than 70 years ago, was completely closed down yesterday except for the employees who were required to look after the steam and electric light plants The plant will remain closed until after the funeral.

POPE ANNOYED AT PUBLICITY GIVEN APPEAL

Request of Prohibition Association For Moral Support Published Too Soon.

LETTER RECEIVED.

Church Teachers Respect For Laws of Land—Will Not Interfere.

(By Thomas B. Morgan, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press). —Vatican circles today manifested their undisguised displeasure at the publicity given the recent letter of the United Committee for Prohibition Enforcement (U.S.A.), appealing for papal moral support for the organization's work. The fact that the letter was made public in Washington before it was in the hands of His Holiness was disliked, especially as such appeal are deemed confidential until the proper time for public announcement comes.

As a result of the Vatican's displeasure, it is now practically certain that the letter will be answered, while courteuously, only with a simple acknowledgment of receipt.

Prohibition is regarded in Vatican quarters as a purely domestic question for the United States on the merits of which the Holy See would have nothing to say in any event, as such discussion might easily be interpreted as interfering in internal affairs of the country. It is pointed out, however, that on the general principle of respect for law and obedience to the authorities the teachings of the Catholic Church universally exhort such respect and obedience.

Since the prohibition law is established, the church would not advocate violation and evasion thereof.

Protectionist Measure Passed Second Reading

LONDON, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press).—Despite prolonged Laborite and Liberal protests that the Baldwin government was putting through Protectionist measures by backdoor methods, the House of Commons last night passed the second reading of the Safeguarding of Industries Bill. This embodies three resolutions adopted last week, imposing import duties on cutlery, gloves and incandescent mantles.

ATROCIOUS ACTS CHARGED TURKS BY COMMISSION

General Laidoner Reports To League on Actions Along Frontier.

PEOPLE DEPORTED.

Great Cruelties Committed as Christians Are Expelled From Villages.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—Atrocious acts of violence going as far as massacre have been committed by Turkish soldiers along the provisional frontier of Mosul in Northern Europe, General Laidoner of Esthonia, special League of Nations agent, declared in a report submitted at today's session of the League Council.

The Turks refused to attend the meeting, complaining that the Mosul affair had gone beyond the powers of their mandate from the Angora Government, which permitted mediation, but not arbitration by the League of the Turkish dispute with Great Britain.

In his report General Laidoner asserted that the Turks had carried out wholesale deportations of Christians from the villages along the Mosul frontier as defined at the Brussel conference, occupying the villages, confiscating areas, imposing heavy fines, demand women, pillaging houses and in some cases taking life.

During the deportations, the report said, sick were abandoned to die, others perished of starvation or exposure, while survivors were left in an absolutely pitiable state.

PILGRIM MOTHERS DESERVE CREDIT

Bore Same Hardships and Had To Put Up With Fathers as Well.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—That recognition was due to the "Pilgrim Mothers" as well as to the Pilgrim Fathers, was claimed by Arthur Guiterman, addressing the members of the American Women's Club. Mr. Guiterman commented that they not only had to bear all the hardships borne by the Pilgrim Fathers, but in addition had to stand the Pilgrim Fathers. The latter had possibly suffered misrepresentation, Mr. Guitetrman questioning whether they could have been altogether beauty-hating when they had produced the fine old furniture now eagerly sought, and had constructed dwellings of such artistic charm.

THREE CHILDREN FATALLY BURNED NEAR MONTREAL

Fire Destroyed Home of Joseph Curotte, at Caughnawaga.

RESIDENTS HURT.

Father and Two Friends Tried To Save Little Ones, and Were Burned.

MONTREAL, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press).—Three children are reported to have lost their lives in a fire at Caughnawaga, Que., sixteen miles from Montreal, early this morning, while their father, Joseph Curotte, and two other residents of the village, are in hospital, suffering from severe burns. Meagre details that could be obtained were that the fire started from some unknown cause in the dwelling of Joseph Curotte, and that the building, a wooden one, was quickly destroyed. Other members of the family were out at the time, but the children, aged three, five and seven years respectively, were in the house. Curotte and two residents were severely burned when they attempted to rescue the children.

The former's condition is reported as serious.

U.F.O. RETURNING TO POLITICS DESPITE MORRISON'S DISSENT

Re-entry Was Carried at Convention By Three to One Vote.

FOR FARMERS ONLY.

No Broadening Out in Movement This Time—Morrison Worked To Stop It.

TORONTO, December 10. — Canadian Press. — The Drury following in the ranks of the United Farmers of Ontario achieved a victory to-day over the J. J. Morrison faction when they carried by almost three to one a resolution to have their organization take up political warfare again. This action completely reverses the step taken following the downfall of the Drury government two years ago, when the U.F.O. decided to keep clear of politics and to confine its energy to co-operative effort in the interests of the farmers.

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., was as staunch as ever today against the re-entry into politics, and he had the support of PresidentAmos and W. C. Good, who expressed the opinion that the U.F.O. should rest content with simply watching legislation relating to the interests of the fermers. The U.F.O. political effort, however, will not "broaden out" to take in classes other than farmers, as the Drury faction urged in past years. Mr. Morrison raised this question to-day, and while no formal resolution was put before the meeting on the subject, D. J. Macdonald of Stormount, replied that it would be a farmers' movement entirely, and this pronouncement was apparently generally accepted.

W. A. Amos was re-elected president of the U. F. O.

The resolution to refrain from political activity was sponsored by Grey County clubs and was moved by W. D. Sanders of Exeter. It urged

LOCAL C. M. G. C. IS INSPECTED AT THE ARMOURIES

General Elmsley, G.O.C. 3rd District, Inspected Machine Gunners.

FINE DISPLAY.

Foot Drill and Gunnery Were Well Carried Out By Militia men.

The annual inspection of No. 3 Machine Gun Company, 4th Battalion Canadian Machine Gun Corps, took place in the Armouries last night. General J. H. Elmsley, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., officer commanding No. 3 Military District, was the inspecting officer. He was accompanied by Captain Pilley, of the R.C.A.M.C. The company, under the command of Captain Hurrell Dodds, marched past in review order, after which it was inspected by the General. Foot drill, musketry and machine gun work occupied the remainder of the evening.

General Elmsley expressed his entire satisfaction at the work of the Company, and stated that the quickness and precision with which the men executed the various movements with their guns was a real tribute to the labors of Captain Dodds, officer commanding, and his officers. He said that he was especially pleased with the direct and indirect firing as it was intricate, and the fact that the men went through the different evolutions in the manner they had displayed showed just what could be done with enthusiastic men and experienced teachers. During the march past and inspection the pipe band of the company rendered suitable music.

Open Incentives To Sin In Many Modern Things

NEW YORK, N.Y., December 10. — (United Press.)—Finding as "open incentives to sin" the current fashions, plays, books and pictures, the Rev. F. B. LeBuffe, of Fordham University, told a group of social workers that parental dignity must return if the present "miasmic and fever-laden" atmosphere of the younger generation is to be corrected.

The children of to-day were given an "unholy freedom," Father LeBuffe said.

WOULD CHOOSE JURY FROM SAME CLASS

Bill Rejected By British House of Commons.

LONDON, Eng., Dec. 10, (Canadian Press Cable).—Leave to introduce a bill providing that court juries be composed of a majority of persons of the same class and station in life as the accused person on trial was refused by a very thin House of Commons last evening to J. Scurr, Labor member for Mile End. The members of the Commons declined to take the bill seriously. One Conservative member pointed out facetiously that if the Liberal leader were accused of subversive propaganda in connection with his land schemes he would have to be tried by twelve other Liberal leaders.

From the showing made by the teams in the S.P.A. series, Toronto [illegible] when the O.H.A. series open. The junior teams have given the fans much over which to enthuse in the games to date. The seniors also are playing a good brand of hockey for the early season.

The Kingston amalgamated O.H.A. junior team held their initial workout of the season on Saturday night, there being a large number of candidates out. Although the ice was somewhat sticky, the players showed plenty of pep and the material for the team is very promising.

You're behind the times if you don't know that Cod Liver Extract is one of the greatest flesh producers in the world.

Because it contains more vitalizing vitamines than any food you can get.

You'll be glad to know that McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets come in sugar coated form now, so if you really want to put 10 to 20 pounds of solid healthy flesh on your bones and feel well and strong and have a complexion that people will admire ask the Harris Drug Store, McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch, Bond's Drug Store or any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets and if you don't gain five pounds in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money paid for them.

It isn't anything unusual for a person to gain 10 pounds in 30 days, and for old people with feebleness overtaking them they work wonders.

OBITUARY.

MISS ENID DOXSEE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 10. — The death occurred in the Toronto General Hospital, on December 8, of Isabel Mabel Enid Doxsee, elder daughter of the late Captain W. J. Doxsee, and of Mrs. M. H. Thomas, Toronto. Miss Doxsee underwent a serious operation from which she never rallied. She was born in Campbellford fifteen years ago. Her father, Captain Wm. Doxsee, was one of the heroes who sacrificed his life in the Great War in 1915. Miss Doxsee moved to Montreal with her mother about eight years ago, and this summer they came to Toronto. The funeral takes place in Toronto to-day. Mrs. Chas. Macoun and Mrs. Jas. Jones of town are aunts.

THURSDAY, DECEMB'R 10, 1925

A GREAT CANADIAN.

A great Canadian has gone in the passing of John R. Booth, veteran Ottawa lumberman, who through his faith in this country and his industry, ability and vision, climbed from the position of a shingle splitter to the status of the world's lumber king.

John R. Booth exemplified Canadian opportunity.

His career is the proof that Canada offers to men of the right qualities an open doorway to success.

John R. Booth started with nothing but his hands.

The son of an Irish immigrant, born in a rude stone house in an eastern township of Quebec, he started his career as an axeman, and by sheer natural ability became one of Canada's wealthiest citizens, the head of the world's greatest lumber business and a financier and railway builder of wide fame.

There are few stories of Canadian success more striking or more romantic than is afforded by the career of John R. Booth, who started his business life with a capital of nine dollars and an education picked up by scraps from the village school, and climbed the ladder from labourer to magnate.

His was a striking personality, and his death in his ninety-ninth year removes one of this country's most picturesque characters.

A SAFETY FIRST CHRISTMAS.

With the celebration of Christmas almost at hand the attention of the public is called to the necessity of making this a safety first Yuletide.

The terrible tragedy at a Christmas school entertainment across the border in which many lives were lost in a fire caused by the decorations on a Christmas tree becoming ignited is still fresh in memory, and will serve to strengthen the warnings that are being issued.

Too much stress cannot be put upon the fact that no candles should be used in decorating the family Christmas tree, or any Christmas tree for that matter.

If illumination is desired and your pocketbook allows you to use electric lights for decorative purposes, all well and good, although even in this case care should be taken to see that the bulbs are not brought too closely into contact with the wood.

Above all things, avoid lighted wax candles as you would the plague.

So much inflammable material is used in decorations that a mishap to a lighted taper almost inevitably means a fire, a quick spreading blaze that will endanger life and destroy property.

The Fire Fighter, the official organ of the firemen of the Province, in calling attention to the need of being careful, says: "Do not spoil your Christmas festivities by inviting Mr. Fire Demon to your home. Be careful and watchful and you will be more contented and happy in the fact that your life and property, and what is undoubtedly of more value to you, the lives of your children, will be protected."

BELLEVILLE'S EXPERIMENT.

Belleville's success in securing a field of thirty-one candidates for the Municipal Council was commented upon by the Examiner the other day.

The result of the election in that city furnishes material for thought.

The electors of Belleville, taking advantage of the unique opportunity afforded by such a large and representative field of candidates, practically obliterated the old Council and elected in their stead an executive board of young men, business men for the most part, headed by the youngest Mayor ever elected in Belleville.

In every community there has always been more or less talk of the desirability of interesting the younger business men in civic affairs, instead of leaving the municipal administration almost altogether to the older generation

Belleville has the distinction of being the first Ontario city in which this idea has been carried out to completion, and it will be interesting to watch the progress of the new civic machine.

Among the successful aldermanic candidates are several well known to Peterboro people, including Russell Wotten, formerly of this city, and Morley P. Duff, former President of the Central Ontario Baseball League.

The result of Belleville's experiment will be followed with a great deal of interest.

NO IMPROVEMENT NOTED.

How are the electors to be aroused to the necessity of taking an interest in municipal politics and of exercising their franchise at civic elections?

It was thought that by separating the annual municipal contests entirely from the Christmas and New Year's festivities by holding the election early in December that a much larger expression of public opinion would be attained, and many municipalities, acting on that belief, made the change.

Evidently the experiment has not been successful.

Reports from a number of municipalities, following Monday's elections, emphasize the small vote polled.

In Woodstock less than 50 per cent. of the eligible vote went to the polls.

Ottawa made an even worse showing with fewer than 36 voters out of every 100 on the list taking the trouble to mark their ballots.

Lindsay's record was 1,200 votes cast out of a total of over 4,000.

Other cities and towns report a light vote, and it is apparent that the conditions complained of in other years have not been improved to the slightest degree by bringing on the contests nearly a month earlier.

Newspapers, organizations such as the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, the Citizens' Research Institute, all have endeavoured to create more interest in municipal affairs, but despite their best efforts the apathy and indifference remains.

Modernism of today will be the old-fashioned-ism of tomorrow.—Simcoe Reformer.

THE VULNERABLE SUBMARINE.

Any attempt to abolish, by international fiat, the zeppelin or the aeroplane would provoke general and deserved ridicule, says Barron's. Their obvious usefulness in transportation, both of passengers and of valuable freight, costly but not bulky, would close the discussion before it was opened. But the attempt to use the same arguments in defense of submarine construction is a different matter. Its commercial usefulness is negligible, and its abolition is practicable. The opposition to an international agreement which could not only be made but could be kept, comes from those people who could always stifle discussion by one means or another, when the expenditure of something like $40,000,000 on a new battleship was under consideration. The submarine is one of the most costly of vessels today. It uses a large number of profitable patents and it, of course, provides work for expert mechanics. It also provides large profits for the contractor, and gratifying patronage for what may be called the arm-chair navy of several of the great powers.

It is contended in excuse for the submarine that such a vessel provides a defense for the coasts of small powers, of which Greece would be a fair example. Translated into terms of plain English, this means that a number of more or less disorderly self-determined and selfishly determined small peoples, possessing a sea coast, can develop a nuisance value, useful to them in bartering for advantages at Geneva or elsewhere. There is nothing oppressive in suggesting that if the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy can come together in an agreement to forbid the construction of submarines, the rest of the world has incomparably more to gain from following their example than from defying the authority they must necessarily assume. There is not a single economic argument for the submarine. There is a much better case for poison gas. There is a good and valid defense for the aeroplane, in no way prejudiced by its bombing capabilities. For the submarine there is absolutely no case at all.

IN PRAISE OF CATS.

Every other person one meets violently likes or dislikes poor puss. The phrase itself suggests that, in a rough-and-tumble world, puss has perchance received hard measure, but is capable of taking an immense amount of comfort from the risks and hazards which in the case of any other creature might be fatal. The origin of the word "cat" is in doubt. Most folk think the same thing about cat character. So much has been said and literally flung in despite of cats that it seems but poetic justice that something more euphonious than "drat" and "scat" should greet the furry tribe whose traditions bind east with west and earth with sky. Therefore, when the Montreal Cat Club enthusiasts choose to place their feline friends in public view, the salon of aristocratic pussies, thus honored and admired, becomes the final word in lissome movement or restful and purring grace. We know of no creature within domestic reach that can so quietly render the hearth homely, so nonchalantly yawn in boredom over our vaunted civilization, so yowl the protest of a troubled world to the listening stars, and so look past a human being somewhere into the depths of eternity. It is a true proverb: "Dogs cling to persons and cats to places." It is but one evidence of many that the domestic creature with "nine lives" mentally dwells upon an astral plane and is as serenely detached from such transient phases of life as any individual can boast of being. "Poor puss" has the oriental aplomb. A cat—any cat—can afford to "let the legions "thunder past," and really does so.

We all know about the frantic arc and flaming eyes at moments when the jungle impulse pervades. But what about the imperturbable drowse of tabby, cushioned at ease or sphinx-like cuddled in content before the hearthstone fire? It is this calm posture of proprietorship that sets a dog on edge with envy, and the trick comes from far Cathay, for the best information that savants can give us is to the effect that our domestic puss has a racial strain traceable to southeastern Asia and northwestern Africa; so that both a Chinese and an Egyptian element belong to the family pedigree. Rightly do we call the tiger a big cat, and who has not observed how "Stripes" of the zoo or the jungle and our furry friend of the household hearth copy each other to the life? Where puss picked up the taste for fish we can easily guess. But what of cheese and, of all things, valerian? Give tabby a sniff of the latter and he will dance a gay hornpipe infinitely funnier than any stunt that "Felix" goes through at the movies. Somewhere in the evolutionary process the "wild cat" holds a sort of catastrophic investment which peradventure accounts for most feline eccentricities, and above everything else, the "phantom opera" broadcast by night from the apex of the roof. Just where the Manx cat came from is a mystery, and his family story would seem part of the dispersion after the deluge, for far apart as Mandalay, Madagascar and Manxland the tailless tribes are found, at which, of course, the "Siamese Queen" might scoff were she so disposed. For no poor Manx cat could for one moment pretend to hob-nob with the Persian or Angora civetizans or attempt to vie with the blue eyes, creamy fur and seal-brown countenance of the Siamese upper ten.

For all that, the domestic tabbies are deservedly great favorites. They still wear the mark of the forest primeval and change coat styles with every age. There were cats in Italy before Nero fiddled at Rome, and in old England ever since the Roman soldiers packed these domestic pets as part of their kit. Ancient Thebans made the cat a sacred emblem. Puss leans mostly to the esthetic side of life. But of useful arts the knack of catching mice will forever defend the family title from gross aspersions. And on this count the most prosaic critic alive will admit that puss is clever at the job and well worth the saucer of milk. —Montreal Gazette.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Peterboro—Toronto—Montreal
Winnipeg

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 9. — Some choice baby beeves sold at $17.25 a cwt., while others of indifferent quality wre hard to sell at $8 a cwt.

The exporters were open to buy any steers and heifers fitted for overseas but only a few of these were to be had. The large proportion of butchers' cattle were poor to medium quality and the prices for these were kept between $5 and $6 a cwt. An occasional good bullock sold above $7 a cwt. and fair quality beeves were $6.50 to $6.75 a cwt. Butchers' cows were steady, but there is a present congestion in canner cows and the price for these is lower at $2.25 a cwt. The market is slow but this is largely on account of the cattle being the unwanted kind.

Calves are still firm and one of extra quality sold at 15 cents a pound. Good calves are all bringing up to 13 cents and mediums are 9 to 11 cents.

Good lambs sold at 13¼ cents on Tuesday afternoon and some sold at that today. Fairly heavy lambs were 14 cents a pound and good sheep were 7 cents a pound.

Tuesday's settling prices on hogs was $12 a cwt. f.o.b., and while the sellers were asking $12.25 today, it was not felt that the packers would consent to the further advance.

STERLING PRICES

MONTREAL, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:
Sterling demand $4.84 5-8.
Sterling cables $4.85.

EGGS AND POULTRY

OTTAWA, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—A frther price reduction is reported from British Columbia today. Toronto fresh receipts show a slight increase and the Montreal market is draggy.

Toronto — Unchanged. A few sales have been made of dressed turkeys to the retail trade for Christmas trade delivery ten days at 38 for No. 1's.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—A further price reduction is upward swing in price today, with corn in the lead.

Speculative trading in corn was of much greater volume than for a long time, active demand being based to a considerable extent on opinions current that the market has discounted the large size of the corn crop this season. Corn closed buoyant, 2 7-8 to 3 1-4c net higher, May 86 7-8 to 87. Wheat finished firm, 3-4 to 2 5-8c up, new style, December 1.78 to 1.78 1-8, and May 1.73 to 1.73 1-4; oats at 5-8 to 7-8 gain, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 22 cents.

Almost from the outset the corn market showed independent strength, many traders appeared to be giving sharp attention to indications that a huge amount of corn on farms would be held for higher prices.

Instead of an expected rush to sell corn, a statement said the government's action would serve to increase feeding operations that are assuming a lafger scale daily. It was further asserted that there is corn export business going on every day both here and from other markets, and that Canadian distillers are buying United States corn, whereas for the last three seasons they have been running largely on Argentine corn. Before the market closed, Argentine corn was reported to be up 7 cents a bushel in the last ten days, but this was afterwards corrected to read 5 cents. Oats sympathized with corn.

A THOUGHT.

THE LAGGARD HOURS.

The days have been so dreary and so long
Since last I saw your smile and heard your song;
The hours have dragged so slowly, sadly by Since last I marked the laughter in your eye!

When you were here, the weeks went romping on
And, ere I knew, whole months and years had gone!
Then all things slowed; the clock hands checked their pace
When I heard not your voice nor saw your face.

But yet at length these weary years shall go;
And you, for whom I'm ever yearning so,
Will smile for me; will speak to me again—
The hours must resume their speeding then!

—Strickland Gillilan.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Dec. 9 (Canadian Press).—Car lots of Ontario and Quebec No. 2 white oats sold at 53 1-2c, No. 3 white at 53c, and No. 4 white at 50 1-2c per bushel, extrack. Canadian Western grades were steady.

The flour market was without any special feature.

The trade in winter wheat flour was also reported quiet, the demand being only for odd small lots to meet actual requirement.

In sympathy with the renewed strength in the oat situation and the continued good demand for standard grades of rolled oats for immediate consumption the undertone to the market was firm.

The tone of the market for potatoes was firmer on account of the cold weather, and the fact that the demand showed some improvement.

The receipts of butter were 97 packages, as compared with 182 for the same day last week, and 57 for the corresponding day a year ago. The feature of the trade was the improved demand that developed after the holiday for supplies and a more active business was done, which indicates that stocks in buyers' hands are not large and they are providing for the coming holiday trade, when the consumption will be larger than in the ordinary times. The tone of the market was firm, and prices were unchanged.

Cheese prices were unchanged with Western early makes of No. 1 white and colored quoted at 22c per lb., and current receipts at 19c per lb.

MORE EMPLOYMENT IN GREAT BRITAIN

Percentage Out of Work Last Month Dropped From 12 to 11.4 Per Cent.

The employment situation in Great Britain is beginning to improve. During October among the 11,892,000 employees insured against unemployment under the Unemployment Insurance Acts in Great Britain and Northern Ireland the percentage of unemployed at the end of the month was 11.4, compared with 12 per cent on September 21, 1925 and 11 per cent at the end of October, 1924. Trade unions returns showed a percentage of unemployed at the end of October of 11.3 compared with 11.4 at the end of September, and 12.1 per cent at the end of August and 8.7 at the end of October, 1924, according to the advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service.

The industries principally affected by the improvement of employment during October were the coal mining, iron and steel manufacturer, although in these trade conditions were still bad; tin plate, cotton, wool, hemp, hosiery and carpet trades. Employment continued good in the building and brick trades although a seasonal decline was reported. It was fairly good in the printing, furnishing and silk trades.

There were no important changes in the wage situation, small increases for 110,000 employees being offset by small reductions in the weekly wages of 63,000. During the ten completed months of 1925 there were net reductions amounting to £150,000 in the weekly full-time wages of 800,000 employees and net increases of £77,000 in those of 840,000. In the corresponding period of 1924 there were net increases of nearly £540,000 in the weekly full-time wages of about 2,700,000 employees, and net reductions of something over £67,000 in those of 575,500.

The cost of living index number at the end of October was approximately 76 per cent above that of July, 1924; for food alone the percentage was 72 per cent. These figures are the same as for a month ago, but appreciably below those for a year ago when the increases were 80 per cent and 79 per cent respectively.

The number of trade disputes involving stoppages of work reported to the Minister of Labour as beginning in October was 49. In addition 31 disputes which began before October were still in progress at the beginning of the month. The number of workpeople involved in all disputes in October, including workpeople thrown out of work at the establishments where the disputes occurred, but not themselves parties to the disputes, was about 43,000. The estimated duration of all disputes during October was 440,000 working days. These figurs compare with 44,000 people out of work due to trade disputes, and 413,000 working days lost. In the previous month. The aggregate duration of all disputes in progress in the first ten months of 1925 was 6,519,000 working days, and the number of workpeople involved in these disputes was 405,000. These figures compare with 8,045,000 working days and 587,000 work people respectively for the corresponding period of 1924.

BRIAND'S PLANS OF FINANCE IN CHAMBER TO-DAY

Bills For Increased Taxation May Defeat the New Ministry.

TO BALANCE BUDGET.

Bitter Debate and Opposition Expected—Situation Precarious.

PARIS, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—M. Loucheur's financial plans, which come up for discussion in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon are certain to cause tremendous opposition and an extremely acrimonious debate. But even the opponents of the plans profess to believe that they will be voted by the Chamber by a slim majority.

The finance minister's bills have to do with increased taxation with the object of raising seven billioin francs additional next year to balance the budget and establish a sinking fund. Premier Briand, it is understood, will not make the vote a question of confidence and stake the government's fate upon the passing of the measures, but will let M. Loucheur "go it alone."

Close friends of M. Briand, however, say it is unlike the Premier to abandon one of his ministers and that should M. Louchur go down with his plans, the entire cabinet will resign. Thus the entire political situation is in an extremely precarious condition.

VAGRANT MURDERS FELLOW PRISONER

Strikes Fatal Blow With Leg From Cell Cot.

ALBANY, N.Y., Dec. 10.—Unscrewing an iron leg from his cot, Harry Van Staden, of Jersey City, N.J., walked over to the cell of Abraham Straube, New York, in the Albany county penitentiary, and reaching through the bars, struck him a blow over the head, from which he died a short time later in a hospital, it was said at the penitentiary.

After delivering the killing blow, Van Staden walked into the office of the jailer and said: "Hey, I just bumped a guy off. Here," and he handed the iron bar to the jailer and returned to his cell.

Van Staden and Straube were both serving time for vagrancy.

Monday night on the way to mess hall, it was reported, there was an altercation between the two and a blow was struck, but guards separated them immediately.

Tuesday morning, when the cells were unlocked to permit the men to go to the wash room, the two men remained in their cells. The killer then took the leg from his cot, and concealing it in his pants leg, walked along the tier until he reached Straube's cell.

Sheriff Tibbits said the prisoner then reached through the cell bars and delivered the blow.

The state prison commission is expected to begin an investigation at once.

POPE CAMPAIGNING AGAINST IMMODESTY

Is Determined That His Campaign Shall Be Successful.

ROME, Dec. 10.—Pope Pius is determined that his campaign against immodest women's fashions shall be waged vigorously to a successful conclusion "at any cost" by all educational institutions of the Roman Catholic Church.

This decision was expressed by the Pontiff in a forceful address before the Congress of the International Union of Catholic Women's Leagues, the members of which he received in special audience at the Vatican.

"I have noticed in your program," he said, "a decision corresponding opportunely with your high Christian ideal, that is, the struggle which you propose to undertake so worthily, so strongly, so potently, so fully against immoral fashions which are truly a shame for so large a number of women who call themselves Christian and who dishonor the name of Christian.

"I never fail when seeing Nuns to ask them whether they conduct educational institutions. If they answer in the affirmative, I never omit recommending to them that they insist 'at any cost' upon Christian modesty in dressing. Sometimes they intimate that if they insist upon this point, mothers would withdraw their daughters from the schools. Very well, it is of no importance; Christian modesty in dressing must be taught with insistence and 'at any cost.' And I desire that the example be given by Catholic institutions. One must be-

CHILE OPPOSES BOUNDARY VOTE

Will Appeal to President Coolidge Against Commission's Action.

DATES OF VOTING.

ARICA, Chile, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press).—The Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission yesterday approved General Pershing's motion for fixing the dates for a plebiscite. The commission rejected the Chilean motion, and the Chileans will appeal to the arbitrator, President Coolidge.

General Pershing's motion begins with a long preamble, in which it is charged that Chile has not fulfilled the requirements of a free plebiscite, has unlawfully administered the territory, violated the award by refusing to carry out the rulings of the commission, and otherwise rendered the holding of a free referendum impossible.

General Pershing's motion is the counter-proposal to Chile's insistent demand that General Pershing, president of the plebiscitary committee, fix the dates for the voting in the plebiscite.

The rejection of Chile's motion on the same subject, under the rules of procedure previously adopted, permits her to appeal to the arbitrator, President Coolidge.

Has Been Much Study.

"Careful study has been made by cabinet ministers of the government control acts of other provinces, and there is a file three feet thick upon the subject in the government offices now. Provincial Treasurer W. H. Prices has apparently been given the task of framing the bill, inasmuch as he is most directly interested in the revenues to be derived from this source. It appears, too, that he is being given more and more general latitude by the Premier, presaging, perhaps, an ultimate shift of portfolios.

"When the election is to be is not yet decided. The government has in the meantime conceded to representations from Ottawa that the province should not butt in and spoil anything for the next federal election.

Bound by Promises.

"Several Conservative members of the House have told the Prime Minister they will not support any change in the liquor laws until after the life of this Parliament. We consider ourselves bound by promises made to our constituents and riding associations to stand by the result of the last vote. The situation will be different after the next election, and if we and the government are returned we will be free to support whatever we think best in the public interest.

"There will be many more consultations, I expect, before the final form of the newt wet measure is determined. But this is the outline and I am certain that no proposals to change the O.T.A. will be made at the coming session of the House and that when such proposed changes are broached by the government the local option principle will be a cardinal feature of the scheme.

Short Session is Easy.

"Barring criticism which may or may not emanate from opposition sources the administration should have no difficulty in speeding up the next session. Aside from the liquor issue there is no issue of great public importance to go before the House excepting the budget and Treasurer Price's new sinking fund plans. As for future Hydro development, little can be done by the government here, in its view, until Ottawa takes some action. The session should not last more than five or six weeks."

HAD PIMPLES A WHOLE SUMMER

On Face and Neck. Lost Rest. Cuticura Healed.

"I had a breaking out of little, red pimples on my face and neck. The pimples festered and scaled over causing disfigurement. They itched and burned causing me to scratch, and the scratching caused eruptions. The irritation caused a lot of discomfort, and I lost my rest at night. I had the trouble a whole summer.

"I was treated without success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some, and after using one box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Forest Krick, R. R. 4, Rockford, Ohio.

TAX REDUCTION BILL LIKELY TO PASS U.S. HOUSE

Several Democrats Opposed To Extent of Slash in Federal Burden.

$325,000,000 CUT.

Coolidge's Budget Message Received—Tax Debate Was Today's Feature.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press).—The House plunged forward yesterday with its work on the tax reduction bill while the Senate marked time with a day's recess to permit clearing up of final details of organization.

An atmosphere of mid-session activity prevailed in the House, which worked until dark. Before resuming the debate on the revenue measure, it received the budget message of President Coolidge recommending an increase in the next fiscal year's appropriation of $160,000,000 over the previous year.

A large representation of members listened attentively to four hours of debate on taxes in the House, which included the first assaults on the non-partisan bill drafted by the ways and means committee to slash the Federal tax burden by $325,000,000 next year.

Representative Rainey, of Illinois, a Democratic member of the committee, declared he would not support the measure "unless materially changed," and, with Representative Hull of Tennessee, another Democratic member of the committee, urged a lesser reduction in the surtax rates and elimination of the provision to increase the personal exemptions.

Passage of the measure, almost without change, is practically assured by the end of the week.

BORDER CITIES VOTE FOR SPAN

Detroit-Windsor Bridge Plan Indorsed in Four Municipalities.

OTHERS TO VOTE.

WINDSOR, Dec. 10.—An overwhelming majority vote for the construction of the international bridge to span the Detroit River was registered Monday in four Border municipalities.

Balloting took place in Windsor, Ford, Tecumseh and Amherstburg, in the annual municipal elections. Opponents of the project were outvoted by decisive margins in each of the town, although the vote was declared by municipal officials to be unusually light.

The ballot sought an expression of opinion, not binding the municipalities with a definite agreement, on a plan to guarantee $6,000,000 in debentures as part of the program for financing the bridge outlined by Joseph A. Bower, of New York, vice-president of the New York Trust Co. Mr. Bower is acting on behalf of the syndicate which proposes to build the bridge.

A majority of 3,491 votes was cast at Windsor in spite of determined opposition from advocates who are in favor of digging tunnels under the river.

The vote:

	For.	Against.
Windsor	4,774	1,283
Tecumseh	415	54
Amherstberg	613	103
Ford	823	252

O.T.A. PRISONER HANGS HIMSELF

Richard Berger Commits Suicide in Kitchener Police Cells.

UP MANY TIMES.

KITCHENER, Ont., Dec. 10. — (Canadian Press)—Richard Berger, 55, proprietor of the Grand River Hotel, Freeport, about two miles from Kitchener, committed suicide in the city police cells here yesterday by hanging himself with his braces. About noon Berger was arrested by the Provincial police and lodged in the cells, and 35 minutes later the city police cut down his lifeless body, the discovery being made when dinner was carried in to the prisoner.

Tuesday, the Provincial officers raided Berger's hotel and found a quantity of whiskey and beer, and yesterday, when he was arrested he begged that he be allowed to keep his razor. This was, of course, denied him. Apart from this, the prisoner appeared to be perfectly rational. Six times previously Berger has been charged with O.T.A. breaches, and both he and his wife have done jail terms for violations of the O.T.A.

DIED IN HOSPITAL.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—James Marshall, aged 45, died at Victoria Hospital yesterday afternoon of injuries sustained when a house, which he was assisting in removing at Melbourne Village, fell upon him. Snapping of a chain which let the building get out of control caused the accident.

THE ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Do you believe in the scientific determination of destiny?

Have you studied the intricate but exact science of number, color, and name vibration?

Or are you among the Back numbers who class modern science with palmistry and mere fads?

Whatever you are, you will be interested in this.

The Examiner has secured the services of a local expert in the science of drawing from a few basic facts a great amount of information that will be helpful and interesting to you. This gentleman, and who for obvious reasons desires to remain anonymous under the pen-name "The Oracle", has made a deep study of the science. It is a fascinating study, founded on facts that no one can dispute. It is one of the oldest of the sciences, revived through much reading and application to ancient tables and writings.

And the knowledge of the ages is offered to Examiner readers free of all cost.

All You Must Do

is fill in the attached form and mail it to "The Oracle", The Examiner Office, 419 George street, Peterborough. Give a pen-name for use in The Examiner, or, if you desire a more complete reading, enclose a stamped envelope.

Please note that full information can be based only on the complete particulars, but if for any reason you desire to omit any of these, a partial reading will be given. Here is what is offered:

When full particulars are given:

The signifcance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success; how you must act to gain happiness; whether the date named is an auspicious one on which to take an important step; your particular colors; where to apply your efforts and where you will best succeed.

When only name is given:

The significance behind your name; paths to follow to secure success;

When only birth date is given:

How to gain spiritual and material success; the measure of your force and power; and by what color you are influenced.

When only full name and a particular date are given:

An analysis of the day, with a direction as to how best to apply your efforts. It is better to state briefly the purpose when seeking advice of this kind.

Please Remember

that the full name and full date of birth must be given, such as: "John Robert Doe, 12 March, 1899." In seeking advice on a particular day, state the date, month, and year.

And Take Warning

that "The Oracle" will not sugar-coat his pills. If you desire only pleasant things brought to your attention, do not send your inquiries to him. If there is a warning to be issued, "The Oracle" will give it; if there is a bad trait to be corrected, "The Oracle" will warn you of it.

No full names will be printed in The Examiner, only initials or pen-names as given being used. And any informaton given to "The Oracle" will be kept confidentially. Replies will appear the day after the inquiry is received. Here is the form:

Full name .....

Birth date: (day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Would the following date be an auspicious one for me to enter into an mportant transaction or engagement?

(day) .....(month) .....(year) .....

Venus—Tu ne cede malis, se contra audentior ito. You have social and personal attraction, but you lack "stick-to-itiveness." Do not be defeated by adversity, and conquer the vacillating tendency in your nature. You have charm that should be developed to the depths, and not skimmed. Charm does not rest in beauty of features or in the figure of a Venus—it is more intangible, more valuable. And to be worth while it must be constant. Do not be fickle; and make yourself more amenable to rules and regulations without hampering your individuality. On the day you mention you should take advantage of any new opportunity that offers. You have a fair share of intuition, but it is not infallible. Your colors are blue and cream.

Betty—Out of life's sometimes drab warp and woof you are picking a comely pattern; not gaudy with pretentions, but satisfying in its achievements of good for others. Dominant in home life, you are ardent at heart—though, indeed, those who do not know you well think you cold. Guard against the jealousy of friends and companions. Seek good cheer and sunshine. Learn to distinguish the true from the false, both in people and things. Do not let sympathy for others lead you to neglect your own health, which needs care. Avoid drugs. Your color is flame, including many of the lovely, indeterminate, hues of fire.

Milkmaid — You are a natural leader and thinker, and should be fortunate in all commercial enterprises, though perhaps not so well satisfied in matters of the heart. Your reading gives evidence of adaptability to circumstance and a leaning to service of a personal kind. You have musical ability. Your nature is receptive and even-tempered and kind. You lack initiative and should cultivate efficiency, even in small matters. Your colors are gold and violet, but especially gold. January 7th or 8th would be fortunate days for you. On the former nothing will be accomplished by forcing your hand, but new enterprises may be satisfactorily started. The 8th is a good day for conservative investment of funds. Temper your actions with logic and good judgment.

Mickey—You should not play alone in any enterprise or business, but associate with others. And do not let that impulse of yours to mix in the affairs of others predominate. You have charm and affection, and should allow these to show themselves more. Think of yourself, and don't be afraid to act on your own initiative in matters that concern you personally. Your business arrangements, however, should be in collaboration with other persons. You would like travel, but it is not as neccesary to your development as if you had less natural ability and adaptability. You will have your share of life's good things.

S. L.—You will attain material success through hard work and in creative work you will find expansion for a mind above the ordinary in originality of thought. You would excel in designing or draughting ,where symmetry and detail are displayed as dictated by a perceptive eye. You are even-tempered and love harmony, but are not slow to righteous indignation. Efficient yourself, you are intolerant of inefficiency in others, and to be really popular you must remember that all men are not created with the same talent. You need a certain amount of travel to overcome an inborn restlessness. The coming year will see a change for the better in your position, but this does not relieve you of the necessity of hard work. Your colors are green, yellow and red.

Shorty—Yours are joyous characteristics, and you were created specially to bring pleasure and joy to others. It is a high destiny. For yourself, you have an active and creative mind; one that has not yet caught the full vision of your possibilities. Do not be domineering, for thus you would lose your charm. Cultivate reticence, disregard the pettifogging troubles of life, and seek a higher vision. Many girls would give years of their lives to stand on the threshold of the future that awaits you. Grasp your opportunities.

Jeanne—You will never be popular with those your own age, because of the superior attitude you adopt in dealing with others. You take life too seriously—and yourself at too high a valuation in relation to your friends. These are faults that can be corrected and you should set about it at once. In a few years you will have set your course irrevocably.

M. D.—Yours is a life that has its full complement of compensations for the worries of existence. You have a really great character, with unusual understanding and sympathy. Much is to be expected of you, and that being so, much will be demanded. Julius Caesar, Garibaldi, Cardinal Gibbons, and Thackery all had the same characteristics fundamentally that you show. You have tenacity and stability, and must cultvate originating power, carefully avoiding the coarse and pugnacious. You have a highly developed sense of the spiritual, but fear to give it expression as your heart dictates. Guard yourself against jealousy. Do not be afraid to aim high, and do not seek so much for commendation and praise. That is not the highest of which you are capable. And if that spirit of resentment of criticism which I see in your reading does not like this advice, go back and read the advice again.

H. D. A.—You are highly individual and must learn to stand on your own feet, in business and personal life. William Jennings Bryan had just the same features that your reading shows, and he carved his own way in the world. Remember, industry and tenacity must be added to your inherent ability before material success will be attained. You have a cheerful outlook on life, and have the pleasant knack of imparting good cheer to those around you. The harvests of future years will be much better than the gleanings of past years. You will have a test within a few months that will call for the exercise of your latent powers. Cultivate your interest in fine arts. On the day you name make no important purchases; be patient; don't gamble.

Rex—You have the ability and power to make of your life whatever you will, but you are too young for the definite traits to have become set in particular directions. Michael Angelo and Raphael both had the same characteristics that you have. You are sensible and kind hearted, but sensitive, too. Be honest in the most trifling matters, and learn the value and limitations of money. Your colors are green and silver.

Baby—You have a good degree of sympathy and kindness; desire to make others happy, yet will not sacrifice very much to relieve your neighbor. Yet you were destined to bring happiness to others, and that is a worthy object in life. You are peace loving and gentle, and art and inspiration have a big part of your yet undeveloped nature. You like to be comfortable and secure, and will probably marry young. Your natural aptitude will make a beautiful home. You despise anything coarse or common, but you should cultivate a broader outlook that is not blind to all outside your own select circle. The day you name is a good one on which to gather knowledge of projected moves, but not a favorable day for new enterprises. Your colors are orange and gray.

K. K. K.—You are rather impressible and sympathetic in thought and feeling, but should avoid habits that clog or deprave the mental manifestations. You possess a fair share of nerve force and power, which must be called out by culture. You will succeed in mechanism better than in pursuits requiring acuteness and penetration. You are good natured to a fault, disregarding your own good for the welfare of others. Trustworthy and straightforward, you must assert your true self in order to succeed, materially. If opportunity knocks on the day you mention, seize it. Don't speculate on that date.

A. B. R.—You are naturally retiring and disposed to take a back seat, although there is no organic reason for backwardness. You can be bright and entertaining at will. Avoid the occult towards which you tend, and concentrate on some material activity that will bring you gain and success. You have high mentality, and scientific or business success may be won by you. Ralph Waldo Emerson, whose characteristics match yours, wrote: "Life is a train of moods like a string of beads; and as we pass through them, they prove to be many-colored lenses which paint the world their own hue, and each shows only what lies in its focus." Make allowance for these changing moods, and do not be like a creature of the moment, without hope and ambition and foresight. On the day you mention do not procrastinate. Confidently assume any responsibility that is offered you.

Perhaps you are using good tea. We think "Red Rose" extra good. Won't you try it?

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

The same good tea for 30 years.

NICKLE UNINFORMED OF CONTROL BILL

Has No Knowledge of Any Intention to Introduce Government Control.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press). — Ontario's Attorney-General, who has charge of the enforcement of the Province's present temperance legislation, has no knowledge of any intention upon the part of the Government to supplant that legislation by a government control measure.

In purporting to say what will be the Government's course of action in the months of the year to come, an evening paper yesterday announced an appeal to the people upon a Government control issue and went so far as to declare that the proposed bill was already in draft form and in process of being concurred in by Cabinet Ministers.

TORONTO LADIES SPEAK ON SCHOOLS

Believe in Kindergartens and Support Adolescent Act.

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—"I believe absolutely in the kindergarten," said Mrs. H. P. Plumptre, candidate for the board of education, at a meeting of the Social Hygiene Club. "The public is beginning to think in terms of '16' and not '14' so far as the school graduation age is concerned. In every progressive country in the world the age limit has risen, and Ontario cannot fail behind the rest."

In support of the Adolescent Act Miss Constance Boulton said that parents who were opposed to it should be made to see that older people might be deprived of work when teen-age boys and girls could be easily engaged permanetly in their stead at a much lower wage. She criticised the employment of stenographers instead of fully qualified teachers in the offices of school principals, claiming that the teacher, with her technical training, was able to adjust many difficulties and to render a service equivalent to the visiting teacher.

"I find that the question of paying by merit is creating great concern in the minds of many teachers at the present time," said Dr. Caroline Brown. Illustrating from her own experience of teaching, Dr. Brown showed how necessary it was to give a teacher a chance to produce her best work and how insurrection under certain conditions might militate against the just deserts of both teacher and pupils.

PUBLICITY STUNT PROVES TRAGEDY

People Declined to Search For Singer, Believing Suicide Note Fake.

BERLIN, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press).—The disappearance of Zinaida Jurevskaya, Berlin soprano, which her friends and family believed was a staged affair, has turned out to be a tragedy indicated by traces she left behind. The police guess of a publicity exploit has proved cynically false.

They are now satisfied that Mme. Jurevskaya did end her own life, slashing her wrists with a razor, then walking to a mountain torrent near the Swiss village of Andermatt and hurling herself into the water. The body has not yet been discovered. The woman had written her husband saying she intended to end her life.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

He smiled tenderly at her. "I knew you'd do it for me," he said softly.

The little boat rolled crazily through the waves. The big man seemed to be taking a well-known course, for he steered purposefully, guiding himself by the rays of the flashlight. They toiled on in silence, soaked and tempest-tossed.

Abruptly the engine gave a petulant sigh and ceased functioning. Doc used language, then resorted to manual labor. In vain he pulled and oiled and wrenched. The Idle Hour tossed miserably, going as the waves took it.

"Hey, you," the big man growled at David. "What do you know about engines?"

"All," said David modestly. He bent beside Doc, and together they strove to make the aged engine listen to reason.

Across the water came the throbbing of a powerful motor and the swish of waves severed neatly by a sharp bow. Sweetie caught Doc's sleeve.

"Just a minute, there, feller," she said.

The big man raised his head and listened. Cautiously he used his flashlight, as the sounds drew nearer. Crossing their path was a big black motor boat, long and flowing of line. David sat up sharply, his hands gripping the edge of the seat.

From the larger boat came a woman's voice, high and shrill with terror.

"McTish!" it soared desperately, "McTish!"

David leaped to his feet in the wildly rocking boat.

"McTish!", he roared across the angry water.

As he called the girl had sprung up on the seat behind him. Her arm came swiftly down; there was a curious dull sound, as the revolver butt met his head.

CHAPTER VIII.
By H. C. Witwer.

In the same instant that the fear-stricken Connemara screamed wildly for McTish, with the prehensile fingers of Mr. Pooch pawing at her throat, the utter absurdity of her appeal struck her. The idea of the little, flame-haired, candidly drunk Scotchman in the role of knight erant would have changed her shriek of fear to one of mirth—under other circumstances. Just now, however, Connemara's sense of humor was conspicuous by its absence! A panicky terror gripped her, mingled with amazement. Where was the owner of the familiar voice that had just echoed her frenzied scream "McTish!" across the water? Who was——?

But Mr. Pooch gave Connemara no time for conjecture. This gentleman of the new school was all business! One hand almost encircling her quivering throat, he clenched the other and drew it back ominously.

"Gimme that fifty grand or I'll bump you off!" he yelled. "C'mon—make it snappy!"

Connemara gulped and moved her neck painfully in Mr. Pooch's iron grasp. With frantic glances she signaled her captor that speech was practically an impossible feat under his restraining influence. Slowly and cautiously Mr. Pooch relaxed his grip, like a fisherman playing his victim by the feel of the reel. Connemara gingerly rubbed her aching neck and glared at him indignantly.

"You are frightfully rude!" she said haughtily. "And I do not desire your company further. Put me ashore at once!"

For a moment Mr. Pooch eyed her almost incredulously. He actually looked abashed and retreated a step, and Connemara had a wild hope that her sudden assumption of an imperious manner might be effective where her shrinking fear had failed. At least it might allow her to temporize with her assailant. She continued to regard him fixedly, in a desperate imitation of icy anger, but Mr. Pooch quickly dashed her brief optimism.

"Put you ashore, hey?" he chuckled sneeringly, again advancing toward her. "Where d'ye get that stuff? As long as y' don't 'preciate me askin' for that sugar in a nice way, I'm gonna take it off ya'!"

A lurch of the yacht enabled Connemara partly to evade his vicious lunge at her arm, and as she sprang away there was a sound of ripping cloth. Mr. Pooch sprawled back perilously close to the low rail, mouthing strange oaths and tightly clutching one sleeve of her bedraggled nun's robe. Connemara stared wildly up at the bridge, where she now, to her amazement, discerned McTish, white cap cocked rakishly over one eye, calmly surveying the scene below with the detached air of a spectator at a particularly boring performance. He might have been a hod carrier at a Greek drama; or Noah viewing Niagara Falls. And not many moments before she had seen the red-headed Mr. McTish most thoroughly slammed and padlocked in the forecastle. Mr. Pooch regarded the sleeve in his hand with a baleful eye, hurled it overboard, and grimly resumed the attack.

"Help! Help!" wailed Connemara, ducking and dodging the grunting Pooch in the narrow space of the cockpit. The waves swishing callously against the yacht's sides seemed to mock her.

"Where d'ye think y'are, kid—in Times Square?" chuckled Mr. Pooch. "Go on, squawk yer head off and see if I care! The only ones which can hear you is me and the fishes!"

Connemara felt like adding bitterly, "And that poor fish up on the bridge!" as she stared scornfully at the seemingly unperturbed and still watching McTish. But she saved her breath and concentrated all her efforts in avoiding the rushes of the determined Mr. Pooch.

Within the space of the next five minutes, Connemara's costume had been ripped and torn to fluttering ribbons by his hungry hands. Darkly purpling bruises were appearing on her naked arms and shoulders, but the constant rolling of the yacht and her dexterous squirming and clawing at Mr. Pooch's curiously working face enabled her to break away time and again from his embrace. The sight of her bared loveliness had swiftly brought a desire in no way connected with the fifty thousand dollars into the glittering slits that were Mr. Pooch's eyes, and Connemara's pulses leaped madly with a new and numbing fear.

At last, with Pooch so close to her that his panting breath beat on her face and his groping hands were within an inch of her throat, Connemara wrenched away, sprang to the rail, and gasped over her shoulder:

"If you touch me—I—I'll jump overboard—I mean it!"

To her surprise, Mr. Pooch fell back a step.

"Can you swim?" he inquired almost casually.

"Yes—very well indeed!" panted Connemara, on the verge of hysteria from this sudden application of the brakes to the heroics of a moment before.

Take BEECHAM'S PILLS
THE NATION'S LAXATIVE

Relation of the Liver and Kidneys

Such that each suffers when other deranged—Both regulated by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

When the liver becomes sluggish or torpid in action, the kidneys have to help out with the work of filtration. When the liver fails the kidneys have all the work to do.

Hence the beginning of trouble is usually biliousness, indigestion and constipation and after a time the kidneys begin to be affected and there comes backache, urinary derangements and kidney disease.

The remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is due to their unique combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. They get at the cause of trouble and remove it no matter how complicated it may be. Promptly and thoroughly they cleanse the bowels or intestines, arouse the liver action and thereby relieve the overworked kidneys.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Dec. 10. W. Davis, international representative of the United Mine Workers of America, in an address here last night.

He also charged that anthracite prices had been raised although the cost of production of the present inferior grade had not increased "one cent," and asserted that the mine operators have been resizing their coal, mixing small with large, and charging the full price for large coal.

CHANG MAKING HIS LAST STAND

Is Concentrating His Troops Along Lia River, in Front of Mukden.

KUO ADVANCING.

PEKING, Dec. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Military events in North China apparently are developing toward two major battles on which will hinge the fate of the important cities of Mukden, capital of Manchuria, and Tientsin.

In Manchuria forces of General Kuo Sung Ling, one time follower of Marshal Chang Tso Lin, and now his principal adversary, are advancing along the railway toward Mukden. His main body remains at Chin Chow, 103 miles south-west of Mukden, but his advance guards are approaching the Liao River, 35 miles west of Mukden, along which the former Dictator of Manchuria has announced his intention of making his last stand, and where his remaining forces apparently are being concentrated. Japanese gendarmes are assisting the police in maintaining order in Mukden.

Fighting Near Tientsin.

LONDON, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press). — A despatch to the Daily Mail from Peking reports fighting 10 miles north of Tientsin. It does nf say who is engaged, but asserts that Chang Tso-Lin's forces are reported to be making a stand on Liao River.

WORK ON ROADS IS REPORTED TO COUNTY COUNCIL

Second Meeting of December Session Heard Road Superintendent.

SOME COMPLAINTS.

Township Asks For Roads To Be Returned To County System.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—When the Counties Council met at 2.30 Wednesday afternoon, County Roads Superintendent Greer read his annual report of the work done and the amount of money expended on highways in the various municipalities during the past year.

Commenting on the report, Warden McCamus said that the unusually wet summer had been unfavorable for road building and that Superintendent Greer had been forced to put up with conditions that he had never faced before. The Highway Commission, of which the Warden is a member by virtue of his office, had kept a close watch over the work done during the year and found it satisfactory.

Clarke Township Complains.

There was no criticism of Superintendent Greer's report, but after it had been disposed of, the Council spent over two hours discussing the highway question from various angles. Deputy Reeve Patterson of Clarke, started the flood of oratory when he asked that the Counties Council lend it influence to have six miles of highway put back into the county system.

At a special meeting of the Counties Council held last summer to consult with the advisory committee of the Legislature regarding a revision of the road system, 12 miles of road were returned to the township in spite of the protest of the representatives. The Muncipality of Clarke is now anxious to have half of this mileage restored.

Protest From Reeve Baker.

Reeve Baker of Darlington, who also voted against the proposed revision of the road system last summer, said that if the complaint of the Clarke representation was dealt with by the Council, this would open up the whole question and other municipalities would ask for similar action. Darlington had 36 miles in the county system before the Advisory Committee returned half of it to the township. After deluding the township with the road system, Reeve Baker said, the Department compelled the municipality to spend $900, of which less than half was returned. He did not regard such a policy as fair. Darlington, he said, was not the rich township that some supposed it to be, as there is a lot of low-priced land in it. According to its actual value, Reeve Baker is of the opinion that its equalized assessment is higher than that of any other municipality in the two counties.

Warden McCamus—"You should remember, Mr. Baker, that the back townships helped to pay for the Provincial highway as well as did those through which it passes, and the latter are the townships that receive the most benefit."

Reeve Baker—"You get as much good from it as we do."

Warden McCamus—"No, no. We would gladly have the Provincial highway pass through Millbrook to-morrw if that were possible."

Reeve Baker elicited from the Warden the information that the latter frequently uses the big roadway, that he lives about three miles from it, while some of Reeve Baker's constituents are 20 miles or more away.

Got Harsh Treatment.

Reeve Wood of Millbrook, said that at the time the change was made the opinion of a number of the councillors was that the Township of Clarke had received harsh treatment and he thought something should be done by the council to induce the Department to revoke the action of last summer.

The six miles of road in dispute lie between Kendall and Newtonville. The Clarke Township Council will present to the Counties Council for its inspection, and the Department will then be asked to restore this road to the county system.

Situation at Alderville.

The part of the county road — about three miles — that passes through the Indian reserve of Alderville, is maintained by the county, but the Indians pay no taxes. Deputy Reeve Murphy of Cramahe renewed the attempt made by him at two previous sessions to get some financial aid either from the Department of Highways or the Department of Indian Affairs. He had been informed that the latter were responsible for at least a part of the outlay on this road.

Reeve Mouncey of Alnwick explained that he had taken up this matter with Milton A. Maybee, M.P., and had received assurance that the Indian Department would take some action. The Indians on the reserva had last summer received a grant of $2000 from the Federal Government to be expended on their own roads, but the past season had been too wet to do anything.

The council adjourned until 2.30 Thursday afternoon.

U.F.O. OPPOSES CADET TRAINING

Urges Preparation For Peace and Votes Sympathy With League.

SCHOOLS FOR PEACE.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press). — The United Farmers of Ontario, in convention yesterday, sounded a note of antagonism toward war and militarism.

Resolutions endorsed by the convention urged preparation for peace; attacked from various angles cadet training in the schools; and placed the U.F.O. on record as being in sympathy with the aims and objects of the League of Nations and in favor of using the school book as a medium through which to teach the ideals of peace.

No action was taken by the convention with regard to a resolution introduced by the Legislation, Peace and Arbitration Committee, proposing to ask the Dominion Government that in case of Canada being invited to take part in any foreign war, it (the Government) should submit to the people by referendum the question of whether or not Canada should engage in the conflict.

W.C.T.U. MEETING AT CAMPBELLFORD

Monthly Meeting Was Held at Home of Mrs. R. J. Bibby.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 10. — The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Bibby on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at three o'clock. A good attendance was recorded, the president, Mrs. R. C. Weston, in the chair. The meeting opened with singing and devotional exercises by Mrs. R. Moore. A temperance drill was given by Mesdames Weston, Sperry, Turner, Diamond, Forde, Bell and Kingston. Arrangements were made for the distribution of Christmas baskets. Mrs. G. A. Kingston was appointed superintendent in the place of the late Mrs. W. Shore, who was always a devoted worker in the W.C.T.U. The next meeting will be held the second Tuesday in January, at the home of Mrs. G. A. Kingston.

SCHOOL REPORT WAS SUBMITTED

Good Work Done in All the Schools of Northumberland.

SALARIES VARY.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 10.—In his annual report to the Counties Council of the work done in his inspectorate during the year, Inspector R. Boyce of Campbellford says that of the 98 teachers in the rural schools, seven hold first and 91 second class certificates. There are no teachers of lower qualifications. Fifteen of the teachers are males and 83 are females.

The highest salary paid in a rural school is $1,230 and the lowest is $750. The highest salary in an urban school is $1,900—which is paid the principal of the Campbellford Public School—and the lowest is $800.

Entrance examinations were held at Hastings, Campbellford, Warkworth, Roseneath, Castleton and Wooler. More than the usual number of candidates wrote at these centres and with excellent results. It is evident, the report states, that more pupils are inclined to take advantage of the full public school course.

The usual uniform promotion examinations were held in June and the success of the pupils at these tests is the best evidence that good work is being done in the schools. Nearly all of the rural schools took part in the school fairs.

Inspector Boyes sums up the situation with the statement that he is satisfied that a good year's work has been done.

The report of the committee was adopted by the Council without change.

He smiled tenderly at her. "I knew you'd do it for me," he said softly.

The little boat rolled crazily through the waves. The big man seemed to be taking a well-known course, for he steered purposefully, guiding himself by the rays of the flashlight. They toiled on in silence, soaked and tempest-tossed.

Abruptly the engine gave a petulant sigh and ceased functioning. Doc used language, then resorted to manual labor. In vain he pulled and oiled and wrenched. The Idle Hour tossed miserably, going as the waves took it.

"Hey, you," the big man growled at David. "What do you know about engines?"

"All," said David modestly. He bent beside Doc, and together they strove to make the aged engine listen to reason.

Across the water came the throbbing of a powerful motor and the swish of waves severed neatly by a sharp bow. Sweetie caught Doc's sleeve.

"Just a minute, there, feller," she said.

The big man raised his head and listened. Cautiously he used his flashlight, as the sounds drew nearer. Crossing their path was a big black motor boat, long and flowing of line. David sat up sharply, his hands gripping the edge of the seat.

From the larger boat came a woman's voice, high and shrill with terror.

"McTish!" it soared desperately, "McTish!"

David leaped to his feet in the wildly rocking boat.

"McTish!" he roared across the angry water.

As he called the girl had sprung up on the seat behind him. Her arm came swiftly down; there was a curious dull sound, as the revolver butt met his head.

CHAPTER VIII.
By H. C. Witwer.

In the same instant that the fear-stricken Connemara screamed wildly for McTish, with the prehensile fingers of Mr. Pooch pawing at her throat, the utter absurdity of her appeal struck her. The idea of the little, flame-haired, candidly drunk Scotchman in the role of knight erant would have changed her shriek of fear to one of mirth—under other circumstances. Just now, however, Connemara's sense of humor was conspicuous by its absence! A panicky terror gripped her, mingled with amazement. Where was the owner of the familiar voice that had just echoed her frenzied scream "McTish!" across the water? Who was——?

But Mr. Pooch gave Connemara no time for conjecture. This gentleman of the new school was all business! One hand almost encircling her quivering throat, he clenched the other and drew it back ominously.

"Gimme that fifty grand or I'll bump you off!" he yelled. "C'mon—make it snappy!"

Connemara gulped and moved her neck painfully in Mr. Pooch's iron grasp. With frantic glances she signaled her captor that speech was practically an impossible feat under his restraining influence. Slowly and cautiously Mr. Pooch relaxed his grip, like a fisherman playing his victim by the feel of the reel. Connemara gingerly rubbed her aching neck and glared at him indignantly.

"You are frightfully rude!" she said haughtily. "And I do not desire your company further. Put me ashore at once!"

For a moment Mr. Pooch eyed her almost incredulously. He actually looked abashed and retreated a step, and Connemara had a wild hope that her sudden assumption of an imperious manner might be effective where her shrinking fear had failed. At least it might allow her to temporize with her assailant. She continued to regard him fixedly, in a desperate imitation of icy anger, but Mr. Pooch quickly dashed her brief optimism.

"Put you ashore, hey?" he chuckled sneeringly, again advancing toward her. "Where d'ye get that stuff? As long as y' don't 'preciate me askin' for that sugar in a nice way, I'm gonna take it off ya'!"

A lurch of the yacht enabled Connemara partly to evade his vicious lunge at her arm, and as she sprang away there was a sound of ripping cloth. Mr. Pooch sprawled back perilously close to the low rail, mouthing strange oaths and tightly clutching one sleeve of her bedraggled nun's robe. Connemara stared wildly up at the bridge, where she now, to her amazement, discerned McTish, white cap cocked rakishly over one eye, calmly surveying the scene below with the detached air of a spectator at a particularly boring performance. He might have been a hod carrier at a Greek drama; or Noah viewing Niagara Falls. And not many moments before she had seen the red-headed Mr. McTish most thoroughly slammed and padlocked in the forecastle. Mr. Pooch regarded the sleeve in his hand with a baleful eye, hurled it overboard, and grimly resumed the attack.

"Help! Help!" wailed Connemara, ducking and dodging the grunting Pooch in the narrow space of the cockpit. The waves swishing callously against the yacht's sides seemed to mock her.

"Where d'ye think y'are, kid—in Times Square?" chuckled Mr. Pooch. "Go on, squawk yer head off and see if I care! The only ones which can hear you is me and the fishes!"

Connemara felt like adding bitterly, "And that poor fish up on the bridge!" as she stared scornfully at the seemingly unperturbed and still watching McTish. But she saved her breath and concentrated all her efforts in avoiding the rushes of the determined Mr. Pooch.

Within the space of the next five minutes, Connemara's costume had been ripped and torn to fluttering ribbons by his hungry hands. Darkly purpling bruises were appearing on her naked arms and shoulders, but the constant rolling of the yacht and her dexterous squirming and clawing at Mr. Pooch's curiously working face enabled her to break away time and again from his embrace. The sight of her bared loveliness had swiftly brought a desire in no way connected with the fifty thousand dollars into the glittering slits that were Mr. Pooch's eyes, and Connemara's pulses leaped madly with a new and numbing fear.

At last, with Pooch so close to her that his panting breath beat on her face and his groping hands were within an inch of her throat, Connemara wrenched away, sprang to the rail, and gasped over her shoulder:

"If you touch me—I—I'll jump overboard—I mean it!"

To her surprise, Mr. Pooch fell back a step.

"Can you swim?" he inquired almost casually.

"Yes—very well indeed!" panted Connemara, on the verge of hysteria from this sudden application of the brakes to the heroics of a moment before.

Relation of the Liver and Kidneys

Such that each suffers when other deranged—Both regulated by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

When the liver becomes sluggish or torpid in action, the kidneys have to help out with the work of filtration. When the liver fails the kidneys have all the work to do.

Hence the beginning of trouble is usually biliousness, indigestion and constipation and after a time the kidneys begin to be affected and there comes backache, urinary derangements and kidney disease.

The remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is due to their unique combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. They get at the cause of trouble and remove it no matter how complicated it may be. Promptly and thoroughly they cleanse the bowels or intestines, arouse the liver action and thereby relieve the overworked kidneys.

PEKING, Dec. 10. — (Canadian Press).—Military events in North China apparently are developing toward two major battles on which will hinge the fate of the important cities of Mukden, capital of Manchuria, and Tientsin.

In Manchuria forces of General Kuo Sung Ling, one time follower of Marshal Chang Tso Lin, and now his principal adversary, are advancing along the railway toward Mukden. His main body remains at Chin Chow, 103 miles south-west of Mukden, but his advance guards are approaching the Liao River, 35 miles west of Mukden, along which the former Dictator of Manchuria has announced his intention of making his last stand, and where his remaining forces apparently are being concentrated. Japanese gendarmes are assisting the police in maintaining order in Mukden.

WORK ON ROADS IS REPORTED TO COUNTY COUNCIL

Second Meeting of December Session Heard Road Superintendent.

SOME COMPLAINTS.

Township Asks For Roads To Be Returned To County System.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, Dec. 10.—When the Counties Council met at 2.30 Wednesday afternoon, County Roads Superintendent Greer read his annual report of the work done and the amount of money expended on highways in the various municipalities during the past year.

Commenting on the report, Warden McCamus said that the unusually wet summer had been unfavorable for road building and that Superintendent Greer had been forced to put up with conditions that he had never faced before. The Highway Commission, of which the Warden is a member by virtue of his office, had kept a close watch over the work done during the year and found it satisfactory.

Clarke Township Complains.

There was no criticism of Superintendent Greer's report, but after it had been disposed of, the Council spent over two hours discussing the highway question from various angles. Deputy Reeve Patterson of Clarke, started the flood of oratory when he asked that the Counties Council lend it influence to have six miles of highway put back into the county system.

At a special meeting of the Counties Council held last summer to consult with the advisory committee of the Legislature regarding a revision of the road system, 12 miles of road were returned to the township in spite of the protest of the representatives. The Muncipality of Clarke is now anxious to have half of this mileage restored.

Protest From Reeve Baker.

Reeve Baker of Darlington, who also voted against the proposed revision of the road system last summer, said that if the complaint of the Clarke representation was dealt with by the Council, this would open up the whole question and other municipalities would ask for similar action. Darlington had 36 miles in the county system before the Advisory Committee returned half of it to the township. After deluding the township with the road system, Reeve Baker said, the Department compelled the municipality to spend $900, of which less than half was returned. He did not regard such a policy as fair. Darlington, he said, was not the rich township that some supposed it to be, as there is a lot of low-priced land in it. According to its actual value, Reeve Baker is of the opinion that its equalised assessment is higher than that of any other municipality in the two counties.

Warden McCamus—"You should remember, Mr. Baker, that the back townships helped to pay for the Provincial highway as well as did those through which it passes, and the latter are the townships that receive the most benefit."

Reeve Baker—"You get as much good from it as we do."

Warden McCamus—"No, no. We would gladly have the Provincial highway pass through Millbrook to-morrw if that were possible."

Reeve Baker elicited from the Warden the information that the latter frequently uses the big roadway, that he lives about three miles from it, while some of Reeve Baker's constituents are 20 miles or more away.

Got Harsh Treatment.

Reeve Wood of Millbrook, said that at the time the change was made the opinion of a number of the councillors was that the Township of Clarke had received harsh treatment and he thought something should be done by the council to induce the Department to revoke the action of last summer.

The six miles of road in dispute lie between Kendall and Newtonville. The Clarke Township Council will present to the Counties Council for its inspection, and the Department will then be asked to restore this road to the county system.

Situation at Alderville.

The part of the county road — about three miles — that passes through the Indian reserve of Alderville, is maintained by the county, as the Indians pay no taxes. Deputy Reeve Murphy of Cramahe renewed the attempt made by him at two previous sessions to get some financial aid either from the Department of Highways or the Department of Indian Affairs. He had been informed that the latter were responsible for at least a part of the outlay on this road.

Reeve Mouncey of Alnwick explained that he had taken up this matter with Milton M. Maybee, M.P., and had received assurance that the Indian Department would take some action. The Indians on the reserve had last summer received a grant of $2000 from the Federal Government to be expended on their own roads, but the past season had been too wet to do anything.

The council adjourned until 2.30 Thursday afternoon.

U.F.O. OPPOSES CADET TRAINING

Urges Preparation For Peace and Votes Sympathy With League.

SCHOOLS FOR PEACE.

TORONTO, Dec. 10. (Canadian Press). — The United Farmers of Ontario, in convention yesterday, sounded a note of antagonism toward war and militarism.

Resolutions endorsed by the convention urged preparation for peace; attacked from various angles cadet training in the schools; and placed the U.F.O. on record as being in sympathy with the aims and objects of the League of Nations and in favor of using the school book as a medium through which to teach the ideals of peace.

No action was taken by the convention with regard to a resolution introduced by the Legislation, Peace and Arbitration Committee, proposing to ask the Dominion Government that in case of Canada being invited to take part in any foreign war, it (the Government) should submit to the people by referendum the question of whether or not Canada should engage in the conflict.

W.C.T.U. MEETING AT CAMPBELLFORD

Monthly Meeting Was Held at Home of Mrs. R. J. Bibby.

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 10. — The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Bibby on Tuesday, Dec. 8, at three o'clock. A good attendance was recorded, the president, Mrs. R. C. Weston, in the chair. The meeting opened with singing and devotional exercises by Mrs. R. Moore. A temperance drill was given by Mesdames Weston, Sperry, Turner, Diamond, Forde, Bell and Kingston. Arrangements were made for the distribution of Christmas baskets. Mrs. G. A. Kingston was appointed superintendent in the place of the late Mrs. W. Shore, who was always a devoted worker in the W.C.T.U. The next meeting will be held the second Tuesday in January, at the home of Mrs. G. A. Kingston.

SCHOOL REPORT WAS SUBMITTED

Good Work Done in All the Schools of Northumberland.

SALARIES VARY.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 10.—In his annual report to the Counties Council of the work done in his inspectorate during the year, Inspector R. Boyce of Campbellford says that of the 98 teachers in the rural schools, seven hold first and 91 second class certificates. There are no teachers of lower qualifications. Fifteen of the teachers are males and 83 are females.

The highest salary paid in a rural school is $1,230 and the lowest is $750. The highest salary in an urban school is $1,900—which is paid the principal of the Campbellford Public School—and the lowest is $800.

Entrance examinations were held at Hastings, Campbellford, Warkworth, Roseneath, Castleton and Wooler. More than the usual number of candidates wrote at these centres and with excellent results. It is evident, the report states, that more pupils are inclined to take advantage of the full public school course.

The usual uniform promotion examinations were held in June and the success of the pupils at these tests is the best evidence that good work is being done in the schools. Nearly all of the rural schools took part in the school fairs.

Inspector Boyes sums up the situation with the statement that he is satisfied that a good year's work has been done.

The report of the committee was adopted by the Council without change.

DAIRYMEN MET AT LAKEFIELD TO HEAR ADDRESSES

G. H. Barr, Dairy Commissioner For Ontario, Was a Speaker.

DIRECTOR ELECTED.

G. G. Publow, Chief Dairy Instructor, Was Other Speaker.

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 10.—A meeting of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association of this district was held in the Council Chambers, with a fair attendance, composed chiefly of dairymen and their assistants.

G. A. Gillespie of Peterboro, director of the district, occupied the chair, and in a brief address announced that there was an improvement in the report of the past season. Last year's report showed that the district was falling back. Mr. Ward did extra good work in the section and his death was a matter of deep regret to all. He had nearly completed his twenty-eighth season as dairy instructor in the district. The sympathy of the entire meeting was extended to Mrs. Ward and her family in their bereavement.

Mr. Geo. H. Barr, dairy commissioner for Ontario, was the next speaker. Mr. Barr paid a tribute to the splendid work done by the late Mr. Ward, who literally died in the harness, as he would have wished.

The speaker, who had been Dominion dairy commissioner, had had a unique opportunity of seeing the work of dairying in all the Provinces, and sometimes he was proud of his old Province and sometimes not. It is hard to understand the tardiness of Ontario in taking up new ideas and trying new methods. During the 12 years the speaker served the Dominion he visited every Province many times and received less support in Ontario than in any other Province.

It seemed easier to get in touch in the smaller provinces. In Nova Scotia every butter maker attended the conventions and they all talked and had definite ideas and were ready to try new methods, and the same was true of the West and now the other provinces rank ahead of Ontario in this branch and she must mend her ways or she can't keep pace.

Cream will be graded in future as special, first grade, second grade and third grade. First grade will be the standard and all cheese and butter of first grade will be sold at standard prices. Special grade will receive one cent more per pound and three cents less will be paid for second grade than for standard. Up to the present the man who took no care at all of his cream got the same price as the man who sold the special quality and that, said Mr. Barr, is not fair. Now the man who does extra good work reaps the reward and this makes a greater incentive to better results from the farmers.

It is a pleasure to see the attitude of the creamery men on the grading question, said Mr. Barr, and every factory will have an efficient grader. So much for butter and now for cheese.

"Are we all satisfied with the present situation? The best of our cheese is as good as any in the world but there is not enough of the first grade product and what are we going to do to eliminate the second and third grade cheese from the market. Instruction has been going on for years under the department of agriculture, the speaker in Western Ontario and Mr. Publow in the east being the first two instructors in the province while good work has been done there are still many defects. Thre are three classes of people responsible for this leak, either the maker, the producer or the owner of the factory who fails to put in proper equipment.

The best cheese makers are the key pins of the industry and the poorest there are no words to express the detriment they are. The maker is both the strongest and the weakest link in the industry. If the maker is painstaking and efficient one can't ask for more.

Then there is the man who produces the milk. An estimate of the factories shows that about ninety per cent of the patrons are sending in milk suitable for making first grade cheese and the ten per cent. are causing a loss to the whole neighborhood and have controlled the situation for years in spite of the literature sent out freely by the department and the instruction which has been given for the past thirty years.

"The makers are not properly educating their noses, as they should. We must have better makers and we must protect them against the careless producers who insist in their milk being taken in. The maker is not always capable of grading and often too, pressure is brought to bear to make them take in poor milk. There is no excuse for badly made or finished cheese. Would there be anything unfair (and we dont want to do anything unfair) in granting makers certificates annually to be held unless milk rejected by another maker was to be accepted. There is no injustice to the farmer either.

"If you send a man's milk home from the factory as unfit for use he will go home as mad as a wet hen and take the best care of his milk ever after but he won't send it to you and this is serious for the maker especially if he owns the factory and can't afford to lose a patron. If the makers could get close enough together that other neighbouring factories would not take a can of milk that had been rejected by any other factory, it would help this situation.

"The granting certificates to the maker may look like a hardship to them at first thought but it is not and next year things will happen to the man who does not keep himself and his factory clean. We want a higher standard and patrons and makers who think cheese making is perforce a dirty, greasy, sloppy job must learn that it need not be. They should patronize the hardware stores more and buy scythes to cut down the weeds about the factory and make the surroundings attractive to tourists who are going by and who will become customers. Personally the cheesemaker should be as neat and clean as any clerk in any store. Many customers are lost by the conditions of some of the factories and the patrons are thereby losing money. We must never be satisfied till better conditions prevail.

"The Farmer's Advocate did a great deal in this regard by its competition for the best kept factories."

"The speaker closed by saying he hoped he had said something to encourage the workers who needed encouragement for many companies had a great deal to answer for in the living quarters they provided for the cheesemaker and his family. In order to get results there must be co-operation between the makers and producers," he concluded.

Mr. Gillespie in commenting on the above address said, "There must be changes made if we want to get our factories into proper shape. Everyone will agree that cheese has been made too cheap and not enough money provision has been made for keeping up the factories and making necessary improvments."

Th next item of business was the nomination of a director for the coming year for which Mr. G. G. Publow took the chair. Moved by Mr. Hogan of Shearer's factory, Otonabee, seconded by Mr. Juby of the Farmer's Dairy factory at Indian River, that Mr. G. A. Gillespie of Peterboro be nominated as director. Carried unanimously.

Mr. Gillespie thanked the meeting for the nomination and sounded a note of optimism in the coming back of the dairy industry to pre war conditions. There never was a time when quality counted as it does now, he said. More butter was exported this year than ever before.

Mr. G. G. Publow, Chief Dairy Instructor, was the last speaker and he joined the other speakers in a tribute to the splendid work of the late Mr. Ward.

Mr. Publow congratulated the makers and dairymen on the improvements made in the past year for Peterboro district will stand well, taking 95 per cent this year as against 75 per cent last year. "We are fortunate," he said, in having Mr. Barr in his position as he is thoroughly informed in all branches of the dairy industry. What would it mean if all our cheese was as good as the best and all our factories as good as the best and in that we are not asking for what is not being done for there are a few factories which make all first grade cheese. There are some factories in the district which are a pleasure to visit. After all these years ten per cent of the cheese made is under first grade. Think what a loss that means to the people of this country.

"Ninety-nine per cent. of the milk is given to us fit for the finest cheese or butter if the cows are in good condition.

"A large percentage of second grade cheese is due to the flavor. It is a peculiar industry, dairying, and is largely one of fermentation which is always changing for better or worse but is never constant. As soon as the milk is brought into contact with the air the seeding process starts and with clean conditions milk will sour clean. All unclean conditions seed milk with undesirable plants. It is impossible to get clean milk from a dirty cow or even from a clean cow with a dirty milker or in dirty vessels. The farm is not the only place, however, where undesirable seeding takes place for the flavors most prominent come directly from the manufacturing plants. Anything milks comes in contact with flavors it. Unless the most scrupulous care is taken of the pipes, tanks, vats, etc., there can't be first class cheese produced. Cheese factories should set an example of cleanliness. One reason for undergrade cheese is that the maker is not made responsible for the flavor, many makers, although not responsible for the flavor, are ambitious enough to take enough pride in themselves to ensure their producing only first grade cheese.

"Where the unfavorable condition comes from the farm the defect will show up in the process of manufacture but if factory conditions are responsible it may not show till later. If a whole shipment is below first grade one can look with safety to the cause in the factory conditions unless in the case of a one vat factory when it may come from the milk of one patron.

"Too often the maker, eager for a job, will accept any sort of factory conditions. We are competing with our cheese in the open markets of the world and in spite of that, the makers are not training themselves to be good graders and one often sees the person in the factory with the least experience weighing the milk. If you send a man's milk back to him, keep a sample of it. Speaking of the poor grades of the late fall cheese he urged greater care on the part of the makers. Mr. Publow hopes that he and Mr. Barr will be able to visit all the factories next season, and the makers can expect them any day. The factories in this district are clean but some not as much so as they should be and there is no manufacturing plant needs cleanliness more than a cheese factory.

"The M.P.P. for Dundas," he said, "offered a silver cup for the greatest improvement shown in any factory and the instructors gave a medal and cup for the maker getting the highest score. This gave a surprising stimulus to the industry and resulted in great improvement. The Farmer's Advocate deserves credit for its competitions for factories. The need of co-operation is great and if carried on, this county will have as good a reputation as any other in the province."

Mr Barr spoke of the condition of the whey tanks which are best in the French districts and in Northern Ontario, although these are not the best dairy districts. Next year the report of the instructors will be made on a different order and will be in printed form which will leave less margin for the medium quality condition. Conditions will be good or not good and then will be no qualifications.

A general discussion took place on the feeding of turnips to cattle and the disastrous results to the flavor of the milk and it was felt that the patrons who fed the turnips was responsible for the resulting flavor, rather than the maker.

Mr. J. E. Galvin said a few words before the meeting closed He regretted the indifference of the patrons who turned out so poorly to the meeting which was so interesting and instructive. He approves of selling the milk by grade and wonders this improvement did not come sooner. The West is getting into line in the dairy business and he hopes Ontario will conform and adopt the newer methods. Mr. Galvin moved a vote of thanks to Messrs. Barr, Publow and Gillespie for their addresses. Mr. Hogan seconded the motion which was carried unanimously. The meeting adjourned.

GIRL SHOULD KNOW FATHER'S BUSINESS

He Should Make Place For Daughters as Well as Sons.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press). — Daughters should be trained to understand and to take an active share in their father's business affairs, and the parent should make a place in his business for his daughter as well as his son. This is the belief of Lady Rhondda, of whom Mrs. Sidney Small spoke with enthusiasm in her address on English women in political life before the Business and Professional Women's Club.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1925

Bonnets

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(United Press).—The present vogue for green millinery is knocking other colors 'dead' in Paris. Never has there been such a rush for green bonnets in Mid-Winter and although all greens are popular those most desired are bottle, jade, grass and 'sea.'

Velour is by far the most popular fabric with felt, velvet and intricately made silks following. Small cloche shapes are returning in Paris although crowns are slightly higher than they have been. Brims are either cut short at the rear or are up-turned to give the smart flat effect in back. And, needless to say, brims continue to be narrow since the small hat is the only chic one at the present writing.

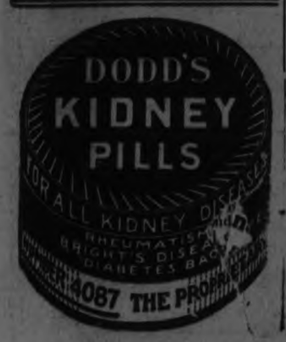
As to millinery trims, small plumage, painted leather ornaments and brilliant pins are those most numerous.

Smart for streetware are crepe de chene jumper frocks combined with coats of tweed, the tweed being smooth and closely woven. Usually the coat is self-lined to add warmth. As to line, the coat is narrow at the shoulders and flares toward the hemline. Collars are so narrow as to almost be absent since the idea in wraps this year is scantness above the waist.

Among the odd mixings of materials used as crestonnes combined with lace. Here, a cretonne afternoon frock for wear about the home is trimmed with insets of black lace or with waterfall skirt frills of lace, net or chiffon. More ornamental still are black lace frocks trimmed with appliques of cretonne flowers set on with gold or silver thread.

The cretonne appliques may be used about the flaring hem, on sleeves or as a corsage with long stems falling towards the hemline. Cretonne is also much used to give the Spanish shawl effect, being appliqued on crepe de chene squares with fringed borders.

Often it's more imprtant that the automobile driver thinks to stop than to stop to think.



ECLIPSE FASHIONS

Exclusive Patterns by Cecil Beaton

Capes are of Outstanding Importance

The cape theme is the dominant note in the collections of many of the smartest Paris designers. The slim lines of the frock pictured here add impetus to this vogue for capes. Bordered kasha fashions the straight frock with center front closing beneath a straight row of buttons. The sleeves are long and tight fitting. The waist-length cape is effectively lined with the bordered material, and finished separately, being held to the dress with snap fasteners beneath the shaped collar. No. 1041 is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years (34, 36 and 38 inches bust only). Size 18 years (36 bust) requires 3¾ yards 36-inch, or 3½ yards 40-inch for dress of plain material with 1½ yards additional for cape; or 3¾ yards 54-inch bordered material for dress as illustrated. Price 20 cents.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our new Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centers, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

WOMEN IN ATHLETICS.

Cycle Racing For Fair Sex Has Been Approved in England.

LONDON, England, December 10.—Canadian Press. — Cycle racing for women under National Cyclists Union Rules, has been approved by the council of this body. Considerable argument preceded the decision but it was later also agreed that suitable rules should be formulated for the governance of this form of feminine sport.

At a Rugby match at Richmond between St. Thomas Hospital staff and civil service members two women attired in the new fashionable Russian boots, acted as touch judges, the judges originally selected having failed to turn up. The weather was bitterly cold and the ladies borrowed heavy overcoats from the players.

The Secrets Of Charm

By Lucrezia Bori

Do you have days when you feel thoroughly disconsolate about your chances for beauty?

I ask you this, because I know that all of us go through days when we feel that nothing about our appearances can ever be right. I have just been talking to a young thing who has no right to feel this way, but who assures me that everyone she sees has more claim to beauty than she has.

My young confidante explained that she never could make the small hairs at the back of her neck stay properly up under her hat on a windy day, that her shoes hurt anyway, and that she knew her dress was not becoming, or her appe rance wel groomed.

I told her the best aid I know to too-short hairs at the back of the neck. "Always wear a small hat on windy days," I advised. "Furthermore, I find it a great help to take a length of narrow black velvet ribbon, long enough to tie around my head. This I tie, placing it firmly at the nape of my neck in the back, and tying the ends in front. The support of the ribbon holds very short hairs in place, and a hairpin or two does the rest. The ribbon never shows, with a hat."

"As for shoes," I continued. "Any woman is very foolish to tolerate shoes that hurt her feet. Whether they are too big or too small, the effect of shoes that hurt is apparent in the unrestful features. You can buy shoes that are modish and comfortable at the same time. By all means do this, rest easy on the subject, and economize in some other way, if economize you must."

Then I gave my youthful listener a few added hints that she had not asked for. One of these was to buy a small pair of tweezers and remove the few hairs which drew her eyebrows together at the middle of her forehead.

Cannot you, too, perform some small offices which will make you a better-looking woman?

ASK FOR LADIES ON COLLEGE BOARD

Victoria Women Want Representation on United Church Commission.

TORONTO, Dec. 10 (Canadian Press).—The Victoria Women's Association has sent in a resolution asking for feminine representation on the Commission of Colleges in the United Church of Canada. Miss Addison, the president, pointed out the need for and volue of a united body of women thinking along educational lines. Mistress of English literature and mistress of liberal arts were two coveted degrees granted by the Ontario Ladies' College at Whitby in the days when girls did not go to universities, and Miss Addison declared that it was a greater sensation to go to Whitby in the old days than to university nowadays. Victoria conferred the first degree of medicine to a Canadian woman, on Dr. Augusta Stowe Gullen, at the old college at Cobourg.

HERE FROM WEST.

H. H. Bradburn Is Vice-President and Manager of Oil Company.

H. H. Bradburn, a former citizen of Peterborough, but now of Winnipeg, was in the city Wednesday renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Bradburn has been with McColl Bros. Oil Company for a number of years, and is now vice-president and manager of the company. He is on his wry to Montreal and New York on business. Mr. Bradburn stated that conditions in Winnipeg and the West were rapidly improving. For a couple of years past the farmer has had a very bad time with poor crops and low prices, but this year there is an excellent crop and prices are good. A spirit of optimism has gone right across the West, and both urban and rural citizens are extremely hopeful for the future.

His own company, he said, is experiencing excellent business, both east and west.

She Could Never Do The Things Other Girls Did

Miss I. J. Ross, Scollard, Alta., writes:—"I am only twenty years old, but have suffered from heart palpitation and nerve trouble for several years.

I could never do the things other girls did, that is, in the line of sports, skating, etc., and could never depend on myself at work.

About six months ago I began taking and am just twice the girl I was, and can enjoy everything in general life so much more. I am very grateful for what your Pills have done for me."

URGES WOMEN TO SUPPORT CANADIANS

Quebec Secretary Says Canadian Artists Should Be Favoured.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. Athanase David, provincial secretary of Quebec, speaking before the Women's Canadian Club, urged women to encourage Canadian writers, poets, historians, novelists and magazine writers, Canadian artists, actors and especially screen actors. "The sooner we take our inspiration from the words uttered by the men and women in our own country the better for our national life," he said. The speaker told of the $5,000 fund voted by the Quebec government for the encouragement of Canadian authors.

Wiley made a suitable reply. The County Master, Bro. John Cunningham then called Bro. J. D. Manley, the retiring W. M., to the dais and presented him with a P.M. jewel. Bro. Manley replied in his usual able manner. Short speeches were then given by the newly elected officers and also by Bros. Geo. McCullough, Millard and Luffman of the County lodge.

ARMSTRONG BAILED.

TORONTO, December 10. Canadian Press. — After a day and a night in the county buildings, J. A. Armstrong, Schomberg lawyer, and ex-M.P. for North York, who, with Harry H. Coffey, former manager of the Imperial Bank at Schomberg, faced charges of theft in the county police court yesterday morning, was last night released on $50,000 bail. His one time partner, Coffey was not so fortunate, being unable to raise the $50,000 bail with which Crown Attorney Frank Moore yesterday replaced $100,000 bond previously demanded of him. Both will reappear on Saturday morning.

When the Coil in the Cooking Element of Your Electric Range Burns Out

WHEN an electric light bulb burns out you take it as a matter of course and replace it with a new one.

W the coil in the cooking element of your electric ge burns out the consequences are more serious— and more expensive, depending upon the type of element it is.

If it is an open element the chances are the porcelain is badly cracked, broken and crumbled and will have to be replaced as well as the coil. And you will have to have an expert electrician come and do the job—more expense.

If it is a solid iron or porcelain element with the coils embedded inside and connected up in the usual way you will have to buy an entire new element and you will require an expert electrician to replace it—more trouble, delay and expense.

With McClary's Speediron Element you need no expert. The unit is simply lifted out and you can either replace the burnt out coil yourself or take it to your electrical dealer and have it done for a few cents while you wait. Then you just drop the unit back into place.

The heating coils of the Speediron Element, because of their perfect protection, are immune from the effects of dirt, grease, forks or other foreign substances which cause burnouts in the coils of open elements.

How to Remove a McClary's SPEEDIRON Element

When a coil burns out and you want to remove the McClary's Speediron Element, you merely lift it up. It takes less time than it does to unscrew a bulb from the lamp socket and it takes less effort to put it back than it does to screw in a new bulb. There are no screws or nuts or wire connections to remove or loosen. In a few minutes you put in a new coil, drop the Element back in its place—that's all.

Come and See It

If you have an Electric Range now, you will want to see this new, splendid improvement, because you know all about Electric Range troubles now. If you are going to buy an Electric Range you should see the Speediron Element in McClary's Electric Range—the only trouble-proof Element on the market. The new Speediron Elements are now on view at all leading dealers. Come and see it—today.

ARTICLE No. 17

Of what practical use are conventions of bidding? One hears this question continually but seldom an intelligent answer, and yet the reason is a very simple one. The conventions of auction are like the words of a language. They enable partners to give information as to their hands and so exchange intelligent thought with one another in the endeavor to arrive at the best bid of the combined hands. Auction is a game where the players are bidding against one another for the privilege of playing the hand, and unless partners understand one another's bids, they will frequently bid against one another to their disadvantage. The object of all bidding at auction is to arrive at the best bid of the combined hands and this can be done only by intelligent cooperation between partners. If you bid one heart, meaning one kind of hand at one time and an entirely different type at another time, how can you give partner information of any value? He will be forced to guess as to your holding and, as usual with guesses, he is much more apt to guess wrong than right. Let your original bids mean something definite, something that your partner can depend upon at all times. Let an original suit bid mean that you have at least two sure tricks in your hand, one of which is in the suit bid. Tell your partner the truth. Let him feel that you are prepared to play the hand at that suit or, if the opponents win the bid, that he can safely lead your suit. Or if you bid no-trump, let him feel that you have your bid; that you have at least two sure tricks distributed among at least three suits. When you bid, you are really making a promise to your partner that you can make that bid; so be prepared to make good. In the language of the merchant, let every advertised feature be a sacred pledge. When you make an original bid, hold aces and kings, or hold your tongue.

An interesting hand has just been brought to the writer's attention, showing the value of mentally placing certain cards in opponents' hands in such a way that game is possible, and then playing accordingly:

	Hearts — Q, 6, 4 Clubs — A, J Diamonds — Q, J, 9, 5 Spades — Q, 6, 4, 3
Hearts — A, 10, 8, 2 Clubs — K, 7, 6 Diamonds — 8, 4 Spades — K, J, 9, 8	Y	Hearts — K, J, 7 Clubs — 9, 8, 4 Diamonds — 10, 6, 3, 2 Spades — 7, 5, 2
	Hearts — 9, 5, 3 Clubs — Q, 10, 5, 3, 2 Diamonds — A, K, 7 Spades — A, 10

	Hearts — A, J, 9, 6 Clubs — 3 Diamonds — 9, 7, 5 Spades — K, Q, 9, 7, 5
Hearts — 4 Clubs — K, Q, J, 10, 9, 4 Diamonds — K, Q, 10, 8, 3 Spades — 6	Y	Hearts — 9, 7, 5, 3, 2 Clubs — 5 Diamonds — A, 6 Spades — 3, 2
	Hearts — K, Q, 10 Clubs — A, 7, 6, 2 Diamonds — J, 4, 2 Spades — A, 10, 8

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no-trump, A bid two hearts, Y doubled and B and Z passed. A now bid three clubs, Y bid three spades and B and Z passed. A now bid four clubs, Y and B passed and Z doubled. A redoubled and Y and B passed. What would you have done with Z's hand? Z should certainly bid four spades after A's redouble. That is where A made a bad bid. He had bid his hand very trickily up to that time but when he got his four club bid doubled, he should have been satisfied. His two heart bid was an apparent bluff bid and should have appeared so to his partner Y double two hearts but A's bid was a bluff? When A redoubled, Z finally awoke to the situation and bid four spades. A's partner doubled this bid and Z just made his contract. At four clubs, A should have just made his bid so he lost all of his previous gain by the redouble. A's bidding in this hand recalls Lincoln's famous saying: "You can fool all of the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

No score, rubber game. Z dealt, bid one no-trump and all passed. A opened the deuce of hearts, Y played the four, B the jack and Z the trey. B now played the king of hearts and all followed. B now played the seven of hearts, all followed and A won the trick with the ace and led the ten of hearts. Y discarded the trey of spades, B the deuce of spades and Z the deuce of clubs. A now led the nine of spades, Y played the four, B the five and Z won the trick with the ten. The problem is for Z to so play the hand that he can win the balance of the tricks. Z should lead a low club and play the jack from Y's hand. He should now play four diamond tricks, winning the last trick in Y's hand. On these tricks, A is forced to make two discards. He can discard one spade and one club. If he does that, Z's queen of clubs will be good on the third round. Or A could discard two spades. If he does that, Y's queen of spades will be good on the third round. In either event, YZ must score game. It should be noted that if A had led clubs at trick five, instead of spades, he could have saved game.

The tricky bidder was doing his best in the following hand but after a good start, he fell down and spoiled a chance for a big gain.

WHERE SCAR TATTOOING MARKS THE FULL-GROWN MAN

Among the Sepiks of New Guinea the business of coming of age is a painful process. All through childhood, the little boys live in dreadful awareness that when they reach maturity, they will have to undergo the torture of tattooing.

The Sepiks are a head-hunting tribe living on the Sepik River of New Guinea. Every full-grown man among them is scar-tattooed all over his back, his shoulders and his arms. On the shoulders the tattooing usually takes the form of a monogram or crest. But for the rest it is simply rows and rows of great raised scars as thick as a pencil.

The work is beautifully done. It is neat and clean and even. As a rule, the pattern consists of neat lines of the scars, running down the back.

Until the tattooing is accomplished, the boy is not considered a man. He is not admitted to the club house of the men and he is not eligible for marriage. He must pass through his test of endurance before he is recognized as a full-grown person.

That the tattooing is an endurance test is not to be doubted for an instant. It is a trial by torture just as surely as the trials by ordeal of the Middle Ages. Many of the boys die under the knife, still others die later of the effects of the wounds. But the strong survive and those are the only ones wanted by the tribes. For savages have little use for the weak or the sensitive.

The elders of the village decide when the time is ripe for the performance of the rite. They will say, "So and So is growing up quickly. It is time he were initiated."

And so the poor victim is caught and bound. He is held down by a heavy log laid across the neck and those who have a grudge against him eagerly volunteer to hold down the log. Then the operators take up their bamboo knives and begin the work. For hours, the slashing goes on while the victim's shrieks are drowned by the beating of the drums, and the cries of the lookers-on.

A Log Keeps the Patient Still

When the cutting is over the boy is thrown into the river to be washed clean and then the sap of a certain tree is applied as an antiseptic.

For several weeks after the rite, the boys are shut up in complete seclusion, lying on their faces and scarcely able to move. A day or two after the operation, red clay is rubbed into the wounds to make them more striking.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A few weeks ago the Restaurant Owners' Association of New York offered a prize for the best recipes for corned beef and cabbage, chicken fricassee, filet of sole, hash and "vegetable dinner." There were fifteen hundred contestants. The three who scored highest in each group were invited to appear in person to cook and serve their dishes.

On the given day the fifteen cooks, multitudes of their friends and champions, many restaurant owners, a battery of photographers, newspaper reporters and curious passers-by gathered in a great restaurant to witness the contest. I happened to be one of the judges. It was our delicate job to select the winner in each group. We inspected and tasted, conferred together and, to the joy of the winners, and, I fear, to the disgust of the losers, made our momentous decisions.

It was difficult to decide between the excellent dishes presented. In flavor and appeal to palate there was little difference between them. Every dish had been cooked by a capable, discriminating, experienced housewife. Every dish was a well balanced, scientifically accurate combination of foodstuffs.

In several instances the prize was given because of the appearance of the dish.

Was this fair?

I think it was because, in the last analysis, it is the eating of food which makes it useful. An attractive dish will gain the attention and command consumption when a greasy looking or sloppy dish will be rejected at once.

In this contest there was hesitation of decision between two samples of filet of sole. One had really a more delicate flavor than the other. But the latter was beautiful to look upon and only a shade inferior in taste.

For myself, as I said to the other judges, I imagined myself a patient in a hospital. My appetite was supposed to be impaired by reason of a long illness and I had only then reached the point when my doctor said I should eat. Food was prepared. The best of materials was used. The combination was perfect. But the finished product offended the eye.

The stomach rebels unless the food is attractive in appearance. Without the stimulus of a rabid appetite, the result of hard manual labor, there must be an appeal to the eye, as well as to the palate. Only a blind man, or one hardened by familiarity, could eat some foods I have seen in remote sections of the earth.

In preparing foods for the table we must consider the frail and fussy members of the family, as well as the huskies. Those in delicate health require food even more than do the hard workers. To keep them going and to build them up in health, attractive dishes must be served. A small quantity of food, neatly served, will coax the appetite.

Mars and Mercury are strong both by lunar and mutual configuration, an augury of liveliness and enterprise. There is an auguay of change or travel and of new ventures, but there is also and of new ventures, but there a figure warning against loss through speculation, lending money or personal extravagance. Those in the employment of others are under excellent prospect of advancement or preferment, if qualified.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent auspices for a lively and successful year, with change, travel, promotion and new associations, but they should not jeopardize their good fortune by speculatiou, lending money or in personal extravagence. A child born on this day has splendid prospect of success in business and employment, but it may be subject to loss through speculation and lending of money. It should attain good position in its employment.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silvar

BUNNY RABBIT BOASTS ONCE TOO OFTEN

Every one of the meadow folks liked Bunny Rabbit, for he was jolly good company and had such lovely long ears that he could hear danger signals much plainer than his neighbors and would always give the alarm.

But he was so very boastful. No one ever made a find of any kind but what Bunny Rabbit had a yarn to tell—where he had made a much better find.

"And when it comes to ears,"—here Bunny Rabbit stretched his great long ears as far as they would go and wiggled them proudly, "There isn't living that can boast of longer ears than mine for the size of his body."

Now it happened Billy Bunny, one of Bunny Rabbit's neighbors, was deeply in love with Bunny Rabbit's youngest daughter and he heard Bunny Rabbit boast of his long ears: A funny little idea popped into his pretty head.

"What will you bet on that Bunny Rabbit?" he asked quietly.

"Anything you may ask," replied Bunny Rabbit, "Even to my daughter, whom I said you could never have. If you can bring one of the neighbors whose ears are longer for his body than mine are, you win and I'll give you a lovely wedding and we'll invite all the meadow folks and have a jolly time."

"You Win, Billy Bunny!"

Billy Bunny glanced at Bunny Rabbit's daughter and his eyes sparkled.

"Give me until tomorrow night and I'll call your bet, or I don't deserve the love of such a lovely Bunny Lady." And frisking his funny little tail and wiggling his funny little nose, Billy Bunny hopped away.

"Bring him back and the Bunny Girl is yours, otherwise stay away from our burrow," Bunny Rabbit called after him.
